NEW MARKET HEIRS SAY, WILL A FORGERY

Alleged Last Testament of Charles L. Fair Turns Up Mysteriously.

LEAVES MUCH TO "SON"

INSTRUMENT SIGNED BY TWO WITNESSES, NOW DEAD.

Declared Fictitious by All Concerned—Fair Never Had a Child—One of the Legatees Says Will is a Hoax.

"Mayor" William Smith, of New Market, a brother of the late Mrs. Charles L. Fair, declares that what purports to be the last will and testament of the late Charles L. Fair sent through the United States mail on Saturday in a mysterious manner to the chambers of Superior Judge F. J. Murasky in SanFrancisco, Cal., is a fraudulent document.

In this alleged will Mr. Fair mentions his son, "Charles J.," and he bequeaths to him $800,000. The sum of $750,000 is bequeathed to "the Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum," $500,000 to "Joseph Harvey" and $40,000 to "the city of San Francisco, for the purpose of founding a hospital." The residue of the estate is left to his wife, who is also named as executrix. The alleged will is dated in San Francisco, April 16, 1901.

An heir, Charles Fair, was brought forward in New York about eleven months ago, although he never appeared in person, and the matter was dropped without investigation. Whether one will come forward and petition the court to probate the alleged will of Charles L. Fair is a matter of conjecture.

The document was pronounced clumsy fictitious document by all those who saw it today, and its appearance has not disturbed the Fair heirs or their attorneys. That it is a forgery is declared by Theodore Kytka, a writing expert.

"There is one thing above all others," John Seymour, agent for the Fair estate, said today, "which proves that the alleged will is a fraud, and that it is the fact that the signature of former Chief of Police Lees is attached to it as that of a witness. Now, is there living man who believes that anything on earth would have stopped Lees from announcing the fact that such a document had been signed by him if he had witnessed it? I know Lees well, and I tell you he would turn over in his grave if he was aware that such a document had been sprung at this time."

Joseph Harvey, who was left $500,000 by the document, places no faith in its genuineness. "It is a fraud on its face," Mr. Harvey declared, "and I do not believe any one will appear to probate it."

Mr. Harvey does not place any credence in the story that Mr. Fair left a son. He said he had frequently spoken in jest to Mr. Fair about the number of claimants who would spring up if he were to die suddenly.

"There will be none of mine," Mr. Fair responded. "None will appear to claim the name Fair."

Charles J. Heggerty, of San Francisco, one of the attorneys for the Fair estate, who is in New York attending to some of the litigation incidental to the probate of the wills of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Fair, both of which he drew, said yesterday:

"The document received by Judge Murasky is either a fake or a forgery, or both, if you like. No one here connected with the Fair estate knows anything about this alleged will.

"Charles Fair never had a child. After his death the attorneys of the estate were notified by a lawyer that he represented a child of the late Charles L. Fair, who was killed in France. Charles S. Neal, manager of the estate, asked him about its sex, age and mother, but he would not disclose any details, and that's the last we heard of the case."

PORTABLE SCHOOL BUILDING DESIGN

Selection Made for Such a Structure by Borough Board's Committee.

PLANS FOR BUILDING

WARREN CHAPEL EDIFICE IMPRACTICABLE FOR USE.

Present Condition of Finances—Text Books Approved—Old Lease on Former Quarters Renewed.

The Borough Board of Education evidently expects a repetition of last year's crowded conditions in the schools and are making plans to provide plenty of room for housing the pupils. At last night's meeting, Samuel Townsend, chairman of the building and grounds committee, reported favorably on the advisability of obtaining a portable building such as is used in Brooklyn and other large cities. The building, it was said, would probably contain two rooms, each twenty by thirty feet, to accommodate about ninety pupils. Definite action in the matter will be taken at the next meeting of the Board.

Mr. Townsend reported the result of his investigation of Warren Chapel. He thought the building too old for practical use for school rooms. He had also examined a dwelling on Grove street but found the size of the rooms inadequate. It was voted, on advice of the building and grounds committee, to renew the lease on the two rooms at No. 116 Somerset street, the present terms to hold and the lease to continue until June 30, 1904.

Announcement was made that the balance from the school fund to August 29 was $177.98 and that a check for $1850 from the State had been received. Bills to the amount of $234.50 were ordered paid. Todd's Astronomy and Tilden and Clark's Commercial Geography were approved as text books for the High School, for use if courses in those subjects become established during the coming school year.

LOVE LETTERS AS EVIDENCE

MRS. BALDWIN F. STRAUSS, NO. 3, HAS AMMUNITION FOR DIVORCE CASE.

Florence Strauss, of This City, Said to be Working to Avoid Legal Entanglements—Other Details.

Mrs. Marguerite U. Strauss, of New York, who is known as No. 3 in the category of wives ascribed to Baldwin F. Strauss, a Brooklyn lawyer and politician, has secured the delivery to her of a large number of letters received by Strauss in the last twenty years. Mrs. Marguerite Strauss is suing for divorce on the grounds of her husband's relations with Ida M. Perkins Strauss, of this city, who, in turn, claims to be the original Mrs. Baldwin F. Strauss.

The letters are now in the Bath Beach office of her lawyer, Francis William Russell, of Park row, New York. Mrs. Strauss is engaged in sorting them out for use in her suit. Mrs. Hattie Rothschold, of West 132d street, New York, Mr. Strauss's sister, whose wealthy mother, Mrs. Caroline Strauss, lives at the same address, delivered the letters on Mr. Russell's request.

Two letters from Mrs. Strauss No. 2 are dated April 22 and September 23, 1891. At that time Strauss and his first wife were living in Mt. Vernon, and were entertaining lavishly. In one letter from 33 Montague place, Russell Square, London, W. C., she writes that she had to pawn a pin to get money.

Florence Strauss, of this city, has been in communication with her aunt, Mrs. Rothschild, and her grandmother, Mrs. Strauss, with a view to making an arrangement whereby her father's difficulties may be amicably adjusted without the intervention of the courts on a charge of bigamy.

BURGLARS GOT LITTLE AT DARBY'S HOUSE

Home of Collector of Fanwood Township Entered at Early Hour This Morning.

NO CLUE TO BURGLARS

CLIMBED INTO HOUSE THROUGH A WINDOW AND FOUND SMALL SUM.

Burned Matches Scattered About—Suspicious Characters in the Neighborhood—Muddy Tracks on Porch in Front.

Burglars entered the home of J. L. Darby, collector of Fanwood township, near Alton, whose occupation is that of milkman shortly after 1 o'clock, this morning and after making a search of the house carried off $11 which they found inside a memorandum book in a coat hung up in a dark closet. The intruders got away and although two suspicious looking characters were seen in the neighborhood during yesterday, there seems to be little chance of recovering the small amount stolen.

The young folks at the house entertained company until nearly 1 o'clock and it is believed that soon after the departure of the guests the burglary was committed. The thieves entered the house through a window on the front porch, evidences of this being found in the mud tracked over the porch and on the window sill. Mr. Darby heard strange noises about the house, but thought they were made by a dog on the porch. It was not until he awoke at 3 o'clock this morning to get ready to go on his milk route that he learned of the burglary. He found burned matches scattered about the rooms on the lower floor and further investigation revealed the loss of the $11. The memorandum book was left on a table. So far as can be learned nothing but the money was taken.

EMPLOYER HUNTING FOR MISSING CLERK

Lad Entrusted With Cash and Checks Suddenly Disappears From the City.

"SPOT" WILSON THE BOY

JERRY FOSS, A LOCAL MERCHANT, WANTS HIS MONEY BACK.

With $35.84 of His Employers Money, It Is Reported That Lad Started for New York to See a Baseball Game.

There is every reason to believe that Edward Wilson, otherwise known as "Spot" Wilson, of West Third street, has been having a good time since yesterday morning. But if Jerry Foss, the fish dealer, gets his eyes on the lad his joyous times will probably come to a sudden and unpleasant end.

Until yesterday morning young Wilson was employed by Mr. Foss at his fish market to deliver orders. Just before the boy was ready to take the usual batch of orders, Mr. Foss handed him $35.84, at the same time telling him to take the money to the First National Bank and deposit it. The boy went to the bank, as was afterwards learned through Wm. Day, one of the employes at the institution, but the latter informed Mr. Foss later in the day that there was a shortage of $5 in the amount specified on the deposit blank and that he instructed the boy to go back and get the additional sum. This Mr. Day supposed he had done.

About 10:30 Mr. Foss began to wonder what kept the lad and he made a hurried investigation, learning that he had gone off with the money. Inquiry failed to locate the missing boy and later in the afternoon it was reported that he had told a friend that he was going to a baseball game in New York. Mr. Foss immediately had a warrant issued for the arrest of young Wilson and a vigilant watch will be continued. The $35.84 was made up partly of cash and partly of checks and the boy may experience some trouble with the checks in case he attempts to get them cashed.

S. S. SWACKHAMER'S ADDRESS

ASSEMBLYMAN SPEAKS TO FARMERS ON TRUE TYPE OF OFFICIALS.

Farmer Holds Balance of Power—Must Realize That Constitution is Supreme.

"It is the American farmer who has the power to reward the honest, upright official and to rebuke the man who is untrue to the best interests of the community," said Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, yesterday, before a large farmer audience at Harlengen, where the Autumnal harvest home was held.

He was speaking of the farmer's influence with the ballot and continuing he said: "He has the balance of political power in his hand and I appeal to you to see to it that the man who seeks your suffrage shall be a man of sound principle and right purposes; a man who understands the principles of a free government; who comprehends the grandeur of popular sovereignty; who believes in virtue, truth and justice; who has the courage of his convictions at all times and under all circumstances; who embodies all elements and illustrates in his life and conduct the best results of liberty; who looks beyond the narrow confines of party to country and National prosperity—a man who, as Phillips said, 'believes that one is a majority when in the right.'

"The man of the hour is he who realizes that the Constitution is the supreme law and that the flag is the symbol of the sublime principle which lies at the base of true government. He should be a man who has regard for the eternal as well as the temporal; a man, in short, who is actuated by pure motives and who comprehends the destiny to which this country is devoted."

THOUGHTLESS ACT CAUSES BIG BLAZE

Barn Afire As Result of Lad Striking Match Close to Gasolene Can.

PIGEONS ARE ROASTED

YOUNG EDWARD BIMBLE RECEIVES BURNS ON FACE AND HEAD.

Louis Bimble's Barn on Harrison Avenue, Partially Destroyed—Loss $300—Fully Insured—Fire Department's Work.

The explosion of a tank of gasolene in a barn in the rear of the house occupied by Louis Bimble at the corner of Harrison avenue and Cedar street at 9 o'clock last evening nearly cost the life of a boy and burned to death nearly seventy-five pigeons. A cow was saved from the flames by the presence of mind of Edward Bimble, who, although burned about the head and face, led the frightened animal from its stall.

Young Bimble was sent to the barn to fill a receptacle with gasolene stored in a tank there. He was cautioned to fill the can without striking a light. He thought the can must be about full and struck a match to see. Instantly there was a blinding flash and the interior of the structure was ablaze. The explosion was accompanied by a loud report. A half a block away the members of the West End Hose Company were holding a meeting in their headquarters.

The noise of the explosion and cry of fire brought them to the scene in short order and after a hard battle of a few moments they had the flames under control. Warren Engine Company responded to the alarm in remarkably short time but by the time they arrived at the scene the fire was under control. They lent their assistance and soon had the fire extinguished. It is estimated that the damage will amount to $300, partly covered by insurance.

In the loft of the barn were some rabbits and these were horribly burned. One of the animals jumped from the hay loft window to the ground with its coat of fur ablaze. It died in a few minutes.

It was learned this morning that the injuries to young Bimble are not serious. His face and shoulders were burned to some extent but his hands were only scorched.

SILVER FOR LIPTON

Steps Toward a Presentation to English Yachtsman.

MEMENTO FROM AMERICAN PEOPLE.

As a Testimony of Universal Appreciation Among All Classes Who Love Sport and Admire a Sportsman.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The initial step toward the presentation to Sir Thomas Lipton of a memento from the American people, probably in the form of a silver service, was taken when the following resolution was adopted at a meeting held at the Waldorf hotel:

"The undersigned committee named to arrange a memento for Sir Thomas Lipton feel assured that they represent a universal sentiment of appreciation among all classes of Americans who love sport and admire a sportsman, and, acting upon this assurance, they suggest to the general public a popular subscription to meet the end in view. The Western National bank of New York has consented to receive subscriptions. It is desired that these be national in character, since there is no state or section where the pluck, liberality and good temper of our late antagonist, ever our friend and now our guest, have not won all hearts. General Joseph Wheeler, chairman; Colonel Henry Watterson, Louisville; Patrick Collins, mayor of Boston; Thomas F. Walsh, Washington; George T. Wilson, New York; Commodore Robert C. Todd, New York; Valentine P. Snyder, New York; Lindsay Russell, New York; Senator Kearns, Utah; Timothy D. Woodruff, New York. Western National bank, treasurer."

The following telegram was received from Mayor Patrick Collins:

"Will serve on committee with greatest pleasure for gold as well as silver, as nothing is too good for the best sport in the world."

AGAIN NO RACE.

Reliance Leads Her Rival by Two and a Half Miles.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Again the beautiful cup defender Reliance failed to register her third victory over Lipton's challenger because the wind died to nothing, and the time limit of five and a half hours expired before she could reach the finish line. She was less than half a mile from the finish when the gun sounded. The poor old Shamrock was a faint blur on the horizon, fully two and a half miles astern. Reliance's failure to score the race was the more exasperating because her ultimate triumph is now conceded, even by Sir Thomas himself, to be simply a formality. The superiority of the Herreshoff boat in any kind of weather is acknowledged by the yachting critics of both sides of the Atlantic, and the latest fluke only prolongs the agony of the contest that has already been decided.

For the first time in the series Captain Wringe of Shamrock III. cleverly outgeneraled the redoubtable Captain Barr in the preliminary jockeying. Reliance was moving not more than four miles an hour and Shamrock III. was two miles and a half astern of her when the committee boat signaled that the race was off.

The regatta committee announced that the yachts would race again today.

Sam Parks Out on Bail.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—After having been a prisoner at Sing Sing for less than five days Samuel J. Parks, the walking delegate who was convicted of extortion, is to be brought back to the Tombs, and he will be released in $10,000 bail. Judge Sewell in the supreme court, Brooklyn, has signed an order granting a certificate of reasonable doubt and fixing the amount of bail.

Chinese Rebels Successful.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Consul McWade, at Canton, China, has sent an account of the insurrection in Kwangsi province, from which it appears that in a number of engagements the rebels defeated the government troops. The insurgents are led by Luk Kin, who was prominent when Li Hung Chang ruled the empire.

Chicago Singers Got First Prize.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—The Schweizer Club Saenger bund of Chicago was awarded first prize in the fourth saengerfest of the Swiss-American saenger bund of the central states.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1.—Senator Hanna is much better and has been able to sit up for several hours. He desired to go to his office, but the attending physicians objected to it.

PORTE DID NO WRONG

Chebik Bey, Turkish Minister, Reassures Hay.

NO REQUEST TO WITHDRAW SHIPS

Government of the Sultan, Says the Bey, Will Use Every Endeavor to Protect American Citizens Residing In Turkey.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, has had a long interview with Secretary Hay.

Chekib Bey assured Secretary Hay that the Turkish government had done nothing wrong and that it will use every endeavor to protect American citizens residing in Turkey. He also discussed the conditions of the insurrection in Turkey and said that the Turkish government was not responsible for any of the disasters that had occurred.

There is no intention of changing any orders at present, especially as the ships cannot be reached until they arrive at Beirut.

Late dispatches from Minister Leishman, which give in detail the conditions in Turkey, do not differ materially in tone from those previously sent. Minister Leishman does not, as reported in some quarters, request the withdrawal of the American ships from Turkish waters.

While reports by way of London state that no attempt was made upon the life of Vice Consul Magelssen, official advices so far received show that such an attempt was made. The present status was known before the American ships left Genoa, and this government did not decide to change the orders. It is now stated, however, that should there be a calm and peaceful condition at Beirut when the ships arrive there the matter of sending them to another port will be considered.

The Turkish minister made no request upon Secretary Hay at the interview regarding the movement of the United States war vessels, and nothing in this matter was promised by the state department.

Magelssen "Fit as a Fiddle."

FRANKLIN, Pa., Sept. 1.—Major C. J. S. Miller of this city, an intimate friend of Vice Consul Magelssen, who was his guest on a trip through Palestine this summer, cabled the vice consul as to his condition after his escape from assassination and received the following cablegram from Beirut: "Fit as a fiddle. Magelssen."

May Be Body of C. Dunbar.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 1.—It is now believed that the body of a man which washed ashore on Shippan point was that of C. Dunbar, a passenger on the Stonington line steamer New Hampshire. A letter was received from the superintendent of the Stonington line saying that a passenger who signed himself "C. Dunbar, Boston," was assigned to state room No. 9 and that he was afterward missing. His state room door was locked, and it was supposed that he committed suicide by jumping overboard.

Metal Workers Get Shorter Hours.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 1.—The result of the convention of the sheet mill lodges of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers will probably bring about a decision that the men work turns of six hours each instead of eight, as at present, and the limit of output be the same for each turn. This solution of the present deplorable condition of the sheet steel trade is thought to be sufficient to bring about the desired result.

Escaped Prisoner Starving.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Frank Hornicker, seventeen years old, walked into the Morrisania police station and gave himself up to the sergeant. He said he had escaped a year ago from the Lyman reform school in Westboro, Mass., where he was serving a sentence for burglary. He said he had had nothing to eat for two days, and, although he dreaded being sent back to the reform school, he could not endure the pangs of hunger.

"Under Cover" at the Hub.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—Repeated applause greeted Edward Harrigan's new play, "Under Cover," at the Boston theater. The audience was a large one, and the witty lines of the play kept it laughing continually. The stage settings were elaborate and showed to especially good advantage on the Boston's large stage. Lieutenant General Nelson A. Miles was present.

Professor's Accidental Death.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 1.—While attempting to shoot a sick cat at Hatboro, Pa., Professor W. H. Detweiler accidentally shot himself and died a few hours later. Professor Detweiler was a teacher in the Manual Training school in this city and was spending the summer with his family at Hatboro.

Bull Killed Wealthy Farmer.

NORTH TONAWANDA, N. Y., Sept. 1.—William Ackerman, seventy-five years old, a wealthy farmer living at Bush's Bridge, was perhaps fatally injured by a muly bull. Besides internal injuries, Ackerman's face is terribly lacerated. The bull used its teeth, tearing one of Ackerman's ears off.

Mason & Hamlin Estate.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—The assignee of Mason & Hamlin, piano and organ manufacturers, showed the total assets to be $309,165; total liabilities, $286,816.

President Barkhausen Dead.

BERLIN, Sept. 1.—Dr. Barkhausen, president of the Prussian Evangelical church, is dead.

Nerves of steel, a constitution of iron, and courage of the highest grade are required in a war correspondent of a great paper.

For him the word danger has no meaning, while tireless energy knows neither rest or fatigue till his task is done and the news which the world awaits is speeding over the wires.

Such a man is L. Azel Dodge, a war correspondent famous on three continents. But even his splendid health could not withstand the hardships of continued campaigning.

Dr. Greene's Nervura
The World's Greatest Tonic

restored him to strength and a useful life. To-day he owes his health to the greatest of all blood and nerve remedies, Dr. Greene's Nervura. Here is his letter:

DEAR DR. GREENE:—"After serving four years in the Civil War, a year in China during the so-called 10-year war in 1868-69, then in 1870 in the Franco-Prussian War, as war correspondent of one of the leading New York papers, I was left a physical wreck. My blood was very poor and my nerves were in a terrible condition, so that I was not able to work for a number of years. I also was afflicted with chronic diarrhœa, which was gradually wearing me out. I had, as well as my friends, given up all hopes of being well again, as I had tried some of the best physicians in the country and had taken bottles of patent medicines without relief.

"A lady visiting at my house recommended to me Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, as it had cured her brother (who had been almost at death's door), and now he is a well man. She urged me to give Nervura a trial. I did so, and before I had taken one bottle I began to feel better. I slept better, my nerves were better, and I kept on improving so that in about three months I was able to go to work and was as well as could be expected of a man of my age, which is nearly 60 years.

"I think it my duty to Dr. Greene to write this letter, which he can publish if he so wishes, that others may know what will cure them. My advice to all is not to be deluded into buying something else when told that it is as good as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy when it is not."

(Signed) L. AZEL DODGE, 39 Gardner St., Worcester, Mass.

Consult Dr. Greene without expense. His medical advice is always free to all who seek it in person or by letter. Write to 101 Fifth Ave., New York City.

SARAFOFF HAS 15,000 MEN READY.

Nine Hundred Refugees Have Arrived In Bulgaria—Revolt Spreading at Caza, Yenidje and Tikhvesh, Near Salonika.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 1.—The Macedonian leaders assert that an aggregate of 2,000 Bulgarians have crossed the frontier in small parties and joined the insurgents. General Zontcheff, the president of the Macedonian committee, and Colonel Jankoff, one of the revolutionary leaders, who are now in Macedonia, send word that the insurgent forces total 12,000 to 15,000 men. They expect that a general insurrection will be proclaimed this week.

Nine hundred refugees from Malkotirnovo and surrounding villages have arrived at Drumku, Bulgaria. The refugees say the Turkish garrison fired upon the Bulgarian part of Malkotirnovo to create the impression that a revolution was in progress.

The Turks have occupied Klissura, Albania, without resistance. A number of Bulgarian villages in its vicinity were burned.

Inspector General Hilmi Pasha recently sent a commission composed of five Christians and five Turks to offer amnesty to the insurgents on condition that they lay down their arms before the great feast in honor of the sultan's coronation.

The revolt has become general at Caza and Yenidje and is spreading to Gherghli and Tikhvesh, sixty-five miles from Salonika.

Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader, has arrived in the neighborhood of Salonika for the purpose of directing the movements of the revolutionists.

Some Turkish officers sold fifteen cases of Martini rifles and a quantity of ammunition to Bulgarians.

Foreigners Badly Treated.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, Sept. 1.—Harsh injustice is being meted out to foreigners residing in the interior of Venezuela, where the local authorities are hunting down all foreigners who dare to present claims against Venezuela in accordance with the recent protocol. Near Coro a local tribunal refused to accept the testimony of five Italians. On the latter insisting in tendering their depositions three were arrested and thrown into jail. Two of them attempted to escape and were fired upon, one being killed. The Venezuelan government does not deny this occurrence, but is doing nothing to prevent repetitions.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 1, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

Primaries, Tuesday, September 8.

For boom launcher—James E. Martine, of Plainfield.

Company K should be able to retain first place for marksmanship and the results at Sea Girt seem to indicate that it will.

Rain spoiled Saturday as a day for sports and those who are fond of baseball, tennis, golf and horse races were keenly disappointed.

The advertiser who encourages suggestions from all his employes is apt to get some worth while. The advertiser who doesn't do so will never know how much he has lost.—Printers' Ink.

There is danger that Charles Williams' police court record may be smashed by an Elizabeth woman. His competitor has just been committed to the County jail for the seventy-second time.

With a single exception all the guests of President Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill yesterday were editors. Wonder if the visitors convinced the strenuous man that the pen is mightier than the sword?

Advices from Grand Rapids, Mich., bring out the fact that former Congressman Charles A. Towne is now former Congressman Bryan's choice. There can be no doubt as to which of the "fifty-seven varieties" Mr. Towne represents.

As a result of that little game of war off the New England coast, Uncle Sam will be asked to hand over nearly half a million dollars to the people of Portland, Me. This is for damages alleged to have been done to property. And they call this imitation warfare!

There's a lesson for the local board of trade in a booklet entitled "Hackettstown, New Jersey, Illustrated." It is an attractive presentation of the advantages and beauties of that progressive place. Its neat typographical appearance is especially noticable.

Architects and Builders Review and Real Estate Record of Union County is the lengthy name of a publication, the initial number of which was issued Saturday. It contains much news of interest to men engaged in the various branches of the building trade. We wish it success.

The Union County Assemblyman who has gone into bankruptcy has failed to schedule among his assets his political influence as an offset to his debts to a Republican leader, says the Newark Evening News.

This is certainly rough on Chairman Hamilton Kean. Assemblyman Hall's influence, where? Not in these diggings by a long shot!

In referring both to manufacturing industries and to yacht racing Sir Thomas Lipton said yesterday: "I am as loyal a Britisher as ever lived, but I tell you we are in a state of decay as compared to the greatest Nation on earth." Evidently Sir Thomas has spent his time here to advantage. He realizes the situation and unlike many Britishers has no scruples against confessing it.

A Trenton man in unburdening his woes to a police magistrate complains that his wife is so jealous that she has had a telephone installed in their house and he is compelled to telephone to her regularly every hour he is out of her sight. When he neglects this act of devotion, a poker is used to bring him to terms. Poor fellow, he will soon be eligable to the Man's Rights Association.

President of Council James F. Buckle, who has served this city's interests jealously and gratuitously for many years is the choice of what is termed the "regular" Republicans for the Assembly. The nominations filed Saturday show that he will be opposed by William T. Kirk, the able leader of Senator Kean's friends in this city. The local Democrats acquited themselves with credit by again bringing out Charles L. Moffett. It is now quite certain that there will be a hot fight at the Republican primaries here next week and again at the polls in November.

Has called you to His angel fold
To meet father, mother and sister dear,
That have been waiting for you
For many a year.
Although a cripple from child,
You have always been Patient and loving Whoe'ever company in.

MILLIONAIRES ON TRIAL.

Manslaughter Charged In Trolley Disaster Case.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 1.—Crowds filled the old courthouse here as never before when the trial of the trolley road directors who were indicted for manslaughter in connection with the Clifton avenue trolley car disaster of Feb. 19 last was called.

Chief Justice Gummere and Justices Van Sickle and Dixon heard the evidence. The scene was one out of the ordinary at manslaughter trials because at least six of the defendants are millionaires or multimillionaires.

They are John D. Crimmins of New York, Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania railroad; E. F. C. Young, president of the First National bank of Jersey City; Dr. Leslie D. Ward, vice president of the Prudential Life Insurance company; Elisha G. Gaddis and J. Roosevelt Shanley of Newark. The other defendants are David Young, who at the time of the accident was general superintendent of the North Jersey Railway company; Charles M. Shipman, then superintendent; Arthur W. Pratt, road master; James Smith, division superintendent, and Richard Eick, then his assistant.

There were nine killed in the accident, eight girls and a boy, all high school pupils, but only one of the victims was selected on which to base a case. That was Ernestine Miller. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of manslaughter against the executive committee of the directorate of the company and also against the employees named above for having caused her death. It is on this indictment that they are at the bar for trial.

Prosecutor Riker opened for the state, reciting the nature of the accident, the condition of the tracks and dangers of the crossing. He said that as long ago as 1899 the necessity for a derailing switch was apparent to both the railroad and street car companies. On the morning of the accident the crossing was covered with snow and ice, so that the brake shoes of the car were clogged. In consequence the car slipped down the incline, smashed through the gates and collided with the train. He said that common prudence demanded clean tracks, empty front platforms, so as not to interfere with the motorman, and a safety derailing switch. These were absent in this case.

He then named the defendants individually and stated that they were aware of the condition of the tracks; that they knew about the crossings and they had done nothing to avoid the accident. He then asked that they be adjudged guilty of the charge in the indictment.

KILLED MISS GENTRY.

H. B. Bates Shot Girl He Loved, Then Himself.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 1.—Herbert B. Bates, son of Assistant City Engineer Frank T. Bates, shot and killed Miss Rena Gentry at her home here and then killed himself. The shooting took place in the front parlor of Miss Gentry's home, no one being in the room save the two young people.

Mr. Bates and Miss Gentry had been keeping company since they were small children, and the young man was madly infatuated with the young lady. It is believed that she did not return his love. Miss Gentry was in her twenty-second year and was one of the best known and most lovable young women in the city. She was a member of Union Station Methodist church and an earnest church worker.

Mr. Bates had never known the taste of liquor or tobacco and never used a profane word. He was note clerk at the First National bank, and an examination of his books showed his accounts to be correct to a cent. It is believed his mind was affected.

Monument to Ollier Unveiled.

ROME, Sept. 1.—At the congress of the Italian Alpine club at Courmayeur a monument erected by the Duke of Abruzzi to the Italian guide, Ollier, who died during the duke's expedition to the north pole, was unveiled amid great enthusiasm. Speeches were made recalling the intrepid bravery displayed by the members of the expedition.

Dr. George B. Russell Dead.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 1.—Dr. George B. Russell, one of the oldest and best known physicians of Michigan, died at his home here, aged eighty-seven years. He was born in Russellville, Chester county, Pa., and did fearless work during the cholera epidemic at Philadelphia in 1836.

Knights Templars at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Sept. 1.—With waving white plumes and glittering swords 4,000 Knights Templars of the grand commandery of the state of New York marched into the city. They found it gay with bunting and flags and were accorded a hearty welcome.

Unknown Man's Suicide.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 1.—An unknown man committed suicide by jumping from the top of a high rock out over the Ulster and Delaware railroad. It is thought that he was Ernest Eberstach of Providence, R. I., who is said to have become insane.

Woolen Company Assigns.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Sept. 1.—The Grosvenor Woolen company, which operates mills in Monson and Holyoke, has made an assignment for the benefit of its creditors to Charles E. Fuller of Palmer and Charles C. Spellman of this city.

Olmsted's Body Cremated.

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—Private services for Frederick Law Olmsted, the famous landscape artist, were held at the Mount Auburn cemetery chapel. Rev. William H. Lyons of Brookline officiated. The body was afterward cremated.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park-Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

FRILLS OF FASHION.

Gold and Silver Belts—Taffeta Gown In Pale Shades.

Gold and silver waistbands will be a feature for the next few weeks, though the shaped belt of black panne is by far a more charming fashion.

Bodices are nearly all made in blouse fashion, yet the waist line is daintily defined by a pointed sash or band.

All the best frocks worn by women of fashion are exquisitely graceful, and these soft, clinging fabrics can stand any amount of ruching and tucking.

Taffeta in pale shades as well as in black forms some of the most dressy gowns, and a good many are made for restaurant dining and for various entertainments at watering places.

In spite of ruches and flounces skirts are kept very plain at the top, and everything points to a return of the severely serpentlike skirt—serpentlike at least as far as the knees, whence it grows at least twelve yards wide around the feet. Truly the skirt of the hour must be cut by a dressmaker who is a genius as well as a good workwoman.

The cut shows a tailor made of blue cloth, with a plaited jacket and skirt.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

DAINTY EFFECTS.

Russian Coats Are Popular—The Loose Cut In Gowns.

The fashionable gown has the appearance of being too large for its wearer, and a generally loose effect is produced by the shape and the trimmings. All cotton gowns follow this rule, and the waists are full all around, much pouched in front and have some species of vest or chemisette which is usually left transparent.

When the skirt is accompanied by a coatee or bolero this is wide and large and follows the sack shape. The front is filled in with hanging frills of lace or a full pouched vest, which adds to the loose effect.

The Russian coat is a favorite model for lawn and linen, and the fronts are open to show a fussily arranged vest. The front, fastened on with a high beckband and lightly pinned at the waist, is admirable with the Russian blouse and much cooler than a sleeveless waist.

Red has many followers and is shown in crape, cotton and muslin. The crape fabrics have a decidedly refining influence on the bright colors, and light china blue and rose red are charming in this fabric.

CHAPTER VI.

A PROPOSAL.

Jane's stepmother was already at the front door with Edward clasped in her arms, for Mrs. Ellery was as fond of the boy as though he were her own son. Close behind were Bessemer and his staff. When the British colonel caught sight of Jane he hastened forward and grasped her hand. "Ah, Mistress Jane, you must hold your brother accountable for this intrusion. My heart so yearned for a sight of you and your hospitable home that I feared to indulge myself by coming here lest I could not tear myself away, but he would hear of naught but that we must breakfast at the Ellery mansion."

"My brother is ever considerate of his family's pleasure," Jane answered, "and he knew what happiness it would give my father and my mother to welcome one who has been so kind to their son."

"Indeed, yes," Edward put in gayly, "and I wanted the colonel to see that my mother could outdo even your famous breakfast that he has so bragged upon."

Mrs. Ellery had been no laggard in welcoming her guests. Leaving Jane and Edward to see to their entertainment, she hastened back to give orders for the preparation of a meal that should, indeed, as Edward had boasted, outdo Jane's.

Presently Edward stole away to see his father, and when he came back he requested Jane to take Col. Bessemer to him.

Never had the British colonel appeared to better advantage in Jane's sight than during the brief converse with her father—his manner at once deferential and genial, his tones low but attuned perfectly for the invalid's ear, his words full of praise for the soldier son, of his courage, his devotion to duty, his popularity with his brother officers. Jane saw her father's dull eyes brighten, she saw the expression of patient suffering give way to one of interest, and the withered cheek lighten with a faint tinge of color.

Her heart went out to Bessemer that he should have given the older man those few minutes of pleasure, and when, with the excuse of not wishing to tire the invalid, he drew her from the summer-house, she walked with him along the garden paths and entered the green and purple labyrinth in the grape-arbor towards which he directed their steps.

She put up her hand and plucked some grapes for him. He took them from her, and then, a quick glance around assuring him that the thick screen of vines hid them from view, he caught her hands in his and drew her to him.

"Jane," he cried, in the smothered voice of passion, "Jane, I love you!"

The girl struggled to free herself but he held her close, while his hot kisses fell upon her brilliant hair and white brow. Presently, however, either she gave more force to her efforts or he feared to offend her past forgiveness, for he released her and dropped upon his knees before her.

"Sweetheart," he said, "forgive me my impetuosity. If I have been too forward, if I seem to have taken undue advantage of this one moment allotted me alone with you, then let the adoration which I feel speak in my behalf. The affection which I felt for you when a little girl in Philadelphia, though you touched my heart then as none of your sex ere had before, was but the gentle warmth of a candle beside the noonday heat of my love for you now. Jane, may I not carry you back to England with me to adorn my home, to be tended with my most jealous care?"

"Col. Bessemer, I"—Jane passed her hand across her forehead, as though to smooth away perplexity—"I scarce know what to say, so taken by surprise am I. May I—will you not grant me a respite—time for consideration of the great honor you have done me? There is the breakfast bell," she added hurriedly, and with very evident relief; "we must hasten or my stepmother will grow nervous."

Bessemer rose and, holding her hands in his, scanned her face with his keen eyes. "Time for consideration? Ah, sweet one, if your heart were filled with love for me as mine is for you, there would be no need of consideration. Tell me, Jane, do not your pulse beat responsive to my own? Does not some of the rapture which I feel awaken an answering glow in you? Surely it must be so. Then what need for waiting? for keeping me in cruel suspense? Nay, let thy sweet compassion plead for me. Take pity on this lonely soldier, and give him the boon of your requiting love. Let him feel that when he returns victorious to your side he will find this priceless treasure awaiting him. Tell me, Jane, that it shall be so." He would have drawn her again within his arms, but Jane put up her hand in determined gesture.

"No, Col. Bessemer, I must have time to think. I am deeply sensible of the honor you do me, but I am not so young as I once was, and I realize fully what an alteration in my life assent to your request would mean. Before passing upon a question so weighty, I think it scarce unreasonable to stipulate for due consideration."

She spoke with dignity and firmness, and Bessemer, shrewd enough to know that such poise augured less well for him than girlish confusion would, felt the blood swirl hotly in his veins, while his eyes narrowed with fuller determination to conquer where conquering was made difficult. His was not a nature to value highly that which came easy. Women almost as beautiful as Jane had come lightly to his arms and been lightly cast aside. This girl would be won for always.

He bent his head and kissed her hands with appealing lips. "Ah beloved, my zealous heart hath again betrayed me into an eagerness that merits your rebuke. I would not have you think that I could refuse any request of yours, though it is one which means for me many weary moments of uncertainty, now anguished by doubt, now consumed by fire of hope. Sweet one, may I not pray that you will at least make the time of probation short? I am on my way to capture that brigand, Sumter. When that is accomplished, I shall return this way; then may I not claim my answer?"

They had reached the entrance to the grape-arbor by now, and Jane's eyes viewed questioningly the prospect before her—the bright garden, the rear and side of the great old mansion, the sweep of the fruitful fields to the east, the clump of woods walling in the west. This was home—beautiful, luxurious, beloved home; and the man beside her asked her to leave it all for him. Surely much to ask; yet, with him close beside her; with his supplicating words in her ears; with his musical, persuasive voice; his forceful personality appealing to her, it would not have been hard to have turned and given him her hands in complete surrender. The fascination he had wielded when she was a school girl in Philadelphia was still potent; but she had learned coquetry, coyness, it might be judiciousness, since. She took her eyes from the landscape and brought them back to the Englishman.

"I cannot promise, Col. Bessemer," she said, "but if I can, I will have my answer ready—then."

When the officers had eaten their fill they prepared with some haste for departure. Bessemer had little opportunity to do more than press Jane's hand ardently and whisper a word of love in her ear before he flung himself astride his gray.

THE FAIR WILL.

Alleged Last Testament Mentions Mysterious Heir.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—What purports to be the last will and testament of Charles L. Fair has made its way through the mail to the chambers of Superior Judge F. J. Murasky.

On opening the envelope Judge Murasky found what purports to be a will signed by Charles L. Fair and witnessed by the late L. W. Lees and W. H. L. Barnes. It was short and typewritten, Mr. Fair's signature and that of the two alleged witnesses being written in ink.

In this alleged will Mr. Fair mentions his son "Charles J.," and to him he bequeaths the sum of $800,000. In addition to this bequest, the sum of $750,000 is bequeathed to "the Roman Catholic Orphan asylum," $500,000 to "Joseph Harvey" and $40,000 "to the city of San Francisco for the purpose of founding a hospital."

The residue of the testator's estate is left to his wife, who is named as executrix. The alleged will is dated at San Francisco April 16, 1901.

The mysteries of this purported will are increased by the identification of an alleged heir in the person of Charles L. Fair, Jr. This heir was hinted at some months ago by Attorney William Cannon, who stood sponsor for it, as entitled to a share of the estate of the dead millionaire. The child, however, was never produced in the flesh, and the attorney never disclosed the identity of the mother.

Attorney Cannon said of the alleged will:

"I believe it is a fake and will not ask that it be admitted for probate. As far as the child of Charles L. Fair is concerned, I have nothing further to say at this time."

EDWARD AT VIENNA.

Emperor Francis Joseph Now a Field Marshal.

VIENNA, Sept. 1.—King Edward has arrived from Marienbad and received an enthusiastic reception.

A state dinner in honor of King Edward was given at the Hofburg. The company present included the emperor, all the archdukes and archduchesses, the ministers, diplomats and the general staff of the army.

Emperor Francis Joseph toasted King Edward in a speech, in the course of which he hailed the latter's visit as a fresh pledge for the maintenance of the close confidential relations which have long existed between the two countries.

The king in responding expressed his thanks for the friendly sentiments expressed toward him and the cordial reception he had met with. He assured the emperor of the continuance of the feeling of friendship which he had inherited from Queen Victoria and concluded by appointing Emperor Francis Joseph a field marshal in the British army.

SOMERSET COUNTY'S TAX RATE HIGHER

Increase of Five Points Because of An Extra Appropriation to Freeholders.

BOARD HOLDS SESSION

COUNTY TAX MAY HAVE EFFECT ON BOROUGH RATE.

Elston M. French Chosen Chairman of Board for the Fourth Consecutive Time—State School Tax Rate $.17.

The Somerset County rate has gone up nearly five points, to a fraction above $.68, the highest county rate in the State, and it seems likely that even the efforts of the borough tax assessor will not make it possible to keep the rate at the old figure.

All this became public yesterday at the semi-annual meeting of the Somerset County Board of Assessors in the Court House at Somerville. Every member of the Board was present with the exception of the representative of Warren township. Elston M. French, of North Plainfield, was elected chairman for the fourth consecutive year, and Frank T. Ross, of Somerville, was chosen secretary.

It was stated that there was an increase in the total ratables of the county of more than $100,000, the most of it coming as usual from the larger towns, the farming sections running behind. The increase of five points in the county rate was caused by the demand of the freeholders for $10,000 more than formerly, an advance in the appropriation from $110,000 to $120,000.

Considerable criticism was heard of this action of the freeholders. The additional demand was necessitated, it was said, by the policy of the freeholders to pay for all improvements inaugurated by them in cash. This brings the total burden upon present tax payers instead of leaving the debt to be paid in part at least by posperity.

The State school tax was announced to be the same as last year, a trifle more than $.17.

A vote of thanks was extended Mr. French for his valuable service as chairman for four years. This was Mr. French's fifth year as a member of the board. During his term in the chair he has brought about the adoption of a systematic method of preparing the ratables.

Fred. A. Nelson has conveyed the Washington hotel property, in the Notch to Hugo Maul, of this city. Mr. Maul, it is said, exchanged three lots in town for the resort. E. D. Barrett consummated the deal.

The reason given by Mr. Nelson for selling out is because of the ill health of his wife. Mr. Nelson purchased it four years ago from the late Mrs. Katherine Finger, whose husband was proprietor several years previous to that. Mr. Maul will, it is said, reopen the place in the near future.

It is understood that the postal authorities have the matter under consideration.

STRAUSS' PRACTICE CONVEYED BY WIFE

Mrs. Margaret Strauss Gives His $40,000 Practice to Her Own Counsel.

NO CRIMINAL ACTIONS

DIVORCE SUIT ONLY FOR CHILDREN'S SAKE ALONE.

Mrs. Strauss, No. 3, Still Retains Affection for Erring Man—Law Library Said to be Owned by Margaret Strauss.

Margaret, No. 3 of the three wives of Baldwin F. Strauss, the much married Brooklyn lawyer, who a few days ago announced her intention to bring criminal proceedings against Strauss for bigamy as soon as her pending divorce suit was disposed of, has changed her mind regarding this step, it was learned yesterday, and will be satisfied with a civil action. According to her lawyer, Mrs. Strauss still continues to retain affection for her husband, although she is aware that she is able to lay claim to only a third part of his affections. For the sake of her boy, says Mr. Russell, Mrs. Strauss has decided not to strive to make his father a criminal in the eyes of the law.

Mr. Russell said he was of the opinion that Strauss would settle the divorce case out of court, and decide to hereafter live with Ida (wife No. 2), who, the lawyer thinks, has the greatest claim upon Strauss on account of the fact that the pair have several children. According to the law of that State children of illegitimate birth become legitimate by the after marriage of the parents, and counsel is therefore of the opinion that Strauss may decide to place the legitimacy of Ida's children beyond a doubt by remarrying her.

Mrs. Margaret Strauss, it was learned yestreday, is endeavoring to obtain possession of the large law library and office effects of Baldwin F. Strauss. She declares that she is entitled to these, although the mother and sister of the Brooklyn lawyer have put in a counter claim. Mr. Russell has instructed Superintendent Higgins of the Arbuckle building not to surrender this property until he can get a decision from the courts.

"My client has already obtained all the law papers of Baldwin F. Strauss," Mr. Russell said yesterday. "These she acquired by a written consent, sent to her soon after her husband fled. By this document my client is entitled to give her husbands practice to any lawyer she cares to name. She has named me as the successor to Mr. Strauss, and I have acquired possession of all his papers and cases. He had a practice estimated to be worth about $40,000 a year. The cases I have acquired consist of divorce cases, real estate cases, accident cases against the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company, etc. I expect also to acquire Mr. Strauss's law library, consisting of ten cases of books, and all his office furniture. I have given his mother and sister until tomorrow to hand them over."

Asked if his client would be satisfied with this settlement, Mr. Russell replied: "Why, my client expects to obtain a settlement from her husband whereby he will consent to support her for the rest of her life."

A Noble Charity.

The success attending the work at the City Union King's Daughters baby camp on the mountain is particularly gratifying to those in charge. FUNERAL OF ALBURTUS WEEKS

SERVICES AT HOME IN WEST SEVENTH STREET THIS AFTERNOON.

Sketch of His Career—Interment to be in Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn, Tomorrow.

Funeral services of Alburtus A. Weeks, of West Seventh street, who died Sunday, will take place this afternoon at 4 o'clock at the late residence in West Seventh street, and will be conducted by Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist Church. A quartette consisting of M. C. VanArsdale, Fred Cutter, Mrs. Charlotte Ross and Miss Clara Miller, will sing "Homeland" and "Abide With Me," and Elmer E. Runyon will sing "Rock of Ages." The body will be taken for burial to the Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn.

Mr. Weeks was a resident of Brooklyn for thirty years, leaving that place for this city about four years ago when he purchased the Henniger property on West Seventh street. He had been an importing and manufacturing stationer in Gold street, New York, since 1867, conducting his business in a conservative way and prospering as an advocate of the business principles of truthfulness and justice. He was largely interested in church work in Brooklyn. When the Trinity Presbyterian Church of that place was dissolved, it was through the efforts of Mr. Weeks, as a member of the Presbytery, that the site on Jefferson avenue was donated to the Central Presbyterian Church upon their agreement erect a building large enough to accommodate the two congregations. Mr. Weeks was an elder in the Central Church and interested in various charitable organizations. He was seventy-four years old, and is survived by a widow and two sons, Frank A. and Henry W. Weeks.

CHAMBERLAIN AFFAIR STILL A MYSTERY

Gassner, His Brother-in-Law, Now Detained at the County Jail.

POLICE ARE AT WORK

HEARING TO TAKE PLACE IN THIS CITY TOMORROW.

Robbery Not Supposed to be the Motive—Chamberlain Had No Known Enemy—Gassner Was in the House With Him.

The case against Walter Gassner, charged before Justice Huff yesterday afternoon with atrocious assault upon his brother-in-law, Herbert Chamberlain, rests on circumstantial evidence. Gassner is now in Elizabeth awaiting a preliminary hearing in the local court tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, the delay being due to the necessity for waiting a turn for better or worse in Chamberlain's condition.

Gassner, on his own admission, was the only person in the house besides Mr. Chamberlain at the time the two retired for the night. To rifle a trunk of $40, in accordance with Gassner's story, one would have been obliged to break open the trunk, search through the trays and probably light matches to aid him in his search. In addition to this, it is argued, one could not have entered the house through the door or windows, which, it is said, were locked, without making at least some noise.

The fact that casts most discredit upon the burglar theory is that no man intending to commit theft was ever known to assault another unless himself attacked. His plan of action would be to do his work and then make his escape. If detected and cornered he would probably fight, but the last thing he would do would be to assault murderously a sleeping man in the manner that Chamberlain was assaulted. It has been stated that Chamberlain was found on the floor, but this is now said not to have been the case. He was discovered in his bed from which he had probably never arisen.

The man that assaulted Chamberlain had a motive, of course, and the police think they can establish one. It was not known previous to the assault that Chamberlain had an enemy. He was quite inoffensive, universally popular and bore a most excellent reputation.

An outing was enjoyed near Johnston's drive yesterday by the children and members of the German Lutheran Church. The young folks played games and spent an enjoyable day. SCARED BY GASOLENE FUMES

TENANTS OF STILLMAN FLATS MYSTIFIED BY A STRANGE ODOR.

Miss Randolph, An Assistant to Dr. Hillman, Used Gasolene to Kill Moths.

Thoughtlessness in the use of gasoline caused much alarm last night in the Stillman flats and for some time the tenants were in dread of an explosion. Ascertaining of its use as a moth preventive in Dr. Hillman's apartments finally cleared up a mystery.

Miss Randolph, of Oak Tree, assistant of Dr. Hillman, feared moths had gotten in the carpet in the doctor's office and sprinkling the edges of the carpet with a plentiful supply of gasoline to kill the pests. Shortly afterwards she closed the office for the day and went to her home. With the office windows all fastened, the fumes soon found their way to the cellar of the building and were first noticed by John H. Doane at about 6 o'clock.

Thinking that there was a leak in the gas pipes, Mr. Doane instituted a careful search for the trouble in company with the janitor of the building. The men feared to strike a match in the fume loaded air and were unable to find the cause of trouble. The tenants were questioned but no one had any explanation for the odor. Finally Chief Doane was summoned at about 10 o'clock and he also made a thorough investigation, but without results. The halls soon became filled with odor and no one dared to strike a match in the fumes for fear of an explosion.

Miss Randolph cleared up the mystery on her arrival this morning.

The wagon was heavily loaded with bags of grain and in turning off from Front street, the rear wheel became dished in the curve of the trolley tracks. The axle broke, throwing the load into the street. Mr. Schooncver was thrown heavily but escaped with a few bruises and a plentiful supply of mud.

WEEK WITHOUT SLEEP.

Chinese Torture Duplicated in W. Quincy, Mass.

Complete Exhaustion Follows, and Death Was Feared.

The Chinese have a method of torture that is the refinement of cruelty. They keep a patient awake till he dies of nervous exhaustion.

Mrs. Sarah C. Williams, of 15 Cross St., W. Quincy, Mass., was kept awake for a long time by disordered nerves. Dr. Greene's Nervura cured her when it seemed as though she must die. She tells of her terrible experience as follows:

"About eight years ago I received a bad fall and my health began to fail. I grew worse until I was unable to do any work. I grew so nervous that at the least noise of any kind I would faint away. I could not close my eyes at night and

I have been without sleep for a week at a time until I was completely exhausted. I had several doctors and nothing they gave me did me any good. One doctor told me I had a floating tumor and that I would have to undergo an operation. The day was set for me to go, when I decided not to go. I thought if I must die, I would rather die at home.

"Finally my sister came to see me, and when she saw how bad I was she told me of Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great nerve tonic.

"The first day I took it I went to bed and slept all night, a thing I had not done for six months. I was so pleased that I kept on until I had taken six bottles, and now I am a well woman. I owe it all to Dr. Greene's Nervura and I tell everyone I see sick about it. I feel I cannot praise it enough.

"You are entirely welcome to use this testimonial in your advertising, or in any way you wish."

Dr. Greene's advice is free to all suffering women. Write him and he will tell you how to get well. Address 101 Fifth Ave., New York City.

ACTION IS APPROVED

Appearance of American Fleet Will Lead to Settlement.

TURKEY FEARS NAVAL DISPLAY.

Porte Will Recognize That the President Is Determined to Show That No Trifling Will Be Permitted.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 2.—The porte has informed Minister Leishman that five arrests have been made at Beirut in connection with the shooting which led to the report that William C. Magelssen, United States vice consul there, had been assassinated.

American officials here attribute the dispatch of the war ships to Turkish waters not solely to the Magelssen affair, but to the general dissatisfaction of the authorities at Washington at the nonfulfillment of the porte's promises in regard to pending questions and to the determination of President Roosevelt to show Turkey that she cannot trifle with American representatives.

Diplomatic circles here generally approve of the energetic action of the United States, which, it is pointed out, is amply justified by the bad faith of Turkey, and it is felt that the appearance of United States war ships in Turkish waters will lead to the immediate settlement of pending disputes.

Nothing so impresses the porte as a naval demonstration, and the diplomats say that this will be especially noticeable in the present case, as the Americans are not fettered, like other powers, by agreements regulating the political affairs of Turkey.

A memorandum has been addressed to the Austrian and Russian ambassadors here by the porte, saying that at a meeting held at Sofia it was decided to send fresh Bulgarian bands across the frontier. The ambassadors are also informed in this memorandum that the Bulgarian revolutionary committees are furnishing the insurgents with ammunition and other supplies, which are being landed chiefly along the coast in the vicinity of Iniada, from which place the Russian fleet took its departure a few days ago.

The celebration here of the anniversary of the sultan's accession passed off without any untoward incident. The sultan held the customary reception and received the congratulations of the representatives of the powers and the state dignitaries. The city was brilliantly illuminated in the evening.

Sad Death From Farmer's Error.

OTSEGO, Mich., Sept. 2.—Duncan Swan, a farmer living north of this village, shot his daughter Mary dead, mistaking her for crows in the corn. Swan had been troubled with crows in his corn. He saw the stalks moving and, thinking crows were in the patch, discharged his shotgun at the moving corn. To his horror his daughter screamed, and he found that he had shot her in the breast. She was gathering corn for dinner, and her father did not know it. Swan is nearly crazed.

Mrs. Kenney Shot by Her Son.

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Sept. 2.—Mrs J. H. Kenney, wife of a prominent business man and former burgess, was accidentally shot in the face by her son Raymond, aged twelve. The bullet entered the left side of the nose, passed through the right eye and came out through the frontal bone close to her temple. A slight variation in its course would have resulted in immediate death. The physicians say, however, that she will recover.

Lord Roberts Will Not Come.

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Although Field Marshal Lord Roberts is still booked to sail for Boston, it can now be definitely stated that he is not going to the United States this autumn. The alteration in his plans was necessitated by the postponement of the British army maneuvers until the middle of September and the war office not wanting Lord Roberts to be absent while the new east African campaign is in preparation.

Transport Carries Troops and Money

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—The army transport Thomas has sailed for Manila. She carries 307 marines for the Philippines and Guam and a few casuals. The Thomas takes to the islands $7,000,000 in treasure, of which $2,000,000 is in the new silver pesos, the remainder in Philippine silver certificates. It is guarded by Major F. H. Hardy of the Fourteenth cavalry with a detachment of twenty-five men.

The A. R. M. and E. A. Conclave.

SARATOGA, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The American Railway Mechanical and Electrical association, which organized in Cleveland last February, began its first convention here. The address of welcome by Joseph B. Brennan was responded to by the president, Thomas Farmer of Detroit. C. F. Baker of Boston read a paper on "Care and Maintenance of Car Bodies," which was followed by a general discussion.

Filipino Dunphy's Case.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The supreme court of the Philippine Islands will decide in the case of the native Filipino Dunphy, who was convicted of murder under the military government and sentenced to death. He escaped and was apprehended after the Philippines passed to civil control.

Wireless Plant at Highland Light.

HIGHLAND LIGHT, Mass., Sept. 2.—The navy department is erecting a wireless telegraph station on the cliff at the northern end of the government lighthouse reservation here. It will be in operation by Oct. 15.

THE ASSASSIN FAILED

Direct Advices From Beirut Confirm First Report.

MAGELSSEN HAD NARROW ESCAPE.

Official Reports So Far Give No Details of Incident Which Caused the Dispatch of the European Fleet to Turkish Port.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—The first direct advices from Beirut in regard to the reported attempt on the life of United State Vice Consul William C. Magelssen were received at the state department from G. B. Ravndal, the United States consul at that place. All the other messages on the subject have come through the United States legation at Constantinople. The message received indicates that, despite reports that there was no attempt whatever on Mr. Magelssen's life, there was such an attempt made. The telegram says:

"The attempt on Magelssen's life failed utterly. Narrow escape, but vice consul suffered no injury."

State department officers are disappointed over the meagerness of the report. They have not yet been able to ascertain the details of the incident and are very anxious to get all the facts at the earliest possible moment.

Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, has received from the minister of foreign affairs at Constantinople a dispatch giving the Turkish version of the reported attempt on the life of United States Vice Consul Magelssen at Beirut. After declaring that the report of the assassination of Mr. Magelssen was absolutely false the dispatch gives a version of the affair practically the same as has been told before in the dispatches from Turkey. It says that the pistol was fired by a man returning from a marriage fete, that the shot was fired in the air and that it happened just as Mr. Magelssen was passing in his carriage. This, the dispatch says, led the vice consul to believe that an attempt had been made against his life. The man who did the shooting already has been delivered to the judicial authorities. Chekib Bey's dispatch also asserts that order and tranquillity prevail at Beirut.

CAR MAGNATES' TRIAL.

Many Witnesses Testify at Newark as to the Accident.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 2.—The trolley disaster trial of the eleven directors and executive officers of the North Jersey Street Railway company, who are accused of manslaughter, was resumed. James Kay was the first witness. Under cross examination he testified that he had for about a minute before the accident a good view of the motorman of the ill fated trolley car. The witness said he was standing just south of the steam railroad tracks, and when he first saw the motorman the latter appeared to be struggling hard at both brakes in an effort to stop the car. Witness thought the car was going at a medium rate of speed. The car appeared to be under control—that is, considering the rate at which it was going.

The next thing the witness saw was the trolley car crashing through the railroad gates; then it came into collision with the train. He said he could not be sure whether or not the trolley car had come to a stop before the collision occurred.

William R. Bowerman, a high school pupil who was on the wrecked car, testified that the car did not stop before it broke through the gate, although he felt the brakes applied. Joseph Shapiro, another pupil, testified that he was on the rear end front platform when the brakes were applied and that he was pushed or jumped off. Other school children testified to the same effect.

Six Hundred Miners Refuse to Work.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 2.—Six hundred coal miners in the Novinger district in northwestern Missouri refused to go to work, violating the agreement made between the operators and John Mitchell, national president of the United Mine Workers, at Chicago last week that the men remain at work until Sept. 10, the date of the meeting of the Kansas City conference.

Two More Cardinals.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—W. J. Onahan, who has just returned from Rome, says in the near future two additional cardinals will be created in the United States. Mr. Onahan was a friend of Leo XIII., and no layman in the country stands higher in the Catholic church than he. Mr. Onahan would not discuss the names of the men who are to be appointed.

Engineer Lucas Killed.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 2.—Engineer H. W. Lucas was killed and Fireman J. W. Stafford was fatally scalded by an accident on the Norfolk and Western near Winston Salem. The accident was caused by several cars breaking from a freight train and running back down the grade into the train handled by the injured men.

Burns Is Tennis Champion.

NIAGARA-ON-THE-LAKE, Ont., Sept. 2.—At the Niagara international tennis tournament here the all Canadian championship was won by Ralph Burns of Hamilton in a five set match from H. N. Suckling of Montreal.

Monk Won Gold Cup Race.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 2.—The Cleveland challenge gold cup at the interstate city matinee was won by The Monk, owned and driven by C. K. G. Billings of the Cleveland club. Although there were only three starters, four heats were necessary to decide the event, as when three heats had been trotted each contestor had won one. Aside from this race interest centered in the exhibition of Lou Dillon, the champion trotter, in an attempt to lower the trotting record of 2:04¾, held by herself. She succeeded in chipping a quarter of a second off her previous record.

Wire Tappers at Delmar Track.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—Superintendent Matthews of the Delmar track discovered wire tappers in operation at the track. In a fight between the tappers and Matthews' men one of the former was shot in the face and badly wounded. The wire extended from the betting ring north to Olive street. It was just ready for work when the discovery was made. The other end of the wire was in Delmar garden. There were six men in the gang. They carried away their wounded comrade on a street car, and all trace of them was lost.

The Auto Boat Race.

PARIS, Sept. 2.—Twenty automobile boats out of the fifty-seven which started in the race on the Seine from Paris to the sea completed the third stage, which only included the section of the river between Elbeuf and Rouen, a distance of fifteen and a half miles. The Mercedes and Flora retained their places of first and second respectively, the former covering the distance in 42 minutes and 23 seconds. The Musette was third. The last boat took 1 hour, 36 minutes and 28 seconds on the trip.

Flintlock Won by a Neck.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 2.—Flintlock, third choice in the betting, won the feature event at Delmar. The race was between Flintlock and Taby Tosa from the three-quarters. Taby Tosa got away first, with Flintlock third. At the half Flintlock went to the front, with Taby Tosa only a neck behind. Into the stretch Taby Tosa went a little wide, and Flintlock's gain thereby could not be overcome. He won by a short neck.

Racing at Harlem.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Fonsoluca won the mile handicap at Harlem in a common gallop, defeating Bragg by three lengths, with Star Cotton, a heavily backed outsider, third. The bookmakers lost a fortune in the victory of Pirateer in the fourth race. He won easily by two lengths, with Lord Melbourne second and Hayden third.

La Rita Holds Lipton Cup.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—The Chicago Yacht club will retain possession of the Sir Thomas Lipton cup for another year. In the special race between La Rita and Sprite, which was necessary to decide the winner, La Rita won by three minutes. Another victory will give her permanent possession of the trophy.

New World's Bike Record.

BOSTON, Sept. 2.—Harry Caldwell established a new world's record at the Charles river track, riding fifty miles in one hour. His distance for thirty minutes was 25 miles and 954 yards; for forty-five minutes, 39 miles and 280 yards, and for one hour, 50 miles flat. The contestants in the race were Caldwell and Albert Champion.

Odd Couples.

A recently published table gives the respective ages of all the married couples in the United Kingdom. There is one husband of 95 years who has a wife of 21, while three husbands ranging in age from 85 to 95 have secured wives of 25. Elderly wives and youthful husbands are rarer, and the greatest disparity in this direction is between a wife of 65 years and her husband of 20. The oldest couple in the list are aged 100 and 95 years, respectively, while the youngest pair have only numbered 16 and 15 summers, respectively.—Golden Penny.

Music and Mad Cats.

A ladies' school of music in a suburb of Vienna has owned three cats during the course of the past year, and each has gone raving mad, according to the testimony of a veterinary surgeon. The diurnal discord within the establishment is reported to be ear torturing in the extreme. The school now owns a deaf cat, which sits out the strumming of a dozen pianos with sphinx-like imperturbability.—N. Y. World.

Insanity Among Women.

A German professor has been investigating the causes of insanity among women, and has come to the conclusion that if women are admitted into competition with men the inevitable result will be a tremendous increase of insanity among the women. He finds that the percentage of women teachers who become insane is almost double that of the men teachers.—Detroit Free Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—For the first time since Mrs. Roland B. Molineux brought suit for divorce at Sioux Falls, S. D., the allegations that she has brought against her husband have been made public. General Molineux has announced that it is based purely and simply on desertion and that in all probability his son will make no defense.

Concurrently with this announcement news has been received in this city that Mrs. Molineux's application for divorce has either been thrown out or held up by the courts because she announced on her arrival at Sioux Falls that her reason for coming there was to secure a divorce.

In speaking of the affair General Molineux said that while he supposed that he should not talk about the divorce case, as it was a matter between husband and wife, he knew the grounds on which it was brought.

"I only know that the grounds are nothing more than desertion," he said, "and that Roland has accepted the service of the papers in the case. He contemplates no defense—that is to say, I presume he will not make any defense, for the matter is between husband and wife and is one that I do not feel at liberty to talk about."

THE CHICAGO MURDERS.

Confession In Chicago Railway Barn Crime.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—With a confession implicating himself and naming Gustave Malatesta, a former convict, as leader in the raid, John Sleuder, a prisoner at the Englewood police station, is said by Captain Shippy to have told a complete story of the $3,000 robbery and double murder at the Chicago City railway's receiving office early Sunday morning.

Sleuder, who is a former employee of the railway company, denied knowledge of the names of the other two men who took part in the crime, but the police believe he may be brought to reveal their identity.

Three detectives were sent to Iowa to search for the men who committed the murders and robbery. Information was received here that three men answering the description of the robbers were put off a passenger train near the Iowa and Illinois boundary line. They were riding on the blind baggage and when ordered to leave the train threatened to shoot the conductor, saying that they had already killed one man during the night.

The description of these men corresponds with that of the men described by Sleuder.

NO WIND, NO RACE.

Calms Compel Another Postponement of Cup Contest.

HIGHLANDS OF NAVESINK, N. J., Sept. 2.—The race scheduled between Reliance and Shamrock III. was declared off for lack of wind.

Despite the weather conditions that made it almost a certainty that no race could be sailed the yachts made for the starting line. The wind was not over three miles. They lay about the light ship for more than two hours in the hope of the breeze freshening, but the committee boat finally signaled the race was off. The yachts dropped their sails, picked up their tows and made for their anchorages at Sandy Hook.

The committee boat started up the bay, flying signals for a race today.

PROCLAMATION OUT.

Macedonia Announces a General Insurrection.

HEADED BY ZONCHEFF AND IANOFF

Severe Fighting Reported at Armensi, Where Turkish Troops Massacred the Entire Population.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 2.—The Macedonian revolutionaries awaited the anniversary of the sultan's accession to proclaim the long anticipated general insurrection in northern Macedonia, the proclamation of which has been issued, signed by all the members of the insurgent general staff. The new outbreak is headed by the famous Macedonian leaders General Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian committee, and Colonel Jankoff, who was wounded in the rising of 1902.

The new territory covers the district in the valley of the Struma, at the base of the Rhodope mountain chain and to the north of the river Vardar. Colonel Jankoff is directing the movements of the bands in the southern part.

News of severe fighting is still coming in. At the village of Armensi after a day's fighting the Turkish troops in the night time massacred the entire population of 180 men and 200 women. The Turks have also massacred the inhabitants of the village of Velesi.

It is reported that Hilmi Pasha, the inspector general for Macedonia, fears to leave his headquarters in the konak at Monastir. The insurgent leader Grueff in a letter to Hilmi Pasha demanded that he prevent the barbarous acts of the Turkish soldiers and Bashibazouks, otherwise the revolutionaries would massacre all the Turkish inhabitants. The insurgents have occupied the mountain pass of Gergele, on the main line from Salonika to Uskub, and Turkish troops have been sent to dislodge them.

The town of Malkoternovo is reported to be in a state of anarchy, the Turks plundering the houses and committing unspeakable atrocities on the women.

According to the latest Turkish official estimate, about 1,500 Bulgarians were killed in the recent fighting at Smilero, Nevesaka and Klissura. The Turkish losses are not stated. This estimate does not include further losses in the Smilero district. It is reported that 650 Bulgarians were killed in this two days' battle.

Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader, has left Salonika.

Former Ministers Arrested.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, Sept. 2.—MM. Gedeon and St. Victor, former ministers under the administration of President Sam, who are accused of being bearers of Haitian government securities fraudulently issued, have been arrested here. There is talk of the impending arrest of several persons of prominence. President Nord is determined to vigorously prosecute all those implicated in the frauds. Alleged extensive frauds in the issue of Haitian government securities involving about $200,000 were discovered several months ago.

Cruiser Made Required Speed.

PORTLAND, Me., Sept. 2.—The cruiser Cleveland, built at the Bath Iron works and designed for service in tropical waters, made her official trial run on the Cape Ann course with a four hour run against the navy department's requirement that she develop a speed of 16.5 knots under service conditions. The ship suffered one accident, a break in an air pump attached to the port engine, but made an average of 16.42 knots.

Mexican Desperado Killed.

TUCSON, Ariz., Sept. 2.—Fernando Valenzuela, for whose capture dead or alive a large reward was offered, has been shot and killed by Mexican rurales at Santa Cruz, Sonora. He was accused of having committed half a dozen murders along the border within a few months, the latest being that of Notches Rotches, a trader.

Liberated Leper Patient Dies.

SAN JUAN, Porto Rico, Sept. 2.—Jose Marrero, a nonleprous patient who was liberated from the leper colony as a result of the recent investigation, died of heart disease superinduced by joy at his release. The probing into the leprosy scandal continues to produce unpleasant developments.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 2, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printer's Ink.

One thing is quite sure, and that is that Sir Thomas won't afflict the public by writing a book.

Grover Cleveland, it is said, intends to make a tour through the once solid South as a "private citizen." Foxy grandpa!

That Plainfield is entirely free from contagious disease is welcome news. Few cities of the size can boast of such a condition.

Probably Jupiter Pluvius is holding off that baby parade at Asbury Park until President Roosevelt can be induced to be present.

"Mayor" William Smith, of New Market, has attained such fame that one is surprised that no theatrical manager has made him an offer.

The North Plainfield Board of Education should lose no time in remedying the crowded condition of the borough schools. It's time for action, not for discussion.

There'll be no need of the local Democrats going outside for oratorial fireworks. James E. Martine, of this city, and Samuel S. Swackhamer, of the borough, would make a great combination.

Dr. Woods, who has successfully kept in hiding for so long, must be striving to place himself in the sea serpeant's class. Hardly a week elapses but what comes the report that someone has seen him, but nevertheless the much wanted physician is still able to keep himself at large.

"When a bank at Franklin, in this State, began to advertise with neat cuts, taking fifteen inches of newspaper space every day, it was laughed at," says the Philadelphia Record in one of its daily talks on the value of advertising. Continuing it states: "Although the bank has no solicitors and advertises in no other way, this newspaper publicity has brought as many as 186 new depositors in a month. Now three of the local banks advertise."

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

Talk of having a representative football team of the borough is already afloat and it is stated that with the new material which Levering & Garrigues' Iron Works has brought in, a good team could be organized. A meeting will be called sometime in the near future to discuss the prospects of placing a good team in the field.

After the Borough Council and fire department had appointed committees and given them power to erect a tower and purchase a bell, it was hoped something would be done ere this, but as yet no move has been made.

JACKSON FOUND GUILTY.

Roxbury Murder Trial Ends In Conviction of Negro.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—After having been out less than two and a half hours the jury in the Roxbury murder trial returned a verdict of murder in the first degree against Charles Jackson, the negro. Jackson entered the courtroom smiling when it was announced that a verdict had been reached. He listened unmoved to the verdict and left, still smiling, on his way to the Tombs.

His lawyer, former Assistant District Attorney Bell, moved for a stay of sentence and a new trial. Recorder Goff denied the latter motion, but granted a stay of sentence until Friday.

Miss Lillian Thomasch, the young woman with whom Roxbury was walking on the night he was murdered, was not in court when the verdict was given. Lucy Johnson, the colored woman with whom Jackson lived, burst into tears when she heard the verdict.

Jackson listened to Recorder Goff's charge to the jury as coolly as though he were merely a spectator at the trial.

The accused negro's lawyers were apparently as little worried as their client. They seemed confident that an acquittal would be the result of the jury's delibertion. They declared that the police had presented a poor case and referred to several of the recorder's remarks during the trial as proof.

NEGRO PASTOR SHOT.

Rev. Planving Killed by Bullet In the Brain While Riding.

STAMFORD, Conn., Sept. 2.—The reported murder in Oscar, La., of the Rev. La Forest A. Planving, head of the Industrial School For Colored People in that town, will be made the subject of a communication from the Rev. C. J. Ryder, D. D., of this city, corresponding secretary of the American Missionary association, to Governor Heard of Louisiana. Dr. Ryder said that his information about the murder was limited to a brief dispatch containing the bare announcement of the fact.

While on his way home Sunday night on the main road near False river he was fired upon from a cotton field. The first shot struck the horse which the negro was riding, and the second struck Planving in the back of the head, penetrating his brain and causing instant death. It is claimed that Planving had been making incendiary speeches to the negroes of the community, advising them not to work for or to have anything to do with white people, and it is believed that these alleged utterances had much to do with the assassination.

Booker T. Washington was to have visited this vicinity next month as the guest of Planving and deliver a series of lectures.

SCOURGE IN CUBA.

Terrible Disease Spreading Over the Island.

HAVANA, Sept. 2.—Once more Cuba is the victim of a scourge that may, unless measures are discovered to check its ravages, almost depopulate the island.

A terrible disease, which has so far baffled the best medical skill of the health department, is rapidly spreading over the island, and all measures to check it have so far been unavailing. Appeal has been made to the United States for help, and the most eminent pathologists of the Columbia and Jefferson medical faculties have concentrated their energies to discover and isolate the germs.

The disease in many of its symptoms resembles the bubonic plague, but it is much more swift in its infection and more deadly in its effects. It first appeared and was recognized in Daiquiri, province of Santiago, where the plants of the Spanish-American Steel company are located, and it spread among the miners with terrific rapidity.

Eugenia Burch Won.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Bright, cool weather drew a big crowd to the Sheepshead track, and the talent had a profitable day, as favorites and second choices divided the card. Eugenia Burch, admirably ridden by Fuller, won the Dolphin stakes for three-year-olds by a head from Proper. Eugenia Burch was played down from 5 to 2 to 11 to 5. Dolly Spanker, from the Keene stable, won the Partridge stakes, with Jocund second and Grenade third.

General G. B. Wright Is Dead.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 2.—General George B. Wright, one of the best known men in Ohio, is dead here of pneumonia, aged eighty-seven years. He was prominent in state and national affairs and held office under both the state and the United States governments.

Robbers Got Keys Only.

KINGSTON, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The post office in the grocery store of Charles Dumond at Old Hurley has been entered by burglars, who secured all the keys of the mail bags. Nothing else of value was taken.

Lucas on Trial For Murder.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., Sept. 2.—The trial of Clark Lucas has opened at Lowville before Justice Watson M. Rogers. Lucas is charged with having shot and killed Thomas Carroll, his father-in-law.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

THE NEW WOMAN

She Holds the Fort

A CLIPPING from an English magazine announces that recently an interviewer called on four American literary women of national reputation. Each of the four had by her own genius and perseverance achieved enviable financial results. All were comfortably well off, all were distinguished, all ought to have been happy. To each the interviewer put the question, so the magazine says, Which would you rather be, clever or beautiful? And the answer in every case was, so it is said, Beautiful. Well, I don't believe it. The story has the earmarks of British invention in the word "clever." "Clever" does not commonly mean gifted in the United States. Again, I am sure an American woman "clever" enough to make a national reputation for herself would be no such fool as is here implied. The "clever" American woman knows that any one of her sex not actually deformed or unnatural in face and figure can make herself attractive looking. The means are all around her. They are air, water, exercise, sunshine, right food and good temper—cheap and plentiful, you see. Perennial youth and good looks lie in these. There is beauty of soul within and transcending all. That is in reach of every woman who will recognize that all life is one; that when she appreciates the good qualities in another individual and generously grants them she manifests these same qualities in herself. The generous nature that sees the best in others and ignores or refuses to criticise what seems unlovely, that shuts out anger and envy as vipers, will in time make the ugliest girl grow to be a beautiful woman. It has been proved so many a time.

Two men, A and B, were friends and members of the same club. Both had yachts, and A had a boathouse. B sailed into the harbor and anchored his yacht fifty feet away from A's boathouse. A considered evidently that he owned the ocean, and he roared at B, "Take that boat away!" The boat could do no possible harm, except to A's sense of ownership of the ocean, and B roared back, "Guess not!" A ran and got his gun. "Take it away or I'll cut your cable," making as if he would shoot the cable in two. "You couldn't hit a barn door," replied B. This insult was unpardonable. A whanged away and shot six times, but his workmanship was worse than a woman's when she tries to throw a stone. B laughed derisively. A sprang on shore and B sprang on shore, and they clinched and fought and fought till spectators separated them. Then B had A arrested and haled before a magistrate. But it's only women that become excited and quarrel over trifles! Oh, yes!

A very gifted young sculptress, only twenty-three years old, has come prominently before the art world in Vienna. She is Ilse Conrat. A monument to Brahms, the composer, which she made calls forth general admiration because of its graceful proportions and the wonderful expression she has been able to impress upon the marble. A great career is before Ilse Conrat, German art critics predict.

A young man and woman, Fritz Sage Darrow and May Godall, belonging to the theosophical cult, were lately married, themselves performing the wedding ceremony, somewhat after the manner of the gentle Quakers, or Friends. A civil contract, signed in the presence of witnesses and a notary, completed the legal ceremony. For the rest, each took the other by the hand and pronounced poetic vows, ending with an invocation to the universal power the theosophists believe in, as follows: "O my divinity! Blend thou with me, that from the corruptible I may become incorruptible; that from imperfection I may become perfection; that from darkness I may go forth into light!"

Cultivate habitual silence, especially if you are a quick, nervous person. Don't even think talk. You will find silence infinitely restful and soothing.

Those women who everlastingly nag and meddle with their children don't deserve any children. There are women who continually scold and jerk their poor little ones for nothing at all, especially away from home. It seems as though some evil spirit possesses them and they want to show off their puny authority. Anyway half the time when children are reproved or punished it is the mother who needs the reproof and punishment, not the poor child.

Once more let me say it—don't make your ailments a topic of conversation. That style of talk has quite gone out of fashion.

CHAPTER VII.

A REVELATION.

Once on the road, Bessemer and his men put spurs to their horses and galloped at a lively rate. Scouts had reported that the enemy was resting not far off. Bessemer, riding at the head of his mounted dragoons, the perspiration streaming down his red face, his eyes sparkling with anticipation of victory, his well-knit figure held erect in the saddle with British military stiffness, looked what he was—a combination of force and fire.

A turn in the road brought them in sight of a stream. The troopers gave a shout of triumph, broken by Bessemer's ringing command. In the water were nude men, bathing and swimming and sporting; along its edge, on the opposite side, were others, stripped to their waists, doing their "family" washing; while farther up the bank, under such shade as the sparse cotton-wood trees gave, were yet more, smoking or napping or eating. Most of them had their rifles beside them and their horses close by, but it availed them little.

Their cry of astonishment, chagrin and terror beat the hot air ere that of Bessemer's men died away. The naked wretches in the water were cut down before they could escape. Across the stream with eager haste, yet with perfect order, went the British, carrying all before them. In vain did Sumter start from his nap under one of his baggage-wagons, seize the nearest horse by its mane, saddleless and bridleless as it was, and try to rally his soldiers. The day was lost, and though the English colonel did not capture the "brigand," as he had boasted he would, he failed in little else he set out to do; and, indeed, few save Sumter himself escaped; not enough to warrant pursuit in that appalling heat.

The British returned the way they had come, exulting. Ever thoughtful of his troops, though he was himself most anxious to get back to the Ellery plantation and make that his stopping place for the night, Bessemer perceived that the heat and the sharp, hard ride since dawn had put considerable strain upon his men. Noting a large, comfortable-looking house setting some distance off the road, surrounded by a fine grove of trees, he asked, "Can you tell me, Edward, who lives yonder? Methinks it is a good place for an afternoon rest. Be they rebels or tories, we shall become their uninvited guests, but I should like to learn which they are, that I may know whether to request or command."

"They are tories," the boy answered eagerly, "as loyal to our king as my own family; and they will make you a gladly welcome, I am sure, as my people have." Bessemer perceived that under the summer flush which already covered his cheek there rose a richer wave of crimson.

"Aha, a sweetheart residing there," he thought, and with a sympathetic feeling turned his horse off the road and entered the gate, which stood conveniently open.

The house was not the imposing mansion the Ellery homestead was, but there was a warm southern welcome awaiting the intruders and a piece of news mightily to Bessemer's liking as well. A courier, riding hard to overtake the British commander, had likewise stopped there for rest, and scarce had the English colonel dismounted ere he handed him a dispatch from Cornwallis conveying the news of Gates' defeat.

There were three daughters of the house, all of them vivacious young women, as Bessemer soon discovered. "Oh, how delightful," they exclaimed, when the contents of the dispatch became known; "two great victories in one day; think of it!"

"Not in one day, ladies," Bessemer reminded them. "Gen. Cornwallis won his on the sixteenth."

"It does not matter; we hear of them the same day," the youngest persisted. "We assuredly should do something to celebrate so great a piece of fortune. If we could only have a dance," she added, with a suggestive look in the direction of her mother. "Mamma, why can't we induce Col. Bessemer and his officers to remain here for the night, and let us move the furniture from the big west room and have a dance there? Meanwhile, we could scour the neighborhood for girls. Edward, do you not think Jane would come?"

"Nay, I have a better plan," the lieutenant answered. "My mother made Col. Bessemer and myself promise ere we left that, if we routed Sumter in time, we should return home and spend the night there. They will be expecting us, and my father will be most grievously disappointed if we do not come; but why not have a dance on our lawn, as we did the summer before I went to England? Remember you, Peggy, what fun we had?"

"Fun? Oh, it was delicious," she answered, clasping her hands in ecstasy.

The plan pleased Bessemer better than the first proposed, and so it was arranged. He encamped his little army and most of his prisoners in one of the Ellery fields that evening. One of the prisoners he considered too valuable a capture to risk thus, and he besought Mrs. Ellery for a special room for him. As a prisoner, he was second only to Sumter himself.

"Now, dear madam," he said to his hostess, when these arrangements had been completed, "you must let me take the burden of our frolic tonight off your hands. I want this to be my festivity, given in honor of your neighboring Tory friends. 'Tis sufficient that you grant us the privilege of using your beautiful grounds, and I shall see to it that their loveliness is not marred."

Mrs. Ellery made a feint of reluctant concession to this, but in truth she was not sorry to wash her hands of all but the indoor preparations. She and Jane immediately set about seeing to the making of cakes, salads, and various confections to serve as refreshments.

Dressed in the freshest of the evening gowns left from her last visit to Charleston, Miss Ellery made a stately and handsome figure that evening as her mammy tucked a high, jewelled comb into her complicated coiffure and gave the last pats and touches to her costume.

Carriages began to roll up the avenue, and Jane descended the stairs that she might assist her stepmother and Col. Bessemer in receiving their guests.

None of Bessemer's enemies, and he had not few, could deny to him the qualities of taste and energy. The combination of these with that fine executive ability which enabled him always to get full service out of those under him had insured the success of his dance. The scene was beautiful. Among the trees strolled many pairs of lovers. Upon the rustic benches sat the chaperons and elderly guests, while the tarpaulin was gay with dancers moving in the stately measures of the minuet or revelling in the sprightlier movements of livelier dances.

There were beautiful women in plenty; southern women with bright eyes, animated faces and rich voices, dressed in the beautiful costumes of the day, the low-cut bodices, the flowing skirts, the hair waving over ears and caught by high, jewelled combs at the back, the pointed-toed slippers with flashing buckles, the flirtatious fans and cobwebbed handkerchiefs.

And as for the men, they were as gallant a lot as one would wish to see; the British officers smothered in red coats and gold lace; the civilians in knee-breeches, ruffled shirts and silk-lined coats.

Well pleased, Bessemer moved among his guests, dropping a pleasant word here, a merry jest there, but never quite losing sight of the younger hostess. He was aware that beneath the smiling graciousness with which she was assisting him there lurked a certain constraint, and he could well guess the cause.

One lady, rather exceeding the age when it was fashionable to be found still unmarried in those days, tapped the colonel on the arm with her fan as he was passing the bench where she sat.

"Tell me, dear colonel, how many prisoners did you take to-day? A marvelous number, from all I hear, and they do say you have a most mysterious one whom you have hid in Mrs. Ellery's garret. Nay, they go farther and state that it is Jane's lover, Godfrey Worthington. Poor Jane! It would go hard with her if ill were to befall Godfrey; they have been devoted to each other for so many years, though they do say her stepmother will not hear to the match. Tell me"—she dropped her voice to a confidential whisper—"is it really he you have?"

"Madam," Bessemer answered, gathering himself together, "I know naught of this Worthington of whom you speak, but I should say that the gentleman whom I hold as prisoner were more suited to be Miss Ellery's father than her lover, since he is a man fully 60 years of age, white-headed and gray-bearded. His name is Pierce."

WIFE WAS FAITHFUL

Clips Beard Off Man Who Wanted Her to Elope.

Victim Will Sue Modern Delilah for Ten Thousand Dollars, Alleged Value of His Lost Hirsute Adornment.

And then, the lover;
Sighing like furnace, with a woeful ballad
Made to his mistress' eyebrows: Then a soldier;
Full of strange oaths, and bearded like the pard,
Jealous in honor, sudden and quick in quarrel—

And then—but the rest almost is too sad to tell. No longer is Anton Opello bearded like the pard; no longer does he sing sad ballads to his mistress' eyebrow. His song, if he sings, is a dirge dedicated to his own whiskers. They are gone, and so is his happiness. When love flew out of the window, the whiskers went out of the back door.

As Samson had his Delilah, so did Opello have his Anna Pindros. She has a boarding house in South Chicago. Opello lives two blocks away. And two blocks isn't far when two people were playmates and sweethearts in Poland. At any rate, Opello, whose home is at 8207 Houston avenue, usually found his way to the Pindros home, 8327 Baltimore avenue, several times each week.

There was only one cloud on the horizon of Opello's happiness. That was a husband. His name is Michael Pindros, and he is broad shouldered, strong of arm, fiery of disposition, and couldn't be more healthy if he fulfilled the promises of breakfast food advertisements. For exercise he works in one of the South Chicago steel plants.

Well, for a time all went well. Opello was content to speak of the days when he wore the czar's uniform and Anna admired him, and the nights when he walked beside her from the village to her father's cottage. Although there is no authority for this it is presumed that Anton looked into Anna's eyes and remarked:

"Ah, those were happy days!"

But speaking soft somethings did not content Anton. He longed to claim his sweetheart of his home country for his own. Always, just as he was basking in the sunlight of her smiles, the husband would appear in the doorway to cast a shadow upon him. At last Anton decided he couldn't wait for this cloud to roll by.

So he proposed to Mrs. Pindros that they fly together. He pictured purple poppy fields of forgetfulness, where love would—

But just then something, or, rather, somebody, hit Anton. He doesn't remember just what did happen, except that when he opened his eyes Mrs. Pindros was sitting on his chest.

"Dog!" that is the first word he remembers hearing. He didn't listen hard, though, for he was watching a pair of shears which had been on the sewing table.

"Bang" went his head back on the floor, as he tried to raise it. And with one hand on his forehead and her whole weight on the place where he would wear a protector if he were a baseball catcher, the other hand came near his face.

"Snip-snip" went the scissors, and before poor Anton knew it one side of his mustache, his pride and joy, was severed.

"Snip-snip" went the shears again, and he felt the zephyrs penetrate his chin, long protected by his luxuriant beard.

Then, like Samson, he made a mighty effort and threw her from him. But as he struggled to his feet he saw her seize the tufts of hair and toss them from the back door into the alley.

According to the Chicago Inter Ocean Mrs. Pindros will have to explain a charge of disorderly conduct to Justice Foster, for Anton secured a warrant for her arrest as soon as he left her house.

But this is not all. Anton, who considers himself quite a beau, declares that the loss of his whiskers has caused other women who looked upon him not unkindly to turn from him, and says he will sue Mrs. Pindros for damages. He thinks $10,000 barely would recompense him.

"Ah, those were whiskers," he says, sorrowfully, as he reaches his hand to the place from which they used to grow.

Big Tree in Kentucky.

The largest poplar log ever taken out of Letcher county, Kentucky, has just been taken from the farm of Isaac Potter, a Boone's Fork farmer, and floated down the Kentucky river. The tree in question contained three 16-foot cuts, and the top cut contained 3,500 feet of lumber and was nearly seven feet in diameter. It required four yoke of oxen to pull the logs from the mountain side. The tree netted the owner nearly $200.

FOOTBALL.

An important meeting of the Alis Club will be held tomorrow evening at the club house on Arlington avenue. Among other matters which will be brought up will probably be that of choosing a manager for the football team. Roy Phillips has been mentioned for the position and it is believed that he is the choice of the majority of the members.

TENNIS.

Only one match of championship tennis was played yesterday afternoon at the Cedar Brook Tennis Club. The courts were heavy with mud and extremely slippery, making accurate playing impossible. A. E. ELECTION BOARD'S CHANGES

UNION COUNTY BOARD TAKES ACTION TO FILL VACANCIES.

Local Boards to Count the Tickets in City Primaries Tuesday—Board to Meet Primary Day Morning.

William T. Banks, Democrat, of the Second district, First ward, of this city, has resigned his position as member of the city board of elections. His resignation was received by the Union County Board of Elections at their session Monday afternoon at Elizabeth. Mr. Banks made no suggestion as to an available man to fill the vacancy.

The county board met for the purpose of filling vacancies in the local boards. The appointment of Frederick C. Kelly, Republican, Second district, Second ward, Summit, was revoked, and William H. Coggeshall was appointed in his place. Timothy J. Scott, Democrat, of the same district, wrote that he expected to be in Buffalo on the day of the primaries, but no action was taken in his case. John H. Sauerbrunn, Republican, Second district, Ninth ward, Elizabeth, resigned, and August G. Bauermann was substituted. Edward H. Burley, Democrat, Second district, Cranford township, resigned, and Sanderson S. Ruth was appointed in his place. The appointment of Frank P. Price, Democrat, Third ward, Rahway, was revoked because Mr. Price had moved away, and Frederick Acken was appointed.

A question arose at the session as to who should count the tickets in city primary next Tuesday. The board was unanimous in its opinion that all should count all tickets. Some of the local election officers had thought the Republicans were to count the Republican tickets, and the Democrats the Democratic vote.

The board will meet again Tuesday morning, September 8, at 11 o'clock.

MUST BE FOURTEEN TO WORK

STATE'S NEW CHILD LABOR LAW WENT INTO EFFECT YESTERDAY.

Governor Murphy to See That Law is Strictly Enforced — The Duties of Factory Inspector.

Commencing yesterday it will be unlawful in the future for any boy or girl under the age of fourteen years to work in a factory or workshop in New Jersey. This condition is the result of the law passed by the last Legislature, raising from twelve to fourteen years the age at which boys may be legally employed in such occupations as are offered them in the various manufacturing interests of the State. The law heretofore fixed the minimum age for girls at fourteen years, but by some sort of discrimination not fully explained, permitted boys to be put to work in manufacturing establishments at the age of twelve years.

Governor Murphy, in response, has taken the stand that he is unalterably opposed to the employment of young children in factories, and has publicly asserted his determination to see that the new law is properly enforced. The State factory inspector, too, has expressed his determination to see that the law is carried out to the letter, and the result of these combined promises is now awaited with some interest.

Mrs. Annie Green, of Brooklyn, is visiting among friends in this city.

Mrs. Minnie Battin, of East Front street, has returned after spending two months with relatives in Pennsylvania.

PLAINFIELD IS FREE FROM ANY DISEASE

No Contagion in the City at Present According to Board of Health.

BOARD HOLDS SESSION

NO FORMALDEHYDE IN FORTY SAMPLES OF MILK.

Births, Marriages and Deaths During August—Nuisances Abated—Considering the Garbage Collection.

Plainfield at the present time is entirely free from contagious disease. There is not a single house under quarantine, as was announced yesterday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Health. During the past month, but five cases of diphtheria, two of typhoid fever and two of tuberculosis have been reported.

It was stated by Mr. Thurlow, milk inspector, that the warm weather of July and August has made the number of bacteria in many of the milks sold in the city unusually high. In two or three cases gross carelessness was indicated by the fact that more than 1,500,000 bacteria per cubic centimeter were found contained in the milks. Forty samples of milk were analysed, and while some, as stated, were poor, not one contained formaldehyde in any form.

There have been six marriages in the city during August, nineteen births and thirty-two deaths, according to the certificates received by the Board of Health. Seventeen nuisances reported during the month were abated.

The committee to investigate means of improvement in the collection and disposal of garbage reported progress. Municipal control is being considered and also some means for the temporary relief of the present poor methods in the collection of garbage by the licensed collectors.

There were present at the meeting Dr. B. VanD. Hedges, Charles Dunham and Fred. W. Dunn.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

The regular weekly prayer meeting tonight at the Grace M. E. Church will be led by the pastor.

There will be a business meeting of the W. C. T. U. in the rooms on Madison avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30.

Commencing Sunday and continuing every Sunday during the month, Rev. Dr. J. H. Chambliss, of Orange, will occupy the pulpit at the First Baptist Church.

Special music is to be rendered at Trinity Reformed church, Sunday, marking the reopening of the church after its recent overhauling. The chorus choir will be led by Horace J. Martin.

There will be a meeting of the American Sabbath Tract Society, Tuesday, Sept. 22, at the residence of Stephen Babcock, 344 West Thirty-third street, New York, for the election of officers and an executive board, and such other business as may come before the meeting. The call for the meeting has been issued by the president, J. F. Hubbard.

Jim's Expert Knowledge.

Farmer Orator James E. Martine has declared in favor of Tom Johnson as the Democratic candidate for the Presidency. When the news reaches Lincoln, Neb., it will be taken more seriously than it has been in New Jersey. Mr. Martine has explained what some people may call his treachery to his friend Bryan by saying: "What's the use of nominating a man who can't win?" The farmer orator ought to be able to answer his own question better than anybody else. He has been the losing candidate of his party in Union county so many times that he holds the record in the State.—Newark Evening News.

A. V. D. Honeyman, of Grove street, who has been abroad on his regular summer trip, is expected home today.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. ASSAULT, ACT OF MADMAN?

Gassner Said to Have Declared That He Might Have Attacked Chamberlain.

IF SO, WHILE INSANE

Hammer Said to Have Been Found in His Trunk—Hearing to be Held Tomorrow Afternoon—Prosecutor English at Work.

The case against Walter Scott Gassner, charged with atrocious assault upon his brother-in-law, Herbert Chamberlain, will not be brought up this afternoon before Justice Huff as expected. Prosecutor of Pleas Nicholas O. J. English, of Elizabeth, has been called away on other business and will not be able to prosecute the case until tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Gassner has for the most part maintained his attitude of silence and stolidity since his arrest. He is now in the County jail at Elizabeth in charge of Prosecutor English and his assistant John K. English. To these officials Gassner has reiterated his declaration of innocence. It is said that he has admitted to them, however, that he might have committed the assault, but says that, if he did, it was while he was temporarily deranged and unaware of what he was doing. Gassner's wife was killed by the cars about three months ago and he says that since that time he has been completely unnerved. He does not appear to be in this condition, however, the police having been chiefly impressed with his coolness and apparent indifference since he has been in their charge. Nor, according to Undertaker Cole, did he show any excessive emotion at the time of his wife's death.

Gassner's story as told more in detail to Prosecutor English is that he was awakened in the middle of the night Saturday by groans. He sat up in bed and turned on a small battery lamp in the room, by the light of which he discovered the head and shoulders of a man whom he could not recognize. The man, he said, ran down stairs and Gassner followed him through the hall into the kitchen and out of the back door. He then returned to his brother's room and found him unconscious.

Assistant Prosecutor English hinted yesterday that there was evidence which would indicate very strongly that the prisoner knows more about the assault than he has told. There are some suspicious circumstances, he admitted, that it was necessary to withhold at present, but he pointed to the fact that Gassner had raised no commotion at the door, when he claims to have chased an intruder into the street; that Gassner is eager to point out robbery as the motive and footprints on the kitchen window sill, where he says the prisoner got in, while it was not necessary for the man to step on this sill; that a man who commits a robbery does not usually begin by killing a sleeping man; that a robbery will generally begin, if he has to kill any one, by killing the person nearest where the money is. The money was not in the room where the attempted murder was committed. The assault was probably committed with a hammer. Chamberlain's skull was crushed, and a plasterer's hammer, such a weapon as the wounds indicate might have caused it, it is said, was found in Gassner's trunk.

The fact that Gassner says that he allowed the man whom he chased to the kitchen door to escape without uttering a cry has seemed especially strange and suspicious to the police. When Gassner showed Assistant Prosecutor J. K. English the mud on the window sill where he said the burglar must have entered, Mr. English tried to get in by the same way, but found that he could not accomplish it without putting his feet on the sill and to do so was an almost impossible acrobatic feat.

Gassner's burglary story is further discredited by the fact that if a burglar entered Chamberlain's room he must have passed through other rooms first, and the authorities consider it much more likely that, if he was there to rob and murder, he would have entered Gassner's room which was more accessible from the hall.

Gassner is a carpenter by trade and

THE FIRST BAND CONCERT

PROGRAMME OF MUSICAL FEAST IN THE BOROUGH TONIGHT.

Ernest R. Ball and Albert Sweet to be the Soloists—LaVere's Brass Band.

Everything is in readiness for the first public band concert in North Plainfield at 8 o'clock, at the corner of Watchung and Fairview avenues.

The concert will be somewhat of an experiment. It is Mayor Smalley's plan to make free public band concerts in North Plainfield a regular institution each summer, providing the people show the proper amount of enthusiasm. The programme as announced by Mr. LaVere follows:

Part I—March, "The Club Fellow," Johns; overture, "Raymond," Thomas; concert waltz, "Soul of the Rose," Frantzen; cornet solo selected; medley, "The Climax," O'Hare; vocal solo, (a) "Longing for You Sweetheart," (b) "Sing Me a Song of the South," Casey, by Ernest R. Ball.

Part II—Selection from Faust, Gounod; descriptive, "Forge in the Forest," Michaelis; selections from "The Wizard of Oz," Kieljius; rag time, "Poor Lil Mose," Amsted.

Ernest R. Ball, a baritone, Albert Sweet, a cornet soloist, will be present.

MISSIONARY WORK IN BURMAH

MISS WATSON SPEAKS TO FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH W. F. M. S.

Home Life of the Burmese, Her Subject—Habits of Dress—Women Wear Little Clothing.

The members of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist Church, last night listened to an interseting address by Miss Isabelle Watson, formerly of this city, now engaged in missionary work among the Burmese. The occasion was the regular quarterly meeting of the society held in the church Sunday-school rooms.

Miss Watson chose for her sujeot the "Home Life of the Burmese" and confined her discussion almost wholly to a consideration of the habits of dress of the Burmese. She said that the women in Burmah wear practically no clothes at all until such time as they are able to weave them for themselves. The manufacture of cotton is one of the leading industries of the people, but is made entirely for home use and woven on hand looms which are a regular piece of furniture in a Burmese household. The looms are worked solely by the women. The cotton cloths that are made are rough, but strong and servicable and, loosely draped about the figure, make a not unattractive garment.

CONTESTS BEGIN AT SEA GIRT

CAPTAIN WILLIAM B. MARTIN, OF COMPANY K, A PROMINENT FIGURE.

Twenty-Nine Matches of the New Jersey State Rifle Association Commenced—The Programme.

Only two of the matches of the National Rifle Association were begun today at Sea Girt—the "members" match at 200 and 500 yards and the "Seabury" long-distance match at the 800, 900 and 1,000 yard ranges. Today's shooting was remarkably good, and some excellent scores were recorded. No matches were completed.

Twenty-nine matches of the New Jersey State Rifle Association were also begun. These matches and none but the final scores will be given out.

Some idea of the vast increase in interest in rifle shooting which the patronage of the United States Government has afforded may be obtained from the entries registered for the Wimbledon. Last year there were forty-two, this year there are 150.

Tomorrow's matches include a continuation of the individual matches begun today and the interstate regimental team match, the Columbia trophy match and the New Jersey National Guard team match, in which Captain William B. Martin, of Company K, will figure.

Boroughite to Speak.

BOROUGH DEMOCRATS ARE AT LOGGERHEADS

Action of Walter Linbarger in Filing Nominations From Both Districts the Cause.

HITS AT SWACKHAMER

CARNEY CLAIMS THAT FACTION IS ATTEMPTING TO OUST HIM.

The Situation From Different Standpoints—Linbarger Says He Acted Within Legal Rights.

The two Democratic factions in North Plainfield are on the verge of war over a march which has been stoled by Walter Linbarger and others upon the faction headed by David Carney. The latter declares that Linbarger, who made nominations for delegates in both districts in North Plainfield, did so in violation of any legal right and that he names delegates for a district in which he does not live.

As a result Carney accuses Linbarger and Assemblyman S. S. Swackhamer of double dealing and claims that it is really a plan to oust him from the political field in North Plainfield.

When seen last evening, David Carney said to a reporter for The Daily Press: "I called upon Mr. Swackhamer and offered him the privilege of naming two candidates for delegates to the County Convention from my district. Mr. Swackhamer thanked me and said that my judgment was superior to his in the matter and said he would be satisfied with whoever I would select.

"When I got the nine names on the petition I saw John T. Case and asked him to sign. He said that he signed one the day before for Walter Linbarger. I then questioned him as to who the delegates were and he replied that he did not know. I was in doubt whether or not a petition was on file. He then told me that William Kiely and himself were the delegates. I said that I would have the required number of names appended and I would see to it that the names were those of representative citizens. I nominated Charles Keller and George Bird, from my district, the first.

"On Monday I told Mr. Swackhamer of the state of affairs. Linbarger had no right to file or sign a petition from my district. Mr. Swackhamer replied that he (Linbarger) did not sign the petition from the First district but that the petition was signed by W. J. Conroy. Mr. Swackhamer had already taken the acknowledgements from Linbarger and Conroy when I called upon him and offered to allow him to name the delegates from the First district on Saturday. He did not inform me of this fact until Monday morning. The Democratic voters can easily select those better fitted to represent the First district in the approaching convention."

Mr. Linbarger said to the reporter: "I made the nominations in the First and Second districts. In so doing I acted under the law and within the rights of any legal voter. Any voter can make nominations. I was not supposed to know what Carney was going to do. I did not file my nominations until Saturday afternoon when I filed them both at the same time. The men I nominated were: First district, John T. Case and William Kiely; Second district, Louis R. Bird and Charles Harden. The matter of making nominations does not necessarily rest with the County committeeman from each district and I cannot see where I have encroached upon Carney's territory by making the nominations. If I had not filed the nominations as I did the first district would not have been represented in the county convention.

"When I made the nominations I did not know for a certainty that any petition would be presented from the First district and accordingly I had the paper drawn up so as to be on the safe side."

NEW PRIMARY LAW'S DETRIMENTAL EFFECT

Act Places Too Much Power in Corrupt Hands in Somerset County.

BOSSES WILL CONTROL

SOMERVILLE HOLD BALANCE OF POWER IN REPUBLICAN AFFAIRS.

Townships Polling Light Republican Vote to Have Little Influence—Formerly Each Township Had Five Delegates.

An old time Republican politician in North Plainfield declares that the new primary law will have detrimental effect in Somerset County. In his opinion full consideration was not given the new law before passage and he deplores the centralization of power which it makes possible. To a reporter for The Daily Press the boroughite in question said yesterday:

"Is it true that the effect of the new primary law will be beneficial? Take for example the County of Somerset. There are nine townships in that county. In seven of them the population is relatively small and is made up almost exclusively of farmers, most of them descendants of old revolutionary stock. Honest, God-fearing men from whose homes goes out an influence which represents the best of that which has made America what it is. The other two townships are North Plainfield and Bridgewater, and they contain all the towns in the county.

"In Bridgewater are located Raritan and Bound Brook, with their large factories employing thousands of foreigners, largely Hungarians, Slavs, and Italians; and Somerville also with its large foreign and ignorant colored element.

"Under the rules adopted a half century ago by the Republican party, and closely followed down to this time, each of the nine townships in the county was entitled, without regard to population, to five delegates to County Conventions. The result of this rule was that the convention consisted of forty-five delegates, every township being on equal footing in that respect, and a combination of the majority of the nine townships was in every instance necessary to nominate a candidate for any county office. Experience showed the wisdom of this rule. Nominations, instead of being gobbled up by the large and populous townships, were, to a certain extent, distributed about the county in some sort of rotation, and, generally, to the best men available. Then, also, the townships being equal in representation in conventions, without regard to population, the representative men in the smaller townships had weight in making nominations and directing party policies and were encouraged to work hard for party success.

"All that will be changed under the new primary law. Delegates must now be apportioned to each township by election districts, in proportion to the vote cast. By this method the total number of delegates in convention is reduced to forty-two. The township of Bridgewater, which formerly had five delegates like all the rest, will now have fourteen, while some of the rural townships will be reduced to two or even one delegate. Bridgewater, by combining with two other townships, can control all nominations, while to prevent Bridgewater's dictation of nominations, seven out of the eight other townships must combine solidly against her. In other words, Bridgewater township with its large foreign and corruptible vote is practically put in control of all county conventions and nominations. Somerville dominates Bridgewater township, and it follows that the eight other townships must take just what the Somerville "bosses" may choose to deal out to them, in the way of nominations. They must needs "be good" if they hope to receive any favors at all.

"In theory it is right that majority should rule, and thus that the greater should control the less. But in politics this generally results in centralization of power in the few who control the machine in the largest municipality of the political district, just as is illustrated above. It has been ordinarily the best and most representative men of the rural townships who have made their influence felt in county politics, for its betterment. When they come to realize that their voice will no longer be potent in con-

SOMERSET'S FARMERS AT TRI-COUNTY FAIR

Flood of Oratory Let Loose at Black River Falls' Successful Grange.

7,000 IN ATTENDANCE

ASSEMBLYMAN SWACKHAMER SPEAKS ON OUR VICIOUS LAWS.

North Plainfielder Tells How He Opposed Bad Measures—Rev. J. B. Cleaver and John B. Smith Interest the Crowd.

Morris, Hunterdon and Somerset were represented at the tri-county farmer's picnic held at Black River Falls yesterday. Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer, of North Plainfield; John B. Smith, of New Brunswick; Rev. J. B. Cleaver, of Bound Brook, and Erastus Potter, of Port Oram, N. J., were the principal speakers. It is stated that there were no less than 7,000 farmers at the grange.

Mr. Swackhamer's address treated of "Our Vicious Laws" and in part he said:

"In my discussion of the measure introduced in the last Legislature, I do not mean to reflect upon the great body of the Republican party, to the rank and file of which I cheerfully accord a high degree of virtue and respectability. I am proud to say that I have numerous friends in that party whom I hold in the highest estimation, and who, I am certain have the best interests of the State at heart. Indeed it was through the co-operation of such high minded and disinterested Republicans with the Democratic minority of the Legislature last winter, that many vicious bills were defeated, and it was against their protest that some were passed. It is not my purpose therefor, to decry the Republican party as such, and I believe it is the duty of all friends of truth, justice and patriotism, to acknowledge merit everywhere and to seek by honest means to enlist it in the cause of right. And feeling conscious of the imperative need of political regeneration and reform. I hold out the hand of good fellowship to every citizen, on the altar of whose hearts burns the fire of true patriotism, regardless of his party affiliations. * * *

"I believe that Jefferson and Lincoln were right when they said that the American people might be trusted to govern themselves. I believe that they possess the requisite intelligence and virture to maintain the great political principles which underlie Constitutional government. I believe that the Constitution will endure when the last crown has crumbled and the last throne has mouldered into dust; but it has been said that 'The price of liberty is eternal vigilance,' and this truth has been illustrated by the character of the recent legislation of this State.

"New Jersey is celebrated as the seat of numerous and powerful corporations, and these corporations when properly controlled by law are a source of wealth and power and prestage to the State; but when an attempt is made to enact laws which give them unreasonable powers so that they can infringe upon the rights of private citizens and shape legislation to subserve their own selfish ends, it is time to ask: 'On what flesh has this our Caesar fed that he has grown so great.' God give us men. A time like this demands strong minds, great hearts, true faith and willing hands. Men whom the lust of office does not kill; men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; men who have honor, men who will not lie.

"The times demand men in public office who understand and will defend the interests of the people. Men who cannot be bribed or intimidated. Men who realize that an official oath covers the poor man's hut as well as the rich man's palace. Men who will not bow down and worship the golden calf. Men who realize that partisanship is narrower than patriotism. Men who know that free institutions are of greater wealth than the emolument of office. Men who in public office will uphold at all times the eternal right."

Case Dismissed.

Joseph Farise, an expressman, arrested on a charge of violating the city ordinance with reference to the privilege of soliciting baggage at the station, was dismissed from the city court this morning by Judge Runyon.

Farewell Reception.

A farewell party was held last evening at the home of Mrs. A. Wilson, on West Fourth street, in honor of Mrs. N. P. Dotson, of Brooklyn.

MR. WEEKS BORNE TO GRAVE

FUNERAL SERVICES HERE FOLLOWED BY BURIAL IN BROOKLYN.

Rev. Dr. Yerkes Officiated at Services Here and Rev. J. F. Carson Officiated at Cemetery.

Friends and relatives of the late Albertus A. Weeks gathered at his West Seventh street home yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock to attend the funeral services. Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, pastor-emeritus of the First Baptist Church, conducted the services, which were touchingly simple in form, and spoke feelingly of the life of Mr. Weeks while a resident of this city and of his successful business career in New York. Floral tributes were numerous and of great beauty and among them were several handsome pieces, one of which, a large floral cross of white and pink rose buds, came as a tribute from the employes in Mr. Weeks' New York store.

The interment was made in the Cypress Hills Cemetery, Brooklyn, at 1 o'clock this afternoon. Rev. J. F. Carson, of the Central Presbyterian Church, of Brooklyn, who was Mr. Weeks' pastor during his residence in Brooklyn, conducted the services at the grave.

SWALLOWED ARSENIC AND DEATH FOLLOWED

Did Miss Mary O'Neill Take Poison With Suicidal Intent?

MELANCHOLIA'S VICTIM

DEAD GIRL'S MOTHER REFUSED TO STATE CAUSE OF DEATH.

Funeral Services Tomorrow Morning—Requiem Mass to be Said in St. Mary's R. C. Church.

While talking to her younger brother, Tuesday afternoon, during the absence of the rest of the family, Miss Mary Theresa O'Neill, of New street, swallowed a quantity of arsenic which caused her death five hours later. It is supposed the young woman took the poison with suicidal intent as she had been a sufferer from melancholia for a year.

Since the death of her sister, Annie, in October 31, 1901 and of her father, Richard O'Neill, on March 19, 1902, Miss O'Neill has been subject to fits of despondency brought on by grief. At times she would be morose while at other times she would be very bright. She had not been enjoying the best of health.

An air of mystery hung about the death of the young woman. The cause of the death was given by the mother of the girl this morning as that of "accute hysteria." When asked if the rumor was true that her daughter had committed suicide she would not affirm or deny the report. At the office of the undertaker it was said that the certificate had not been filed yet. No information could be obtained at the office of the Board of Health, as the death certificate had not been filed there.

Every effort was made to keep the fact that the young woman had died from poison a secret.

Miss O'Neill was almost 22 years of age and is the daughter of Mrs. Sarah and the late Richard O'Neill, of New street. She is survived by four sisters, Margaret, Sarah, Agnes and Julia and three brothers, Richard, Lawrence and James, all of whom reside in this city.

The funeral will probably take place at her late residence, 314 New street, tomorrow morning at 8:30 and from St. Mary's R. C. Church at 9 o'clock. A requiem mass will be offered for the repose of her soul. The interment will be in the family burying plot at St. Mary's Cemetery.

JOHN B. DRAYTON DEAD

A telegram announcing the death of John B. Drayton, a New York broker, whose home has been in this city for many years, was received at his office in New York this morning. Death occurred at Lake Placid, N. Y., where he had been spending a vacation. The family in this city was communicated with at once. The details and the cause of the death were not given in the despatch and no further particulars will be received before evening. The remains will be brought here.

Mr. Drayton had lived in this city since he was a boy. His wife was Miss Margaret Manning, sister of Secretary J. H. Manning of the Young Men's Christian Association. He was fifty-six years old and is survived by two children, Margaret and Katherine. At the time of his death Mr. Drayton made his home with his family at the Park Avenue Hotel.

While he had been in poor health for about a year he was not thought to be dangerously ill and his death was not expected. He was a member of Grace Church and was also prominently identified with the Hillside Golf and Tennis Club. The funeral arrangements will be announced later.

Some Plainfield People Have Learned How to Get Rid of Both.

If the kidneys are well and strong, the rest of the system is pretty sure to be in vigorous health.

Doan's Kidney Pills make strong healthy kidneys.

Mr. S. J. Conklin, traveling salesman for a New York confectionery house, 134 West Front street, says: "I was subject to pain in the back and hips which at times I felt in my side. I tried different kinds of kidney cures but received little or no relief. I read a great deal about Doan's Kidney Pills and I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. I took three boxes altogether and was wonderfully improved. Doan's Kidney Pills are a good remedy and accomplish all that is claimed for them."

Dr. Greene's Nervura

the all the year round tonic and world's greatest blood and nerve medicine. Miss Katherine Mack's advice is worth reading and following:

MY DEAR DR. GREENE:—"I will gladly tell anyone of your medicine and am willing to have my testimonial published. Some years ago I was troubled with what my family called nervous prostration and a slight touch of St. Vitus' Dance.

"My family physician told me he thought I had better try some other kind of medicine from what he was giving me, so my mother saw an advertisement in the Sunday paper of Dr. Greene's Nervura, and there was also a testimonial from a young lady in Malden. My mother took me to see her, and she advised us to take the Nervura, which I did, and I can say it helped me in a very short time.

"I was obliged to remain home from school for six months. The medicine built me up so that I have been quite well since. Dr. Greene's Nervura is the only thing I have to thank for my good health."—(Signed) KATHERINE MACK, 47 Dean St., Everett, Mass.

BRYAN AT COLUMBUS

John H. Clarke Indorsed as Senator For Ohio.

HIS SYMPATHIES WITH THE PEOPLE

Views of the Candidate Are Sound and In Line With Democratic Principles, Only Difference Being Metallic Money Question.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 3.—W. J. Bryan was the guest of the Ohio state board of agriculture and delivered a nonpartisan address at the state fair grounds. John H. Clarke of Cleveland, indorsed by the Democratic state convention for United States senator, spoke from the same platform.

While in Columbus Mr. Bryan gave out the following statement relative to the indorsement of John H. Clarke for United States senator:

"I would have preferred the nomination of some one who had been active and earnest in the support of all the planks of our platform, but the delegates who indorsed the Kansas City platform also indorsed Mr. Clarke, and after talking with him and listening to his speech last night I am satisfied that his sympathies are with the people in their fight against organized wealth and that if elected senator he can be trusted to stand for the reform for which the Democratic party is contending. As an evidence that his sympathies are with the masses I point to the fact that he has long advocated the election of senators by a direct vote, a reform without which other reforms are impossible. He is opposed to government by injunction, and this question is a good test of his sympathies. He is in favor of an income tax, another proof that he is not the representative of plutocracy. His views on imperialism and the tariff are sound and in line with Democratic principles. His one difference is on one phase of the money question—namely, metallic money—and on this question I believe he was grievously in error in 1896.

"But since that time the quantitive, the quantity of money, has been established and the arguments made in favor of a larger volume of money have been vindicated. Believing as I do that his sympathies are right I shall trust him to carry out his platform on all questions that come before him rather than give encouragement to those who would elect a Republican legislature and thus not only return Mr. Hanna, but prevent the enactment of needed state legislation. On the more acute phases of the money question I believe he will be found in entire harmony with the Kansas City platform Democrats. I cannot conceive of his supporting an asset currency or the Aldrich bill, neither do I believe he would support the Republican measures which provide for branch banks and for making the silver dollar redeemable in gold. Mr. Clarke recognizes, as he said last night, that revolutions do not go backward; he recognizes that the Democratic party is marching forward to meet the issues presented by plutocracy, and he is opposed to the scheme of the reorganizers.

"While we might prefer some other Democrat to him we certainly must prefer him to a Republican who is against us on all questions, especially when the legislature that will elect him will also give the people home rule, cheaper railroad fares and more equitable taxation. To oppose him because of his action in 1896 in spite of the fact that he helped us heartily in 1900, in spite of the fact that he has supported Johnson in all his reforms, in spite of the fact that he is now helping us on everything except one phase of one question and in spite of the fact that on that question I believe his sympathies will lead him to our side when he thoroughly understands the subject—to oppose him, I say, in spite of these things would be unreasonable and unjust."

VASKAPU BLOWN UP

Austrian Steamer Destroyed by Macedonian Rebels.

TWENTY-NINE LIVES WERE LOST.

The Vessel Took Fire From Explosions and Was Run Ashore at Misivria Bay, Near Burgas, Her Last Port of Departure.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 3.—Three explosions occurred on the Austrian steamer Vaskapu soon after she had left the Bulgarian port of Burgas en route for Constantinople, by which the captain, some of the officers, six of the crew and several passengers, a total of twenty-nine, perished. The Vaskapu sailed from Varna, Bulgaria, and after calling at Burgas was steaming through the Black sea to Constantinople when three explosions took place on board. The vessel took fire, and she had to be run ashore at Misivria bay, eighteen miles north of Burgas, where she is still burning.

A telegram conveying this news was received by the agent here of the Hungarian Levant line, to which the Vaskapu belonged. The telegram said the Vaskapu had been destroyed in the Black sea.

It is the general opinion here that the destruction of the steamer Vaskapu was the work of the Bulgarian revolutionaries.

The Vaskapu belonged to the Hungarian Levant Steamship company of Fiume, Austria, and had been engaged in the Black sea service.

The Turkish foreign office here has just issued a note to the foreign embassies and legations informing them that, according to police information, the Bulgarian agitators are projecting outrages against the embassies, legations and other public buildings in Constantinople. The note says the Ottoman government has taken precautions and requests the heads of the foreign missions to do likewise.

The insurgents in the district of Adrianople appear to be less active. The Turks are pouring in an overwhelming force, and the revolutionaries are taking refuge in the mountains. The Bulgarian leader Gergicoff has been wounded and has fled to Burgas, Bulgaria.

The Russian government has declined to receive the visit of the deputation of Macedonian fugitives in Bulgaria who proposed to go to St. Petersburg and inform the czar of the pitiable condition of Macedonia and beg for his intervention. The deputation has been informed that the Russian government deems the visit quite unnecessary, as it quite understands the purpose of the deputation.

The insurgents, it is reported, have captured the seaport of Ahtaboly, near Vasiliko, on the Black sea, and the Turkish population has fled. The insurgents have organized a local government at the captured seaport and are giving ships their clearing papers and sanitary certificates.

A report from Belgrade says that a portion of the town of Adrianople has been blown up and that the other part is burning.

According to reliable reports from Monastir, thousands of Bulgarians in that vilayet are confronted with famine in addition to Turkish persecution. Peasants who are continually arriving from Monastir complain of the attitude of Hilmi Pasha.

A report from Adrianople says a fight has occurred at the village of Smilovo between 500 insurgents and eight battalions of Turkish troops supported by artillery. Thirty-five insurgents are reported to have been killed, while sixty Turks were killed or wounded. On the following day the Turks returned and burned the village. Seven other villages in the neighborhood are said to have also been burned by the Turks.

According to advices, Colonel Jankoff, the insurgent leader, who, with a strong following, is operating southward of Demotyka, has been intrusted with the task of destroying the larger bridges of the railroad running from Dedeagatch, on the south coast, to Kulell Burgas, south of Adrianople, over the Maritza and Arda rivers, so as to cut off communication with Adrianople from the south and delay the troops who are on their way to the threatened city.

One Hanged, One Reprieved.

RICHMOND, Va., Sept. 3.—Anders Finch, colored, was hanged at Boydton for an attempt at assault on Mrs. C. A. Geoghegan. "Doc" Bacon, another negro, was condemned to die with Finch for complicity in the crime, but was reprieved by the governor until the 4th inst. so as to permit of further examination into his case.

Hilee Won at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 3.—Hilee again proved his superiority over the sprinters at Delmar track in the feature at six furlongs. Getting off last, he ran around his field, ran Ben Adkins off his feet and was strong enough to stall off Theory's rush on the end.

Odell at Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., Sept. 3.—Governor Odell addressed 10,000 people at the Dutchess county fair from a platform in front of the grand stand. He was afterward entertained at the Dutchess club before leaving for Albany.

Dominion Coal Out.

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—The Dominion Steel company and the Dominion Coal company will separate. The steel company has had a lease of the coal company's property, but at a meeting of the directors it was decided to cancel this lease.

KODOL Digests What You Eat.

Weak Hearts

Are due to indigestion. Ninety-nine of every one hundred people who have heart trouble can remember when it was simple indigestion. It is a scientific fact that all cases of heart disease, not organic, are not only traceable to, but are the direct result of indigestion. All food taken into the stomach which fails of perfect digestion ferments and swells the stomach, puffing it up against the heart. This interferes with the action of the heart, and in the course of time that delicate but vital organ becomes diseased.

Kodol

Digests What You Eat

Mrs. Loring Nichols of Penn Yan, N. Y., writes: After eating, my food would distress me by making my heart palpitate and I would become very weak. Finally I got a bottle of Kodol and it gave me immediate relief. After using a few bottles I am cured.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders, and gives the heart a full, free and untrammeled action.

Bottles only. $1.00 Size holding 2½ times the trial size, which sells for 50c.

FLAT CALM, NO RACE.

Reliance and Shamrock Still Stayed by Lack of Breeze.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The fourth attempt to sail what was expected to be the concluding race between the Reliance and Shamrock III. failed miserably. They were not even sent across the line. Both were towed out to Sandy Hook lightship in a dense fog and flat calm and then waited two hours in the hope of a wind from some other direction than the east to blow away the fog and give them speed enough to cover thirty miles within five and a half hours.

Soon after the start homeward the wind for the first time since the middle of last week shifted from easterly to south and began to breeze up, an indication that the long easterly fog "mull" was breaking that might give the yachts the long deferred opportunity of sailing the third and probably conclusive race.

Racing at Cleveland.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 3.—The Cleveland championship pacing cup, the feature event of the inter city matinee, was won by Babe Allerton, owned and driven by C. K. G. Billings of the Cleveland club, who also won the trotting cup with The Monk. An attempt was made by Mr. Billings to drive The Monk and Equity to pole to beat the team record of 2:12¼. The pair, driven by Charles Tanner, trotted the first half in 1:05¼ and the three-quarters in 1:36½. Then when victory was close at hand The Monk broke and the pair finished in 2:12½, a quarter of a second behind the record.

Racing at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Sept. 3.—Dr. Stephens, second choice, captured the mile and fifty yards handicap at Harlem. He won by a length and a half and going away at every stride. Only for Dr. Stephens' victory the result would have been the prize upset of the meeting, as The Don, at 25 to 1, was second and Lady Jocelyn, at 100 to 1, third, while Sidney C. Love, the heavily backed favorite, was a bad fourth. Duchess Hanna was made the medium of a successful coup in the first race, in which her owners won $20,000. The filly opened at 20 to 1 and was backed down to 7 to 1 at post time.

Hermis Got Ocean Handicap.

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—August Belmont's Beldame, with Bullman in the saddle, won the rich Great Filly stakes, $16,000, at Sheepshead Bay. She was quoted at 15 to 1 in the betting. P. H. McCarren's Ocean Tide was second, with Mineola, from the W. C. Whitney stable, third. E. R. Thomas' $60,000 horse, Hermis, carrying 127 pounds and giving away weight to all of the other starters, won the Ocean handicap at one mile in the fast time of 1:39 4-5.

Star Hal Got $10,000 Stake.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 3.—A record breaking crowd of 15,000 people, attracted by the supreme contest of the grand circuit meeting here—the $10,000 stake for 2:11 class pacers—gathered at Narragansett park and saw Star Hal, a brown horse owned by W. L. Snow of Hornellsville, N. Y., capture the race and the purse in three straight heats.

AN ARMED VISITOR

President Roosevelt Endangered by a Crank.

WANTED TO BECOME A SON-IN-LAW

Henry Wellbrenner, Arrested at Sagamore Hill, Declared He Wanted to Marry Miss Alice Roosevelt. Is Thought to Be Insane.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 3.—With a loaded revolver Henry Wellbrenner of Syosset, N. Y., made three attempts to pass the guard at Sagamore Hill, insisting that he had an appointment with the president, and was arrested by a secret service agent.

Arraigned before Justice Franklin, the young man declared that he wanted to marry Miss Alice Roosevelt and was remanded for examination as to his sanity.

The prisoner's brother William explained that several years ago Henry had a nervous attack which unbalanced him mentally, but his family supposed that he had been quite restored. Since then he had manifested no symptoms of insanity. He had no socialistic or anarchistic tendencies so far as known, never having been interested in any question of that kind. He was employed daily on his father's farm.

When Wellbrenner was asked by Justice Franklin why he went to Sagamore Hill he replied quietly:

"I went to see the president about his daughter Alice."

Q.—Had you an engagement with the president? A.—Yes.

Q.—How was that engagement made? A.—I talked with the president last night.

Q.—How did you talk with him? A.—Oh, I just talked.

Q.—A sort of wireless talk, was it? A.—Yes; that is it—a wireless talk.

Q.—Why did you want to see the president about Miss Alice? A.—I wanted to marry her.

Q.—Did you ever see Miss Roosevelt? A.—Yes; I saw her night before last.

Q.—Where did you see her? A.—At my house.

Q.—Did she go over there? A.—Yes; she came in a red automobile.

Q.—Who accompanied her? A.—Her brother Theodore.

Wellbrenner drove to Sagamore Hill in a phaeton and was stopped by the secret service agent who was on duty. Wellbrenner said he had a personal engagement with the president and desired to see him.

As it was after the hours when visitors are received the officer declined to permit him to go to the house. Wellbrenner insisted, but to no avail.

Soon after the man returned and again demanded that he be allowed to see the president, if only for a minute. This time he was ordered away and warned not to return.

Wellbrenner returned a third time and peremptorily ordered the secret service agent to permit him to see the president at once. The officer's response was to take the man from his vehicle and lock him in the stables under the guard of two stablemen.

Wellbrenner was taken to Mineola and placed in custody.

It appears that President Roosevelt was aware of the trouble the secret service officer had with Wellbrenner. After the man had been turned back the second time despite his insistence that he had an engagement with the president the officer to make assurance doubly sure inquired of the president about the fellow. Mr. Roosevelt was in his library, only a short distance from the spot where the officer had stopped Wellbrenner's horse. He told the officer he had no engagement with anybody.

When Wellbrenner returned a third time with a demand that he be permitted to see the president the officer seized him and drew him out of the vehicle over the front wheel. The noise of the scuffle attracted the president's attention. He appeared at the door overlooking the driveway from the veranda as Wellbrenner was being taken to the stables, but returned to the library almost immediately.

Wellbrenner has been practicing with his revolver recently, but he would give no reason for his interest in marksmanship and said he could not shoot very well.

It appears that one of his brothers, who attended his examination, is a metal worker and belongs to a labor union in Brooklyn. Some time ago he lost his position and went with his wife to his father's farm at Syosset. The farm is a good one, but the family is in debt for it, and the father, Henry Wellbrenner, and the son who was arrested have been working hard to lift the indebtedness. The son from Brooklyn is said to have talked a good deal to his brother recently about labor unions and about the loss of his position. It is thought that the hard work and the trouble over the farm indebtedness had something to do with unsettling young Wellbrenner's mind.

The Wellbrenner incident is the first serious occurrence of the kind during the president's summer sojourn at Sagamore Hill. It has demonstrated completely, in the opinion of officials here, the wisdom of the close and systematic guard which is maintained at all times over the president. He is exposed frequently, it is true, to assault, but every care that human agencies can devise is exercised constantly to insure his personal safety and immunity from danger. Personally he was not perturbed by the Wellbrenner incident; but, although the maintenance of the guard is often distasteful to him, he thoroughly realizes the necessity in the circumstances of having made as certain as possible the personal safety of the president of the United States.

Somerset county's tax rate takes a jump of five points and it is now claimed to be the highest in the State. It is expensive for North Plainfielders to enjoy life in that unprogressive county.

The New York Times figures that there is a billion dollars spent in advertising yearly in the United States. A billion dollars is an enormous sum. It is three times the value of our total wheat crop; three times our total gold production, and ten times the value of the total products of the iron industry.—Mahin's Magazine.

There is cause for congratulation in the announcement made by the Board of Health that of the forty samples of milk analyzed by Health Officer Thurlow during August in not one instance were traces of formaldehyde found. It is well to be on the alert, however, and the public may rest assured that its interests will be well protected by an efficient chemist.

This is the official analysis of the water which Plainfielders drink: Odor, none; turbidity, none; sediment, none; free ammonia, .0002; albuminoid ammonia, .0030; nitrates, .0460; nitrites, .0000; oxygen consumed, .0000; chlorine, .3876; hardness, 13-8. This is reckoning the parts as per 100,000. The analysis is made from water drawn through a faucet. There is no filtration system in use here.

NEW PRIMARY LAW'S DETRIMENTAL EFFECT

vention; that there is for them no use and no hope for political preferment, unless as the political servant of some political boss whose collar they must wear, they will abandon the field in disgust. Men of independence and worth will not submit to such servitude. The management of their township will be allowed to fall into the hands of those who are in politics for whatever they can get out of it, and boss rule will become absolute.

"It may be wise to so regulate primaries that delegates shall be the choice of the people at large, and not of the politicians, if that be possible. But to destroy force of the moral sentiment of all the smaller and cleaner municipalities and centralize all political power in the largest and most politically corrupt by such a change in the basis of representation, that is certainly a dangerous as well as an unnecessary expedient. It indicates that the ultimate effect of the new primary law was not well thought out before it was passed."

SWACKHAMER AS A CANDIDATE

THE NEWARK NEWS DISCUSSES HIS CHANCES AS GUBERNATORIAL TIMBER.

Not Impossible That He May Cut a Figure in the Next Democratic State Convention.

In discussing Samuel S. Swackhamer's chances as a Democratic Gubernatorial candidate, the Newark Evening News said editorially yesterday:

"Just why Somerset County is shying so many castors in the Gubernatorial arena at this early date is more or less of a mystery. Only a few short months ago County Clerk Somers, the former Assemblyman from that county, was named as the possible choice of the next Republican State convention. Now Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer is brought forward with not a few political ribbons and other decorations, and is announced as the probable choice of the Democratic State convention. Somerset County is certainly ambitious. It casts less than 7,500 votes, all told, yet it has two Gubernatorial candidates, while counties five times as great haven't even one. Somerset seems to think that the largest trout are sometimes caught in the smallest streams.

"The candidacy of Mr. Somers was never taken seriously, even by himself, but the nomination of Mr. Swackhamer is not beyond the possibilities. During the last legislative session he attacted considerable attention by his breezy, short speeches and retorts, and of late he has been pleasing the farmers by making very acceptable addresses at their gatherings. Already his opponents have acknowledged his strength by calling him the "Tall Sycamore of the Raritan," "Swackie," "Slim Sammy," and similar appellatives, and it must be admitted that as soon as a man becomes popular or unpopular enough to be nicknamed lovingly by his friends and derisively by his enemies, he is in a fair way to receive a nomination of some kind.

"Moreover, Mr. Swackhamer's party is in need of a candidate whose name has not been worn threadbare, and Mr. Swackhamer fills this want. It is not impossible that the county which produced two presidents of the Senate in quick succession, Lewis A. Thompson and Charles A. Reed, may cut a heroic figure in the next Democratic State convention. Stranger things have happened.

Charles Pawson, of Walter Scott Company's plant, is out again after several days' illness.

John Barrowman, of Prescott place, has resigned his position at the Potter Press Company's plant.

Western soft coal miners have been grated an increase in wages, and coal has been advanced fifty cents a ton.

John Henry, an employe in the pattern shop of the Pond Machine Tool Company's Works, is detained at home with a sprained ankle.

Alexander Martin, of Berkman street, who was formerly employed upon the local trolley lines, has secured a position with the Central Railroad of New Jersey at the round house at Dunellen.

Former Senator James Smith, Jr., receiver of the United States Ship Building Company, has sent a communication to Elizabeth's Board of Aldermen to the effect that he would do all in his power to have the Crescent Shipyard at Elizabethport reopened as soon as practicable. Receiver Smith did not intimate when this event would be likely to occur.

A scarcity of miners and mine laborers is reported in the vicinity of Prescott, Aria. It is said from 500 to 1,000 men can find steady employment in the mining regions in Arizona. Wages are good and the climate excellent. Miners may work the year around, because of the absence of severe winters. The following scale of wages prevails: Laboring men, $3 per day; timbermen and machine men, $3.50.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

John Campbell, who is employed as clerk at Brakeley's drug store, had a thrilling experience yesterday with a runaway horse. He was driving down North avenue, when suddenly the horse became frightened and started down the street at a fearful gait. Campbell was unable to check the speed of the animal and the best he could do was to try and keep him in the road. The horse dashed on down the road and turned in at the residence of James Craig and stopped at the barn. The harness was badly broken and Campbell was badly frightened. The horse and wagon, however, were uninjured.

It is reported on good authority, that Bound Brook has secured the services of the crack twirler, Ramsey, of the High Bridge team, for Saturday's game against the Dunellen A. C. If this is true it will go pretty hard with the locals, but one man can't play a game of baseball, and with Ettinger and the rest of the team in good form, there is no reason why they can't obtain a firmer grip on the series with Bound Brook.

Machinist Intends to Devote Rest of His Life to Phrenology.

John Barrowman surprised his fellow machinists at Potter's Press Works yesterday by announcing that he had resigned his position at the works and intended to devote the rest of his life to a practice of the science of phrenology. Although Barrowman has been studying phrenology during his spare moments for the past seventeen years, none of his friends were acquainted with the fact and they received the wholly unexpected announcement with regret at the prospect of losing a popular fellow employe.

Barrowman is a native of Glasgow, Scotland, and has been in the United States seventeen years. He has been employed at Potter's Press Works for seven years. He intends to complete his study by a two months' course at the American Institute of Phrenology in New York City, beginning today.

After that his plan is to practise the science in Plainfield and probably to start a class in the subject.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 6—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The allied forces of righteousness.—John xvii, 20-23; I Cor. i, 10-13.

The unity of the Christian church, for all practical purposes at least, such as the extension of Christ's kingdom and the overthrow of evil, is indeed "a consummation devoutly to be wished." Organic unity, as men are so differently constituted, is a dream impossible of realization, but unity in spirit, in sympathy and in service for Christ and against evil is a possibility, and should speedily become a reality.

In spite of all our differences the Christian church is essentially one church. The tendency in the past has been to emphasize the differences and to minimize the things upon which we agree, and the time has come to reverse the order. The church should emphasize to the world that it is essentially one church. (1) It believes in one God as manifested in Father, Son and Holy Ghost. (2) It has one faith—not one creed, though all denominations could accept the Apostles' Creed, but one faith—Christian faith, as distinctive from other religious faiths. (3) It has essentially the same ordinances—baptism and the Lord's supper. The forms of administration are not always the same, but the ordinances are. (4) It has one Bible. (5) It has the same forms of worship. These are praise, prayer, Scripture reading and preaching. Whether rendered in elaborate settings or in the simplest the forms are essentially the same. Our hymnology beautifully illustrates our essential oneness. Wesley, a Methodist, wrote "Jesus, Lover of My Soul;" Toplady, an Episcopalian, "Rock of Ages, Cleft For Me;" Fawcett, a Baptist, "Blest Be the Tie That Binds;" Bowring, a Unitarian, "In the Cross of Christ I Glory," and Cardinal Newman, who afterward became a Catholic, "Lead, Kindly Light." Yet these hymns are sung in all our churches. (6) The church has one fellowship. The common tie that binds us to Christ binds us to one another, and we should not only sing, but practice

Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love.

The Scripture constantly emphasizes the fact that the church is and should be a united church. Christ in His intercessary prayer prayed for the unity of the church, "that they may all be one, as Thou, Father, art in Me and I in Thee; that they may also be one in us; that the world may believe that Thou hast sent Me." And what Christ prayed for Paul argued for. To the divided Christians at Corinth he wrote: "Now, I beseech you, brethren, by the name of the Lord Jesus Christ, that ye speak the same thing, that there be no divisions among you. * * * Every one of you saith, I am of Paul, and I of Apollos, and I of Cephas, and I of Christ. Is Christ divided, was Paul crucified for you, or even ye baptized in the name of Paul?" And what Christ prayed for and Paul argued for we should earnestly labor for. The Christian church as one army, though divided into regiments and companies, should present a united front to the world that the world may know that Christ was sent of God and that the forces of evil may be overcome and the forces of righteousness may prevail.

Secretary Vogt's First Message.

General Secretary Vogt's first message was addressed to the Endeavorers of New York state through their state paper, Empire State Notes. It is as follows:

My Dear Fellow Workers:

I want to extend to you my hand of cooperation and at the same time assure you of my deep gratitude for your splendid achievement of increase for Christian Endeavor. It surely is an added earnest of greater things to come. Never has the need of men physically and spiritually been the subject of private talk and public consideration and the object of effort so much as now, and never so profound and widespread the conviction that the one help for that need in all its perplexing complications is Jesus Christ. Believing that no labor is worthy which does not somehow aid in bringing the world of needy men to Him who alone can save, let us wisely study and continually work that our great organization may more and more be effective to that end. Yours sincerely,

Von Ogden Vogt

Discovered the Young People.

It cannot be forgotten that Christian Endeavor, as I wrote sixteen years ago, discovered the people to the church, discovered the power of the young people for Christian service to themselves, and thus utilized for the church and the kingdom of God this vast spiritual force.—Rev. Howard B. Grose.

President Clark's Trip.

Rev. Dr. Francis E. Clark, the founder of the Christian Endeavor movement, in his recent four weeks' convention tour through the south made forty-three addresses in seven different states, with 5,400 miles of travel.

96. K. S. C., Scranton, Pa.—It cannot be insisted on too strongly that the Society of Christian Endeavor is a religious society. Social, literary and other features can be added as may seem desirable.

97. T. A., Oswego, N. Y.—The object of the society, as stated in the model constitution, is "to promote an earnest Christian life among its members, to increase their mutual acquaintance and to make them more useful in the service of God."

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

UP TO DATE STYLES.

Sloping Shoulders and Huge Sleeves. Gray a Smart Color.

Sloping shoulders begin to be exaggerated, and sleeves are terribly voluminous. It seems a pity to turn these graceful fashions into caricatures.

Red batiste, red delaine and even scarlet serge are being made up in large numbers. As a rule, these gowns are relieved with black or ecru.

Some beautiful linen gowns have been seen lately. One had its skirt just clearing the ground, with a border of guipure at the hem, while the corsage was trimmed with the same guipure in bolero effect, finished with a high draped waistband of green taffeta. With this was worn a pretty green and mauve toreador hat trimmed with a large black bird.

Gray is a color which is always popular, and some lovely gray soie de chine gowns are embroidered in silver and gold. Another favorite mixture is composed of gray and green, and some well known society women are wearing gray gowns relieved only with cream lace and rather vivid green hat and parasol.

The gown in the cut shows the new full skirt and the double stole effect.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

FOR YOUNG GIRLS.

Accordion Plaited Dresses — White Relieved by Crimson.

The young girl has many pretty styles for her especial benefit this year, chief among these being the accordion plaited skirt and the loose accordion plaited blouse belted in with a swathed band of silk or satin. When trimmed with fancy buttons these little accordion plaited suits are charming for the country and later on in heavier materials for school wear.

White with just a touch of crimson is smart for a girl to wear at the seashore or in the country, and quite a pretty frock can be made in fine white serge with a short walking skirt neatly and flatly box plaited as far as the knees and then left to flow out with ample fullness around the hem. A blouse of fine batiste with embroideries in crimson thread worked by hand might be worn with this serge skirt. The blouse should be drawn down to a point in front under a soft belt of crimson patent leather, while at the throat there should be a tie of crimson glace silk.

The cloth gown in the cut has a cape effect of guipure lace and shirred chiffon.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

"Pierce? Gen. Pierce? That horrid old rebel? Oh, how delightful that you have caught him. He is the very one who hung the tories this summer."

"The very one, madam, and he shall pay for it."

He left her with a courteous bow, but his heart was not as light as when she had accosted him. What was this silly woman's chatter about a lover of Jane's? A Godfrey Worthington, forsooth? Of course, there was nothing in it; and yet he must be sure.

CHAPTER VIII.

AS THE DANCE WENT ON.

He drew aside pretty Peggy Winston, who was the occasion of the dance. "Do you know aught," he asked, "of a person by the name of Godfrey Worthington?"

"Godfrey Worthington? Oh, yes, I have known him all my life. Why, he and Jane are sweethearts. Have been for years, though they do say her mother does not approve the match, and was most glad when he espoused the rebel cause that she might have excuse for forbidding his coming here. Did you not know that you nearly captured him once? It was last May, when you stopped at Jane's for breakfast. He was coming to see her then, knowing, I suppose, that her father and mother were from home and thinking it a good opportunity to press his suit. He was almost up to the house before he discovered your soldiers."

Bessemer's brow grew black. So this was the young brave who had given him such a turn that fine spring morning?

"'Twas just like Godfrey," the girlish voice went on. "He is ever doing daring things. It is for that Jane loves him most, I think; though he is handsome too—oh, so handsome! I have heard it whispered often that Jane is no less a rebel at heart than he, but that she keeps it concealed to maintain peace with her stepmother and Edward."

"In truth, dear lady," Bessemer answered, "methinks report doth most grossly wrong Mistress Jane. None, I am sure, could be more loyal than she." But he tore himself away with some troublous thoughts running through his brain.

He sought an early opportunity to secure Jane by himself. "Come, sweet mistress," he said, "and take a stroll with me. I long to see if I cannot frighten away that pensive look upon your lovely face. What solemn thoughts have been playing havoc with your gayety to-night?"

Jane looked at him in some surprise. "Have I not been gay?" she asked. "I thought I had. I know of no excuse for solmen musings unless, indeed, it be the solemnity of contrasts, and, in truth, I could not but think, as I watched this beautiful scene which you have conjured for us to-night, what a medley our life now is. This afternoon, from my chamber window, I saw you take past our house the prisoners you had captured. Such sad, weary-faced men they were, many of them sorely wounded and scarce able to walk. My heart bled for them; yet here to-night we are in the midst of music and dancing, and they within earshot of it all. How cruel, how heartless it must seem to them."

"Methinks, madam," Bessemer answered, with a sneer born of his accumulated irritation, though policy warned him of the unwisdom of showing it, "methinks you show most wondrous solicitude for these rebels; and what think you I have heard to-night? That you are one at heart."

A merry look spread over Jane's face. If she could but keep him fencing with her upon the subject of tory or rebel, she might prevent him from broaching the other subject she dreaded, for she was not yet prepared to say whether or not she would marry him.

"And so you have found me out?" she cried in mock dismay. "Ah, colonel, what punishment will you mete to me? Am I to be carried a captive on one of your prison ships now lying in Charleston harbor? They say they are most unpleasant places to reside in. Or am I to be hung, or what?"

Bessemer looked down at her, the gravity of his face softening before the sparkle in her eyes. "I do not know," he said, "what punishment could be great enough to mete out to one who withdraws so precious an ally from the king's cause; however, with your permission, fair lady, we will leave that most serious question for future consideration. Tell me rather what you think of the success of my plan for keeping in good humor tory friends? Think you not this entertainment will make the ladies wish the harder that we might remain victors instead of those unmannerly rebels and inspire our sympathizers among your neighbors with renewed ardor? Come, sweet enemy, give me your opinion."

"I doubt not you are right, colonel," she answered saucily. "Methinks I have heard that it did indeed tax the fertile brain of your general and yourself to hatch schemes for keeping in line your tory allies; but my Aunt Susannah says such is ever the handicap of a bad cause. The enthusiasm of its followers, lacking the fuel of righteousness, soon smoulders and must be constantly rekindled; while a good cause—well, she would remind you that the American patriots do not need a dance to inspire them."

"A neat speech, my beautiful rebel," he observed; "but is this all the reward I am to receive when I had far more in mind the hope of giving you enjoyment than of entertaining your tory neighbors? Nay, do not turn away. Hear me out. This morning when I rode from your door my pulses throbbed with hope; but to-night something in your manner thwarts me. What has reared this barrier between us? Have you spent those few short hours in making of your heart a fortress? And, if so, what weapons can I use that will batter down its walls? Will patience and persistence do the work? Then, indeed, will I never despair."

"We all know," Jane observed, "that Col. Bessemer adds to his reputation as a gallant soldier that of an adroit strategist. I see he would fain betray the heart's owner into a confession of the strength or weakness of its forces; but methinks it would be wiser for the besieged to permit the assailant to determine for himself what weapons to use."

"Ah," said Bessemer, half bitterly, half questioningly, "if I could only be sure a certain rebel were not harbored within the walls of that heart, I might be more encouraged to make the attack."

"And is a loyal soldier of his majesty the king to be daunted by a rebel?" Jane asked. "Fie! I would not have thought it."

The Englishman's face darkened. "No, on my soul, is he not," he cried, "nor by ten thousand rebels. I accept your challenge, madam. The time is not far distant when I hope to prove myself a match for that rebel. Meanwhile, it behooves me to select one of yonder forest's stout trees for stringing up another rebel now in my keeping. By daybreak, I trust, we shall be rid of him and leave his dangling body as a warning to others of his ilk."

The brightness died out of the girl's face. "You cannot mean that you will hang that poor old gentleman who is now a captive in our garret? I saw him when they brought him to the house this afternoon, and I thought his face most sweet and noble, while I have ever heard him spoken of as brave."

"Aye, brave enough; but 'poor old gentleman' scarce fits so bloody-handed a wretch. I have not forgot that three of our allies were strung up by his command four weeks ago, and, by my faith, their death shall be avenged."

"But they were marauders, who plundered dwellings and murdered women and children. At least, so I have heard. It will not bring back their lives to take another life, and surely it were better to be merciful and teach these despised rebels the justice and moderation of their opponents than to set them an example of cruelty and vengefulness."

She had seated herself upon a board seat between two trees and was regarding him earnestly. Bessemer leaned against a peach-tree close beside her and gazed down at her. "A most able attorney, fair lady, do you prove yourself in pleading the cause of the enemies of your king; and yet, when I look into your face and note the resemblance you bear your loyal brother, it is past credence that you can indeed be at heart the rebel you choose to-night to pose. Nay, I know you are but shamming. The loyal Edward's sister and your loyal father's daughter cannot but be wholly loyal. Do you know that I love your brother Edward trebly—once for himself and twice for his likeness to you? When he rides by my side, I can almost delude myself into the belief that it is you I have with me. Ah, Jane, if you could but know what a sweet comfort it is to have upon long marches and hot pursuit of flying enemies; but—what's that?"

During their stroll they had entered the orchard, whose rear ended in the woodland. Bessemer had caused lanterns to be strung for some distance in this orchard, and many lovers had taken advantage of its picturesque paths to saunter through its mazes, but none of them had wandered quite as far as their host and hostess. Indeed, the two were at the end of the fringe of lanterns.

Both he and Jane turned their faces towards the shadows. The sounds came closer; the tramp of horses' feet, the clanking of spurs, the crackling of twigs, and smothered talk. At length there emerged into the rim of light the lanterns cast a small party of men. Two were on horseback, each leading a second horse that was riderless. Behind them, walking, came two other men with a third between them, evidently a prisoner. His dark garb showed in sombre contrast beside the red coats of the British soldiers who held him. As they came closer and Jane caught sight of the captive's face she gave a cry of recognition.

"Godfrey Worthington!" she gasped.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 6, "The Call of Moses"—Text, Ex. iii, 1-12.

Most men who reach eighty years of age are ready to rest if not to die. Bodily powers have failed, eyes are dim, hearing dull, steps feeble, speech and thought faltering. Here is one who at eighty leads the flocks across wide stretches of pasture to the mountain valleys and slopes on the extreme borders of the tribal limits. He braves hardship and danger to find the best for his flock. Was Horeb already a holy place when the tribes of Midian came to worship? It may have been, and some impulse to meditation on holy things may have mingled in Moses' mind with his care for good pasturage for his sheep. Had Moses kept informed of the progress of events in Egypt during all the years of his exile? It would have been singular if he had not heard of the more important affairs taking place, as the caravans trading between Arabia and Egypt passed back and forth over the desert pathways and around the camp fires discussed the latest news in the lands of the pharaohs.

Did Moses know how galling was the condition of his fellow Israelites under the new laws and repressive policy of the warlike Pharoah, who had for reasons of state policy reduced the Hebrews to a condition of slavery? All this he would be likely to know and feel most keenly. News in those days, as in these, traveled rapidly, and the desert knew quickly what had transpired in the city.

Years could not have dulled Moses' interest in his people. Age and reflection could but have deepened his conviction of the early years that a high destiny was appointed the descendants of Jacob. The tribal traditions and patriarchal customs and religious convictions were particularly cherished in his family. The wilderness exile served to intensify and deepen his longings for the development of his people.

Was there any crisis in affairs in Egypt at this time, any political development, which might suggest the possibility of an escape of the Hebrews from the land? Had the soldier king died and been succeeded by a weaker man? Did Moses feel the need of seeking guidance and soul strength at the sanctuary of Jehovah in Horeb that he goes there with the flocks? So many questions we can ask reasonably, but all the answer we can have is the assurance that, whatever the trend of events and working of Moses' mind, he did receive help and divine direction. Jehovah's call came to him to go and deliver his brethren. It came to him rather than some one else because his fitness for the task was superior to that of others.

So God's call ever comes to us, to all. Bushes now burn and are unconsumed before the eyes of those who can see. The voice of God is still heard from the midst of the flame by those who have ears to hear. To all others things appear as usual. But when one has heard and seen and knows the God call all things are changed. Jehovah has found a man who can understand Him, and Israel goes free. Have you seen the brush burn? Does God call you?

Rise Above Temptations.

The true way to conquer temptations is not to fight them in detail, but to go up into a loftier region where there cease to be temptations. How is it that grown men do not like the sweetmeats that used to tempt them when they were children? They have outgrown them. Then outgrow the temptations of the world! How is it that there are no mosquitoes or malaria on the mountain tops? They cannot rise above the level of the swamps by the river. Go up to the mountain top, and neither malaria nor mosquito will follow you, which, being interpreted, is live near Jesus Christ and keep your hearts and minds occupied with Him and you will dwell in a region high above the temptations which buzz and sting, which infest and slay, on the lower levels.—Rev. Alexander McLaren, D. D.

The Good Man.

The good man is a useful man. He is not all ornament. He has his work to do, his place in society to fill, his influence to exert. He is fruitful. Others share in his goodness. Homes are blest, communities improved and the church benefited. He scatters blessings all along his pathway. He is no cumberer of the ground. There is neither a human nor a divine demand for his removal as useless. He is spared year after year on account of his productiveness. By his prayers, his instructions, his counsels, his example, his spirit and his deeds he improves and benefits all who come within his reach.—Presbyterian.

Daily Praise.

The entire Christian life must bear the character of a daily renewed thank offering to the glory of Him who in grace bestowed a perfect atonement in Christ Jesus, a thank offering of willing, undivided devotion of ourselves, with all that is ours, to Him. For what other purpose is man, as head of earthly creatures, placed below in such a temple save that he, as priest, should offer such a sacrifice, daily consecrating to Him the spiritual offerings of self denial, love and obedience?—F. E. Van Oosterzee.

No Compromise Possible.

No compromise can be made with God. He is unbending in His righteousness. Consequences do not deter Him. He will not annul the force of any law that He has enacted because of the awful personal results of transgression. It is this that gives unbroken stability to His government and forms the basis of absolute confidence in Him and His purposes.—Philadelphia Methodist.

UPSHOOTS.

One of the greatest baseball treats of the season will be the third and deciding game between Alis and St. Mary's, Saturday, on Crescent Oval.

unusually intelligent and good looking. He impresses one at first sight as being a man of considerable education and breeding. He doesn't look nor talk like one in any way deranged. He and Chamberlain married sisters, and since the death of Mrs. Gassner, the brother-in-laws have been living together at 308 East Fourth street. For a week prior to last Saturday Mrs. Chamberlain and her sixteen-year-old niece who lived with her, had been at Asbury Park.

It is said that Prosecutor English found in Gassner's trunk a hammer on which are stains, possibly of blood. The hammer is now in the hands of chemists.

HOW A VACATION WAS SPENT

VISITS MADE TO OLD HOMES AND BURIAL PLACES NEAR HERE.

Photographs Taken by John Neagle Richard E. Coriell Acted As Guide.

A four day's trip through this part of the State in carriages to the former homes and burial places of former residents of this vicinity was the manner in which a party of people recently spent their vacations. The places visited were the old homesteads of the Boice, Covert, Marselise, Coriell, Smalley, Randolph and other families. R. E. Coriell, of this city, was the guide and included in the party was Mrs. Ashbel Welsh, of Germantown, Philadelphia. John Neagle, of this city, accompanied the party as photographer. He has some fine views taken en route.

Some of the places visited were Westfield, Plainfield, New Market, Newtown, Piscataway, Harris' Lane, Bound Brook and Green Brook. One of the historic places visited was the Coriell homestead in Newtown now owned by E. S. Schenck. The home of David Coriell and his wife, Elsie, was plundered in 1777 by a foraging party of British soldiers from New Brunswick. An inventory of their property taken or destroyed signed and sworn to by their son, Abraham, as executor, is now on file in the State House at Trenton. Two of David Coriell's sons, Abraham and David, were Minute Men in Washington's army.

The two sons lived to a great age and died in the early part of the last century and were buried with their wives in the family burying ground on the farm. On September 20, 1878, Abner Coriell, of New Market, visited the old graveyard and copied all the inscriptions. That part of the farm was then owned by a German named Wessels who afterwards removed the tombstones and destroyed all traces of the cemetery. Some of the tombstones were broken up to be used for a part of a foundation for a house. He threw the other stones into a ditch by the roadside where they were found a few years ago buried in mud and overgrown with bushes and weeds. Those which marked the graves of Abraham and David, the soldiers, and David's wife, Elizabeth, (Whitehead) were recovered by the party and removed to Evergreen Cemetery in this city where they will be properly cared for. A photograph of the old house taken by Arthur Krom, is now on exhibition at the library, in this city.

GOVERNOR AND STAFF, PRESIDENT'S ESCORT

Roosevelt, Murphy, Kean and Dryden to Witness Unveiling of Battle Monument.

VETERANS TO ATTEND

ONLY TRANSPORTATION TO BE PROVIDED CIVIL WAR SOLDIERS.

Great Day at Antietam Battlefield —September 17, the Date Fixed, is the Anniversary of the Fight.

The New Jersey commission appointed by Governor Murphy to erect a monument on the Antietam battlefield has made final arrangements for the dedicatory services, which will be September 17. It is now definitely arranged that President Roosevelt will attend the ceremonies of dedication to take place on the battlefield September 17, the anniversary of this great battle fought forty-one years ago. President Roosevelt will accept the monument, to be cared for by the national authorities for all time.

The ceremonies of the dedication will consist of a report to Governor Murphy by the chairman of the battlefield commission, James O. Smith, of Newark, who will then turn over to the Governor, as representing the State of New Jersey, the finished work of the commission. Governor Murphy, in turn, will, on behalf of New Jersey, present the national government, through President Roosevelt, the New Jersey monument, and the several markers that designate the points on the field where New Jersey's sons were engaged.

The President, escorted by Governor Murphy and staff, also United States Senators Kean and Dryden, will leave Jersey City on the evening of September 15 on a special train of Pullman cars, with dining car attached. They will arrive at Antietam about 9 o'clock the next morning, and shortly after the ceremonies are concluded will re-embark on their train and reach Jersey City the following morning. This arrangement has been made to meet other engagements of the President, both before and after the Antietam trip.

While Governor Murphy had hoped to journey to the old battlefield where he, as a boy of seventeen, a member of Company A, Thirteenth New Jersey, participated in this great battle, with his old comrades, he feels it his duty to escort the President to and from the field, as it was at the earnest solicitation of himself that Mr. Roosevelt reconsidered a declination of an invitation to be present.

The commission now expects to furnish transportation to Antietam and return to about 400 New Jersey veterans who participated in this battle. The veterans will be furnished with tickets through their several regimental or brigade organizations, while others who have not identified themselves with these veteran organizations are being attended to by the secretary of the commission.

The commission finds it will be able to provide the veterans with little beyond their transportation. While en route going each old soldier will be provided with a lunch, which will be prepared by the Pennsylvania Railroad and distributed on the train in individual boxes. On reaching the station nearest to the point on Antietam field where the New Jersey monument is located carriages and stages will be provided to carry the veterans to the scene, which is nearly two miles from the railroad.

The veterans will be provided with tickets, good from any station on Pennsylvania system in New Jersey, to Antietam and return. Tickets will be placed on sale at all of the stations in New Jersey where stops are made, as shown on the schedule, also in Philadelphia, Broad Street Station, at the rate paid by the State of $7.70 round trip. Tickets will also be provided by any station agent on the Pennsylvania system in New Jersey, but only when requests for tickets are filed with such agent a sufficient time in advance to make it practicable. In view of the enlarged scope given this matter by the attendance of the President, it is anticipated there will be a larger number of the general public who will wish to attend, especially as the trip affords an opportunity of visiting not only Antietam but Gettysburg battlefield.

The monument, which is to be dedicated on the field of Antietam, is now practically completed.

ASBURY PARK BABY PRADE

LESLIE FRYER, OF THIS CITY, AMONG THREE HUNDRED BABIES.

"No Race Suicide," a Motto Causing Much Laughter—Juvenile Policemen and Rough Riders.

Babydom was on review Tuesday at Asbury Park, N. J. Triumphant over storm and the disappointment of several postponements, the little ones rode in gay array before Queen Titania (Ethel M. Jones), and her fairy court, whose three days' reign faded last night into a happy memory. The parade started shortly before 3 o'clock. Despite the waning season, fully 50,000 persons witnessed the parade, lining both sides of Ocean avenue from the beach auditorium, the starting point, to the Asbury avenue pavilion. There were at least 300 babies in line, among them being little Leslie Fryer, of this city. Headed by a corps of juvenile policemen and lads in rough-rider costumes they filed by, forming a picture the beauty of which was irresistible.

Preceding the first division was a bevy of little lasses, dressed in Japanese costumes, and after them came the babies and the babies of the babies—their dollies. Enthroned in bowers of roses, seated in state in carriages gay with bunting, in gorgeous sea-shells, in gauzy coaches drawn by winged butterflies, they gayly passed by.

"No race suicide," was the motto borne aloft with President Roosevelt's picture by the four little Misses Weil, of New York. In an old prairie schooner bearing the legend "Westward Ho," rode little Arline, Emily and Albert Spitzer, of Brooklyn. The outfit was complete, even to the crate of live stock on the tailboard and mounted cowboy outrider.

Two dainty little maids, Helen and Florence Freeman, dressed in the American colors and the green of Ireland, bore minature reproductions of Reliance and Shamrock. Reliance bore the America's cup on which was the placard "Hard to Lift, Sir Thomas."

After the parade the prize winners were drawn to one side and countermarched about the court of honor.

GREAT INTER-STATE FAIR

THE OPENING DAY SET FOR MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 28.

New Buildings—Vaudeville Attractions—Great Races—Reduced Rates on Railroads.

With the exception of putting up tents and the arrival of exhibits, Secretary Mahlon R. Margerum has everything in readiness for the opening of the Inter-State Fair, at Trenton, N. J., on Monday, September 28. This exhibition, which is the greatest institution of its kind in the East, and the equal of any in this country, will continue until October 2, inclusive.

Great attention has been paid this year to the exhibits in every department. More prizes are offered, and the entries received to date are in excess of the total of last year, which was the largest in this respect in the history of the association. Several new buildings have been erected and all of the old ones have been so renovated that they are as though workmen had just completed them. Everything is bright and cheerful.

There will be numerous special vaudeville attractions of a high class, and the speed programmes for each day of the fair will present the greatest race horses in the country. The stake races are filled, and smashing of track records promises to be a feature of the week.

There will be special train accommodations, and reduced rates, to the fair grounds on all railroads during the entire week of the exhibition.

Andrew Nelson, Colored, in the Elizabeth General Hospital Suffering From Self-Inflicted Cuts.

Andrew Nelson, formerly of this city, who went to the Elizabeth General Hospital Sunday night, in a serious condition from cuts inflicted by himself while in a religious mania, is improving, and seems likely to get well. Nelson is a colored man, and belongs to a religious sect which has a church in Newark. He has no settled home or visible means of support, and is likely to become a city charge here unless he is taken in charge by other authorities. The authorities of the General Hospital have communicated with the Overseer of the Poor Alex Ayres regarding Nelson, but have received no answer. Nelson is found to have served some time in an asylum in Philadelphia for mental derangement, and is believed to be still insane. He has a wife living in Newark.

Unfortunate Error.

The newspaper reports that her counsel was of the opinion that Mrs. Ida Strauss, of this city, would remarry Baldwin F. Strauss, Sr., the missing Brooklyn lawyer, in order to place the legitimacy of her children beyond a doubt is unfounded. TAX COLLECTOR LAW UNCONSTITUTIONAL Corporation Counsel Says Plainfield's Act is Special Legislation.

NOT TO HELD NEW LAW

ELECTION TO BE HELD UNDER THE OLD STATUTE THIS FALL.

Reasons for Corporation Counsel's Decision—Story of the Act Passed for the Benefit of This City Alone—Mr. Smith a Candidate.

Having been advised by Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh that it is unconstitutional, no attention will be paid to the act passed by the last Legislature which permits the Common Council to appoint a tax collector. An election will be held under the old law this fall and the people will select a successor to the present incumbent, Frank H. Smith. This line of action has been agreed upon by the members of the Common Council and meets with the hearty approval of Mr. Smith, who will be the Republican candidate to succeed himself.

The Common Council fears that if the new statute is obeyed it will involve the city in a law suit, entailing much expense and possible long drawn out proceedings. They do not think it wise to pursue such a course. Corporation Counsel Marsh, in his opinion, takes the stand that inasmuch as the provisions of the bill restrict its application to cities of the second class having a population of less than 25,000 it is in fact special legislation and therefore unconstitutional. It is his opinion that the better plan for the city to pursue is to continue to hold its elections under the old bill which gives to the voters the right to select a collector.

It has long been argued that the best interest of the people would be served by vesting the power of naming a collector in the Mayor or Common Council because to fulfill his duties the collector is compelled to enforce payment of taxes from delinquents. This would make enemies for him and his future prospects politically would be jeopardized. In the present instance, however, no request was made by Mr. Smith for any change, although he has vigorously pursued delinquents.

The original bill was drawn by Mr. Marsh and introduced in the Assembly by William Newcorn. Assemblyman Swackhamer, of North Plainfield, led a strong opposition against its passage and the measure was killed. Then Mr. Marsh drew another bill giving the power of appointment to the Common Council. The fight against the proposed act was continued, some assemblymen contending that it met with the opposition of other cities of the second class, including Trenton, Passaic and Paterson, which were satisfied with the old method. This caused an amendment to be tacked on which limited the scope of the measure to cities of the class having a population of less than 25,000. In this shape it was passed by the Legislature and signed by Governor Murphy.

In accordance with the provisions of the new statute, the Common Council passed an ordinance on first and second reading changing the method of election. Before final passage, advice was sought from Mr. Marsh, who announced his opinion against the constitutionality of the statute.

HEPTASOPHS GATHER.

District Convention of Order to be Held at the Hotel Kensington Next Week.

A district convention of the Improved Order of Heptasophs will be held in this city next Wednesday at the Hotel Kensington. A meeting of the local lodge was scheduled for last night but as there was no quorum present the transaction of business had to be postponed.

At a meeting to take place in the office of Leifke & Laing, in Park avenue, Tuesday night important business with reference to the district convention will be considered. Michael Armstrong will probably be the delegate to the convention from the local lodge, and it is also likely that J. V. E. Vanderhoef will be the choice of the convention for district deputy.

Teachers Are Returning and Getting Ready for Fall Term Commencing Tuesday.

WANT AN INSTRUCTOR

ALBERT PETERS DECLINES THE PLACE OFFERED BY BOARD.

Superintendent Wightman and President James R. Joy to Select Substitute—Repairs Made to the Buildings.

Many of the teachers of the North Plainfield High School have returned home and the borough schools will reopen on Tuesday, September 8. Some of those in town are Miss Susie Glass and Miss M. M. Montague. Professor Robert H. Saunders, who will have charge of the manual training department, has returned and is spending the intervening days before school opens in getting his department in order.

A telegram has been received from Albert Peters, who has been engaged to take the place of one of the instructors, of the school, notifying the Board of Education that he will be unable to accept the position he considered last year. Yesterday Superintendent Homer J. Wightman and James R. Joy, the president of the Board of Education, were in New York seeking a man to fill the position.

The supplies ordered for the opening of the school term have arrived and Mr. Wightman, assisted by some of the teachers, are at work assorting the supplies for the coming year. It is stated that there will be a large entering class.

During the absence of the pupils the school has received a thorough cleansing and many necessary repairs have been made to the Somerset and Watchung schools. Teachers will be at the school Monday to register pupils.

CLUB EXPELS ITS SECRETARY

HARRY MITCHELL OUSTED FROM COLORED ORGANIZATION.

The Young Men's Progressive Club Objected to His Methods—Alleged Sharp Practice.

Harry Mitchell was expelled from the Young Men's Progressive Club at a meeting last night. The action grew out of the sale of a large number of unauthorized tickets for a dance given August 27 by the society, which is a prominent local colored organization. Mitchell, who was the secretary of the club, had about 100 tickets printed and sold on his own authority and, according to the other members, failed to turn over the proceeds to the club treasurer.

The club had expected to entertain not more than 100 guests at the most, but when the night arrived found that the arrangements they had made were wholly inadequate to accommodate the large number that attended. The fact that the guests were so greatly in excess of the number of tickets legitimately sold, and that speculators had been selling tickets in front of the door made the committee suspicions and the investigation that resulted discovered Mitchell as the man responsible.

The club lost considerable money by the transaction where it had expected to profit. Mitchell's father, it is understood, has signed an agreement to pay the club for all the unauthorized tickets sold through the agency of his son. In spite of this, the action to expel Mitchell from the club was considered at a meeting Monday night and formally taken last night. The expulsion dates from September 1.

—Neuman Brothers will, tomorrow, have 50 baskets of fancy eating and preserving tomatoes. Prices will be lower on basket sales.

RUSHMORE-MURRAY FACTION NOW ACTIVE

Said That W. S. Angleman Will Aid Kean's Forces in Fourth Ward.

REAL FIGHT IN THIRD

HOT TIME EXPECTED IN FOURTH'S SECOND DISTRICT ON TUESDAY.

Primaries Being Held in Each District, There is Little Chance for Centralizing Fights—McCardell at Work.

As of old, the Kean and Fowler factions in this city as in other sections of the county are marshalling their forces for the annual fall combat. Interest in the situation in the Third and Fourth wards of this city is steadily growing, and a renewal of the old fight in the Second district of the Fourth ward seems certain. It is understood that W. S. Angleman is to take a leading part in the fall campaign in support of the Kean faction and with him will be Daniel Galbraith, with the fall strength of his strong political influence. On the other side will be array the united forces of Anderw McArdell.

A new factor enters into the campaign this fall from the fact that there is less opportunity to combine the forces of the several districts. The new primary law provides that the primaries in each district be kept distinct, precluding all chance of union. It is understood that considerable money has already been pledged for the support of Kean in the Fourth ward.

In the Third ward the Rushmore-Murray people who are backing Kean, are thought to be advancing Former Sheriff W. T. Kirk for their candidate for assembly. Even if the Kean supporters in Plainfield do not seem to be getting many definite successes, still they claim to be gaining ground each year. As evidence of their growing strength, they instance their defeat of William N. Runyon for the assembly last year, and the election of Frank Corieli as sheriff.

FIREMEN'S PARADE.

Chief Stahl and Former Chiefs As Well As West End Hose Com- to Go to Boonton.

Every arrangements has been made for the departure of the West End Hose Company for Boonton, where the firemen's parade will be held Monday. The entire West End Hose Company will be in line, representing twenty members. As guests will be Chief of the North Plainfield Fire Department J. J. Stahl, and Former Chiefs William G. Debele, David Bodine and George Fairchild. Councilman James K. Arnold will represent the Common Council at the parade.

The apparatus, which has been overhauled and revarnished for this event, will be driven to Boonton by Wesley Dunn, a call man of the Plainfield Fire Department. He will leave tomorrow evening at midnight and will journey to Morristown and later continue on to Bonoton. The members of the company will leave this city on the 6:25 train Monday morning and will arrive there about two hours before the parade commences.

Condition of Road a Disgrace.

Taxpayers in the vicinity and the traveling public who are compelled to use the road from the Coontown Church to Dog Watch Hollow in Warren township are contemplating calling the attention of the incoming Grand Jury of Somerset County to the deplorable condition of this thoroughfare. It is a disgrace and dangerous to drive a horse over. A few days ago a young woman from this city while driving over this highway had a valuable horse go lame.

Plainfielders There.

Several Plainfielders attended the wedding of Miss Elizabeth Casner, daughter of Alfred and Mrs. Harriet Casner, of Elizabeth, was married in that city Wednesday night to Joseph E. Cannon, of the same place. The ceremony was performed at 8 o'clock at Grand Army Hall, East Jersey street, by the Rev. Dr. Henry Hale Sleeper, rector of Grace Church.

Chief Doane to Attend.

Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, will leave town Monday for Atlantic City where he will attend the annual convention of the International Association of Fire Engineers. The delegates assemble Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, and sessions will be held from then on every morning, afternoon and evening until Friday.

FORGED WILLS A SPECIALTY

COUNSEL FOR LATE CHARLES L. FAIR TELLS OF FORGED DOCUMENT.

No Attention to be Paid to Will Which Has Been Trumpted Up Unless Introduced.

George A. Knight, who was attorney for Charles L. Fair for many years prior to the latter's tragic death, has just returned to San Francisco, Cal., from the East and declares positively that the alleged will sent by mail to Judge Murasky last Sunday is a forgery.

Mr. Knight says every expert forger in the country had offered to make young Fair any kind of a will he wanted at the time it became known that his father had practically disinherited him.

"We know them all," continued Mr. Knight, "and have samples of work from forgers in St. Louis, New York and elsewhere—wills in a handwriting identical with that of the late Senator James G. Fair.

"None of the forgers I have referred to had a hand in making the document sent to Judge Murasky. It is too crude and blundering in penmanship for their style. The Fair heirs will pay no attention to the document, unless some one asks that it be admitted to probate."

HOPE Y. M. A. PLANS.

Organization Arranges for Fall and Winter Season at a Special Meeting.

The gymnasium and athletic teams of the Hope Y. M. A. will be working by the first week in October. Preparations for the opening of the fall season were made last night at a special business meeting in the Y. M. A. gymnasium. Judge Runyon was in the chair.

A committee was appointed to attend to the reorganization of the basket ball team. It was composed of Thomas Chamberlain, George McComb and William Dilkes. A committee, consisting of Albert Grieb, B. Collins Firstbrook and James Montross, was chosen to superintend the repairing of the bowling alleys. A bowling team will be put in the field by the first of October. Thomas Chamberlain reported that the pool table would be in place by October 1. Gymnasium classes will start about the same time.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT.

Play Begun on the Y. M. C. A. Courts—The Results.

The opening match of the Y. M. C. A. championship tennis tournament in doubles was played yesterday, the play resulting in a victory for Collier and Woodland over Rogers and Spicer by a score of 6-4. The tournament match scheduled for the afternoon between Denton and Sampson and Koons and Miller has been postponed until Denton returns from his vacation.

This morning Anderson and Robbie defeated Weintraub and Scull 6-3. Match play between Collins and Munday and Nischwitz and Long is scheduled for tomorrow afternoon.

Reception at Hope Chapel.

Many of the friends of Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard gathered at Hope Chapel last night to tender them a "welcome home" reception. The affair was entirely informal. The reception committee consisted of David Bowden, J. Fred Wharton and Alexander Gordon. Mr. and Mrs. Howard returned this week from a two months' vacation spent mostly in South Hampton, N. Y. They also visited Chicago for a short time and spent a few days with the Hope campers at Lake Hopatcong.

"Tinker" Smith's Effects.

The various household effects left by James M. C. Smith, better known as "Tinker" Smith, who died August 26, will be sold at auction the latter part of next week by Hezekiah Hand, auctioneer. The sale will be at Smith's farm on Greenbrook road. Many relics of the old days of fire fighting will be displayed. Mr. Hand is acting for George A. Shipman, the administrator of the estate.

To Reopen Mills.

The Watchung Knitting Mills is receiving consignments of wool and cotton and, it is said, the plant will soon be reopened. The mill has been closed down on account of a disagreement between partners. A settlement was made whereby the mill will be reopened, the same number of men be put at work again.

Noise at Band Concert.

Walter Wilson, thirteen years old, was arrested last evening by Marshal Peter Blaich, charged with disorderly conduct at the band concert. A hearing will be given him this evening.

OPEN AIR CONCERT POPULAR IN BOROUGH

Great Crowd Listens to Music by Ben LaVere's Band and Soloists.

ANOTHER FEAST LATER

SECOND OF THE SERIES TO BE GIVEN SATURDAY EVENING, SEPT. 12.

James W. Casey's Selections Score a Decided Hit—Said That Band Stand Will be Erected—Plans for the Future.

The presence of four thousand people at the first free public band concert in North Plainfield last night attested the popularity of open air music in the borough. At the close of the programme steps were at once taken to secure another concert Saturday evening, September 12, at the same place, Watchung and Fairview avenues. Representative boroughites subscribed $30 for the next concert. It has been decided to arrange for a series of open air musical carnivals next summer.

This was the programme:

Part I—March, "The Club Fellow," Johns; overture, "Raymond," Thomas; concert waltz, "Soul of the Rose," Frantzen; cornet solo selected; medley, "The Climax," O'Hare; vocal solo, (a) "Longing for You Sweetheart," (b) "Sing Me a Song of the South," Casey, by Ernest R. Ball.

Part II—Selection from Faust, Gounod; descriptive, "Forge in the Forest," Micharlis; selections from "The Wizard of Oz," Bieljius; rag time, "Poor Lil Mose," Amsted.

Ernest R. Ball, baritone, sang three selections composed by James W. Casey, who was present. The selections rendered were: "I'm Longing for You Sweetheart, Day by Day," "Sing Me a Song of the Sunny South" and "Little Sallie Brown." He was applauded lustily. Albert Sweet, cornetist, received several encores. Luther LaVere, who played the baritone horn, did remarkably well in carrying the solo parts in many of the difficult pieces played.

Many of the people in the neighborhood decorated their houses with Oriental lanterns and American flags, giving to the neighborhood the appearance of a typical mid-summer's night festival of music. Among those whose houses were decorated were former Councilman Murray Burtis and Andrew Kenney.

As a token of appreciation for his work in making the concert a success, the crowd contributed $12 to Bandmaster LaVere. This surprise was arranged by Mr. LaVere's assistant, Bert Harold.

A large, handsome band stand, designed especially for open air concerts, will be erected from the proceeds of the fair which is to be held in Saengerbund Hall during the week preceding Thanksgiving Day.

BEDFORD WILL.

Document Filed in New York Leaves All to Wife Whose Child Was Spurious.

The will of Gunning S. Bedford, who died in Paris last February, and whose wife was arrested on May 16 last in London for attempting to pass off another woman's baby as the child of Bedford and herself, was filed yesterday in New York. Mr. Bedford left real property which was estimated at $10,000, but the value of the personal estate is not given.

Mrs. Bedford, who is a cousin of Mrs. Zerrega, of Park avenue, was accused of attempting, through the bogus child, to obtain $500,000 left by Mr. Bedford's father, Frederick Bedford, with the stipulation that the interest on the money was to go to his son for life, and afterward to his son's heirs. If he died childless, however, it was to go to other heirs, who at the time of Mrs. Bedford's arrest were contesting the will and trying to prove the child that Mrs. Bedford had with her to be a spurious one, adopted for the purpose of defrauding them.

When the case came to trial in Bow Street, London, on May 28, she confessed she had obtained it from a young workingwoman in Isleworth, who had answered an advertisement that had been inserted in the papers at her direction, and setting forth that a certain Mme. B. wished to adopt a female child.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. RELIANCE WINS CUP

Great Yacht Trophy Remains In America.

SHAMROCK WAS AGAIN OUTSAILED

Final Race of the Series Ends in a Triumph For the Fleet Winged Defender of the Blue Ribbon of the Sea.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The Reliance, the American cup defender, won the third and final race and the series for that famous sea trophy, the America's cup. In a dense fog which prevented vision beyond 200 yards she finished the race at 5:30:02 amid the acclamations of the assembled fleet. Shamrock III., after running for more than an hour in the fog, missed the finish line, passed by it and then returned to it from the opposite direction. As the Reliance was then being towed through the fleet, the yacht ensigns fluttering from her truck and spreaders in celebration of her victory, the Shamrock III. did not cross the finish line. As often said of the historic race when the America won the cup, there was no second.

This successful result was achieved only after four futile attempts to sail off the final race and after the outcome had been admitted by even Sir Thomas Lipton to be a foregone conclusion. The race was the eighth attempt. After one fluke the Reliance won the two following races, one by 7m. 3s. and the other by 1m. 19s.

A week ago the first attempt to sail the first race failed, and attempts have been made every day this week. On two occasions the Reliance led the Shamrock to the finish line by about two miles, but failed to reach it before the expiration of the time limit of five and a half hours. This victory means that the cup is destined to remain in America until England is able to produce a genius equal to Herreshoff in yacht designing.

Rarely if ever has there been a more spectacular finish than this final one. After racing for more than an hour at terrific speed through a blinding fog the Reliance burst through the wall of mist upon the vision of the spectators on the fleet assembled at the finish line and, heeling under a great bellying balloon jib topsail until her lee rail was awash, fled across the finish line almost before the spectators could determine for a certainty that it was she. Once more the Yankee boat had added to the long string of victories in contests for the honored old silver trophy that carried with it the blue ribbon of the sea.

The regatta committee waited until the last moment to send the boats away at 1 o'clock, after which hour it had been agreed that no race should be started. Signals were displayed to indicate a windward and leeward course of thirty miles south and back.

The duel between the skippers began at the sound of the preparatory gun and continued through a series of brilliant maneuvers in which Captain Barr again proved his splendid seamanship by outgeneraling Captain Wringe until the boats went across the line. During the fifteen minutes before the starting gun Captain Barr held the British boat under his lee and for most of the time blanketed. He never relinquished the windward position, which the Reliance held when the preparatory gun was fired. Ten minutes later, when both boats were heading away from the line, the Shamrock luffed and forced the Reliance about, whereupon both headed for the line. On the way to it the Reliance held the challenger under her lee quarter, partially blanketed. Alternately luffing and keeping away, Captain Barr prevented the Shamrock from getting away from him and across the line, but two minutes after the starting gun and at the sound of the gun indicating the expiration of the handicap Wringe luffed the Shamrock across the stern of the Reliance, and the two boats went across the line together.

The official starting time was: Reliance, 1:01:56; Shamrock III., 1:02. The Shamrock actually crossed the line at 1:02:03 and suffered a handicap of three seconds.

Both were heading seaward; but, as the Reliance from the lee bow of the Shamrock was backwinding her headsails, the Shamrock III. promptly whirled about and headed down the Jersey coast [illegible] for a minute and [illegible]

BAD CASE OF "NERVES."

How a Boston Man Took Wife's Advice.

Result Was Good, but Nearly Brought on a Famine.

People in sound health, with steady nerves, and every part of their body tingling with life, and the joy of living are apt to laugh at a case of "nerves." As a matter of fact, nervous troubles are very real indeed as any physician will tell you. Only a reliable nerve tonic should be used in such an emergency.

Mr. Herbert Furbush, of 153 F. St., South Boston, was a fortunate man to recover as he did. All his friends and relatives testify that his remarkable recovery was due entirely to Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great nerve tonic. Mr. Furbush himself describes his experience as follows:

"I was first taken with night sweats so that my underclothing would have to be changed in the morning. I thought it was consumption and my wife thought so herself. I could not eat anything and was about to give up work when one night I went home and my wife had bought a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura, the famous tonic.

"I scolded as I did not have any faith in it, but, finally my wife said so much that I thought I would try it, and to my surprise before I had half of the bottle taken, I could eat anything set before me and looked for more.

"Now when I feel I need a medicine in the Fall I always get Dr. Greene's Nervura. I would not be without Dr. Greene's Laxative Pills if they were a dollar a bottle."

If you are in doubt, consult the great Nerve Specialist himself. His advice is always free to all. Write to Dr. Greene, 101 Fifth Ave., N. Y. City.

Steinway Rounded Out Victory.

Designer Fife Refused to Talk. Captain Wringe, While Agreeable, Still Would Not Talk Further Than to Say: "We Did the Best We Could, but the Other Boat Was Best."

Captain Barr of the Reliance Said After the Races: "Reliance Is a Beautiful Boat. Had All Kinds of Weather and Won in It. Our Adversaries Did the Best They Could With the Material at Their Command."

Glasgow Feels Relief.

GLASGOW, Sept. 4.—The announcement of the Reliance's victory was received here with a feeling akin to relief that the long drawn contest was ended. The most sanguine of the Shamrock III.'s supporters did not expect the challenger to make more than a fair show in the final race. It is generally admitted that the whole fabric of British hopes was built up on the false assumption that Shamrock I. was a decidedly better boat at the time of this year's trial races than when she was beaten by the Columbia off Sandy Hook. Uniform regret is expressed at Sir Thomas Lipton's failure after making such a persistent effort to secure the America's cup.

Motor Cycle Made Mile In 56 Seconds.

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—In an attempt to beat the track record of 58 4-5 seconds Albert Champion at Charles River park established a new world's record for motor cycles by riding a mile in 56 seconds. The occasion was the benefit meet to add to the fund for a monument for Harry Elkes, the rider who was killed at this track on Memorial day.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 4, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

The mushroom crop of presidential possibilities is rather small today.

General Nelson A. Miles was in New York yesterday and do you know the Sun forgot to sling any mud at him.

An exchange says that there are three fruit trees in Germany to every inhabitant. Now how many steins are there?

It is reported that life insurance rates in New Market have taken a rise. "Mayor Bill" Smith has purchased an automobile.

A maniac is alleged to have sought President Roosevelt's life on Wednesday. Probably he was driven insane by the children in a flat.

Some Westerners unloading their loads on a fellow singing "Please go 'way and let me sleep" the other day. The victim is resting comfortably.

And now the Democrats in North Plainfield are fighting among themselves. There's a good opportunity for Swackhamer to make a reputation as a pacificator.

Members of Company K are much interested in the matches taking place at Sea Girt this week. The reason why is plain. Captain William B. Martin is one of the contestants.

It is said that Mrs. Roland B. Molineaux has obtained a divorce in what South Dakota people call a court. The only person to be congratulated is old General Molineaux.

A ten years' old child in Connecticut went to see a melo-drama the other day and died from the effects. The opening of New Brunswick's opera house is scheduled for Labor Day.

It seems that North Plainfielders enjoy open air band concerts to a greater degree than do Plainfielders. No sooner was the concert ended last night than arrangements were made for another to take place next week.

Wars, manufacturing competitions and sports, not being in its line when America is considered, it's puzzling to know just what sort of challenge to make to England. What have they in the Carrie Nation line?

There is strong circumstantial evidence in the case against former Governor David B. Hill, charged with having presidential aspirations in his possession. At the Rockland County fair yesterday he relieved himself of some bitter thoughts on the strenuous habit. Following closely his attack on the spectacular method there remains little doubt but that he will be indicted by The Commoner.

Funeral of Mrs. Griffing.

The last exercises over the body of Mrs. Emma C. Griffing, widow of Hon. Sidney L. Griffing, of Suffolk county, N. Y., who died Tuesday, were held yesterday at the home of her nephew, Frederick B. Walker, of Spooner avenue. Rev. Nathaniel J. Sproul, of the First Presbyterian church, of Dunellen, was in charge. The services were simple, there being no special music and no bearers. The interment was in Rosedale Cemetery, Orange, N. J.

Dr. Moldencke's Investments.

Karl Ruppenstein has sold his farm to Dr. Charles Moldencke. The tract is located at Watchung. Rev. Dr. Moldencke has purchased a property at South Plainfield and is now building a house on the place.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Charles Meyers, of South Second street, has returned to work at Potter's after a week's illness.

"Mat" Sweeney, of Potter's Press Works, attended the funeral of an uncle in New York City yesterday.

With the exception of the blast furnaces the Clairton steel plant, of Pittsburg, has closed down for four weeks for annual repairs, the taking of stock and scarcity of orders. Approximately 1,000 men are idle for the first time since the big works began operating. The blast furnaces will continue running as they have all they can do.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

There has been some misunderstanding as to where the game between the D. A. C. and the Bound Brook team is to be played, but now it is definitely decided that the game will take place at Bound Brook. It is hoped that a good crowd of rooters will turn out and cheer the boys on to victory.

A double header has been arranged by Manager Smith, of the D. A. C., with the Williamsburg A. C., of Brooklyn, to be played on the home grounds. This is the strongest team the local boys have had to cope with this season and the games will no doubt prove very interesting.

A delightful party was given by Mrs. John Conklin Wednesday afternoon in honor of her grandchild, Miss Laura Conklin. Many young people were present and spent the time in playing games At 6 o'clock refreshments were served.

Chief Whyhuskey will call his sturdy firemen out this evening and give them some practice in manipulating the apparatus.

The Misses Sadie and Mattie Barrett, who have been visiting Miss Jessie Havens, have returned to their home in Brooklyn.

Miss Estella Eycke has returned home after a two weeks' visit with relatives in Hunterdon County.

Mrs. Ferdinand Hock, of Somerville, is spending a few days with her mother, Mrs. Katherine Maier.

Miss Hattie Giles has returned home after spending a few days visiting her aunt at Bound Brook.

Miss Mary Logan is confined to the house with a fellon on the thumb of her right hand.

Charles Linbarger has returned home from a week's visit with Brooklyn friends.

Mrs. Lydia Vail and children are visiting friends at West Chester, Pa., this week.

S. R. Titsworth has accepted a position at Levering & Garrigues' factory.

Mrs. George W. Day has been entertaining Mrs. Bessie MacKenzie.

Special services will be held in St. John's Church this evening.

James Currin, of Elizabeth, was in town yesterday on business.

The band will meet for weekly practice this evening.

NEW MARKET.

The Juniors held their regular bimonthly meeting last evening in Friendship Hall. Routine business was transacted.

Walter Blair, who was injured at Levering & Garrigues' Iron Works a few days ago, is able to be around again.

Mrs. John TenEyck has returned home after a month's visit with relatives in New York State.

The band will hold its band concert on Nelson's lawn this evening if the weather permits.

Mrs. Harry Machamer is entertaining her parents of Sunbury, Pa., this week.

"Mayor Bill" Smith is the owner of a handsome new electric automobile.

Miss Mary Dunn is visiting Newark friends this week.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Samuel Lee and George H. Johnston, who were appointed members of the Registry Board, failed to attend the meeting for organizing of the Board on Tuesday. Frederick Schmidt and James Johnston were appointed to fill the vacancies.

Scotch Plains and Westfield clash again tomorrow on the baseball diamond. The game being on Scotch Plains' ground. This attraction should be one of the best drawing cards of the season. Game will be called at 4 o'clock.

Efforts are being made by the baseball fans to have the morning game with Alis on Labor Day transferred to the Plains. As the games are arranged Scotch Plains is left without a game of ball on one of the best days of the season.

There is room for an up-to-date meat market in town. Many towns no larger than the village have several markets, but Scotch Plains, for several months past, has not even had one shop.

The Board of Registry has completed its canvass of the voters in the township. The registry list is about up to the average for several years past, having 314 voters enrolled.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert M. Clark, of the borough, who announced the marriage to their friends last week, are making their home for the present with Mr. Clark's parents.

Herbert Hetfield, who has been seriously ill for several weeks, has recovered and is able to be at his duties again at the new stand at the station.

Several of the members of Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., paid a fraternal visit to Cranford Council last night.

Mrs. Isaac Oliver, of Kearney, has been spending two weeks with Mrs. John Flannery, of Westfield avenue.

The regular weekly prayer meeting of the Baptist Church will be held in the church parlors tonight.

The Township Committee and Board of Health meet in the town rooms tonight.

A number from the village enjoyed the band concert at North Plainfield last night.

Ferdinand Meyers was the guest of Newark friends on Thursday.

Mrs. John R. Marsh is spending a few days at Asbury Park.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Farmers and gardners have suffered in many cases by the mold and rot in lima beans. Oscar Thorn thinks the loss from his crop will be $100.

Henry Mollison, who is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company in Philadelphia, is spending his vactaion at his home.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chamberlain and son are spending a few days at the farm as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thorn.

Mr. LaBaw, of Clinton avenue, is building a residence for his son near the old home.

Miss Ethel Aumack, of Keyport, spent yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Oscar Thorn.

The registration committee is visiting voters in preparation for the coming election.

Charles Maltby, of Plainfield avenue, is fishing today near Bound Brook.

W. D. Clawson has been chosen to attend court in New Brunswick.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—W. W. Stratton and family, of East Fifth street, have moved to Elizabeth.

—Here are some of Neuman Brothers' vegetable specials for tomorrow: Green beans, lima beans, wax beans, spinach, cauliflauer, cucumbers, Boston lettuce and tomatoes. They have a large assortment but it does not last long. Order early.

—Mrs. George Demler, Jr., of Watchung, is planning to move to Duer street, this city. John Bodenheimer, the manager of the Watchung Ice Company, will move into the house vacated by Mrs. Demler and John Gunn will occupy the house left unoccupied by Mr. Bodenheimer.

—A horse drawing a milk wagon at break-neck speed down Watchung avenue this morning caused a lot of excitement but no particular damage. The horse belonged to a local milk dealer, William H. Moffett, and had been left standing on Watchung avenue near East Fourth street. A passing street car frightened it and several wagons collected in front of Neuman Brothers' store were placed in jeopardy by its sudden flight. Peter Neuman, of the firm of Neuman Brothers, managed to catch the animal by its bridle and avert the collision which threatened.

Distress After Eating Cured.

Judge W. T. Holland, of Greensburg, La., who is well and favorably known, says: "Two years ago I suffered greatly from indigestion. After eating, great distress would invariably result, lasting for an hour or so and my nights were restless. I concluded to try Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and it cured me entirely. Eugenia Burch Won by a Head.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4. — Eugenia Burch won the Reaper's stakes for three-year-olds at Sheepshead Bay. The favorite, Proper, was second and Sheriff Belle third. Odom made a claim of foul against Fuller, on Eugenia Burch, but the stewards decided to allow the official placing to stand. Faulconbridge cut out the pace for over a mile, when he stopped. Eugenia Burch and Proper then went to the front, and in a hot finish Eugenia Burch won by a head. Lady Amelia, from the stable of Woodford Clay, captured the Dash stakes for two-year-olds, with Dolly Spanker second and Grenade third. The Homestead cup steeplechase over the full course resulted in an easy victory for Jim Newman, who jumped away in front, led the entire distance and won pulled up by forty lengths.

Taby Tosa Won by a Neck.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 4.—Taby Tosa won the handicap at a mile and a sixteenth from the odds on favorite, First Mason, at Delmar park. First Mason set the pace for a mile, with Taby Tosa a close second fifteen lengths in front of the third horse. Seventy yards from the wire Sheehan on Taby Tosa urged her a little and she responded readily, while F. Smith used his whip vigorously on the favorite, but to no avail. Taby Tosa won by a neck.

Racing at Gentlemen's Park.

BALTIMORE, Md., Sept. 4.—In the two class races at Gentlemen's Driving park early speculators had an even break. Pure Gold won the 2:15 pace after five hotly contested heats, and Evelyn Byrd, who sold in the field, won the 2:18 class trotting event in the same number. The Maryland Futurity stake, trotting division for foals of 1900, was won by Hafton in 2:28¼.

Indian II. Won $1,240.

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—Indian II. won the Golf Steeplechase handicap, the feature at Harlem. Falella, equal choice with Indian II., was second, with Duke of York third. The race was worth $1,240 to the winner. Dodie S. won the third race, a mile and three sixteenth handicap. She carried only 87½ pounds, under which she simply ran away.

Little Boy Won at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, Sept. 4. — Little Boy, owned by Samuel E. Parmer, won the Erie County Selling stakes at a mile and a sixteenth, the feature event at Kenilworth. Little Boy was an outsider in the betting. He won easily by two lengths. Lampoon, the favorite, collapsed when challenged in the finish and passed under the wire seventh.

The Auto Boat Race.

PARIS, Sept. 4. —The automobile boats have completed the fifth stage of the race on the Seine from Paris to the sea. The section was from Caudebec to Havre. The Mercedes finished first, the Flora second and the Loute third.

Antisaloon Man Suffers.

KEYSTONE, Ind., Sept. 4.—The residence of Abraham Showalter, who has been prominently connected with the antisaloon movement, was entirely demolished by dynamite. The family of five persons escaped with their lives. All were slightly injured, being covered by the ruins.

A New Canal Treaty.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 4.—Congress is discussing a bill authorizing President Marroquin to negotiate a new Panama canal treaty with the United States. The Opposition is doing its utmost to prevent congress approving the measure.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FASHION FORECAST.

What Is Now Worn and What Will Be Worn Later.

Almost the only thing of which fashion is certain as yet is that pedestrian suits are to be made with long coats and short skirts cut in many breadths and clearing the ground by half a hand's breadth. Tweeds, just such as have heretofore been devoted to men's use nearly exclusively, are made up into the most stylish of costumes. Some of these are perfectly plain, with nothing but the twill to designate them, but others have several quite fancy touches. Tweed is practically indestructible, and when well chosen as to color nothing can make a more satisfactory suit. The very nature of the stuff requires careful tailor work with a plain finish like that in the men's garments. No trimming can be tolerated on the tweed suits except careful stitching and the buttons. The larger and fewer of these the better for style. Some of the Bannockburn tweeds have slight effects of other colors than the general one in tiny knots and fine threads showing at unexpected places and times, not enough to be noticeable, but still enough to give a little variety. For instance, there is a light brown tweed with a green thread and sometimes a fine red one showing as though quite by accident.

After the tweed suits the cheviots are probably the best. They are produced in excellent quality and are made so well and are cut on such fine lines that fewer dresses are required than when they are made of poorer qualities and in an inferior manner. The long coats also lend their dressiness to making a finer and more elegant suit.

For what we call tailor suits tweed in one of its forms is the best and most durable of materials, with cheviots, etamines, meltons, zibelines, homespuns and mixtures following in the order mentioned, and there are also quite a number of light coverts and brilliantine and sicilienne suits for runabouts. These last are made up in distinct tailor manner, though some of them to suit every taste have sun or accordion plaiting.

Some of the blue cheviot suits have the skirts cut in seven gores, snug at the hips, with a long straight fronted coat. These coats often have fly-fronts and sometimes double breasted effects. In whatever way they are made they look well. The straight fronts will doubtless be the favorites. They are satin lined, and all are more or less ornamented with strapping. Most of the sleeves are in coat shape.

Black, blue, light brown, mixtures and the nickel and gun metal shades of gray are very fashionable for these most useful suits. The nickel and gun metal are to be found all through the list of woman's special requirements. On the fine silk warp henriettas, on ribbons, silks, satins and velvets and velutinas, feathers, gloves, buttons and all sorts of ornaments one finds the nickel and gun metal shades with their subdued luster, and in satin and taffeta the two shades are beautiful.

Even in deep mourning the clever workers have somehow been able to give the black garments something of the luster of metal in the application of highly finished black satin ribbon over crape. A rich mourning suit for fall shows a thirty-six inch coat bordered with crape over the eudora, with two rows of the satin ribbon at each edge. The same plan is carried out on sleeves, bertha and skirt. It lightens up the somber costume beautifully, while in nowise detracting from its purpose.

Evening gowns as the present outlook shows them have very old fashioned berthas on the low necked waists, with the shoulders left very much in evidence and a point in front. All around is a full bertha of lace or in some cases of beautiful fringe. One dress had a four inch silver fringe. Lace over silk, and the lace lavishly beaded and spangled, will be very much employed the coming season. The berthas are pointed in some cases, and many pointed shawls of fine embroidered china crape will be worn, as well as many lace shawls of the same shape.

There is something deliciously quaint and old timey about many of the newest things for the coming season. Cloaks for evening wear are almost as long as the skirts, and the trimming reminds one of the fashions of the fifties. HENRIETTE DE BOULAINVILLE.

CHAPTER IX.

THE PLEA.

The prisoner heard her exclamation. His quick glance took in her figure and that of her escort. A scowl settled upon his handsome brow and his lips set in a firm line of anger. As they advanced, he drew himself up between his captors and made a stately but freezing abeisance to the lady.

"What is the meaning of this disturbance?" Bessemer demanded of the sergeant in charge of the soldiers.

"This is the rebel, sir," the man answered, saluting, "upon whose trail you sent us. We captured him some miles back and were bringing him into camp, but when we reached the gate yonder he broke away from us."

"Well," Bessemer inquired sharply, "what did you find on him? Anything?"

"I searched him as soon as we captured him," the sergeant answered, "but could find no papers."

Bessemer tapped his foot upon the ground and studied a moment. "Doubtless," he said at last, "he carries his dispatches in his head instead of in writing. You come from Gen. Gates, I believe?" He turned to the prisoner.

"Indeed?" the other responded, with an interrogatory inflection.

"Bearing messages to Col. Sumter?"

"Ah?"

Bessemer's black eyes flashed angrily. "No insolence, sir. I recognize you now. Unless I mistake greatly, you are one of those arch conspirators who last month hung three of his majesty's most loyal servants. The leader of your band is in my hands, a prisoner. He hangs at sunrise. You hang with him, save on one condition only—that you reveal within the hour the contents of those dispatches, be they written or verbal, which you were conveying from Gen. Gates to Col. Sumter. On those terms alone will I spare your life; indeed, it is a piece of clemency in which I am scarce warranted."

"Col. Bessemer's reputation for mercy is world renowned. His 'quarter' hath become a household word. Of like fame are the honorable terms he ever offers those who have that which he would wish to purchase. 'Tis strange so few honest men take advantage of such magnanimity."

The mocking bow matched the mocking words. Bessemer's fury came near choking him. Jane half started forward, as though she would save the reckless American from his own mad folly—then checked herself.

"Enough. Sargeant, take him to the house by the back way. Have him securely locked in some upper room and well guarded until I can find time to deal with him. Dear lady," he added, turning to Jane with softened tone, as the soldiers obeyed his orders, "I most humbly crave your pardon for this unseemly interruption. Let us dismiss it from our minds and take up our discourse where it was so rudely broken."

"Nay," Jane answered in a low tone, her face pale, her eyes troubled, "first tell me that you did not mean your threat to hang Capt. Worthington if he does not give you the information you desire, a thing he will never do if he possess any. I am sure, however, you do not mean to hang him. It was but a ruse, was it not, to induce him to speak—a mere bit of play?"

"A bit of play, madam, which will cost Capt. Worthington his neck. He is a troublesome fellow whom I have long wished to be rid of; a pestiferous gadfly, ever buzzing around and annoying our troops. Besides, he is a cold-blooded murderer, well deserving of his fate. Nay, he shall hang by the side of his fellow-knave, and soon, at that."

"Oh, you cannot mean it," Jane cried. "Surely, surely you are only saying it to—to—appall me."

"And is your interest, then, so great in this rebel?"

"My interest is great in anyone who is the subject of injustice. It is enough that you should hang that poor old gentleman who to-day had the misfortune to become your prisoner, but that you should contemplate hanging a man whom you have sent out your scouts, your spies, to hound down, and who has not even an incriminating paper upon his person, that is passing all bounds! I cannot believe that the king would approve of having his cause sullied by such acts." She spoke with fervor, carried beyond the point of discretion.

"You speak with most surprising ardor, madam," Bessemer remarked, his face black with passion, "but permit me to advise you that his majesty the king wisely leaves such matters to the judgment of his trusted officers, well understanding that an unscrupulous foe must be dealt with in a manner befitting the method of his warfare."

"Uncrupulous foe as you may term them," Jane answered, "I have yet to learn when the American forces have ever treated an honorable prisoner of war in so summary manner. The three tories whom they hung were not, as you well know, real soldiers. They were but outlaws, brutal desperadoes, wearing the king's uniform as a cloak and a screen."

"I fear, dear lady, the partiality which you have for the enemies of your king has somewhat dimmed the clearness of your judgment. However, I feel that I owe myself most severe censure for the cruel wound which I have so unintentionally inflicted upon you. Had I sooner realized how deeply you are in love with this young Worthington, I should have taken pains to have kept from you the punishment which I feel it my duty to mete out to him."

"Is a woman's heart never to be swayed save by love?" Jane asked. "Can she never plead for justice without having her motives impugned? If I have spoken in behalf of Capt. Worthington, if I have besought you not to put into execution your cruel threat, I am impelled by motives of common humanity."

"Is this true, Jane?" Bessemer cried eagerly. "Is it so that you do not love him? Do you pledge me your honor on it?"

Jane drew back. "Pledge you my honor? No. If my simple word be not enough, where would I find the honor to pledge?"

Bessemer, torn betwixt rapture and uncertainty, searched her face with jealous eyes. Surely, 'twere too fair a face to be aught but honest. "Ah, my ever ready-tongued Jane," he said, "you little know the weight your words have lifted from my breast. This one rebel have I feared I had more cause to dread than all the rebels in all the armies on this continent combined."

"Then that explains your severity to-night. I can well understand that one might be inclined to deal harshly with a person one feared; but since this poor Worthington is so humbly placed that to fear him would be to belittle yourself, surely mercy is easy."

Again did Bessemer regard her suspiciously. "An artful plea," he observed, "yet I am not so sure that this rebel is not still to be feared; though, could I have the safeguard of your love, I would fear nothing earthly. I would dwell too near Heaven for that. Come, Jane, you who can be so tenderly considerate of others, surely will not keep me longer in suspense. Tell me that you will answer 'yes' to the request I made this morning?"

"Dear colonel," replied Jane, "the man I marry must be humane as well as brave. Your bravery, none questions; your humanity, it remains for you to prove."

"Ah, madam," he returned, "it is well known that happiness is the great propagator of virtue. Grant me the happiness I seek, and you will find that my humanity will blossom in its sunshine. To clinch the argument, give me this hand and that young rebel shall not die at to-morrow's sunrise." He took her hand as he spoke and pressed it to his heart, but Jane withdrew it quickly.

"Surely," she observed coldly, "Col. Bessemer needs no bribe to spur him to an act of justice, and if he did, he will remember that virtue is its own reward."

"Ah, but virtue is not the reward I seek," he retorted flippantly, while his brow contracted with irritation, "unless, indeed, dear lady, you tipify yourself as virtue. But a truce to fencing; let us to the question. Is it a bargain, or is it not? Is this young man to be reprieved through your sweet offices, or is he to hang at sunrise?"

Jane turned upon him angrily. "And do you suppose, sir," she demanded, "that I would give myself to a man so cruel as even to think of offering such a bargain? Never. If I marry you, it must be for what you are, not for what you offer. But," she added more adroitly, "I rely upon Col. Bessemer's mercy."

Progress in Porto Rico.

According to William H. Hunt, the governor of Porto Rico, the natives of that island have been attacked with a widespread contagion. The inhabitants have never had the epidemic before, and some believe it incurable. Its symptoms are a remarkable activity of mind and body, an eagerness on the part of the young to learn, and a willingness among those older to work. Mr. Hunt is on a visit to this country at the present time, and when asked for a diagnosis he answered: "The Porto Ricans have contracted the 'get there' spirit of the Yankee. The island is fast becoming a prosperous American community. We are awakening the natives from their ancestral lethargy, and find that they can hustle as well as ourselves, with some encouragement."—N. Y. Tribune.

Where They Never Kiss.

It seems hardly possible that there can be a nation in these civilized times who never kiss. Yet it is a fact that in Japan a husband when he bids good-by to his wife never kisses her, but presses her hand and bends his forehead to the mats in a sad farewell. No Jap ever courts his loved one with the kisses usually so dear to the British lover, nor does the mother ever kiss her sweet babe as she fondly presses it to her bosom. In Britain the salutation is composed of a bow, handshaking and a kiss. But the Japanese expression of regard is strictly regulated by the number and lengths of the salaams.—London Tit-Bits.

Chief Justice Gummere Has Dismissed Indictment.

WERE NOT CRIMINALLY NEGLIGENT

Newark's Great Trial of Millionaire North Jersey Street Railway Directors Ends In a Verdict For the Defendants.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 4.—Chief Justice Gummere in the Essex county court announced that he had decided to grant the motion for the dismissal of the indictment for manslaughter against eleven officials of the North Jersey Street Railway company who were accused of having by alleged neglect of duty caused the death of Ernestina Miller. Miss Miller, who was a high school pupil, was killed, with eight others, in the Clifton avenue crossing accident of Feb. 19.

The motion to dismiss was made by Richard V. Lindabury, counsel for the defendants, after the state rested its case. The chief justice after having announced his decision ordered the jury to acquit all the defendants, which was done.

In instructing the jury to find a verdict of not guilty the chief justice said that to hold the defendants criminally responsible it must be shown that they had failed to perform some specific act. This the state had failed to do, he said. He declared that the claims of the state that the derailing switch is universally in use was not proved, as statistics showed that less than 10 per cent of the trolley crossings over steam railroad tracks were so provided. That, the justice said, left it a question whether other safeguards were not equally good.

Referring to the rules of the North Jersey Street Railway company, the chief justice said, as laid down to its employees, these are sufficient safeguards under ordinary circumstances. He said that from the evidence it was apparent that if sand had been used as called for by the rules, had the car been stopped thirty feet from the crossing, as the rules called for, and had the conductor gone ahead to the crossing to signal the motorman, the accident would not have happened.

The chief justice said that the claim of the prosecutor that the front platform of the trolley car was so crowded with passengers that the motorman could not work the brake was not proved by the state. Not a single witness had been produced, he said, to show that any car up to the time of the accident had come down the grade not under control.

The chief justice said that in view of these facts all he could do was to order the jury to return a verdict of not guilty in the case of all the defendants as the state had failed to show that any of them were criminally negligent.

KLAMPENBORG BURNED.

Danish Petroleum Steamer Destroyed by Oil Explosion.

LONDON, Sept. 4.—The captain and a portion of the crew of the Danish steamer Klampenborg, from Blyth for Cronstadt, have been landed at South Shields. The Klampenborg was abandoned on fire. The third engineer was killed, and six of the crew are missing.

The survivors had a thrilling experience. The fire which had broken out on board reached the petroleum tanks on Sunday and caused a terrific explosion, killing the engineer. The crew took to the boats during a violent storm. One boat with six occupants drifted away and was not seen afterward. It is supposed that she was swamped in the high seas. The weather continued so bad that the survivors in the other boats took refuge again on the Klampenborg on Monday evening. Driven off by the fire, they had to take to the boats again and were at the point of exhaustion when they were rescued.

Gabriel Gabea Sues Major Glenn.

MANILA, Sept. 4.—Gabriel Gabea, a native of Leyte, sued Major Edwin F. Glenn of the Fifth infantry some months ago for 15,000 pesos' damages for false imprisonment, as he had been arrested by order of Major Glenn on suspicion of aiding the Samar insurgents. Gabea has now come forward with an offer made through Governor Taft that if Glenn will admit that his imprisonment as an insurgent sympathizer was a mistake he (Gabea) will at once withdraw the damage suit. This offer was promptly declined by Glenn.

Freaks of the Motor Car.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 4. — While Charles Schmidt, a German chauffeur, was engaged in preliminary trials of a racing automobile here the steering gear of his machine broke and let the automobile run wild. It dashed into a fence at the side of the track and tore down a dozen rods of it. Schmidt was found to have had three ribs broken by the collision. At the other end of the track a tire on the machine in which Barney Oldfield, also engaged in preliminary work, burst, and the machine turned completely over.

A Loop the Loop Victim.

ST. PAUL, Sept. 4.—A "loop the loop" side show claimed its second victim here. Frank Futzin, the latest man to try the dangerous experiment, was badly injured. The operator curls himself inside a large ball which rolls down a long shoot and around the loop. The ball struck the loop all right and went halfway around it, when it fell, striking the iron rafters at the bottom and bursting open. Futzin was taken out unconscious and may die.

ROD AND GUN.

Elvin VanName and Edward Eaton spent yesterday at Sewaren fishing. The men had good luck and returned home with a big catch of weak and blue fish, some eels and a forty pound sea turtle.

In New Jersey yesterday the opening of the Wilson or English snipe (sometimes called bog or jacksnipe) season began. Reed birds and upland plover may also be hunted. The marsh hen, (commonly known as the mud hen), or rail bird, has its opening and will no doubt attract many hunters. No one is permitted to have more than thirty marsh hens in any one day. Non-resident gunners should remember that in New Jersey a license must be taken out before hunting. The cost of this, together with the certificate, is $10.50. This does not apply, however, to those who gun only for wild water fowl, snipe or mud hens.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

When Roger Ericson, paymaster of the Manganese Steel Safe Company, returned to his place at the Clinton avenue works the other day he was amazed at the decorations that filled the office and almost obscured his desk. Large placards bearing the name of Mr. Ericson for Councilman for the Third ward with short sentences and funny sayings greeted him on all sides.

Every imaginable odd kind of an object was hung about the place. Mr. Ericson stood silent and gazed intently for a few moments and then he joined his companions in hearty laughter at the ridiculous surroundings.

LITERARY.

A delicious little comedy in the September McClure's is "The Pompadour Angel," by Mary Moss. A snowbound Pullman car in the Jersey Bad Lands, with its quota of Pullman types—two Wall street brokers, a bald headed old gentleman with spats, a highly conventional New York society man and "rising" young lawyer, a highly conventional chaperon, and a would-be unconventional society girl, heart-broken for her impecunious cavalry lieutenant, and last, the "pompadour angel," in the person of a buxom, breezy, straight-fronted, capable, mannish, candy-devouring type-writer girl, with her typewriter for a deus ex machina. The plot is too good to disclose.

HOW TO VOTE AT TUESDAY'S PRIMARY

Simple Explanation of Intricate New Law Valuable to Plainfielders.

MUST NAME HIS PARTY

ONE MUST FIRST ASCERTAIN IF ON THE REGISTRY.

Lead Pencil to be Used in "Scratching"—Assistance to Those Blind and Ignorant—Care to be Exercised.

How to vote at the primaries which will be held Tuesday, Sept. 8, from 1 to 9 o'clock is a perplexing question to many who have not thoroughly read the new primary law which goes into effect this year for the first time. At that time the voters will select candidates for ward officers, and the delegates who are to attend the county conventions for the nomination of candidates for Assembly.

It is most important that every voter interested in good government should make it a point to vote at the primaries on that day. It is at the primary elections where is really settled the question of who shall eventually administer the affairs of the State and municipality.

The new law is designed to give the citizens the opportunity for full and free expression of opinion as to who the candidates shall be. Failure to use the opportunity will deprive any voter of all right to adversely criticise his party's choice.

There will be but little difference between voting at the primaries and at the general election. The district boards of registry and election will sit both as a board for conducting the primary and for registration of voters during these hours.

Upon entering the polling place to vote at the primary, the voter should ask if he is registered, and then request an official primary ballot of the party in whose primary he wishes to participate. He will receive the party primary ticket he asks for and no other. He must designate which party ticket he wishes to vote. He can not get both. The voter will then retire to a booth, the same as on election day, and prepare his ballot by erasing with a black lead pencil all names thereon other than those for whom he desires to vote. He can write the name of any person he chose to vote for, or can use pasters of candidates of his party who are not on the printed ballot. He must then fold his ballot so as to disclose the official endorsement on the back.

The voter must be careful not to vote for more candidates for delegates than his election district is entitled to; or for more candidates for ward office than are to be elected; and not to cross more names than he means to. Should he make a mistake in preparing his ballot render it illegible, soil or destroy it, he may obtain another from the election board. He can have but one ballot at a time, and not more than three in all.

Any person who takes oath that he is blind or unable to read or write, the board of election shall, at his request, designate one of their number to retire with him to the booth and assist him in preparing his ballot as the voter shall direct.

A voter may have his ballot prepared before he enters the polling place provided an official primary ballot is used, but in that case he must procure an official ballot from the election board and retire to a booth as though he had no ballot when he entered the polling place.

Any voter who shall vote in a ballot box of one political party at any primary election shall not be allowed to vote in the ballot box of any other political party at the next succeeding primary election; the board of registry and election will indicate in the registry book the name of the political party whose primary ticket each voter voted by writing opposite the name of each voter the first letter of the name of the political party with whom he voted.

IS A FEROCIOUS COLORED MAN

WALTER BRITTON WRECKS VENGENCE ON WIFE AND HEADQUARTERS CELL.

Arrested for Fighting With Wife and Fined—Then Brutally Treats Wife and Escapes.

Walter Britton, colored, was arrested by Patrolman McCarthy for engaging in a pitched battle with his wife.

When in a cell at the police station his longing was so desperate that he almost kicked the sides out of his cell door. When he became quiet enough to appear in court he was fined $10 by City Judge Runyon. Britton wanted his wife to pay his fine but he met with no encouragement.

Just as the police were boarding a train with Britton to take him to Elizabeth, Henry Wierenga produced the amount necessary to give him his freedom. When Britton met his wife near the Brookside Sanitarium where she is employed, the couple resumed their battle and Britton never desisted until he had pounded Mrs. Britton's face almost to a jelly. Britton left town for parts unknown immediately thereafter, and although a warrant for his arrest was issued by Chief Campbell, of the borough, the efforts of the police to recapture him have been unavailing.

MAY REPEAL SCHOOL LAW

BADLY MIXED ACT FAILS TO PROVIDE FOR SUFFICIENT FUNDS.

Opinion of Attorney General R. H. McCarter—Matter Before State Board.

It is provided by an act of the last Legislature, passed as a supplement to the general school law, that no school district shall be bonded for school purposes for an amount exceeding three per cent. of the ratables of such district. It now develops that several districts in the State are already bonded for the entire amount allowed under the law, while several other districts have so nearly reached the limit as to leave but a narrow margin.

This condition exists particularly in districts where there has been a large increase in the population, without a proportionate appreciation in the valuation of the ratables. When the matter was brought to the attention of State Superintendent of Public Instruction Charles J. Baxter, he promptly set about trying to devise some way out of the difficulty.

Mr. Baxter appealed to Attorney-General R. H. McCarter for an opinion as to whether or not the ratables or railroad companies, which are taxed by the State, should be included in estimating the valuations in the several districts. This has not been done, but the addition of the railroad property to the other ratables would mean a considerable addition to the amount available for school purposes.

The opinion of the attorney-general rendered, is that the railroad property could not be included under the act, and Mr. Baxter brought the matter to the attention of the State Board of Education. An interesting question as to the validity of last winter's act is raised by the constitutional provision making it the duty of the Legislature to provide for a system of education that will give opportunity to all children between certain ages to acquire an education without cost. The probable outcome of the matter will be a demand next year for the repeal of the present law and the passage of some measure affording the desired relief.

BRIEF SKETCHES OF THOSE SELECTED TO FILL VACANCIES.

Miss Eloise B. Santee and Miss Georgia Ricker in High School—Eleven Weeks Vacation—Improvements.

Renovated and redecorated without and within, Plainfield's five public schools will throw open their doors to the pupils of the city at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. After a refreshing vacation of over eleven weeks, Plainfield's boys and girls are now preparing to renew their work in the schools.

There will be some changes in the corps of teachers in the various schools, but for the most part familiar faces will greet the rooms full of pupils. At the High School, Miss Eloise B. Santee, of Hornellsville, N. Y., will take the place of Miss Ellen E. Niles, who has been granted a year's furlough by the Board of Education. Miss Santee is a graduate of Smith College and has spent nearly two years abroad studying in European countries. She will have classes in German and English. Her class will be taken by Miss Georgia Ricker, of Springfield, Mass., a graduate of the Westfield, Mass., Normal School and an able teacher. In the Franklin School, Miss Edna G. Potter, of Friendship, N. Y., will take the place of Miss Julia Jerome, who has accepted a position as teacher in New York State. Miss Potter has been a teacher since her graduation from the Kansas State Normal School. Miss Emma W. Cornish has accepted a position as teacher of music at Redbank and her place will be taken by Miss Elsie E. Gould, of Providence, R. I., a graduate of the Rhode Island State Normal School.

Miss Margaret Cory, of the Washington School, has been forced to resign her position on account of ill health. Miss Cora L. Henderson, of Kobelsville, N. Y., who is a graduate of Cortlandt Normal School, will take her place. Miss E. Adele Beebe, of Mystic Connecticut, will take up the duties of Miss Elizabeth Coates who has accepted a position as teacher in Pennsylvania. Miss Beebe is a graduate of the Rhode Island State Normal School and has spent the time since graduation as teacher in Mass. At the Irving School, Miss Elsie Kattelle, of West Newton, Mass., a graduate of the State Normal School at Framingham, Mass., will take the place of Miss Florence Hughes. Miss Hughes will take up her fall dutes in the public school at Wellesley, Mass. Miss Mary Cooper will not be back to her duties on account of a position as teacher elsewhere. Miss Ada B. Weatherwax, of Dunellen, a graduate of Cortlandt Normal School, will take her place.

Miss Alice Parker and Miss Elizabeth More will not resume their duties at the Whittier School as both have secured positions as teachers elsewhere. Miss More is to teach at the public school at Yonkers, N. Y., and her place will be taken by Miss Rita Pond, of Myrtle avenue. Miss Pond is a graduate of the Trenton Normal School and has had experience in teaching in the school at Scotch Plains. Miss Katherine L. Dillon, of Fitchburg, Mass., will take Miss Parker's place. Miss Dillon is a graduate of Firmingham Normal School and Smith College and has been a teacher in Massachusetts.

The Bryant School corps of teachers will lose the services of Miss Mary Brooks, who has been transferred to the Lincoln School in place of Miss Louise Rawson who has secured a position in Brooklyn. Miss Kate Marsh, of Holley, N. Y., will take her place. Miss Marsh is a graduate of the Normal School at Brantsport, N. Y.

Newly decorated schoolrooms and assembly halls will greet returning students and the regular summer repairs have made the city school buildings bright and new inside for the opening of the fall term—a fourteen week period of study until Christmas.

FRANK SOMERS' END CAME UNEXPECTEDLY

Genial County Clerk of Somerset Died in Brookside Sanitarium.

PROMINENT POLITICIAN

FROM NEWSBOY TO ASSEMBLYMAN—HIS RISE A RAPID ONE.

His Father, Freeholder Daniel Somers, a Democrat, But Son a Republican—Death Caused by Congestion of Brain.

Frank W. Somers, clerk of Somerset County, passed away at 1:45 yesterday afternoon at the Brookside Sanitarium, in North Plainfield, after an illness of three days. Death was due to cerebral congestion superinduced by the shock of a fall sustained Sunday near his home in Somerville. The news of the death of the popular County clerk spread rapidly throughout the city and it was not long before anxious inquiries were being received here from all parts of the county. Many people were unaware of his being at the sanitarium and were loath to believe the report.

As a politician, Mr. Somers was well known in this part of the State. Born in South Bound Brook, January 22, 1868, he won his way to prominence in politics as a result of his studious habits when a boy. His father was Freeholder Daniel Somers, a leading Democratic politician. Soon after leaving school young Somers secured a position with the Central Railroad of New Jersey as newsboy on the trains. He later secured a position in several stores in Bound Brook and devoted his space time to study. At an early age he showed a marked interest in politics. He was employed by Charles E. Dunham, of Bound Brook, in the latter's hardware store and remain with that concern until he was elected Assemblyman from his County.

He was elected to the Assembly in 1893 and again in 1894. In 1895 he was chosen county clerk of Somerset and served in that capacity until 1900 when he was re-elected. He has served three years and had yet two more years to serve before his term expired.

Although his father was a staunch Democrat, Mr. Somers adhered to the Republican cause and as nominee of that party was elected to all the political offices he held. He did not identify himself with either the Reed or Thompson factions of his party in the County but acted as a pacificator between the two forces. His mission seemed to be that of harmonizing the warring divisions.

After his marriage in 1895 to Mrs. James Cauley, widow of the late James Cauley, of Somerville, Mr. Somers moved to the county seat where he resided at the time of his death. In his private life he was almost as well known as in politics. He was a member of the lodge of F. and A. M., of Bound Brook and of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks, at New Brunswick. In the Junior Order of American Mechanics he was prominent and upon several occasions held offices. His grandfather was a shipbuilder on Long Island and his father was a justice of the peace and carpenter in Bound Brook.

Mr. Somers had not been enjoying the best of health for almost a year. Sunday evening, while returning to his home in Somerville he fell and fractured his kneepan. He was brought to this city Tuesday and taken to the Brookside Sanitarium. His wife, who had been confined to the institution for almost five months, was discharged the same day her husband was admitted to the institution.

Instead of improving, he had gradually grown weaker. The shock of the fall hastened congestion of the brain and it was seen yesterday morning that there was little hope of his recovery. His wife was summoned from Somerville and arrived shortly before the end came.

The services will be held from his late residence at 108 South street, Somerville, Monday afternoon at 1:30 and at 2 o'clock from the Second Reformed Church.

The Masonic Lodge at Bound Brook will have charge of the funeral rites at the cemetery. Representatives of the New Brunswick Lodge of Elks and of the Junior Order of American Mechanis and delegates from the Bound Brook and Plainfield Royal Arcanums will attend the funeral. The interment will be in the Bound Brook cemetery.

TROLLEY TRANSFERS FROM CONDUCTOR ONLY

Order for Return to Old System Goes Into Effect in This City.

PUBLIC CONVENIENCE

FRAUD ON COMPANY TO BE PREVENTED BY ABOLITION OF PRESENT PLAN.

Tracks in City Overhauled—Seventeen New Cars With Air Brakes to be Placed on Line—Other Interesting Details.

No transfers will be issued to passengers riding on the cars of the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company on the sidewalk of the Watchung avenue terminus after today. Beginning tomorrow all passengers riding on the local lines will be obliged to ask conductors for transfer slips at the time their fare is paid. The position of transfer agent will be abolished. This is in accordance with an order made several weeks ago by the directors of the Public Service Corporation. Although the order has been executed in other cities in which the corporation operates cars, the inability of securing transfers has made it necessary to maintain the position of the transfer agent in this city up to the present time.

This announcement was made yesterday by James Brown, the assistant superintendent at Westfield. He said that inasmuch as the travelling public will find it difficult to become accustomed to the new system the conductors will be a little lenient at first but at the end of one week, if the passenger does not ask for a transfer at the time his or her fare is paid, none will be issued.

The new system has been found necessary for two reasons. First, because, under the old system, many people who have not been entitled to them have been in the habit of securing transfers from the transfer agent when he is rushed with passengers clamoring for tickets. The company has been the loser as a result. Another reason is because in rainy weather people are obliged to stand in the downpour to secure a transfer. Under the new plan the passenger can alight from one car into another without having to wait for a ticket.

In speaking of trolley matters and what the company intends doing for the service in this city, Mr. Brown said to a reporter for The Daily Press that the tracks in many places throughout the city have been overhauled and the overhead wiring has been looked over and repaired and the roadbed at present, is in fairly good condition.

He desired to correct an erroneous impression held by many people in this city. He said that the company had not employed "spotters" upon its lines to spy upon the employes. He explained that the men were sent out at various stations along the lines in order to check up a new system then put in operation. The conductors were instructed not to ring up cash fares for transfers and these men were placed along the various lines to note the way the plan worked.

When asked about what the company was going to do about new cars Mr. Brown said that seventeen four-motor double-truck cars have been ordered to be used on the main line between this city and Elizabeth. All these cars will be equipped, he said, with the latest improvements looking toward the safety of the passengers. They will be equipped with air brakes. The cars will be ready for delivery before winter.

Special music will be rendered by the chorus choir at Trinity Reformed Church tomorrow morning and evening. Miss Florence Bennett, late of England, will be the soloist. The choir will be composed of eighteen voices. Rev. Dr. Schenck has returned and will occupy his pulpit both morning and evening.

OYSTERS IN SEASON NOW

BIVALVES HIGHER IN PRICE THAN SAME TIME A YEAR AGO.

Reed Birds in Season, But Are Scarce—Cold Summer the Cause.

The first oysters from Maurice River Cove, and Schinnecock bay made their appearance here and elsewhere this week and the general trend of opinion among the dealers is that there is a good prospect for fine ones this season.

The price, like the price of everything else in the provision line will be slightly in advance of last year, viz., stewing 80 cents per hundred and frying $1.50 per hundred. However, the chances are that as the stock will be much better this season it will fully compensate for the advance in price.

Dealers throughout the State say that the oyster crop, judging from samples, will be better this season than ever before. The blue points are very fine, it is said, and not a whit behind them, according to one's taste, are the Maurice cove or Rockaways. Monday the oyster markets will be in full swing, though not for two weeks will the trade be at its best. September 15 marks the real beginning of the season.

The season for reed birds also opened Tuesday. Reports from South Jersey and surrounding districts bring little joy to the gunner, as they are all to the effect that the birds are scarce. Hundreds of men tramped the meadows Tuesday, but even the best shots returned home with few birds, and even these, it was said, were in poor condition. Veteran sportsmen say the cold summer has driven the birds south sooner than usual this year.

DE VOE'S WEATHER PROPHECY

MILD CONDITION FOR TWO WEEKS AND A HOT WAVE TO FOLLOW.

Month Will Close Tame—Killing Frosts Are Improbable—The Equinoxial Storm.

A. J. DeVoe, the Hackensack weather prophet, makes these predictions for this month:

September is here and we are going to get more summer days than we received in August. There are two questions regarding the weather during the month of September which every one is more or less interested in. First, are we to have the equinoctial storm? Second, are we to have killing frost? For years scientists have been trying to make people believe that there is no such thing as equinoctial storm. I claim that there is, but it does not always come in September.

This year I say we are close to the path which the great storm will follow. And it is due off our Middle Atlantic coast from Sept. 23 to 25. We will probably hear from it by Sept. 16, near the West Indies Islands. It will move northwestward very slowly. Florida will feel it by Sept. 20. But it is likely to trend northward, keeping on the east side of the gulf stream.

We are not likely to have killing frosts this month. I expect two weeks of mild summer weather. Great storms over England and Western Europe on Sept. 7 and 15.

A hot wave will be over us from the Sept. 15 to 20. The hot wave will be followed by violent thunder storms on Sept. 21, and a sudden fall in temperature. The wind will shift to the northeast, then look out for the equinoctial. The storm will clear off warm by the 28th and the month will close mild.

BOROUGH COUNCIL DOES WORK QUICKLY

Routine Business Only Transacted at Session Lasting Twenty-Two Minutes.

BILLS ORDERED PAID

NO OPINION RECEIVED FROM BOROUGH COUNSEL CHARLES A. REED.

James Block Appointed a Special Marshal—Reports From North Plainfield's Officers Received—Unpaid Taxes.

Having returned from the mountain and seaside resorts, the members of the North Plainfield Common Council rushed thorugh the business of the regular monthly meeting of that body in the space of twenty-two minutes last night. In that short time $3,063 was paid out for bills due; James Block, of Stone street, was appointed a marshal for special duty; reports were heard from borough officers; a resolution was adopted authorizing the Mayor and Clerk to borrow $2,000, payable on demand, and another was passed authorizing the macadamizing of Pearl street, which had taken the Council almost three months to decide upon.

Councilman VanArsdale was the only member of the Council absent. The report of the borough treasurer, George F. Brown, was this: Taxes and interest, $148.01; Board of Health, $1.51; Recorvder, fines, $38; Clerk, macadamizing, $80; sidewalks, $262; street railway repairs, Somerset street, $172.92; interest from bank, $41.09; balance on hand August 1, $6,910.92; total receipts, $7,654.45; disbursements, $5,928.49; cash on hand, $1,725.96; engine house fund, $6,362.58; borough fund overdrawn and due engine house, $4,636.62.

Chairman James K. Arnold, of the street committee, in his report showed that during the past month $232.45 had been expended. Councilman Clark, of the fire, water and lamps committee, reported expenditures of $138.80 and on John Snyder's account, $1,000. Councilman Charles Lee, of the police committee, reported that 12 arrests had been made, $14 had been received in fines and one prisoner had been committed to Somerville.

Mayor Smalley directed Treasurer George F. Brown to prepare a list of all unpaid poll and personal taxes which will be presented at the next meeting. It is planned to force the payment of all taxes in arrears.

A resolution was offered and adopted authorizing the macadamizing of Pearl street, from Watchung avenue to Somerset street as soon as the property owners pay in the amounts which they have set opposite their names on the petition submitted to the Council at the last meeting. This matter had been under advisement for nearly three months.

Owing to the absence of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed there was no written legal opinion regarding the legality of A. J. Branson's act in taking from North Plainfield taxable bank securities and transferring them to Atlantic Country. This opinion will probably be received at the next Council meeting.

A GOOD OLD ESSEX COUNTY FAMILY AND THE PARTS SOME OF ITS MEMBERS HAVE PLAYED IN HISTORY

The recent death of Mr. Thompson Price, of Newark, at the age of 95 years, gives occasion for a review of the history of a remarkable family. This family is notable for its high character, for its connection with some of the more distinguishing industries of New Jersey, and for its longevity.

Mr. Thompson Price was one of a family of seven brothers and one sister who lived to a great age. The united ages of these approximated seven hundred years. Probably no other family in New Jersey can show such a record, and there can be few like it in our whole country.

We have the date of birth of each of these eight, and, in each case save one, (that of the sister), the exact date of death. She died in a Western state in the year 1877. The seven brothers died in Newark, or at Waverly, near Newark, where was the old homestead which had been in the family about two hundred and thirty years.

It will be seen from the following particulars that the lives of this family of eight children touch three centuries, namely, the eighteenth, nineteenth, and twentieth, of the Christian era—three of the births having been in 1794, 1796, 1799, respectively, and two of the deaths having occurred in 1902, and 1903, respectively.

Jonathan Price, born January 14, 1794, died June 29, 1872, aged seventy-eight and one-half years; Phebe Price, born October, 23, 1796, died in 1877, aged eighty-one years; Daniel Price, born August 23, 1799, died April 23, 1892, aged ninety-two and two-third years; William Price, born July 22, 1803, died December 17, 1890, aged eighty-eight and one-third years; David Price, born May 28, 1805, died September 18, 1885, aged eighty and one-third years; Thompson Price, born January 13, 1808, died June 23, 1903, aged ninety-five and one-half years; Henry Price, born September 9, 1810, died July 15, 1898, aged eighty-seven and two-third years; Matthias Price, born March 12, 1814, died January 10, 1903, aged eighty-seven and two-third years; united ages of seven brothers and one sister, six hundred and ninety-one and two-third years; average age of these eight approximately—eighty-six and one-half years.

These seven brothers and one sister were the children of Mr. Daniel Price (3d) and his wife, Phebe Thompson Price. She lived to the age of eighty-four and upwards, dying in 1857, having survived her husband some thirty-three years. His father was Daniel Price, (Sr.) a patriot soldier in the Revolutionary War, who died from exposure and consequent fever about 1776, soon after the outbreak of hostilities. He had married (in 1766) Phebe Whitehead, of Elizabeth, New Jersey, daughter of Deacon David Whitehead.

This Daniel Price, last mentioned, was born about 1742, and was the son of Joseph Price (born about 1710) and of Elizabeth Miller, to whom he was married about 1738. He was an elder in the Presbyterian Church in Elizabethtown.

The father of Joseph was Benjamin Price (2d) and this Benjamin Price was one of a family of five brothers and two sisters, one of whom was Captain Daniel Price, who served in the French and Indian Wars, and who was one of the surveyors of the highway, and was in 1707 the representative for Elizabethtown in the Provincial Assembly.

The father of these brothers was Benjamin Price (Sr.) and it would appear that the natural longevity of the family came down from this worthy ancestor. We have not the exact date of his birth nor of his death. It is probable that he was born not far from 1610, and that he died about 1710. It is reasonably certain that his life well nigh, or completely, spanned a century. His will was made in 1705 and was probated in 1712. In 1689 he had witnessed the deed given by Lord Sterling's agent for Gardiner's Island. He was then evidently in active life. He was one of the early settlers of Southampton, Long Island, and in 1649 united with others in settling East-Hampton. In 1651 he was Recorder. In 1660 he was one of the Patentees of Montauk Point. In 1664 he was one of the eighty associates who constituted the original body of settlers at Elizabethtown, New Jersey. They bought the land from the Indians and shortly afterwards had their title confirmed by Gov. Nichols, who acted under the authority of the Duke of York. Afterwards, and for a long time, the right of these early settlers to their lands was held in question by parties claiming under a subsequent royal grant. Both Benjamin Price senior, and Benjamin his son were of the original eighty settlers of Elizabethtown—their ownership dating, according to certain patents finally obtained (following the time when they had paid for the lands twice over) April 8, 1676, at which date 270 acres were registered to Benjamin Price, Sr., and 90 acres to Benjamin Price, Jr.

In 1675 he (the father) had represented the town in the House of Burgesses. In 1682 he was a member of Gov. Rudyard's Council. The year following he was Justice of the Peace, and a member of Gov. Laurie's Council. In 1692 he was a Common Pleas Judge. He and his son were among the earliest to aid in settling a Presbyterian clergyman at Elizabethtown, and were among the more liberal contributors to his support.

From his earliest days his principles and his associates alike were of marked religious character. He was a neighbor (at Elizabethtown) and close friend of Capt. Thomas Young and his brother Christopher, sons of Rev. John Youngs, the first pastor of the Southold Church, Long Island, (the father seems to have carried a final letter on his name deemed unnecessary by his children.) John Youngs in 1637 was minister of St. Margarets, (near Southwold) Suffolk, England. He and others tried in that year to obtain permission to emigrate to America, but permission was refused. They arrived in New England about the time that Benjamin Price came from that section to Long Island. Possibly these good men had been friends and co-religionists in the old country. They certainly were in this new country. Naturally the new shire, or county, on Long Island became "Suffolk," and one of their settlement, Southwold or Southold. The shores of Long Island and of East Jersey closely resembled also the coast of Suffolk, England—with broad expanse of marsh, and this may have reminded them of their old home and (in each case) operated as an inducement toward settlements. Certain it is that on the New Jersey coast these worthies, with others of like character, found a goodly land and called it Elizabethtown.

The entitlement to the will of this Pioneer of civilization is as follows:

"The last will and testament of Benjamin Price Sen'r of Elizabeth Town in the County of Essex and province of New Jersey, Yeoman, made the 30th day of August, in the fourth yeare of the Reigne of Soveregne Lady Anne, Queen over England, etc., and in the year of our Lord Christ one thousand seaven hundred and five."

After various bequests to members of his household he makes the following provision:

"And Whereas I thinke it my duty to help the weakest I doe hereby will and bequeath my house and all the land whereon I now dwell unto my son, John Price, with all the meadow therennto joyneing and the meadow at Oyster Creeke and all the twenty acres of upland where he built his first dwelling house, to him, his heires and Assignes for ever, he paying to his Eldest brother Benjamin Price five pounds thirteen shillings and four pence a Year for three yeares Next after my decease in money or other goods Equivalent."

At the end of this paternal and well considered instrument he writes:

"And I doe herby appoint my son John to be my Executor and Administrator and Now I be seek you all to live in love and peace with each other and then I hope the God of Love and peace will Guide you and owne You both Now and for ever Amen."

Thus it appears that nearly three hundred years have passed from the birth of Benjamin Price, Sr., to the death, last month, of Thompson Price—in the fifth generation following the founder of this interesting American family.

The name Price is of Welsh origin, and is a modification of the old Welsh name Ap-Rhys, the prefix meaning "son of." Henry VII, the first Tudor King of England, was the son of a Welsh gentleman. About the time of his accession there seemed to have been a considerable movement of Welsh families into England. It was a sturdy stock, never conquered and always standing for the best ideals in human liberty and character.

To return for a moment to the family of seven brothers. Their lives have been spent in this neighborhood. It has been a record of honor and usefulness. Mr. Thompson Price, who has just died, was at one time the partner of Gov. Murphy. He and his brother Daniel Price were pioneers in the manufacture of the famous Newark varnishes. Matthias Price was for forty years a widely known manufacturer of Edge-tools, and his products were shipped to many foreign counties. Most of these brothers were prominent and active in church matters and in various public services. Mr. Daniel Price was at one time a member of the New Jersey Legislature. He left a considerable fortune, bequeathed chiefly to benevolent purposes. All of these brothers were earnest Republicans from the time when the Republican party was organized, half a century ago.

The accompanying picture represents six of the brothers in the order of seniority; namely, Daniel, William, David, Thompson, Henry and Matthias. These pictures were all taken about the same time; and at that time the united ages of the six then living, aggregated not far from 480 years, the youngest of all being then above seventy. They were men of stately height and bearing and of courteous manners. They all possessed the saving sense of humor. It was said of Matthias, who died last year, that, though always an earnest and serious man, he was ever ready with a humorous story or a witty remark, and was thus a cheerful, genial companion. It could almost be said that they lived free of sickness or disease. They had sound minds in sound bodies; and, at the last, passed away simply because their bodies had accomplished their mission in its completeness. Their mother was a fine singer, and her children inherited her musical faculty, and have even passed it on to their descendants. In the cases of most of these brothers the wives of their youth shared their old age. The last of these, the widow of Matthias, resides in Newark. She is in her eighty-seventh year and is in fair health. Five years ago, whilst she and her husband were paying their usual summer visit to Plainfield, they celebrated in a family fete on the lawn of their son-in-law, Mr. L. V. F. Randolph their sixtieth wedding anniversary. Mrs. Price is now in Plainfield visiting with her daughters, Mrs. Randolph and Mrs. Halloway.

Our own fair city of Plainfield was formerly a portion of Essex County, and the lands purchased from the Indians by Benjamin Price and his associates ran close to our own borders, if it did not include them. It is interesting to recall occasionally the history of the old county families whose lives and achievements were the foundations of New Jersey's prosperity and honor.

Minute Man Beat McChesney.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—The Minute Man, a two-year-old, owned by J. E. Madden, ran the fastest mile run in the east in four or five years at Sheepshead Bay. The game son of Juvenal—Semper Paratus not only ran a remarkably fast mile, but also beat the great McChesney, the idol of the west. The Minute Man, jumping away in front, held his advantage to the end, winning by two lengths. McChesney was never able to catch the flying leader. Ithan, the only other starter, was beaten off. The race was run in 1:38 4-5, almost record time. The Turf handicap, the only stake event on the card, was won by Florham Queen.

Richards of Ohio Won Cup.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 5.—All previous records in the number of competitors in an individual contest were broken when 113 riflemen reported at the firing line to compete in the Wimbledon cup match for the famous trophy presented by the National Rifle association of Great Britain, to be shot for under the auspices of the National Rifle association of America. The cup was won by Captain Richards of Ohio, who scored a total of 91 out of a possible 100.

Talpa Won, Eased Up.

CHICAGO, Sept. 5.—Talpa won the mile handicap at Harlem, eased up, in the fast time of 1:40 flat. McGee, the odds on favorite, was second, a head in front of Sidney C. Love. In the fourth race Nellie Waddell and Lady Kent were left standing at the post, while Gypzene and Cruzados were virtually left and had no chance to win. The race went to Delagoa, the even money favorite.

Dr. Cartledge Won Easily.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 5.—Dr. Cartledge romped from a good field of two-year-olds in the feature at Delmar park. Five two-year-olds faced the starter in this event and got away to a perfect start. Ben Adkins set the pace to the head of the stretch, where Dr. Cartledge came from third place and took the lead, winning rather easily from Forthand, the favorite.

Major Delmar Beat World's Record.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 5.—The world's trotting record for geldings was lowered by the bay gelding Major Delmar to 2:02½ in a trial exhibition against his own record of 2:04, and the fourth day of the grand circuit meeting here was further made memorable by Dan R., who paced the first heat of the free for all in 2:01¼.

The Golf Championship.

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Sept. 5.—Walter J. Travis of the Garden City Golf club and E. H. Byers of the Allegheny Country club of Pittsburg will meet today on the Nassau Country club links in the final round for the amateur golf championship of the United States.

VINTON, Ia., Sept. 5.—William Johnson, a laborer, was killed and five painters were injured by the collapse of the front and side walls of a two story brick building occupied by Quinn's grocery. Several workmen were carried down in the debris. The building had been undergoing repairs for a month, and an iron support under one corner gave way.

Troops Not Required.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—President Charles H. Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners addressed a letter to Governor Peabody, in which he declares that the conditions in the Cripple Creek district were not such as to warrant the calling out of troops.

FIGHTING IN TURKEY

Bulgarian Insurgents Defeated at Lake Rapela.

MANY FUGITIVES CROSS THE FRONTIER

Fifteen Thousand Villagers Take Refuge in the Mountains at Viton—Turks Destroy Thirty-five Villages.

SALONIKA, Sept. 5.—Details of the fighting between the Turks and Bulgarians at Lake Rapela, between Klissura and Kastoria, when the insurgents were defeated, have been received here. Four hundred Bulgarians were killed and many captured, including the chiefs Kole and Manoloff. The third leader, named Charkalaroff, escaped with the money that had been collected at Klissura. Two thousand five hundred troops are reported to be surrounding the rest of the band.

Fifteen thousand Bulgarian villagers have taken refuge in the mountains at Viton, between Florina and Kastoria. A revolt has begun at Razlog, fifty-five miles south of Sofia, in the Turkish province of Seres.

The railroad authorities are preparing twenty trains for the dispatch of Albanian troops to Adrianople. Two battalions of Albanian levies have arrived at Salonika, and eighteen other battalions are expected.

In the vilayet of Monastir the railroad men are working night and day rushing troops into the most disturbed areas. There are many reports of disaffection among the Turkish troops, and it is stated that the redifs are continuing to sell their rifles to the insurgents.

A telegram from Burgas states that a panic prevails in the district of Losengrad and that hundreds of fugitives are crossing the Bulgarian frontier, fearing that the Turks may begin a general massacre. At Omorabas the Turks have been defeated with a loss of 100 men, while the insurgents lost 22 of their number. It is reported that thirty-five Christian villages have been destroyed in the district of Okrido and that many women and children were killed and that others were made destitute.

It is reported that during a fight between insurgents and Turks near Uskub a body of Servians came to the rescue of the former, whose wounded were brought to Vranianitsch, where they received careful attention in the Servian hospitals.

Turkish troops have set fire to the Rhodope forest along the frontier with the object of preventing Bulgarian bands from crossing the border.

A dispatch from Sofia, Bulgaria, says that Colonel Jankoff, the insurgent leader, with three lieutenants of the Servian army, at the head of a band of 400 insurgents, with a flag flying, has crossed the frontier and passed through the Turkish posts unopposed.

General Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian committee, in the disguise of a sheep dealer, also crossed the frontier.

Captain Stoyanoff's band captured fifty Turkish soldiers at Rakovitza, about fifteen miles southeast of Sofia, took their arms and ammunition and proceeded to Melnishko.

Lapponi Is Now Commendatore.

ROME, Sept. 5.—Pius X. in order to show his appreciation of the services Professor Lapponi rendered to the late pontiff during his trying illness conferred on him the title of commendatore. His holiness accompanied the conferring of the honor by a very flattering letter to the doctor and insisted on personally bestowing the title, saying to Dr. Lapponi, "My predecessor had many peaceful years to thank you for." "May your holiness have as many," replied the doctor. "Well, I do not know that I would echo that wish," said Pope Pius, with a smile.

Tieup of Mines Is Complete.

TELLURIDE, Colo., Sept. 5.—The Federal Labor union, which works in harmony with the miners' union, called out the cooks and waiters at the Smuggler-Union mines, and in consequence nearly 300 miners working in these properties will be forced to stop work. The miners' union could not call out these men because of an agreement between them and the company made two years ago. The Federal union's action makes the tieup in this county practically complete.

Operators Will Draw Strike Benefits.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 5.—The coal strike in northeastern Missouri has produced a reversal of ordinary strike conditions. By defying the authority of the national organization the miners have barred themselves from drawing strike benefits. But the Southwestern Coal Operators' association has assumed the responsibility of indemnifying the operators for losses sustained during the present fight, and it is the operators who will draw strike benefits.

No Dollar Gas For Topeka.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 5.—The city of Topeka has lost its fight for dollar gas. The council passed an ordinance requiring the local gas company to furnish gas at a dollar a thousand feet. The company enjoined the city and brought suit to annul the ordinance. The master in chancery decided the rate to be confiscatory, and the ordinance therefore is illegal.

Alleged Embezzlement of $8,000.

DENVER, Sept. 5.—The grand jury here has reported indictments against Charles W. Grouter, formerly state auditor, and W. Cary Munsell his chief clerk. Munsell is accused of embezzling $8,000 of tax money, and the ex-auditor is charged with making no effort to collect it.

AMERICAN CONSULS.

President Roosevelt Makes an Important Change.

MEN QUALIFIED TO HELP TRADE.

Consular Appointments Will Be Made by Promotion of Experienced Men Already in the Service.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 5.—An important change of policy with respect to the making of appointments in the consular service has been decided upon by President Roosevelt. He discussed the change with Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Loomis.

For many years it has been practically the uniform practice of presidents to appoint men to positions in the consular service substantially without reference to any previous experience they may have had. Quite naturally the president endeavored always to select for appointment men of integrity and ability, but experience was not a determining factor in the equation.

President Roosevelt, after consultation with Secretary Hay, Assistant Secretary Loomis and members of his cabinet not immediately identified with the state department, has determined to appoint hereafter to important places in the consular service men who already are in the service and have had that experience and training in minor positions which will render them the more capable of filling places of higher grade and greater importance.

The change in policy does not extend the civil service to the consular service, and it does not extend necessarily a consul's tenure of office at any particular place; but, it is pointed out, it does give reasonable assurance to the manufacturing and commercial interests of the United States, which particularly are interested in the extension of the country's foreign trade, that in a comparatively brief time all important consular situations will be filled not only by men of character and ability, but by men who by training and experience are specially qualified to advance the trade in the interest of the United States.

Secretary Loomis discussed with the president several appointments in the service that are to be made very soon. It is understood that all of the appointees will be men who now are filling places of lesser importance in the service. They are to be promoted, and in turn their places will be filled by men who have not had the experience they have had.

Constable Arrested For Murder.

LEBANON, Pa., Sept. 5.—John L. Fisher, constable of the First ward, was arrested at the Lebanon fair grounds and locked up, charged with the murder of City Solicitor J. Marshall Funck on July 7. Fisher is at present under bail to answer the charge of robbing the city solicitor of $280 on the morning of the latter's death. His arrest caused a great sensation. He was watching the races with his wife and stepdaughter at the time. Fisher denies that he murdered Funck. J. Marshall Funck was one of the leading members of the Lebanon bar and was found hanging in his office.

Offer to Pave the Pantheon.

ROME, Sept. 5.—The city of Rome has just received the offer of a curious gift, which, while it has been accepted with gratitude, has caused some amusement. The commune of Buenos Ayres as a token of Argentina friendship for Italy and a tribute of affection for the late King Humbert, whose remains were buried in the Pantheon here, has offered to pave the piazza of the Pantheon and the surrounding streets with Argentine wood, which will be kept in repair by the donor.

Brewers' Strike and Lockout.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 5.—A strike was precipitated at the Born Brewing company's plant here, about 125 men going out. As a result 400 employees at the Hester brewery were locked out. The trouble was occasioned by the demand for the discharge of a superintendent at the former plant, the unions claiming that he was violating the agreement reached at the time of the strike last spring. Born refused to discharge him, and the strike and lockout resulted.

Boat Found at Sea.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 5.—Captain Curry of the Clyde line steamer Goldsboro, which arrived from New York, reports that on Aug. 31, three miles north of Sea Girt, he picked up a metallic lifeboat containing a telescope and a dress suit case filled with men's and women's clothing. The suit case was marked "R. B. C." The boat was painted black and was in good condition, but had no distinguishing marks.

Body Lodged on an Island.

OWEGO, N. Y., Sept. 5.—The body of Archie Hamburg, the young drug clerk of this place who was drowned in the Susquehanna river at Sayre, Pa., on Sunday, was recovered below Athens, Pa. It had lodged on a small island below where his canoe capsized.

Auto Racing at Glenville Track.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 5.—About 8,000 people saw the annual races of the Cleveland Automobile club at the Glenville track. The feature of the racing was the ten mile event won by Barney Oldfield of Cleveland.

GUARD FOR CONSULS

Leishman Cables That Marines Have Been Landed.

PORTE WARNS FOREIGN EMBASSIES

War Ships Cannot Pass the Dardanelles Under the Treaty Between the Great Powers and Turkey.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5. — Minister Leishman has cabled that a number of governments have landed marines in Constantinople for the protection of the embassies.

Minister Leishman also cables the state department that owing to the disturbed conditions in Constantinople an additional kavass, or detective force, has been stationed at the American legation. This action was taken on the suggestion of the Turkish government, which has assured the American minister that it will use every precaution to protect all foreigners, but has warned the different embassies and legations that it would be well to strengthen the force inside the buildings.

The porte in advising the foreign embassies and legations of the measures taken to protect them added a warning against Bulgarian bandits who might attempt to elude the Turkish guards and attack the foreigners from within.

It is a matter of some comment that there are only about 200 marines with the European squadron, but these, with the kavasses already in the service of the legation and with the Turkish guards assigned to Minister Leishman, will, it is believed, prove sufficient for any emergency likely to arise.

Officials in commenting upon the item from Paris saying that ships of foreign powers would be sent to Turkish waters stated that the United States was now sending ships to Turkish waters. The term "Turkish waters" does not mean Constantinople, they say, and, while the whole eastern portion of the Mediterranean might be covered with war ships, it was possible that none of them would force the Dardanelles. After the Crimean war a treaty was made which has been followed by subsequent treaties which prohibits war ships from entering the Dardanelles without the consent of Turkey, and Turkey must have the assent of all the signatory powers. In 1868 Admiral Farragut, with the flagship Franklin, was invited and ascended the Dardanelles, and the powers protested.

Then it was determined that no vessel of war could enter the Dardanelles. There is a proviso, however, that in case Turkey is at war with another power she might admit the ships of a friendly power. This, it is said here, is directed at Russia.

In 1895 Turkey, under the treaty, refused to allow either the Marblehead or the Bancroft, American war ships, to enter the Dardanelles.

Small ships of other nations are allowed in the Bosporus which have been sent through the Dardanelles, but these are called legation vessels and rated of little importance. However, they carry sailors who may be used for legation guards at any time. It is believed that in case the United States desired to send a launch or small vessel with a guard for the American legation Turkey would have a right to admit them to the Dardanelles without consulting and obtaining the permission of the powers.

Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, called on Secretary Hay to inform him that he had received from his foreign office official advices to the effect that the American consul at Beirut was entirely satisfied with the measures Turkey had taken to protect life and property there and to investigate and act with respect to the Vice Consul Magelssen assault.

Consul Ravndal telegraphs from Beirut that the authorities there have been actively seeking the assailant of Vice Consul Magelssen, but the consul is not able to state if he has been identified as the author of the shooting among the persons already arrested.

A CRISIS IN TURKEY.

United States Must Insist on Protection to Missionaries.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The Morning Post publishes a letter from its Constantinople correspondent, in which he discusses the Beirut affair and the position of the American missionaries in Asia Minor. He says:

"Things have arrived at a crisis. The United States must either insist upon the porte listening to its representations regarding American converts or drop the missionaries altogether. The latter course is naturally impossible, and the sending of a squadron has great significance, as showing a determination on the part of America to take an active part in the Turkish question.

"One result of this step will probably be to induce the sultan to raise his representative at Washington to the rank of an ambassador, so that the United States can be equally represented here. At present America is at a decided disadvantage in this respect compared with the other first class powers. Nobody can quite foresee the ultimate attitude of the United States, but it is almost certain that her weight will incline on the side of the Christian against the Turk. At the same time, as a matter of importance to Great Britain, America is almost bound to oppose the descent of Russia on the Dardanelles, because in religious matters the Turk is more tolerant than the Russian."

Squadron Is at Beirut.

BEIRUT, Syria, Sept. 5.—The United States cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco, under command of Admiral Cotton, have arrived here.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 5, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

Monday will be Labor Day. No paper will be published by The Daily Press.

The city collector's bill must follow the constitution. The position of the flag in this case is yet undecided.

An exchange contains a lengthy explanation on "why women don't fish." Space wasted. Our guess—because they can't talk at the same time.

The only unfortunate incident attending the burial of Lord Salisbury was the announcement that Alfred Austin had composed a memorial poem.

Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew remarks, "there is nothing in Europe to equal Coney Island." An exchange says: "Whether this is a compliment to the Europeans or the Coney Islanders depends on how you take it." The gross ignorance displayed by the exchange is an insult to the denizens of Coney.

Genuine regret was expressed here when the death of Frank Somers became known. The sad news was entirely unexpected and was a shock to many friends in both city and borough. Although a strong partisan, Mr. Somers enjoyed the respect and esteem of the general public throughout Somerset County. He possessed a genial nature which made him welcome companion.

It is not beyond the range of possibility that this strapping Republic, which Sir Thomas Lipton admits to be "the greatest nation on earth," may yet be called upon to solve that great puzzle which has so long disturbed the crowned heads. What to do with the "sick man of Europe" has been a troublesome question to the Eastern powers, but if he allows his subjects to molest our representatives in the Ottoman Empire the solution will quickly follow, and it will take less time than it did to capture Aguinaldo.

Among local politicians there has been some discussion relative to the office of Councilman, the trend being that one occupying that position in the municipal government should receive a salary for his services. In fact it is reported that an ordinance for that purpose will be introduced in the near future. If such is the purpose it is indeed unfortunate. Such a measure should be killed. Why should a member of that body receive any emoluments for his service? There has been little difficulty in the past in securing able and active men, and Plainfielders have reason to feel proud of the complexion of that body from time to time. We do not believe that there is a city in the State, or in fact in the country, which can boast of common councils of a standard superior to those which have been the rule in recent years here. Just reflect for a moment on the line of substantial men who have gladly given their services in this capacity of the city's welfare. There is no dearth of material at the present time and furthermore there is no reason to believe that there will be any in the near future. To attach a salary to such an office would lead to abuse, no matter how trifling such pecuniary reward might be made when first instituted. There is no occasion for such a change and it is hoped that any steps with that end in view be stopped at once

Twelve cars for use in the new subway have been shipped for New York from the John Stephenson Car Works at Elizabeth. CHICAGO'S JUBILEE

Striking Programme for Celebration of City's Hundredth Birthday.

A WHOLE WEEK OF FESTIVITIES

Development of the City During the Hundred Years to Be Set Forth—Parades, Notable Speeches, Athletics, Historical Displays.

Chicago—Chicago has just passed her one hundreth birthday. The "Two Million Club" has changed its name to the "Three Million Club," and the world is invited to come and rejoice. Although August 17 was the real anniversary day, and was observed as such by the Chicago Historical society and in some other quarters in a quiet way, the grand centennial week of rejoicing is set for September 26 to October 1, and the celebration promises to be the biggest anniversary jubilee ever held in this country. A half million visitors are expected by their presence to commend the efforts of the various committees which the mayor has appointed to stir the city into a state of hilarity.

Old Fort Dearborn

All things having to do with Chicago as a community have date subsequent to the August evening 100 years ago when Lieut. Swearington, after a long march with a detachment of United States troops under Maj. Whistler, sat down by his campfire and wrote:

"Proceeded on our march at six o'clock a. m. 34 miles and camped on the Chicago river at two o'clock p. m. The river is about 30 yards wide where the garrison is intended to be built, and from 18 feet and upward deep, dead water, owing to its being stopped up at the mouth by the washing of sand from the lake. The water is not fit to use. The bank where the fort is to be built is about eight feet high and half a mile above the mouth."

Pictures of the first fort, established by Maj. Whistler on a little rise of ground in a swampy region that is now Chicago, will be conspicuous during the coming centennial. The fort will be the symbolic nucleus of the city's celebration. It will be reconstructed in Lincoln park and around it will camp some of the decendents of the Ojibways, Menominees and Pottawattomies, which came to barter with the soldiers 100 years ago.

The Old Settler and Indian Days.

Among Chicago's varied residents there is numbered a goodly company of "old settlers" who can remember when the community was a very small village, the few houses of which, as one Chicago pioneer says, clustered about Fort Dearborn as a brood of chickens around the mother hen, apparently afraid to wander far. These veterans who have watched the city's meteoric progress through all of its many stages, who have seen the city's greatest disasters turned into benefits to aid its progress, will naturally find their way during the centennial to the scene of the old fort's resuscitation. There they will take part in a reunion and in an exchange of interesting anecdotes of the early days and will join younger Chicagoans in watching the games and contests in which the various Indian tribes will participate.

The Indian Days

For a city to have grown within the memory of not a few of its inhabitants from a little community of pioneer families to a vast metropolis with a population approximating 2,000,000 persons is a truly marvelous record, and it speaks volumes for the rapid development of both city and nation that within Chicago's 100 years of existence it has been the scene of one of the worst Indian massacres America has known, and has so long outlived the Indian period that a visiting redman were a great curiosity.

Memories of the Great Fire.

At the centennial there will, of course, be big parades—a Chicago celebration without a parade were like a circus without a clown—and then there will be the president—maybe. With the president it is hoped will come the members of the cabinet, the diplomatic corps and governors of several states, besides congressmen and mayors of leading cities. Regiments of United States troops and of several state national guards will ground arms in Chicago streets while waiting to welcome the nation's executive and the great military parade will follow immediately upon his arrival.

The Great Fire

The dreadful days of 1871, when relentless flames sucked their way into every commercial nook, scorching and burning everything regardless of the groans of the people and of the silent protests of unbalanced accounts, will be recalled by a realistic spectacle of fire that shall embrace all the district covered by the first conflagration. Immense quantities of Roman candle will be burned for an hour or two at night from the roofs of the taller buildings within this territory and a special bomb display will take place at the O'Leary home on De Koven street. We are not informed whether the cow will be permitted to kick over the lantern, but certainly this were a most opportune time at least to exhibit one of the descendants of that historic bossy. Doubless the great stock yards firms, which are down on the programme for one of the best displays ever contributed by them, have this matter already thought out.

The marvelous growth and development of Chicago industries will be celebrated by a monster industrial parade, given at night, and carrying elaborate illuminated floats. These floats will reveal facts and figures that will contrast most wonderfully with accounts of early industrial ventures. "Charles Walker," writes Mr. E. O. Gale, for example, "was our pioneer grain shipper. He sent 78 bushels of wheat to Buffalo in 1836." This writer recalls how George W. Dole inaugurated the packing business by slaughtering and packing 150 head of cattle, all of which were killed on the lake front. "As it was not always going to be desirable," says he, "to bucher cattle on Michigan avenue north of Madison street and pack them on Water street, with no place to keep the cattle until ready for the slaughter, the idea of a stock yards was conceived." What pictures are these for comparison with industrial Chicago to-day?

Athletics, Parades and Fireworks.

The Chicago Athletic association and the Amateur Athletic union have volunteered to provide a series of athletics and water sports that shall be international in importance. Swimmers from England, Sweden and Germany are expected to display their speed and endurance in the water, while picked crews from the big universities will enter contests of water polo and rowing. The water sports will be balanced by important athletic events on land. Altogether the sporting calendar will contain features of unique interest for the people of the middle west.

World's Fair—1893

Doubtless the most picturesque pageant will be the automobile parade at night. It is expected that 2,000 machines, some of them from Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other surrounding cities will take part. Some of the machines will be new types never before seen in the west. Many will be elaborately decorated and all will pass in magnificent review through streets festooned with electric lights. The speediest machines will participate in a series of exciting races at one of the race tracks on afternoons. By a fortunate arrangement the National Fireman's association will meet in Chicago during the centennial week. Firemen from every state in the union will be in attendance and they will participate in street exhibitions.

Civic pride's elaborate display will culminate, in this instance, with the largest and most brilliant pyrotechnical exhibition ever given in Chicago. So says the committee. The best of the firework features given at the recent dedication of the Louisiana purchase exposition will be reproduced and the lake front will be given over at the week's end to a mangnificent finale.

Permanent Benefit to City.

At least one work in which the centennial committees are interesting themselves will result in permanent benefit to Chicago. That is the placing of appropriate memoral tablets in the various historic spots about the city. This important work has been neglected in Chicago, only a few permanent records of this kind having been established and these with little apparent system. Places of historic interest in Boston, New York, Philadelphia and other eastern cities are all suitably tableted—a fact that is greatly appreciated by every stranger who wishes to visit spots with which he is familiar through books. Although Chicago is young her history is by no means uninteresting and should be suitably commemorated in this form.

The City of Today

That the centennial celebration is regarded by Chicagoans as more than a mere coup of the merchants to increase their out of town trade seems evident from the scope of the plans in other than business directions. During the centennial week a specially prepared story of Chicago, illustrated with stereopticon views, will be read in all the public and parochial schools in Chicago. Moreover, for adults patriotic union mass meetings will be held in the various churches and speakers of prominence will pay tribute not alone to the commercial greatness and past achievements of Chicago, but also to her progress in nobler lines and to the work of those of her citizens who are laboring for purer politics and a more beautiful and a more sanitary city. Apparently the educational side will be one of the most important phases.

The distinguished guests of the city will be given a reception by the Daughters of the American Revolution and will be entertained by the city's club women, who have undertaken the management of the feminine side of the fetes.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

SILLY MAGAZINES

Do Women Like Them?

TODAY I picked up a magazine alleged to be for women. On the cover it announced itself ambitiously to exist "for maid and wife." What the editor had against widows that they should be left out is not clear.

Let us look into this publication "for maid and wife." It is called, let us say, Woman's Whole Existence. Its real name is enough like that to be thus expressed. The contents are ambitiously indicated upon the cover. In big black letters across the top is first the announcement, "Pretty Japanese blouse pattern given away free."

After the bargain counter announcement of the paper pattern given away free is the headline of the principal article in the magazine, an article vaunted with large, sprawling black letters reaching across the page, They say, "Should Girls Marry For Love or Money?" Under present social conditions a far more pertinent query would be, Shall a girl marry at all? Better yet, Can she? But for the sake of both love and money let us see what this document is that undertakes to settle a girl's future.

"Common sense is more valuable than sentiment in every way. Of course creature comforts cannot be produced by love alone. To support love you must have money. Let a couple marry with love as an asset and almost no cash and love will die. That is certain. Money is more essential than love. Cash can produce love, but love never will produce money."

After all, perhaps that is not so bad preaching for the sex that has never yet learned to control its childish emotions. The features of chief importance in this magazine which heralds itself as the expresser of woman's existence are two: First, clothes, clothes, clothes; second, the silliest, flabbiest, falsest, tinseliest love stories couched in the sloppiest English you ever read in your life. If a public school girl of ten could read these love tales without being disgusted then she would not be as intelligent as the average. The heroine's "heart was on fire at one moment and then seemed like a stone in her breast the next." "That savage resolution to strike and strike hard took possession of her once more." At length she offered "that woman" a chance to "discuss this miserable business before I denounce you publicly."

There are several of these wretched tales, a hodge podge of "detectives, love and tragedy" and bad English and "a year later the wedding bells were ringing," of course.

"A YEAR LATER THE WEDDING BELLS RANG."

There is a page of advice to green girls. One green girl tells the editor that her Jack, her fiance, does not dance, while she does and is very fond of it. But since her Jack does not dance he objects to her doing so, and the girl wants to know whether she shall give up the dancing which she so enjoys just to please Jack or is not Jack a little unreasonable to ask her to stop it just because he is not also fond of this amusement? What shall she do? Does the man editor—a man's name flies to the fore in this delectable publication—tell her if her Jack truly loved her he would at once learn to dance so as to share with her her favorite entertainment? That would be the just, reasonable and chivalrous thing for the editor to say and for Jack to do. Does the editor say it? Not much! He just writes, "If you truly loved your Jack you would have no hesitation in giving up any amusement he does not care for." Just so! Ever petty tyranny on the part of man, to be met with slavish submission on the part of woman!

Finally, there are some cooking recipes in this precious magazine of woman's existence, some directions telling women how to bore their eyes out over lace and needle work, then the everlasting instructions on how to make over old dresses. Ever since I can remember we have been instructed on how to make over old dresses. And this is man's idea of the proper future for women! If they do, its so much the worse for the women. They ought to like it.

KATE [illegible]

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1901, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

"I would, sweet pleader," he observed, "that it were possible I could reconcile it with my duty to do as you wish; but, alas, I feel that loyalty to my king will not admit of it. It is a matter of gratification to me, however, that, while your womanly compassion may be wounded, your deeper emotions will not be lacerated when the rising of to-morrow's sun sees the setting of young Worthington's."

His piercing eyes were upon her face, and Jane felt her composure giving way beneath them, for at length she perceived that he was in absolute earnest.

"At sunrise?" she repeated in a choking voice, while her mind quickly calculated the shortness of the time. Ah, if she could but get a reprieve until to-morrow night, much might be accomplished during the intervening day. "Methinks, colonel, you choose a most inappropriate hour for so dark a deed. The blacker hues of midnight would better match the color of the act."

"A most wise suggestion, dear lady," Bessemer responded. "What say you to this midnight?" He drew forth his watch. It showed some minutes past 12. "Or, since that is impossible, the approaching hour of one? 'Tis done. I shall see to it."

"No, no," she cried passionately; "surely, surely, Col. Bessemer, you will not permit my thoughtless words to shorten the life of a helpless being. Do not, oh, I beseech you by all you hold sacred, do not deprive him of those few remaining hours of grace."

"The hour, madam," Bessemer answered, his relentless eyes holding hers, "is set for one."

CHAPTER X.

THE RUSE

Jane was frantic. Less than an hour! What could she do?

She and Bessemer had been an unpardonable length of time away from their guests, and the major portion of them were only awaiting their appearance to make adieus. Many precious minutes were wasted in listening to good-byes and the usual compliments upon the evening. At length, however, she shook herself free and turned in search of her brother. She found him draping Mistress Peggy Winston's shawl about her shoulders and tying her hood beneath her chin preparatory to departure. With a hurried word of apology, she drew him aside and acquainted him with Godfrey's impending fate.

"Oh Edward," she cried, "cannot you do something to gain him at least a reprieve?"

Her brother's brow contracted, and he gazed at her suspiciously. "Nay, this sudden interruption, gazed at her stepdaughter with eyes at once annoyed and pitying.

"Yes, yes, child," she answered, "I knew he was here, and I had heard some whisper that such a fate awaited him; but, after all, much as I deplore it, especially that it should happen on these premises, yet, if half the bandit acts with which he is accredited are true, 'tis no more than he deserves."

"But he should not be starved as well as hung," Jane proclaimed vehemently. "How often have I heard you boast that no one in your house ever went hungry, yet that poor old gentleman who was brought here this afternoon has not had one bite to eat since his arrival, nor has Godfrey. If they must meet so bitter an end, should they not have food to sustain them in facing it with fortitude?"

"Assuredly," Mrs. Ellery answered promptly, her hospitable instincts aroused, as shrewd Jane had known they would be. "I will order it now," half rising from her chair.

"Nay, first you must have permission from Col. Bessemer," Jane interposed, "else the sentries will let nothing pass them. Will you not ask the colonel to grant this request? See, I have pen and paper ready for you. There is no time to be lost, else the colonel may have retired, and you would not wish to disturb his rest."

Mrs. Ellery, warm-hearted, if of irritable temper, and at the same time, fortunately, a woman of no great cleverness and less imagination, fell into the trap and unsuspectingly wrote the note which Jane adroitly dictated.

"Now, Gabriel," whispered Jane, when the coveted order had been secured, "for heaven's sake, make no mistake. This to the sentry, and that to Master Godfrey and General Pierce." While Jane was interviewing her stepmother and sending the note to Col. Bessemer, Rachel had been preparing the viands, which Gabriel now bore up the back stairway on a huge tray poised triumphantly upon his head.

Jane hurried to her brother's apartment. It was not in the disorder that most men's rooms would be, for Edward was as neat as a girl. In truth, he was girlish in many things; in his delicate features and small hands and feet; in his lisping voice and mincing walk and graceful ways.

Much of a fop, also, was lieutenant Ellery, and he had brought over with him from England full half a dozen more uniforms than he needed. There had crossed with him from London a brother officer who was quite as foppish as he and had brought with him likewise a surplus of apparel. He had induced Edward to store his extra suits along with his own and, being a much larger man than Edward, it was from his wardrobe that Jane was pilfering.

The Ellery garret was divided into two rooms with a passage-way between into which the stairs ascended. The passage-way had a large window which looked out into the night. A sentry paced before the closed door of one of the rooms. Within were the two prisoners, each with his arms bou—nor would if I could," he answered harshly. "He well deserves his fate. You little know what a menace he and his band of outlaws have been to us this season. Let him take his medicine. 'Tis such a dose as he would put down the throats of others."

With difficulty Jane restrained herself from wringing her hands. More guests were leaving. In fact, the party was breaking up. Let them go; oh, let them go, that she might seek her room and think. Edward had ordered his horse and ridden away as an escort for the Winston carriage lest some bold rebels should attempt to kidnap the ladies, forsooth.

There was no one Jane could turn to. Her stepmother was Godfrey's enemy: her father was helpless. No, there was no one, unless, indeed, it might be she could use Aunt Rachel or Gabriel. Both had been house-servants for her Aunt Susannah and had known Godfrey from his babyhood; both would almost lay down their lives for him. She hurriedly sought Aunt Rachel's quarters.

After a consultation with the negress, she flew to her stepmother's room. "Mamma," she cried, bursting in upon that lady as she sat before her toilet-table, the maid brushing the powder from her thinning locks, "do you know that Godfrey Worthington is a prisoner in our garret and that he is to be hung before the break of day?"

Mrs. Ellery, not a little startled by

PILGRIMS HONOR LIPTON.

General Wheeler Tells of His Popularity in America.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—At the dinner of the Pilgrims of the United States to Sir Thomas Lipton at the Waldorf-Astoria George T. Wilson, chairman of the executive committee, presided in the absence of Bishop Potter, president of the Pilgrims.

In proposing the health of Sir Thomas Lipton General Wheeler said:

"The Pilgrims' club appreciates the honor conferred upon its members and its guests by the presence with us of Sir Thomas Lipton.

"The events of the last two weeks are an illustration of the old and trite saying that 'we sometimes build better than we know.' It is fortunate not only for himself, but for the world that Sir Thomas did not succeed in the special purpose for which he crossed the ocean. What seemed to be loss, misfortune and disaster has become in reality fortune, triumph and victory. Sir Thomas came to America to win a silver cup. He has won what is even better than a golden crown—the admiration, applause and love of the world. Any one can be grand in success and victory, but the world produces few who can rise to the height of grandeur when their most herculean efforts have failed in the cherished purpose of their ambitions.

"In all ages and in all countries the ablest and strongest of men have at times been overwhelmed with misfortune and disaster. The greatest and most successful soldiers have lost battles, have lost campaigns, have lost kingdoms, empires and country. It only proves that misfortune is sometimes even more potential than genius and that the strongest and best efforts cannot overcome the irresistible. Kosciusko is immortal in fame and poetry, though defeated in his military and patriotic aspirations, Washington after his reverses in Boston and Long Island and amid all the gloom which lowered on his cause in the dark days at Valley Forge was revered by his countrymen and trusted by his troops and people as a military commander, Lee in his almost solitary ride from Appomattox to Richmond lost none of the glory and popular idolatry which had attached to his name in the midst of his greatest triumphs, and, to use the words of the great historian, 'Napoleon, the greatest man of whom history makes mention, the most wonderful commander, the most sagacious politician, the most profound statesman, lost by arms Poland, Germany, Italy, Portugal, Spain and France. Fortune, that name for the unknown combinations of indefinite power, was wanting to him, and without her aid the designs of men are as bubbles on a troubled ocean.'

"For months Sir Thomas has been the most prominent and conspicuous individual upon the face of the globe. The calcium searchlight has been upon him every moment, and when he returns to our mother country he will be welcomed as one who in the eyes of the world has elevated the standard of Anglo-Saxon manhood, and he will carry with him the ever increasing love and admiration of the American people."

Lipton Will Not Down.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Sir Thomas Lipton is still undecided whether to challenge again for the America's cup. He said; "If I can find a man who can design a boat to beat the Yankee sloop I shall challenge again. To say that I will not challenge again is untrue. If I do challenge again it will be with a ninety footer."

Sir Thomas said that when Shamrock III. was sailing in England on a ninety-two foot water line before her extra weight was removed to bring her within the ninety foot limit she did a great deal better than after the change.

Both Shamrocks were towed to the Erie basin. They will be jury rigged and start for England in tow in about ten days. Sir Thomas said that he would not sell either of them.

Mr. Loomis Will Hunt and Fish.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Assistant Secretary of State Loomis will leave for northern Maine, where, seventy miles from a railroad, he expects to spend three weeks in hunting and fishing. During the last week in September he will pass a few days with the German ambassador, Baron von Sternburg, at The Weirs, N. H. Just before he returns to Washington he will deliver a lecture at the naval war college at Newport on the isthmian canal.

Fined For Objecting to "Hiawatha."

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—Robert Brockman of West Twenty-ninth street, who objected to the band playing "Hiawatha" in Madison Square park and became violent when they would not stop, was fined $3 by Magistrate Ammen in police court on a charge of disorderly conduct. Brockman, who came to this country from Germany only a few days ago, said in very broken English as he paid his fine, "It would have been cheap at that if they had only stopped."

First Reunion Since Civil War.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—General H. V. Boynton has issued a circular to members of the Society of the Army of the Cumberland informing them that the next reunion of the society will be held in Washington Oct. 14 to 16 and that the society will participate in the dedication of the statue of General W. T. Sherman Oct. 15. The dedication of the Sherman statue will be the first reunion of all the great army societies since the war.

"Macon" Dead at Bath Beach.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5.—John B. McCormick (Macon), the sporting writer, is dead at Bath Beach from Bright's disease. He was born in Cincinnati in 1837. For twenty years he was connected with the Cincinnati Enquirer and while on the staff of that paper had much to do in bringing out John L. Sullivan.

HOTEL MAN IN TROUBLE.

Employes of The Netherwood Want Their Back Pay—Attachments Served.

A pitiful scene was enacted in the police station this morning when several of the employes of the Hotel Netherwood, men and women, the latter in tears, reported to Chief Kisly that they had not been paid their money for services at the hotel and were in a state of practical destitution. The proprietor, Thomas Brown, they said, owed them money for services several weeks back.

Attachments have been issued on the hotel through Justice Hezekiah Hand and served by Constable Gjetleen. It is understood, however, that practically all of the attachable property at the hotel has been removed. The proprietor owes money besides, it is said, to many of the store keepers in Plainfield.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

PERSONAL.

Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Best, of Putnam avenue, returned today after spending the summer in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. Theodore Mantz, of Richmond terrace, is detained at the home of her mother, on East Fifth street, by illness.

Mrs. John Krymer, who has been at the Muhlenberg Hospital, where she has undergone an operation for appendicitis, was taken to her home on East Fifth street, yesterday.

SNAP SHOTS.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

An exchange says:

"It is really funny to see how easy it is for Repamblican editors to tackle and put down Assemblyman Swackhamer, of Somerset, when, that gentleman cannot talk back. It is all the more surprising from the fact that the best equipped Republican champions in the House last winter made a melancholy failure of the job when face to face with Mr. Swackhamer."

Wilson H. Foss and Jerry Foss, cousins, who had not met in sixteen years, came together unexpectedly in this city one day this week. Wilson H. Foss, a well-to-do New York broker came to this city on business. He had some time to spare and strolled up Park avenue. He saw a sign bearing the name of Foss and thinking it a little more than a mere coincident, went in.

He introduced himself to the proprietor of the store and was surprised to find that his cousin, Jerry, whom he had not seen since they were school boys together, was the proprietor. The meeting was all the more remarkable because Mr. Foss, the broker, did not know that Mr. Foss, the seafood man, lived in this part of the country. William Foss is an ex-billiard champion, of New York.

Chef Ed. Washington, the colored man who did the cooking for Hope campers at Lake Hopatcong, had a thrilling experience with grizzlies one morning last week. The chef arose at his usual hour to prepare breakfast, and while searching in the rear of the tent for some missing cooking utensils, found instead three large bears of ferocious aspect coming towards him at a fast trot with their maws stretched to their fullest capacity evidently in pleasurable anticipation of the enjoyment of some choice black meat. Ed's hair immediately stood on end so far as nature would permit, and he "lit out" for the nearest tree with the speed of an escaped steam engine, emitting full sized whoops at every jump. His cries alarmed the campers who came out to see what was the particular trouble. When they perceived three hungry looking bears growling in harsh and unpleasant accents, they suddenly recalled the fact that their presence was demanded elsewhere and forthwith set out without any unnecessary delay for every available tree that could be climbed, or cot that could be crawled beneath, or boat that could take them out of the neighborhood.

Their alarm was real and the more easily explained from the fact that the keepers of the animals, which were tied with ropes about fifty yards long, were a long time coming into view. When they did appear, they were earnestly requested to tie the beasts and allow the breakfast proceedings to continue. This they did willingly, but no amount of persuasion was sufficient to induce the chef to do any cooking until the strange pets were run out of camp.

After this had been done and breakfast past, the trainers, who were Frenchmen and unable to talk with any but the Texier brothers, put the bears through their stunts to the delight of all the assembled campers with the exception of Ed. Alfred Berry Marsh and "Frenchy" Texier watched bear dance with particular interest and the next day surprised their friends with a clever imitation, "Berry" acting in the role of the grizzly and Texier putting him through the metions and singing the French accompaniment. Judge Runyon is seriously considering the advisability of putting the bear dance on at the next minstrel show of the Y. M. A.

Ed. Washington told one of the campers afterwards that if he had had a double-barrelled gun handy when he saw the beasts coming at him through the woods, there would have been bear meat for breakfast.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

Recorded Deed.

A drunken miner went to his home at Olyphant and told his wife he had sold himself to the devil. He made good his bargain with two bullets in his abdomen.—Easton Express

On Defensive.

The liquor dealers of Union County have organized. Dean Gessner, of Elizabeth, may flatter himself that he had something to do with making such action necessary.—Newark Evening News.

Another Cleveland?

A good many Jersey Democrats are watching to see the outcome of Tom L. Johnson's bold dash for the Executive Mansion in Ohio. If he wins they expect to see him enter for the White House on the Potomac.—New York Herald.

Serious Matter.

It is now announced that the candidacy of Samuel S. Swackhamer for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination is no longer a joke. Mr. Swackhamer takes it seriously, and he ought not to be handicapped by his name.—Newark Evening News.

An Editor's Troubles.

Few things are more common in the experience of an editor than the receipt of communications from persons who are not pleased with facts found in the newspapers, charging inaccuracy upon the reporter, says the Passaic News. The case with which the average person will allow a remark or incident, which he would rather not hear or see, slip unnoticed through his consciousness, and then persuade himself that it never was said or happened, is one of the amusing mysteries of human nature.—Hackensack Evening Republican.

Doing the Right Thing.

The trouble begins with a tickling in the throat and a nagging little cough. Soreness in the chest follows and the patient wonders if he is going to have an all winter cold. Probably, if he does the wrong thing or nothing. Certainly not if he uses Perry Davis' Painkiller, the staunch old remedy that cures a cold in twenty-four hours. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

Ten Thousand Churches in the United States have used the Longman & Martinez Pure Paints.

Every Church will be given a liberal quantity whenever they paint.

Don't pay $1.50 a gallon for Linseed oil (worth 60 cents) which you do when you buy thin paint in a can with a paint label on it.

8 & 6 make 14, therefore when you want fourteen gallons of paint, buy only eight gallons of L. & M., and mix six gallons of pure linseed oil with it.

You need only four gallons of L. & M. Paint, and three gallons of Oil mixed therewith to paint a good sized house.

Houses painted with these paints never grow shabby, even after 18 years.

OLD SOLDIER ENDS HIS OWN EXISTENCE

Thomas Oliver, of Soldiers' Home, Commits Suicide in South Plainfield Hotel.

A FRIEND FINDS BODY

STRANGULATION AS A MEANS OF KILLING HIMSELF.

Former Resident of South Plainfield—Coroner Hubbard Views Remains—In Soldiers' Home for Ten Years.

Tired of life at eighty, Thomas Oliver, an old soldier, who was on a ninety days' furlough from the Soldiers' Home at Newark, committed suicide Sunday morning in Norman's Hotel in South Plainfield. The deed was done with an ordinary belt strap which was placed about his neck in a noose and then attached to the top of the bed post.

Oliver came to the hotel last Wednesday and hired a room. He spent much time in his apartment and, it is alleged, committed the deed while intoxicated. William Coulter, an old acquaintance, called at the house and asked to see his friend. He was shown to the room. After knocking several times and receiving no reply he broke open the door. Hanging to the bed post was the body of his friend, lifeless. His face was blackened and from the appearance of the room it is apparent the man died in agony.

He had been an inmate of the home for about ten years. Previously he lived in Oak Tree and some years earlier was a resident of South Plainfield. He was brought up by a Mr. Clarkson, of Short Hills, who was at one time his guardian.

Oliver was a soldier in the Mexican war and in the Civil War. He was a pensioner and when found had $19 in his pockets. The strap with which the deed was done was made to order in Metuchen Monday. He took pride in showing it to friends and commented upon the fact that it was exceptionally strong. It would go about his waist twice and buckle in front. With this strap of leather he ended his existence.

The remains were examined by Coroner John V. Hubbard, of New Brunswick, who had it removed to Newark.

TRINITY REOPENS.

Special Music Marks the Occasion, at Which the Pastor, Rev. Dr. Schenck, Preaches Ably.

Special music characterized the reopening of the Trinity Reformed Church Sunday, after the summer season. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, preached at the morning and evening services. He was greeted by large congregations at both services. His subject in the morning was "But We See Jesus;" and in the evening he preached a practical sermon on "Christ's Eulogy of Faith." In the morning, "The City Glorious," a soprano solo by Miss Florence Bennett, late of Halifax, Eng., was beautifully rendered. The newly organized chorus of eighteen voices led the music morning and evening.

The services were the first at the church since its renovation. During the past month workmen in charge of I. N. Wyckoff have redecorated the ceiling. Other changes, such as the cleaning and relaying of the carpets, have added much to the appearance of the church interior.

The committee in charge were Clinton Shannon, chairman; William Connelly, Thomas McInerney, Henry Wierenga, James Strapp, Victor Troice and James Day.

GOLF EVENTS AT HILLSIDE AND PARK

The Choice Score Contest in Thirty-Six Holes the Principal Attraction at Park.

HILLSIDE'S PROGRAMME

PLAY FOR HOLIDAY CUY AND GREEN'S COMMITTEE TANKARD.

C. C. Burke, Jr., Won Kicker's Handicap Also the Bogey Handicap—Tankard Event to F. C. Talmadge.

With an ideal day for the ancient game of golf the Park Golf Club course was well occupied yesterday with enthusiasts who were contesting in the various events for prizes. The rain of Saturday put the course in the finest condition and altogether the events proved strong attractions. The chief event was what was called a choice score contest. Thirty-six holes were played, but each contestant was allowed to select his best eighteen holes. Senator Charles A. Reed, W. A. Townsend and Charles L. Nichols each made a net score of 71 and were tie for first place. The tie will be played off during the coming week.

Charles A. Reed, 93, 22—71; C. L. Nichols, 97, 26—71; W. A. Townsend, 85, 14—71; R. B. Carroll, 87, 12—75; Arthur Peck, 88, 13—75; W. R. Faber, 93, 17—76; George T. Mrs. C. L. Goodrich and Frank Rogers won the putting and approaching contest with a score of 11. The other contestants were tie for second place: Mr. and Mrs. S. St. John McCutchen, 12; Miss Saidee Mae Howell and W. R. Faber, 12; Miss Daisy Elsberg and Henry C. Wells, 12.

An attractive programme of golf events brought out one of the largest crowds of the season at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club yesterday. It marked the opening of the fall season and the return to the course of many of the members who have been sojourning at seashore and mountains during the summer. Besides the events on the course, there was the dinner-dance in the evening at the clubhouse. This proved to be a social event of more than ordinary interest and was largely attended.

Among the events on the course, the regular play for the Holiday cup among those with handicaps of eighteen or more, brought out a goodly number of contestants. D. W. Taylor won a leg on the cup with a score of 77. The scores:

D. W. Taylor, 99, 22—77; Percy H. Stewart, 98, 18—80; J. E. Erickson, 98, 18—80; Harold Serrell, 111, 27—84; C. F. Abbott, 114, 27—87; F. H. Andrews, 108, 18—90; E. E. Rinehart, 108, 18—90; E. B. Shoemaker, 110, 20—90; Howrd C. Tracy, 114, 20—94.

Play for the Greens' Committee tankard also attracted a number of contestants. This event was for those having handicaps of seventeen or less, and Frank C. Talmadge scored a win for this trophy with a net score of 74. The scores:

Frank C. Talmadge, 76, 2—74; E. E. Iremonger, 91, 16—75; Walter Peterson, 83, 5—78; H. D. Hibbard, 87, 7—80; C. C. Burke, 97, 16—81; Townsend Rushmore, 99, 15—84; C. B. Morgan, 97, 12—85; C. C. Burke, Jr., 99, 14—85; Dudley H. Barrows, 91, 6—85; E. T. Barrows, 106, 12—94.

The next event and one which brought out the largest field, was the Kickers' handicap. The winning score was selected by the committee from between the score of 75 and 85. The one selected was 81 and this was made by C. C. Burke, Jr. Each contestant selected such handicap which he believed would bring his net score the nearest to the one selected. The scores:

W. T. Kaufman, 95, 22—73; G. E. Cathcart, 101, 25—76; C. B. Morgan, 97, 20—77; D. W. Taylor, 99, 22—77; Dr. F. C. Ard, 87, 10—77; H. R. Stockton, 85, 7—78; Walter Peterson, 85, 7—78; Townsend Rushmore, 99, 20—79; E. E. Iremonger, 91, 12—79; C.

HAVOC PLAYED BY SATURDAY'S STORM

Horse Killed and Park Ave. Baptist Church Cupola Struck by Lightning.

THE STABLE COLLAPSED

BUILDING FELL IN; KILLED HORSE IN HIS STALL.

Lightning Flashes About Grandstand—Caulfield Shocked and Sullivan Burned—Some of the Storm's Work.

The storm played havoc at the Alis-St. Mary's game on Crescent Oval. The large number of bicycles under the grandstand attracted the lightning and caused the current to pass through the whole structure.

A horse owned by Cormick C. Caulfield, of West Third street, was instantly killed by lightning. It was tied to a trolley pole on Arlington avenue and its owner, together with "Chick" Sullivan and Thomas Kane, were seated in the carriage. Caulfield was shocked and thrown under the carriage, Sullivan was burned about the face and hands and Kane was thrown into the road and bruised.

The cupola of the Park Avenue Baptist Church was struck and a part of it torn away. This is the fourth time that a lightning bolt has struck the church. A horse in the stable in the rear of S. Scheuer & Company's store, on West Front street, was instantly killed. The barn was struck and several tons of bales of hay fell on the horse. Peter Johnson, a South Plainfield farmer, was the owner of the animal. Johnson is in the habit of stabling his horse in this place every Saturday when he comes to Plainfield. He is a poor man.

PETERSON ADVANCED IN HILLSIDE CONTEST

Tied for First Place With Saugstad for for Golf Committee Cup Competition.

STORM STOPPED PLAY

SIX CONTESTANTS MADE ROUND OF EIGHTEEN HOLES NEVERTHELESS.

Frank O. Reinhart Increased His Score—Henry C. Wells Won Independance Day Cup at Park Club Course—The Scores.

There was a good field started in the weekly competitions for the President's cup at the Park Golf Club on Saturday, but the severe shower which visited this vicinity during the afternoon prevented the contestants from finishing.

The only other event of the afternoon was the play off of the tie between Henry C. Wells and C. L. Nichols for the Independence Day Holiday cup. In this Mr. Wells won out.

In winning first honors for the Golf Committee cup at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club on Saturday, Frank O. Reinhart increased his score three points, now having a total of 9. Frank Talmadge won second honors which gives him a total of 4 1-3 points, while Walter Peterson in securing the one remaining point now has 15 points in all and is tie with Olaf Saugstad for first position.

While the course was well filled with players on Saturday, the severe thunder storm brought a sudden termination to play. There were, however, six contestants who made the round of eighteen holes and these scores were posted:

Frank O. Reinhart, 78, 0—78; Frank C. Talmadge, 81, 2—79; Walter Peterson, 85, 5—80; C. B. Morgan, 94, 12—83; Robert Abbott, 84, 1—83; Duncan Bulkley, 104, 12—92.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

BAD SEASON AT THE HOTEL NETHERWOOD RESPONSIBLE FOR BILLS.

Attaches at Resort Are Anxious for Their Money—Trial Today in Justice's Court—Trademen Have Unpaid Bills.

Before Justice Huff forty-two attachments have been issued on claims against Thomas L. Brown, who is manager of the Netherwood Hotel, on behalf of the servants, butlers, chambermaids and other employes of the well known hostelry.

Mr. Brown conducted the hotel as lessee of the Hyde estate. The patronage at the hotel this year has been fairly good but the expenses have been greater then the receipts. It is said that the claims represent in the aggregate $1,000. Many tradesmen in this city are also seeking a settlement.

The hostelry was formerly conducted by the late Major F. W. Coleman and under his management the fame of the place spread. It was a great resort for retired army officers and was popular with them as a quiet summer retreat. The hotel is one of the largest in this locality.

It is stated that a settlement will probably be made today and all claims will be settled satisfactorily.

For a fully responsible plumber for all kinds of work you should see A. H. Evander. His office is at 210 Park avenue.

An up-to-date carpenter is one who does his work with despatch and skill. Such a man is Herman Hansen, of Regent street.

Toilet articles in large assortments are to be secured at the Somerset Pharmacy. Have you tasted Powers' ice cream sodas? If not do not waste any time before doing so.

Boice, Runyon & Co., the Park avenue coal dealers, are booking orders for immediate delivery of Lehigh coal. This is the month to buy your winter coal and it's best to have the supply in the cellar before the price goes up.

Here is an unsolved mystery. How can John H. Doane, the West Front street shoe dealer, afford to sell the finest grades of footwear at such unheard of low prices? If you want your feet to look well and feel well, see Doane.

The man who buys furniture of Powlison & Jones, of East Front street, knows a good thing. Look over their stock of autumn furniture. You will be delighted at some of their new pieces which cannot be dulpicated anywhere in town.

For absolutely pure, rich milk you should try Marchant Bros'. dairy product. It's the purest milk in town and is delivered in thoroughly cleaned, sealed bottles. Complete wagon delivery in all parts of the city and borough before breakfast.

Owing to the large increase in business, C. L. Stanley, the North avenue florist, is putting in his hot houses a thirty horse power boiler. He is about to erect some new hot houses at Netherwood. When he has the contemplated improvements completed he will have over 28,000 square feet under glass.

If you want to find out how a first-class staple and fancy grocery store is run visit L. C. Ortner's store that has just opened up on the Park avenue and Fourth street corner. If you give Ortner a trial you will not be satisfied to trade elsewhere. Call and see the store. You are always welcome whether you buy or not.

For-mal-de-hyde is the name of the disinfectant which is having such a big sale at Dudley Miller's Park avenue pharmacy. It is the best disinfectant on the market and its agency in town is at Miller's. Aside from the usual disinfecting and preventive purposes, it has found to be of great soothing power in whooping cough, croup and other zymotic diseases.

Watch tomorrow's paper for the big furniture sale at Hill & Shupp's West Front street department store. This fall sale will start tomorrow morning and will be an item of interest among the housekeepers of Plainfield. Veterinary Surgeon Makes A Happy Experiment.

Somerville Man Makes a Statement Of Interest to Many.

Dr. M. E. Mollins, of 301 Broadway, Somerville, Mass., is a veterinary surgeon and a manufacturer of veterinary remedies.

Dr. Mollins was a great sufferer with stomach troubles. Nothing seemed to do him the least good till he began to take Dr. Greene's Nervura. Then he got well! That's the great fact. Dr. Greene's Nervura cured him.

Dr. Mollins relates his experience with Dr. Greene's Nervura, the famous all the year around tonic, as follows:

"I consider it justly due Dr. Greene that I add my testimonial to those you must already have, relative to the virtue of your wonderful remedy. Quite by accident I came across your remedy.

"I have been a great sufferer for many years with stomach trouble and headaches. My nerves troubled me so that it was impossible for me to sleep or get rest. I was treated by several doctors in the United States and Canada, but kept getting worse all the time. I also tried many different remedies but none helped me. I was asked by a friend to try Dr. Greene's Nervura, which I did. After using one bottle I found myself improving, and after using the second bottle I was entirely cured.

"I take great pleasure in recommending Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy to any person who is troubled with stomach or nerve trouble, constipation or headache. You are at liberty to use this testimonial in any way you choose."

Dr. Greene's advice is free to all. He will tell you how to get well. Write to-day to 101 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Firm Belief at the Porte That Bulgaria Means Fight.

VICTORIES FOR OTTOMAN TROOPS.

Turkish Report Says That Women and Children Are Well Treated, Fed and Sent Back to Their Homes.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 8.—Official dispatches from Monastir furnish details of numerous successes of the imperial troops in that district. A body of Bulgarians intrenched in the hills between Lake Bodenik and the village of Yelendje were attacked by the troops and lost thirty-five men killed. The remainder of the band, seeking to escape pursuit, threw themselves into the lake and were drowned. At the village of Resna twenty-two insurgents were killed, and around Florina forty others perished. A band of 200 revolutionaries was dispersed at Boussovo, in the district of Debre, five being killed. In the district of Vishani two strong bands were annihilated. The women and children who were found in the forest were fed and sent back to their villages. At Smilevo a number of fleeing insurgents set fire to eleven houses. A strong wind and the explosion of hidden bombs spread the fire, and many other houses were destroyed. The defeated insurgents at Klissura burned the villages of Zopovitch, Ropalina and Scherchenidga. A band of Bulgarians burned the village of Hajidonishmend, in the vilayet of Adrianople, and then escaped across the frontier into eastern Roumelia. A body of revolutionists who were intrenched in the Sourssourol pass, near Raslog, attacked a detachment of troops, but were repulsed with loss. These insurgents were attired in red uniforms and obeyed bugle calls.

According to the newspapers, the two hussar regiments recently recruited from the tribes which founded the Ottoman dynasty and who were presented with colors by the sultan last Friday have been attached to the Second division of the imperial guard. The sultan has appointed as a sergeant in his military suit the son of a customs official who was attacked by officials in the Kirk-Kilisse district.

War between Turkey and Bulgaria is now regarded here as inevitable. It is even believed that the outbreak of hostilities will occur before the end of September. It is not thought that there will be any formal declaration of war, in view of Bulgaria's vassal status, but that some frontier incident will precipitate hostilities.

Bulgarians and Macedonians living in Constantinople are in terror of massacre. A large number of them were arrested a few days ago as a "preventive measure," and they have not yet been released.

It is reported that many of the villages in the district of Leren are burning. Turkey has now in Macedonia an army of 175,000 men, with 3,700 horses and 440 guns.

In an engagement at Simen, Losengrad, the villagers joined the Turks. The insurgents burned the village as a punishment to the inhabitants for aiding the Turks.

The revolutionaries have destroyed the lighthouse near Limanpulevo. Roumania is strengthening her military position on the Bulgarian frontier. The Macedonian organizations are straining every nerve to force Bulgaria into a war. Large and small bands are crossing the frontier of northern Macedonia, where General Zontcheff and Colonel Yankoff are organizing the insurrectionary movement, which is expected to break out in the valley of the Struma before the end of the week.

The Macedonian committees are prosecuting an active campaign to raise funds in Bulgaria. They are addressing letters to everybody in a position to contribute to the cause. The applications usually do not refer to the revolutionary movement, but ask aid for the starving and homeless fugitives from Macedonia. Where wealthy citizens decline to subscribe the organizations do not hesitate to make strong representations. A rich merchant of Philippopolis was recently told that unless he contributed $5,000 his house would be blown up.

TURKISH CRUELTIES.

Sofia Advices Tell of Burning Villages and Outrages.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 8.—The revolutionary headquarters have received information that the Turks have burned or otherwise destroyed nearly all the villages in the district of Kastoria, near the Greek frontier. The villages in that district were the largest in Macedonia, each having from 1,000 to 3,000 inhabitants. Among the largest burned were Zagoritchani, Dumbeni, Konomladi, Mokrent and Kosinetz. Altogether about twenty-five villages in that part of Macedonia have been destroyed.

It is added that 300 women and children, fugitives from Zagoritchani, went to the Turkish commander of the district to seek assistance and protection from the Bashibazouks. The commander promised them protection, but when the fugitives left the Bashibazouks pursued, outraged and killed many of the women and children.

The Turks have concentrated 18,000 soldiers in the Kastoria district, who are openly burning villages.

Stone Taken From Boy's Ear.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 8.—By means of X rays a small stone imbedded for years in the ear of Delbert Blakely Massena was removed at the City hospital. The boy had lost the sense of smell and hearing and suffered intense pain in the head, due, it was thought, to scarlet fever.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 8, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

The boat race is but a memory.

Much to their credit the true friends of labor hissed Parks, who led the parade in New York yesterday.

"A little knowledge is a dangerous thing" out in Kansas. There the unschooled young man earns $2.50 a day at harvesting, while the college bred man is receiving only $1.08.

A Jerseyman "went dead broke" the other day. A report has it that his entire assets consisted of one pawn ticket. Unable to classify such a certificate of deposit, but have written Congressman Fowler.

Maurice Proctor, of Mineral Point, Wis., according to a dispatch, receives annually a check for one cent from the United States government as his salary for carrying the mail between that place and a village called Dodgeville. We are anxiously awaiting the announcement that he has made a deposit in the "conscience fund."

Here is a really brilliant suggestion to solve that Plainfield-North Plainfield muddle: Instead of taking North Plainfield from Somerset County, take Plainfield from Union. Union wouldn't care. Probably she'd never miss the loss. And Plainfield would be satisfied and Somerset would be happy because the annexation had been effected without the loss of either Sam Swackhamer or Charlie Reed.—New Brunswick Home News.

Brilliant, of course! But when did the Home News wake up. Must have been reading over the back files of its exchanges.

Union wouldn't care? Don't you believe it. Part with Plainfield? Never! She's its only up-to-date city. She's a necessity on election day and an honor on every day. But why be so cruel, brother, as to insinuate that Plainfield would be satisfied to be a part of Somerset County. We are anxious for the day to come when North Plainfield will no longer be a part and parcel of the progressive Somerset County.

It is to be regretted that the selection of a tax collector in this municipality will not be vested in the Common Council as planned by the city fathers sometime ago. Corporation Counsel Marsh's opinion that the law passed at the last Legislature for that purpose is unconstitutional has been wisely accepted by the Common Council. He takes the stand that, inasmuch as the statute only applies to cities of the second class having a population of less than 25,000 it is special legislation. Consequently it has been decided to conduct an election under the old law this fall and to seek the much desired relief at the next Legislature. There is reason to accept the argument made by the friends of the proposed change that better results would be obtained from the office, were the power of choosing the collector removed from the general mass of citizens, the enmity of whom, in many instances, would be incurred in pursuing the duties of his office. Delinquent taxes must be collected and the more diligent the collector is the more apt he is to make enemies. Tax collectors, like other people, are human and when they have political aspirations there is danger of their being reluctant to incur the dislike of their fellow citizens.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

As the result of some mischevous boys building a bonfire of leaves on the side walk in front of Dealaman's store the awning was totally destroyed Sunday afternoon. The sparks flew up and set the awning on fire but the prompt action of some passersby saved the wood work from catching. The fire engine was not called out.

Arrangements are being made for a dance to be given in the near future or the benefit of the Dunellen A. C. It is expected to hold several of these sociables during the winter in order to place the team on a good financial basis for next season.

Uncalled letters remain at the post-office addressed to Mrs. C. E. McWilliams, E. R. Rhinehart, Tom Ledeloytner, Paul Duris, G. Leno, Richardson & Co., G. Ross and Mrs. V. Morgan.

The game scheduled between Dunellen A. C. and Bound Brook for Saturday was postponed because of the rain. The two teams will clash at Riverside Park on Sept. 19.

William Giddes, a member of the class of '02, of the Whittier School, entered the Plainfield High School today to take a preparatory course for college.

The Crescent Bowling Club, of New Brunswick, held an interesting match game on Schepflin's lawn. A special car was chartered for the occasion.

Mrs. John Moynihan and daughter, Cathy, have returned home after a few days' visit with relatives in Newark.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Giddes were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Giddes, of North avenue, yesterday.

Regular monthy meeting of the Board of Education will be held this evening in the Whittier School.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The element again prevented the local ball fans from enjoying their weekly game of baseball on Saturday afternoon, when the locals were to cross bats with Manager Denman's team, of Westfield. Manager Johnston had one of the strongest teams out that it was possible, on account of the Labor Day games, following so close upon the weekly game. Linderman, of the semi-professional Hoboken team, was engaged to relieve Davis in the box. Linderman needs no introduction to the ball loving public as there is hardly a league team in the country but what would like to have his name upon their roll, so it is needless to say the Westfield batters would have been kept guessing but unfortunate, after the two teams had warmed up in practice and the game was about to be called, the rain started and before long the diamond was a minature lake and a game was out of the question. It was decided between Managers Johnston and Denman to play again on the 19th, when the locals will probably have a chance to see Linderman in the box, as the local management have made arrangements with him to help relieve "Lefty" for the balance of the season.

The township primaries are being held this afternoon in the town hall from 1 until 9. Delegates to the County convention as well as members of the County committee are being voted for. As this is the first primary under the new law, it will seem strange to the average voter to have an official ballot presented to him the same as at a regular election, but the makers of the law promises great things for it, when all become acquainted with it. The Democratic ticket names Theodore Bruchman as delegate. The Republican ballot has the names of James Johnston and Wm. B. Noble as delegates and Edward L. Hand as member of the County committee.

During the heavy thunder shower Saturday afternoon, lightning struck the home of Charles Joerg, on Cook avenue. The bolt played about the roof knocking off the shingles and clapboards on the side of the house where it ran off in the ground. Fortunately the building was not fired or any of the family injured, more than feeling a severe shock.

GOMPERS ON LABOR.

Address of President of American Federation.

UNIONS ASK JUSTICE AND HUMANITY

Workers' Combines Strive Only For the Good of the Masses by the Advance of Industrial Freedom.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Sept. 8.—President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor in his Labor day address to 15,000 persons at the fair grounds said in part:

"We know that the toilers of America organized in a practical, peaceable, rational movement for the uplifting of the masses marched with you, and we know that as they marched they marked a milestone from the demonstrations of a year ago, a milestone in the progress of industrial freedom, a milestone in the advance of human justice, leaving behind us all that is wrong, all that is unjust, that we have been able to conquer and also making a determination that as year passes year in the cycle of time there shall stand out a humanity as broad as the universe, as deep in its love as the seas and as high in its hopes and its aspirations as the heavens above us. The world is our field and justice and humanity our goal.

"Today we have great machines of labor, new tools of labor, dividing and subdividing the labor performed, specialization of industry going on, the worker doing a thousand—aye, ten thousand—times over and over a little given thing in the great beehives of industry and all these machines propelled by the power of steam and electricity. Now, I ask every thoughtful man and woman within the sound of my voice, I ask any one who may perhaps have the opportunity of reading anything I may say, how can a workman, an individual workman, act upon his own initiative and from his own volition? Where can he act as an individual and try to secure improvement in his condition, much less protection, against a great corporation?

"Some say the workingmen lose their individuality when they join a union of labor. In truth the workingman has lost his individuality just as soon as he enters one of our great modern industrial plants.

"The old idea even among the business men that competition is the life of industry is no longer held as an economical tenet. It is no longer believed and declared by men who know the trend of events in the development of industry. They realize that competition is today the death of the trader."

Parks Got No Ovation.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—"Big Bill" Devery in one carriage and Mrs. Samuel J. Parks in another led the Labor day parade down Fifth avenue. Samuel J. Parks, the walking delegate who is out of Sing Sing prison on a certificate of reasonable doubt, was the grand marshal and failed to get the ovation which he counted on as a personal indorsement. Parks rode a white horse, wore black trousers, red shirt, white hat and a very elaborate white and gold marshal's sash. He was pale and nervous, and his brow clouded when the efforts along the line to start cheers met with poor success.

Cadets May Use Tobacco.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Sept. 8.—After twenty-three years of the prohibition an order has been issued that the "cadets are permitted to use tobacco during relief from quarters" within the barrack limits. The cadets are rejoicing at the extra liberty they are given by the permission to smoke. It was the result of a recommendation made by Colonel Mills to the secretary of war a month or more ago.

Trainer Nearly Killed.

PRINCETON, N. J., Sept. 8.—James Robinson, a trainer at the university, was badly hurt and had a narrow escape from being killed. He was on his way to the university from New York, and while attempting to leave the car before the train stopped at Princeton Junction he fell, and, pitching forward, his head struck the platform, rendering him unconscious.

Celtic Congress Opens.

BREST, France, Sept. 8.—A great Celtic congress opened at Lesneven. The Marquis d'Estourbellion presided, and many American delegates were present. The session was followed by an imposing torchlight procession to Le Folgoet, in which 10,000 persons with lighted tapers took part.

Dubuque Was Re-elected.

BOSTON, Sept. 8. — Ex-Representative Hugo R. Dubuque of Fall River was re-elected president of the French-American Historical society at its annual meeting and dinner here. By a unanimous vote the society made M. Jusserand, the French ambassador to the United States, honorary president of the society.

New England Saengerfest.

CLINTON, Mass., Sept. 8.—At the New England saengerfest here prizes were awarded as follows: First prize, Roxbury mænnerchor; second prize, German-American Singing society of South Boston; third prize, Vorwaerts of North Attleboro.

Pulp Mill Fire.

NEWPORT, Vt., Sept. 8.—Fire of unknown origin destroyed the large pulp mills of E. F. Spaulding & Co. here. The loss is $20,000.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain; increasing east to southeast winds.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Plainfield Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful. To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Plainfield readers.

Mrs. I. L. Homes, of 442 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such trouble and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark.
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL, RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

FEEDING MANKIND.

A New Old Occupation For Woman and a Profitable One.

"Whatever else man does not do, one thing he may be depended on to do regularly, and that is eat," remarked the woman sarcastically.

"Ya-as," growled the old man—not old in years, but in "views"—"and the only business woman can conduct successfully is to run a boarding house."

The old man's assertion set the woman to thinking seriously. Since all mankind are in the habit of eating, and since even the oldest fogy admits that a woman can feed people successfully, and since the trades and professions in which women engage are nearly all overcrowded, why might not women of brains and education take hold in a scientific, businesslike way of this very trade of feeding the human animal and make of it something vastly superior to its present realities? In brief, why not elevate the kitchen to the plane of hygienic æsthetics?

"WOMAN CAN RUN A BOARDING HOUSE"

Woman as a scientific food purveyor to the human race, leading it through its stomach up the spiral of progress toward a healthier, finer body, a more refined, harmonious mind!

There are a few women who have already realized this pleasing ideal. One of them is Miss S. E. Wentworth of Boston. She was a graduate, with honors, from Vassar college. It must have been inspiration that put it into her mind to become a scientific food expert and ease the stomach tortured race of a little of its woes. She entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and put herself under the instruction of the acknowledged food expert of America—we are proud she is a woman—Mrs. Ellen H. Richards. There Miss Wentworth learned to feed people hygienically so satisfactorily that Mrs. Richards asked her to go into the Boston New England Kitchen and run it, with Mrs. Richards herself as advisory board. The kitchen was established in one of the districts of Boston inhabited by the poor that the women might buy good food cheaply and at the same time learn something about preparing it themselves.

But once she had learned her profession as food expert Miss Wentworth was in demand in many places at once. An insane asylum in Illinois wanted her to plan meals for its 2,000 patients and 300 attendants. She went there and did this six months for them. Then she was wanted at the Massachusetts General hospital. She took charge of its kitchen and, while improving the food of patients and attendants, saved the establishment thousands of dollars. She was wanted to take charge of the kitchen of Memorial hall at Harvard, but declined with thanks. For a permanency this college woman food expert remains with the New England Kitchen.

Two other college girls are showing how profitably educated women can run a boarding house—Miss M. S. Wagner and Miss A. S. Lapham. Miss Lapham is a New York girl and a graduate of Vassar college. Miss Wagner is a Minnesotan and took a course in the state university. They decided to open a boarding house for Vassar students. They called it, however, by the æsthetic name of Vassar inn, which has a more pleasing sound than just plain hash suggesting "boarding house." The inn stands near the entrance to the college grounds. The ladies bought their building in the beginning of the enterprise. The inn is partly clubhouse and restaurant, partly hotel. From the beginning it had attractive reading and reception rooms, besides its alluring dining hall.

At first there were lodging accommodations for comparatively few. The ladies found they could fill their house three times over if they had sleeping rooms, so they prepared to build an annex. When it is in readiness Vassar inn will have rooms for 100 permanent boarders. But even these will not be sufficient. Before the close of the college year last June every room in the inn was engaged two years ahead.

Cooking and housework can be made dainty and æsthetic by those who have the æsthetic element in their own souls, and Vassar inn is beautifully clean and inviting. The college girls hold their banquets in its large dining room, and the faculty bring their families and friends to its restaurant for pleasant dinner parties. Everybody likes Vassar inn; everybody respects and esteems socially and in every other way Misses Wagner and Lapham.

MARY EDITH DAY.

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

Gabriel presented Col. Bessemer's order with a flourish to the sentry. "An' here am some 'freshments what my missus sent you, sah," lifting carefully from his tray a plate of cake and a decanter of wine and setting them down on the window seat.

The sentry was thirsty; the cake looked delicious; the wine was more than tempting. He threw open the door for the negro to enter. "Leave the door open," he commanded.

"Yas, sah; suahly, sah," Gabriel answered, as he crossed the threshold with his tray and set it down upon a box inside.

"Why, hello, Gabe," Worthington called out; "is it you?"

"Dat's what it am, Massa Godfrey, Sarvas, massa; sarvas, massa Gineral. Heah am some 'freshments what missus sent you wid her accomplishments; but lawsy me, how is you ah goin' to eat wid you ah's hands tied? Mistah Redcoat, sah, they suah will have to have dey ah's hands untied. Dey kin't eat dis way."

The sentry had already taken two big swallows of the wine, and he could scarcely wait to pour himself another goblet before he took the third. Fascinating stuff; never had he tasted anything so enticing.

Gabriel went to the door and gazed at him with beseeching eyes. Mistah Sentry, sah, kin't I jes' loosen day ah'll han's a leetle so dey kin eat?"

Probably if the wine had not already gone to the sentry's head, he would not have consented, but as it was he nodded acquiescence while he took another swallow.

Gabriel, having deftly loosened the ropes which bound them, placed the tray on the chest which held the candle and politely invited the prisoners to partake. This done, he walked again to the door, the long white cloth which had been doubled over the tray in his hands.

He stood with his eyes fixed in apparently dreamy carelessness upon the soldier.

The opportune moment had arrived. The sentry stooped to pour himself more wine. Gliding softly behind him, the black skilfully threw the cloth over his head and face and drew the ends taut in the back. The soldier, taken by surprise, would have hurled himself upon his assailant, but the latter was too quick for him, and had him upon the floor before his brain, benumbed by the drugged liquor, could appreciate just what had happened.

Worthington took in the situation instantly and sprang to Gabriel's aid, while the general followed with the rope which had bound them. Together they tied the captive's hands and feet, and cautiously removing the cloth from his head gagged him. Gabriel flung open the door of the other room.

"In here, massa, in here," he whispered. And in they put him.

"Why did you do this Gabe?" Worthington asked in a low tone, when this much had been accomplished. "It is useless. We can't possibly escape. There are sentries posted in the hall below and all around the house."

"Nevah you mine, massa. Missy Jane hab a way."

Godfrey thrilled at the name. Jane? Was it possble she had interested herself?

"Was it Miss Jane who sent us the food?" he asked. "I supposed it was Mrs. Ellery."

"Wal, you see, massa, it wah missy what pahsuaded missus into sendin' it, an' I reckon it wah Miss Jane what got Kunnel Bessemah to sign de pahmit, kase we ah know huah kin jes' twis' him 'roun' huah fingah like dis." He cleverly imitated the twisting process. The light died out of Godfrey's face.

"An' it wah Miss Jane too," the darky went on, "what got Aunt Rache to put dat truck of Aunt Rache's old mammy's in de wine."

Godfrey now understood what had inspired Jane to make this attempt; for it was an Ellery tradition how Aunt Rachel's mother—a Voodoo woman—had once saved her mistress's family from an Indian massacre by placing a jug of drugged brandy within tempting reach of the invading savages. They fell upon the brandy before they fell upon the inmates of the house, and by the time the beverage had been consumed they were lying inert masses upon the floor.

While it was clever in Jane to resort to it now, Godfrey deprecated her action, for it was likely to bring trouble and exposure to her without aid to him. However, he reflected rather bitterly, her influence with Bessemer would enable her to escape punishment even should her plot be discovered.

There was agitation in the great oak tree whose branches shaded the garret windows. The three men started at the rustling sound; the whites with apprehension, the black with a knowing look.

Through the entry window was thrust a long stick with a crook on the end. To this crook was tied a bundle. The stick swayed nervously, as though it were held by hands scarce strong enough to support it. Gabriel dashed to the window, seized it, and laid the bundle triumphantly at Godfrey's feet.

"Thah you is, massa; thah you is. Missy Jane said her'd do it, an' her hab. Dis am a Britisher unifoahm. All you's got to do am to put it on mighty quick an' walk down dem steps big as life wid dis ohdah in you han'. See, I took him from de redcoat jes like missy tole me to." He held up Bessemer's order admitting him with the refreshments. "Dem redcoats ain't goin' to read it. Dey jes' see Kunnel Bessemah's name 'tached to it, an' dat's enough. Dey'll tink you's a British offisah, suah, an' when you gits to de gate ah you's got to do am to say de pass-wuhd, what am 'Solitude.' Missy Jane huahed Massa Edwahd say it ovah to a gen'man to-night to make suah he had it right."

ARMY IN THE FIELD.

Autumn Maneuvers Bring Out 120,000 Soldiers of France.

PARIS, Sept. 8.—The grand autumn maneuvers of the French army began in the central and southwestern departments, with Clermont Ferrand, Orange, Montelimar, Epinal, Dijon and Bethel as the chief strategic points of the operations, in which four army corps, comprising over 120,000 men, are participating.

In spite of the rain, which has greatly marred the operations, the troops are reported to have suffered much from the heat, and many cases of sunstroke have occurred, as many as sixty-five soldiers in one regiment having to be taken to the hospital. Several fatal cases of sunstroke occurred.

War Minister Andre gave a reception to the foreign officers and military attaches to the embassies and legations here who will attend the maneuvers. The United States is represented by Captain T. Bentley Mott, military attache to the Paris embassy.

The foreign officers will leave Paris for Orange, which they will make their headquarters during the maneuvers, being taken daily in automobiles to the scene of the day's operations, where they will be provided with horses by the ministry of war.

Trolley Crash May Prove Fatal.

FRANKLIN, Mass., Sept. 8.—Four persons were injured in a head on collision between two trolley cars on the Milford, Attleboro and Woonsocket Street railroad at Eagle Hill. Neither of the cars was going at a very rapid rate, so that when they met on a curve the crash only demolished the front platform. Joseph La Liberte of Woonsocket, motorman on one of the cars, had both legs crushed and suffered internal injuries, while John Henry of Norfolk, who jumped just before the collision occurred, was picked up unconscious and is believed also to be internally injured. Both of these may die.

Pittsburg Coal Company In Control.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 8.—Official sanction was given to the purchase of the control of the Monongahela Consolidated Coal and Coke company by the board of directors of the Pittsburg Coal company. Robbins, the chief figure in the negotiations.

Prisoners Get Away at Schoharie.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Three prisoners dug their way through a brick wall and escaped from the Schoharie county jail at Schoharie and are still at large. "Sheeny" Harris, who murdered Night Watchman Wilson at Cobbleskill two years ago, was one of them. The others were Edward Cain, colored, and James Kelly, charged with burglary and grand larceny.

Mr. Jacks Would Not Answer.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 8.—At the inquiry in the district court before Judge Hazen to ascertain if possible whether a coal trust exists among the operators and dealers John Jacks, the first witness, refused to testify. Mr. Jacks is a mine owner of Page county and declared that he would not give evidence because it was incriminating.

Crank Shaft Broke, Steamer Ashore.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 8.—While running the Geloupe rapids the crank shaft of the passenger steamer Mary broke, leaving her helpless in very swift water, with many passengers on board. The steamer floated down past Lotus island, when she ran high and dry on to a small island, all escaping safely to shore.

Dead Man Identified.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 8.—A man who was drowned near Young's pier has been identified as J. S. Sipple of Moorestown, N. J., aged thirty-two years. His wife and five children returned home Saturday, and he was to follow last night. No one saw him drown. His body was found floating alongside of the pier.

SPORTS IN BRIEF.

McChesney Makes New Record—English Golfers Defeated.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 8.—With a score much higher than it attained last year the Second regiment, District of Columbia, won the skirmish match, open to teams of six men each. The score of the winning team was 351 out of a possible 500, its winning score of a year ago being 280. The other scores were: First District of Columbia, 310; United States marine corps, 306; First New Jersey, 256; Fourth New Jersey, ; Pennsylvania squadron, 190. The Seventh New York and Twelfth New York teams withdrew, having won the trophy, valued at $250, twice before. The Second District of Columbia is now entitled to hold it permanently.

English Golfers Defeated.

GLEN COVE, N. Y., Sept. 8.—The all American golf team, picked from the leading competitors in the late amateur championship, defeated the Oxford-Cambridge golfers in a spirited team match at the Nassau Country club. The defeat is the first that the Englishmen have encountered in their string of matches against American teams.

At the Kenilworth Track.

BUFFALO, Sept. 8.—In the neighborhood of 7,000 persons gathered at the Kenilworth track for the holiday sport. The feature, the Labor Day handicap for all ages at a mile and a sixteenth, resulted in a rousing race, six horses coming down to the wire head and head. J. H. Carr's filly Court Maid won. Harding got jammed, Jockey M. Johnson being lifted out of the saddle and dropped on the track right after the finish, fortunately escaping with a bad shaking up.

John A. McKerron Made Record.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 8.—Twenty thousand persons saw some exciting finishes in the races in connection with the state fair. The great stallion John A. McKerron, driven by his owner, Harry K. Devereaux, of Cleveland, O., was sent against the track record of 2:06, made by Cresceus two years ago, and not only smashed it, but cut a quarter of a second from his own best previous record, doing the turn in 2:04½.

Newport Horse Show.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 8.—The annual open air horse show began with splendid weather, keen competition and a crowd that included practically the entire summer colony as well as many from New York. Overwhelming Victory at Local Primaries for James F. Buckle, Republican Candidate for Assembly Nomination.

DEMOCRATS AWAY FROM POLLS

MAJORITY PARTY HAS HOT CONTESTS IN EVERY DISTRICT OF THE FOUR WARDS—FORMER SHERIFF KIRK, KEAN CANDIDATE FOR ASSEMBLY, MEETS DEFEAT IN HIS OWN WARD FOR RE-ELECTION TO COUNTY COMMITTEE —JAMES T. MAC MURRAY CONTROLS THE SITUATION.

Opposed by four delegates, the name of President of Common Council James F. Buckle will be presented by James T. MacMurray to the Republican County convention tomorrow afternoon as Plainfield's choice for Assembly, such being the decision of the party at the primaries held here yesterday. Mr. Buckle is the candidate of the local Republican administration. His opponent, former Sheriff William T. Kirk, is recognized as a staunch friend of United States Senator Kean. On this issue the line was drawn and the primary was but a repetition of the one last fall.

Robert Rushmore, of the Third ward, which is represented as the Kean bailiwick, was the only successful candidate for the County committee nominated by the friends of the Senator, Mr. Kirk, himself, who resides in the same ward, being defeated by J. Stephen Higham, the Fowler nominee. Amos Andrews' popularity stood him in good stead and captured a seat among the delegates to the county convention.

So far as the Democrats are concerned the primaries were unimportant, there being no contests whatever and the vote being extremely light. The leaders of the minority party appeared to take little interest in the primaries. In every district the Republicans polled a heavy vote, in some instances almost their entire strength being represented. This of course was due to the fight made by Mr. Kirk and his friends. So far as the Councilmanic situation is concerned, the local administration reports no losses, though a fight was made against it in all wards, except the Third, where there was but one nominee, Mr. Daniel, who is considered non-partisan. For seats in the Common Council A. F. Anderson, in the First ward was defeated by the present incumbent, Mr. Gloak, while in the Second Francis Montegmery was beaten by Theodore Wilson. Councilman Robert Lee again won his spurs in the turbulent Fourth, vanquishing W. W. Coriell.

In the First ward, James T. MacMurray, S. P. T. Wilbur, Wm. L. Gloak and Walter Hetfield, Jr., were actively at work all day, as was J. Fred MacDonald, a friend of Kean. In the Second ward, Judge Runyon and George P. Mellick were booming Mr. Buckle. Over in the Third ward, Mr. Kirk was in control at the First district, while Charles W. Runyon, of the MacMurray forces, worked in opposition. Mr. Kirk carried the district. Robert Rushmore was in charge of the Kean end of the battle in the Second district, though George Tobin assisted by Charles Dixon were leading a successful fight there. Andrew McCardell, Frank Smith, William Newcorn and William Westphal were working for Buckle and his ticket in the Fourth, W. S. Angleman battling in opposition.

The local Republicans are entitled to nineteen delegates to the County convention, as follows: First ward, 4; Second ward, 5; Third ward, 4; Fourth ward, 6. This must be noted in the returns given. Each ward is entitled to three members on the city committee. All, except the Fourth which gets three, are entitled to two members on the County committee.

BOROUGH REPUBLICANS STAND BY SMALLEY

Mayor N. B. Smalley Controls Entire Delegation to Republican County Convention.

DEMOCRATS LIGHT VOTE

D. J. CARNEY'S FRIENDS HAVE SPLIT DELEGATION.

Democrats Have No Contest in Second District—Councilman Robert Clark, Jr., Receives Great Tribute.

A sweeping victory for Mayor Smalley and his friends was the result of the primary election in both districts in North Plainfield yesterday. In the First district only was there a contest in the Democratic ranks. The Carney faction was arrayed against the Linbarger followers, each securing one delegate to the County convention.

In the First district on the Republican ticket the anti-annexation element went down in a crushing defeat, if the primary ballot may be taken as an indication. W. G. Debele, Dr. A. H. Dundon and Charles A. Lee represented the administration, and Dr. J. H. Buchanan, L. A Hummer, and former Mayor Charles Place were supported by anti-annexationists in the Republican ranks. Debele received 87 votes, Dundon, 80 and Lee, 82, while Dr. Buchanan received 32 votes, Hummer, 19 and Place 22.

The same sweep for Smalley was shown by the ballots cast in the Republican box in the Second district. Robert Clark, Jr., William C. Smith and Julius J. Stahl were the Smalley men. Their votes were: Clark, Jr., 101; Smith, 90 and Stahl, 84. All the antis on the ticket in that district received light votes. Harrison Coddington got 24, Dr. J. H. Cooley, 27 and Albert Runyon, 22.

As for the Democrats in the First district, George W. Bird, representing the Carney faction and John T. Case, of the Linbarger clan, were elected delegates to the County convention. George W. Bird, of the former faction, was chosen by 31 votes; Charles Keller received 28 votes, while John T. Case, of the Linbarger faction, was chosen delegate by 32 votes against W. J. Kiely's 29.

In the First district there were only 63 votes polled, three of which were rejected because they had been deposited in the wrong ballot box. The total Democratic vote in the Second district amounted to 20, with no rejections.

UNION W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

COUNTY ORGANIZATION TO HOLD ANNUAL SESSION IN ELIZABETH.

All Societies to be Represented at County, State and National Meetings.

The Women's Christian Temperance Union, of Union County, will hold a County convention at Elizabeth, October 8. All the societies in this county will be represented at the session and it is probable that prominent speakers will be present. The Middlesex County convention will be held at Perth Amboy this year, on September 30.

There is much work going on among all the societies arranging the fall campaigns in County, State and, in fact, throughout the country. The first of the fall campaigns was held at Toms River, Thursday of last week. No place has been decided upon yet for the Essex County convention. The State convention will take place in the First Presbyterian Church, Morristown, October 20. The programme for this meeting is not yet arranged.

The National Woman's Christian Temperance Union meeting will be held this year at Cincinnati, O., from November 18 to November 20. At this meeting the election of the National officers will take place.

SUIT AGAINST DR. CARPENTER

ACTION BEGUN BY NEWARK MAN TO RECOVER RENT DUE.

Defense That House is Untenantable—Case to be Held in Essex County.

Suit to recover $1,000 has been instituted in the Supreme Court by Fred F. Guild, receiver of the Commercial Building and Loan Association, of Newark, against Dr. Aaron F. Carpenter, of this city. The action was brought under an assignment made by George F. Worthington, also of this city, for rent due on a house at 1004 Putnam avenue.

The claim of the defendant, Dr. Carpenter, is that the house was unfit to live in and that as a result of its dampness, due to a lack of repairs and sanitary arrangements, he was involved in considerable expense for doctors' bills. On this ground he has brought action of recoupment through Attorney V. W. Nash, Jr. Guild & Martin, of Newark, represent the plaintiffs in the original suit. The case will be heard in the October term of the Essex Circuit Court.

NO COUNCIL MEETING.

City Fathers Too Much Absorbed in Primaries and Set a Further Date.

Because of a lack of a quorum, no meeting of the Common Council was held last night. When the roll was called it was found that there were only three members present, President James F. Buckle and Councilmen van-Herwerden and Garrigues. Bids were called for the paving of the streets as advertised. C. M. Meeker was the only bidder present. It was agreed to hold a special meeting Monday evening.

DEFERRING ACTION.

Lack of a Quorum Hampers Board of Governors of Muhlenberg.

But three members of the seven attended the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, last night, at the Casino. Some time was spent in informal discussion of various subjects in connection with the new hospital, but no definite action of any kind was taken. A meeting will be held Monday night.

JURY AWARDS $7,000 FOR A BROKEN LEG

Howard A. George, Injured in Westfield Railroad Disaster, Gets Big Verdict.

LONG TIME IN HOSPITAL

RAILROAD CO. OFFERED AMICABLY AMOUNT OBTAINED.

Plaintiff a Son of Edgar D. George—Being a Minor it Was Necessary to Have Decision in Court.

Howard A. George, of Craig place, who was one of the victims of the railroad disaster near Westfield on the New Jersey Central Railroad January 27, was awarded a verdict of $7,000 in the County Court at Elizabeth yesterday. His injuries consisted of a broken leg.

H. A. George is a son of Edgar D. George. On the night of the accident he was seated in the rear coach of the train which was wrecked, and sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, the injury being of such a character that, it is claimed, it is extremely doubtful if he can ever walk again without the aid of crutches.

For two months after the accident Mr. George was a patient in Muhlenberg Hospital. Soon after his discharge from that institution he was unfortunate enough to fall while beginning to walk with a cane. This resulted in a second fracture of the leg in the same place as before.

The railroad company recognizing that Mr. George was one of the most seriously injured of those in the terrible accident, agreed to settle in the sum of $7,000, which proved acceptable to the young man and his parents. Mr. George, however, being a minor, it was necessary to take the case into court.

It Is Easy to Say

"Be careful," but we must all go from heated houses into chill outer air, and the change sets us coughing and wheezing. Avoiding winter colds is difficult; curing them is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balsam. Better begin when the cold is young and not wait until it settles deep into the lungs, for then, even with Allen's Lung Balsam, complete relief will be slower.

The Picket Won Handily.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Picket, this year's American Derby winner, added another stake to his list by winning the September stakes for three-year-olds at Sheepshead Bay. The Hampton stable's good colt Africander was second. Beverly, the only other starter, was beaten off. The Picket jumped away in front and, making all the pace, won handily. Africander's hard races at Saratoga have taken the edge off his speed. Woodford Clay's Memories captured the Belles stakes for two-year-olds from Marmee, with Golden Drop third. The Brooklyn Jockey club announced that they had added $2,500 to the first special to be run next Monday. Waterboy and McChesney are both eligible for this race.

Racing at Hartford.

HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 9.—The second day's racing in the fall meet at Charter Oak park was devoid of any unusual features. Weather and track conditions were almost perfect, although the air was a trifle too sharp to insure the best work of the horses. All the fields were small, many of the horses scheduled for the meet here going to Syracuse instead. The first race of the day was the unfinished 2:10 trot, in which only Dr. Strong and McKinley participated. Dr. Strong taking two heats and McKinley one. In the first heat of the second contest McKinley won with ease, but Dr. Strong turned the scales next time, winning the heat and race by a nose.

Racing at Kenilworth.

BUFFALO, Sept. 9.—Favorites won the opening and closing events at Kenilworth, and the sport throughout was of a high order. In the second race J. E. Madden's Fly Wings and M. R. Leeds' Laocoon came down to the finish close together, Laocoon winning by a nose. Frank Regan trains both horses and had rather expected the Madden entry to win.

A Farmers' Trust.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—Fifty representatives of agricultural associations in a dozen or more states met here to discuss plans for organizing a national body for the purpose of fixing the prices of farm products, regulating the marketing of crops and constructing grain elevators and cold storage warehouses for the use of farmers.

New Jersey Team Leads.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 9.—New Jersey took the lead at the very beginning of the national trophy match and remained at the head of the list of competitors upon the conclusion of the day's shooting in the great military team rifle contest. New Jersey, 1,564; Massachusetts, 1,563; New York, 1,545.

Cresceus Made a Record.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 9.—Cresceus, the trotting stallion, driven by George H. Ketcham, his owner, broke all records for a half mile track at the state fair grounds, lowering his own best previous time a half second. He covered the mile in 2:08¼.

Byways Won In Exercise Gallop.

CHICAGO, Sept. 9.—S. C. Hildreth's Byways, always favorite, won the third and feature event of the Harlem card. Gallant was second, and The Don was third. The race was hardly more than an exercise for Byways.

Finance Minister Very Low.

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 9.—A dispatch from Neepawa, the country residence of J. A. Davidson, provincial treasurer, says: "Manitoba's finance minister is hovering between life and death. His vitality is at the lowest since he was stricken by paralysis about two weeks ago, and unless a change soon takes place for the better he cannot long survive. His brother George has arrived from St. Paul."

Steamer Broke All Records.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The Scandinavian American line steamer United States, Captain J. Wulff, which has arrived here from Christiansand, made the trip in nine days. This breaks all previous records from Christiansand.

UMPIRE'S FINDINGS.

Hon. Carroll D. Wright Has Filed His Decision.

MINERS' AND OPERATORS' DISPUTES

Board of Conciliation Members' Differences Referred to Wright's Judgment Now Rendered on All Points at Variance.

SCRANTON, Pa., Sept. 9.—Hon. Carroll D. Wright, the umpire to whom was referred the five disputes between the operators' and miners' representatives on the board of conciliation appointed under the provisions of the anthracite mine strike commission, filed his findings with T. D. Nicholls, secretary of the board. In dealing with the question of employers' right to discharge men for any cause other than of connection with a labor union Umpire Wright agrees wholly with the contention of the operators' representatives and declares that the right of an employer to discharge without giving the cause of the discharge is sustained by the award of the commission. As to the rockmen's dispute the umpire says they do not come under the award.

The complaint of Thomas Tanner is not sustained in regard to the allegations of discrimination on the part of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company and Coxe Bros. & Co. He says that these companies should take back old men instead of putting on new men in all cases where the old men are competent and have not been convicted or are not awaiting trial for crime committed during the strike.

Leading up to the final award, the umpire says:

"Taking the rulings of the court, the assertion of the anthracite coal strike commission, the clauses in the agreement made by and with the United Mine Workers of America and the admissions of the different members of the board of conciliation, whether on the one side or the other, there can be no doubt that a man has a right to quit the servitude of his employer whenever he sees fit, with or without giving any cause, provided he gives proper notice, and that the employer has a perfect right to employ and discharge men in accordance with the conditions of his industry; that he is not obliged to give any cause for discharge, but that he should, as in the reverse case, give proper notice.

"This right to discharge must therefore be sustained. Any other view of the case would result in compelling men to work for an employer when they did not wish to and thus enslave them, when, on the other hand, it would compel employers to employ men whether they had work for them or not and whether the men were incompetent or not and would thus stagnate business and work to the injury of all other employees.

"All discharges, as all quittals, should be made on a reasonable basis. The employer and the employee should treat each other with justice and with a desire to preserve peace."

Strike Stopped St. Louis Fair Work.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—For an hour a general strike among union artisans at the world's fair grounds was threatened as a result of differences between carpenters and the Neyers Construction company, which is building the intramural railway. Two thousand carpenters quit work because of the employment by the contractors of several men at a lower rate than the union scale. A truce was reached when the contractors suspended the men who were objected to. George Newman, representing the carpenters, says a general strike will be called if the contractors do not finally grant the demands.

McKinley Monument at Antietam.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 9.—Major Joseph D. Cunningham of Harrison county, O., called on the president to invite him to attend the unveiling of a monument erected to the memory of the late President McKinley on the battlefield of Antietam. The monument is located on the spot where Major McKinley stopped to eat his supper on the night following the great battle. President Roosevelt was unable to give a definite answer to the invitation, but promised Major Cunningham to let him know certainly in a few days.

On the Summit of Mount Washington

SUMMIT HOUSE, Mount Washington, Sept. 9.—It was clear and frosty on Mount Washington, and only a light wind blew, while the 180 visitors were favored with the finest conditions of the entire summer. The ocean was distinctly visible from sunrise to sunset, while the great range of sight extended 136 miles and included five states and the Dominion of Canada.

Lady Curzon's Cousin Killed.

HAGERSTOWN, Md., Sept. 9.—While driving about the historic battlefield of Antietam with her young husband and three-year-old daughter Mrs. Frances McGraw, niece of Levi Z. Leiter, the Chicago millionaire, and cousin of Lady Curzon, vice reine of India, was killed instantly by being thrown from a carriage.

Heavy Frost In Catskills.

BULGARIA MENACED

Thousands of Turkish Troops In Macedonia.

APPALLING SCENES AT MONASTIR.

Sofia Dispatches Say Fears Are Rife There That the Porte Meditates an Attack on Bulgaria.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 9.—The Macedonian interior organization estimates that 150,000 women, children and old men are hiding in the mountains and forests of Macedonia. The Turks are burning the forests in the districts of Leren and Kostur and killing fugitives who attempt to escape to the plains. The Vlach village of Gopesh, three hours' distant from Monastir, has been burned by the Turks, who are reported to have thrown several of the inhabitants into the fire. The Bashibazouks have destroyed the village of Stoilovo, near Malkoternovo.

Thirteen thousand Turkish soldiers are assembled on the frontier at Palanka, Kratovo and Gotschani and are plundering the surrounding villages. The population has not complained, fearing that it may be murdered. In the district of Debritsi, vilayet of Monastir, the soldiers are reported to be naked and hungry and to be robbing all around.

The general staff of the insurgents has issued a circular ordering the bands not to molest the peaceful Turkish and Albanian villages.

Famine prevails in the district of Krushevo, and the population is going into the adjacent districts.

All reports from the vilayet of Monastir agree in describing the situation as appaling. Between 30,000 and 50,000 Bulgarian inhabitants are believed to have been massacred by the Turks, and every Bulgarian village in the vilayet has been destroyed. The refugees in the mountains and forests are dying of starvation by thousands.

The revolutionary headquarters estimate that 30,000 Bulgarian men, women and children have been killed, while at least the same number of refugees are slowly perishing of hunger. The Turks are apparently determined to exterminate the entire Bulgarian population of the vilayet. The foreign representatives at Monastir are dependent on information furnished to them from Turkish official sources.

In government circles here the situation is viewed with increasing alarm. It is reliably reported that the Turkish forces in Macedonia number 300,000. It is considered impossible that such a force has been assembled merely to crush the rebellion. It is feared that the sultan is meditating an attack on Bulgaria.

According to a telegram from Constantinople, the porte has issued an unconditional order that all European correspondents must leave Macedonia because they are circulating false news. The ambassadors have been notified of this decision. Boris Sarafoff, the Macedonian leader, is reported to have been wounded in the leg near Dairene.

The revolutionary committee is about to spring a new series of surprises on the Turks. It will issue to the representatives of the powers a circular note forewarning them of coming events. The note is intended to justify the future actions of the insurgents and will point to the probable total extermination of the Christians as necessitating the employment of the same atrocious measures by the revolutionaries against the Turks and will contend that the responsibility for such desperate acts will rest with the powers.

The Turkish government is preparing a circular to the powers calling attention to the attitude of Bulgaria and declaring it is the intention of the government to pursue armed Bulgarian bands in Macedonia and even into Bulgarian territory.

LITERARY.

In view of the remarkable success of General King's book, published early this year, entitled "A Daughter of the Sioux," the mere announcement of another story from this famous author seems all-sufficient. A critical reading of the advance sheets of this new tale indicates that it is even better than last, which is conclusive in itself. The same artists, who are unequalled, have undertaken the illustration. In all details of mechanical make-up the same high standard has been preserved. The many thousand readers of "A Daughter of the Sioux" are thus assured from a literary, artistic and attractive standpoint of a repetition of their pleasure in reading of "An Apache Princess," to be published by the Hobart Company, of Fifth avenue, New York.

The refusal of the Iowa Democrats to "reaffirm" the Democratic National Platform of 1900 is justly encouraging to those Democrats who, whether they accepted Mr. Bryan with enthusiasm or with resignation, or not at all, in 1896, and 1900, believe that his usefulness as a leader has gone, and that the only hope of Democratic success lies in a return to principles more conservative than his. Mr. Bryan is fighting gallantly for a doomed cause. Attractive as his personality is and many as his friends are, he is wearing out his welcome. Politics are for opportunists, not for martyrs.—Everybody's Magazine.

THE RIOT IN BEIRUT

Leishman's Report Says Seven Christians Were Killed.

HOUSES PILLAGED BY SOLDIERS.

Fight Was Started by Shot Fired by a Mussulman at a Christian—Disturbance Attributed to Arrival of Cotton's Squadron.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Minister Leishman, at Constantinople, has cabled that a riot occurred at Beirut in which seven Christians were killed and several were wounded. Two houses occupied by Christians were pillaged by the soldiery. The panic was general. It was due to a shot fired by a Mussulman upon a Christian employed at the American college. The Christian was wounded.

The fight broke out while the vali was on board the United States cruiser Brooklyn, returning Rear Admiral Cotton's visit. In diplomatic circles here the affair is regarded as being serious, and a renewal of the disturbances is feared.

An official version of the Beirut affair says that Christians were the assailants, they having fired upon four Mussulmans. A fight ensued, during which Mussulmans and Christians went to the assistance of their respective compatriots.

This, says the report, compelled the troops to intervene, and they succeeded in restoring order. Three soldiers were wounded and one was killed, while one Christian was killed and one wounded.

The British consul at Beirut immediately after the riot called upon the vali and threatened to ask Rear Admiral Cotton to land marines from the American squadron in the event of a renewal of the disturbances.

In official circles here the disturbances are attributed to the arrival of the American squadron, and the belief is expressed that the Christians at Beirut are endeavoring to bring about the landing of marines from the war ships.

A detailed report regarding the recent attack on United States Vice Consul Magelssen says Mr. Magelssen was riding home in a hired carriage in the evening when on passing a street near the Ras Beirut, a headland about three miles from Beirut, on which stand the buildings of the American mission, he heard sounds of pistol firing. He turned round to see from whence the shots came, and a bullet whizzed past his face. The vice consul at once had the carriage stopped and jumped out to discover his assailant, but could see no one.

The following day he went to the government office, where he met the Italian consul and the Austrian consul, who had come to complain about burglaries in their houses. The governor ordered an investigation of the attack on Mr. Magelssen, but the only result was the arrest of a young Christian who had attended a marriage on the previous night and in whose possession was found a toy pistol. The American vice consul indignantly refused to accept the arrest of this man and decided to visit his brother-in-law, the American consul general, who was staying in the mountains to the north of Beirut.

Three months before Mr. Magelssen was attacked by men in Turkish uniforms, but whom by his strength he put to flight. It is said that there is little public safety in Beirut and that it is very dangerous for Europeans to appear on the streets at night. Murder and pillage are daily occurrences, and many families have therefore moved to Egypt.

Defense of Cables In War Time.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 9.—Major Bland of the royal engineers arrived here to investigate in behalf of the British government the question of the proper defense of the Atlantic cables in time of war. Major Bland is visiting all the terminals of the cables in Nova Scotia and Newfoundland. He will study the problem of also protecting the cables across the Grand banks and defending the cable stations from attack.

Train Holdup Foiled.

STEVENSVILLE, Mont., Sept. 9.—A bold attempt to hold up the Bitter Root express just east of here was frustrated by the vigilance of the crew. A pile of ties had been placed on the track. The engineer slowed up and backed away as soon as he could. Three men concealed in the bushes jumped out and ran after the train, but soon fell behind.

Two Women Killed In Wreck.

JOPLIN, Mo., Sept. 9.—In a wreck on the Frisco one mile south of Baxter Springs, Kan., twelve people were injured, two fatally. A passenger train ran into a freight train standing on the main track. The fatally injured are an unknown colored woman and an invalid white woman who was traveling with two small children.

Hearse Trimming Caused Runaway.

DENVER, Sept. 9.—Frightened by the flashing of the black trimming on the hearse at a funeral in Valverde, the team attached to the next carriage in line ran away, the carriage was overturned, and nine persons were injured.

Now for the campaign.

If Plainfield is not the leading city in New Jersey so far as clean, healthy sporting events are concerned, which one surpasses it?

That Manchuria opens her ports is the rumor given credence by an exchange. This is of no particular interest to the W. C. T. U.

Continuous advertising carries with it the idea of reliablity, since no dishonest advertiser can successfully continue in business.—Printers' Ink.

It is rumored that war is inevitable between Turkey and Bulgaria. Wish we had definite information. Studying Balkan history is no light matter.

It is reported that President Roosevelt may be renominated at a convention in New York. This is going right into the tiger's lair, but then Roosevelt always was strenuous.

The first commencement of Harvard took place just 261 years ago today. Recollecting some names among the list of its famous sons, compels an American to feel proud of its history.

Recently collected statistics show that 265 pardons for murder and manslaughter have been granted in Kentucky during the last eleven years. Kentucky is a disgrace to the Union.

The unfortunate season at the Hotel Netherwood is not exceptional. Apart from the seaside resorts the profits made at the average summer hostelry this year are not going to bring joy to the proprietor.

Plainfield horses did not bring the track followers to their feet at Westfield, but the interest taken here in trotting leads one to believe that there are some good events on the turf in store for the local public.

—A New York State senator says that $1,500 was stolen from his trousers' pockets. Were his name not Raines, some incredulous person might be inclined to think that the unfortunate man had visited the race track.

Mrs. N. Pendleton Rogers low score, 82, made on the Hillside course on Labor Day, augurs well for the plucky golfer who has made several attempts to capture the women's National championship in the ancient Scottish game.

According to an exchange, when it heard a band play "Hiawatha" in the Labor Day parade a horse jumped into an excavation in Fifth avenue, New York. Possibly some of the marchers felt like following the equine's example when they saw Sam Parks in line.

Some defects in the new primary law were discerned yesterday and there is much diversity of opinion regarding its value when considered as a reform measure. That it is beneficial to the average machine is the argument made by those opposed to the statute. It should be given a fair trial. It is only just to say that first impressions are sometimes misleading that this may prove to be the case when the new primary law is before the bar of public opinion.

Horse and Runabout Gone.

Nief Apgar, of Somerville, last week, let out a valuable horse from his stables which he has never seen since. The animal had been in his possession only two weeks and was attached to a runabout that had never been used before. The man who hired it said he was going in the direction of Peapack.

SUBURBAN NEWS.

DUNELLEN.

The new fire bell which has been donated to the borough by the fire department has arrived. It is a double action bell and weights 800 pounds. The committee in charge of the securing of the 60-foot iron tower expects to have it erected before the end of the month. A movement is on foot now to get up a subscription and purchase a flag pole to be extended up from the top of the tower. At all event, it will be a step forward to get rid of the old hoop which has become quite an eyesore.

Both the Lincoln and Whittier Schools opened yesterday morning at 9 o'clock for the fall term and an unusually large number of children were enrolled. Miss Ada Weatherwax, who taught the seventh and eighth grades at the Whittier School, has accepted a position on the teaching staff of the Plainfield schools. Her place has been filled by Miss Higgins from the Lincoln School. There are no other changes in the teaching corp.

At the primary held yesterday in the Borough hall, Messrs. Peters and Wilson, for the Democrats, and Henry Garretson, for the Republicans, were elected delegates to attend the County convention which is held at New Brunswick on Thursday.

Winfield Hetfield, after successfully conducting a butcher business in the borough for the past twenty years, has sold out to an out-of-town party, who will take possession shortly.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Herlich have returned to their home in New York after spending a few days visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Herlich, of Front street.

Joseph Maier is suffering from a severe attack of acute indigestion. He was taken ill yesterday afternoon and spent a very poor night, but seemed better this morning.

Miss Irene Ayers has returned home from a three weeks' visit with relatives at Hampton Junction. She expects to enter the Plainfield High School.

Chief Whyhusky, of the local fire department, expects to attend the convention of the Firemen's Relief Association at Atlantic City this week.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education was held in the Whittier School last evening. Routine business was transacted.

Mary Ising and Robert Lowrie, who formerly attended the Whittier School, entered the Plainfield High School yesterday.

Theodore Apgar has sold the new house which he is building on Front street to a party from Plainfield.

Mrs. William Shirley and children have returned from a week's visit with relatives in Phillipsburg.

Rev. T. S. St. Aubin, of Springfield, Mass., has returned home after a month's stay in town.

The Checker Club held an interesting meeting at Coles' office last evening.

The Borough Council will meet this evening in the borough hall.

John McMahon spent yesterday in New York on business.

NEW MARKET.

The fine moonlight nights during the past week have been taken advantage of by those who enjoy rowing. Nearly all the boats have been out every night.

Ground has been broken for a new house to be erected by Charles M. Kelly on Prospect avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Scott have returned after a few days' visit with friends in New York.

Nancy Meeker, of South Plainfield, visited friends in town yesterday.

The band will meet for weekly practice this evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The voters of both the Republican and Democratic party took but little interest in the primary election, held in the town hall yesterday. Out of a total registry list of 315 only 20 votes were cast, the two tickets dividing honors, as each polled 10 votes. This may be accounted for by the fact that there were no contests on either side. The Democratic ticket having only one name, Township Committeeman Theodore Bruchman's name on for delegate to the County convention, while the Republicans will send James Johnston and Wm. B. Noble as delegates, and Town Clerk Edward L. Hand as member of County committee.

The borough primaries were held yesterday in the borough rooms. Everything was very harmonious. No contest developed. The Republicans elected Collector Chas. Scheelen delegate to the County convention and Dr. F. W. Westcott a member of the County Board. Wm. R. Stanbery was elected both delegate and members of County committee by the Democratic voters. One new name was added to the registry by the registry board at their meeting in the town rooms yesterday.

Allen, who is covering first base for the ball team, has not forgotten how to work the tricks behind the bat. On Monday Brogan played in the morning game, although ill, and went in to do his share in the afternoon, but could only stand five innings. Fortunately, Manager Johnston was able to put George in his place and Kavanaugh covered first. The change worked well, both played their position like veterans.

Owing to a break in the feed wire on the trolley line, no cars were run east Tuesday morning until after 7 o'clock. Those who work in Westfield and Garwood either had to take the train or wait.

The locals and St. Mary's cross bats Saturday afternoon on the local diamond. The visitors played Westfield to a tie, 2 to 2 Monday afternoon, so the contest should be an interesting one.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kaudelky, of Plainfield, have been visiting Mrs. Kaudelky's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Whitenack.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gray, of Front street, have been entertaining Mr. Gray's brother from New York over Sunday and Monday.

The change made in the placing of an electric light on Bartle avenue, has been a great improvement for pedestrians at least.

John Robison, Edward L. Hand and Randolph are the local delegates at the firemen's convention being held at Atlantic City.

Fanwood Council, R. A., held their semi-monthly meeting in the library rooms last night. One candidate was initiated.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Clark, together with their children and their family, enjoyed Labor Day at Boynton Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Medhurst have been entertaining friends from New York over Sunday and Monday.

The Misses Cook, of Park avenue, have been entertaining friends from out-of-town for several days.

Miss Alida Hueston, of Brooklyn, was the guest Labor Day, of her aunt, Mrs. John Marsh.

William Bullman, of Brooklyn, has been visiting at the home of friends in town.

The Misses Jahn have been entertaining friends from out-of-town.

LAST NIGHT'S PRIMARIES

here and the result of the primaries yesterday demonstrates that Congressman Fowler is unable to secure a foothold. No real fight occurred except in the Eleventh ward, in which the congressman resides, where Fowler gained his own district but lost the ward. Kean and Fowler split even in this ward.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Rahway, Sept. 9—There were no contests at the primaries here, excepting in the Second ward where the Republicans were at odds over representation to the County convention. Freeholder Farrell and S. K. Tombs, favorable to the nomination of Peter Tillman for assemblyman, won out. Tillman is a Fowler man. The Republicans cast 181 votes and the Democrats 90.

An exceedingly light vote was polled in Fanwood borough yesterday. On the Republican ticket Charles Sheelen was elected as delegate to the county convention and F. W. Westcott for county committee. There were eighteen votes cast. The Democrats elected Wm. R. Stanbery as delegate to the county convention and for the county committee. Five votes were cast.

NEW BRUNSWICK'S CARNIVAL

UNDER AUSPICES OF THE BOAT CLUB, A GREAT EVENT IS ARRANGED.

Fireworks and Prize Boat Contest to be Among Features of Celebration.

Many Plainfielders will doubtless attend the river carnival arranged by the New Brunswick Boat Club for this evening. With over $1,500 subscribed toward the affair it promises to be one of the best events of its kind ever attempted in that city. More than $350 has been offered in prizes.

The fireworks display will be one of the finest ever seen in this part of the State as $800 has been set aside for this part of the programme alone. The pyrotechnic feature of the event will be in charge of the Pain Fireworks Company, N. Y. The river will be lighted with electric lights along each bank. A boat parade will be an event of much interest and numerous bands will be scattered along the line mapped out as a route.

SIDE LIGHTS ON TIMELY TOPICS NOTED IN PASSING.

While visiting his old homestead at New Germantown, N. J., recently, Rev. W. E. Honeyman, discovered in a remote corner of the attic his diploma which was awarded him when he graduated from Princeton University in 1861. The document was believed by Dr. Honeyman to have been lost and it was merely through an accident that it was discovered after being misplaced for 35 years.

IN PERIL ON LAKE.

Steamer Louise Belated by Struggle With Waves.

SANDUSKY, O., Sept. 9.—The fishing tug Louise, which it was feared had gone down with over a hundred passengers in the big storm on Lake Erie, arrived here safely from Leamington, Ont. The Louise started from here for Leamington, carrying a baseball club and 100 excursionists.

Rough weather was encountered just outside the harbor, but Captain De Clute decided not to turn back. The boat plowed through seas that had her decks awash half the time, and everybody on board was sick. Leamington was finally reached at noon. At 6 o'clock the party started on the return trip in even a rougher sea than was encountered on the way over.

After a struggle with the waves the Louise got into the lee of Pelee island, where she lay several hours. Then she started across the lake for Sandusky in a more moderate wind, but still a heavy sea. She arrived here with everybody safe but sick.

Scores of the friends and relatives of those on board the little vessel remained on the docks all night in the greatest anxiety.

Mrs. Pierce's Leg Broken at Newport

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 9.—The horse show had a thrilling and what was at first thought to be a fatal incident in the throwing of Mrs. Thomas W. Pierce of Pittsfield, Mass., from her well known jumper, Tornado. Mrs. Pierce was about to take one of the jumps when her horse struck one of the fences on the side of the barrier and fell over on his side, and Mrs. Pierce rolled over on the ground, and at first it was thought that the horse had rolled on top of her. She was carried out almost senseless. She had sustained only a slight fracture of her right leg and within an hour came back to the Casino in an automobile and was accorded a great ovation for her pluck. The winning of the blue by the road team of Alfred G. and Reginald C. Vanderbilt against seven competitors proved one of the most popular victories of the day.

Fifteen Year Sentence For Arson.

LANCASTER, Pa., Sept. 9.—Judge Landis has sentenced Henry C. Koffroth, aged thirty-three years, a farmer, residing in Salisbury township, this county, to fifteen years' solitary confinement in the Eastern penitentiary. Koffroth was convicted on indictments charging horse stealing, arson and larceny. It was shown that Koffroth stole a horse from John H. Skiles of Salisbury township, took it to the barn of Edward P. De Haven, a few miles away, and, exchanging Skiles' horse for a better one belonging to De Haven, fired the latter's stable to cover his crime. Six horses and twenty cattle were burned to death. Later, when discovery seemed imminent, Koffroth led De Haven's horse into the Wash mountains, shot and disemboweled it.

Irish League Favors Land Bill.

DUBLIN, Sept. 9.—The national directory of the United Irish league held a meeting at Dublin under the presidency of William Redmond, M. P. A resolution was adopted welcoming the Irish land bill as the most substantial victory gained by the Irish people for centuries and ascribing this result to the loyalty of Chief Irish Secretary Wyndham, the high public spirit of the Liberal party and the good will of the landlords. Other resolutions urged the tenants to negotiate the purchase of their holdings in a spirit of friendliness.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL, IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

A GIRL'S EDUCATION

What It Is and What It Should Be

"THERE is something awfully wrong about the modern education of girls," put in Mrs. Uptodate mournfully. "Now, here is Bertha, just graduated from the Forcers' select school, and she doesn't know one practical or useful thing."

"Conchology and higher mathematics, I expect," put in the sympathizing friend.

"Yes, and when it came to dividing a cooking recipe so it would fit our small family or hemming the new linen sheets she wasn't there at all."

"That is just like my daughter. She came back from school with a smattering of chemistry, of botany, of (heaven help us!) logic, not to speak of Latin and Greek. In one and a half years she had forgotten the whole thing, and I had spent several hundred more in teaching her the useful things she had failed to learn during her school course. What I can't stand is a girl learning a smattering of all sorts of things, a little of this, a little of that a little of the other and nothing in particular about any particular thing. The lack of thoroughness is the most apparent characteristic in most girls' education."

"What do you think a girl ought to know?" put in a matron who had been silent up to this time.

"In the first place, how to spell. Oh I see you start in surprise, but it is the highly educated girl who can spout classical quotations who is the most remiss in this respect. To proceed with the other studies, she should have a solid knowledge of arithmetic—not the kind of knowledge that forces one to use a pencil and paper all the time—a practical acquaintance with geography that would enable her to find her way through Europe as well as this country, and enough of a hold on grammar to prevent her from using the solecisms so frequently heard even among well bred people. Add to this a fair knowledge of the contemporaneous history of different countries and a conversational knowledge of French and German, and you will have a very good foundation for any reading she may care to pursue in after life. She should learn all about the etiquette of cards and visits and how to write every conceivable sort of letter. If she has a voice it should be cultivated so she could sing simple ballads for the pleasure of the family and her friends. She should be taught to read music at sight in singing and in instrumental music to play without her notes. She should learn to keep the family's and her own personal accounts correctly, to make a dress, to trim a hat. She should waltz and twostep gracefully and be at her ease before people. She ought to learn how to spend her allowance to the best advantage in dressing herself and to do the family marketing with fine discrimination. More important than all, she should know how to cook a dinner, to make bread, to sweep a room. She need not do these things, but she should know how. It would be a good thing also if she could write rapidly and neatly on some standard typewriter, if she knew how to swim, to play all innocent games of cards and to ride horseback. These things sound numerous, but they are not so if you spread them over the term of years devoted to unpractical knowledge and high priced schools."

"But I believe in specializing," put in another woman. "If a girl is going to be a teacher let her learn all the 'ologies;' if a girl has artistic talent let her go to an art school; if ability for the stage let her go to a dramatic school."

"Yes, but you can't always tell, and as a rule, she winds up in the matrimonial state; so it isn't a bad thing for her to know the arts of a home woman and in any case no woman can afford to be above dressing herself, keeping her house clean and"

"Broiling a steak properly," put in the mother of two big grown daughters who suffered from dyspepsia as a result of their lack of knowledge of culinary art.

And the rest of the women agreed with her, of course.

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

Godfrey was paying slight heed to the darkey. He was reading the note Jane had attached to the uniform, in which she urged haste.

Without a word of explanation or apology, he began in the most high-handed manner to divest Gen. Pierce of his coat and thrust the British hat and coat upon him.

"The breeches will do," he said; "they will not be noticed in the dim light, and with Bessemer's order in your hand you are likely to be passed without too much inspection. At any rate, there is no time to change."

He pushed the general towards the head of the stairs, and the old man, utterly bewildered, was passive in his grasp. Then suddenly rousing himself, he threw off the compelling hands and faced the younger man in a fury.

"Why, why, boy, you fool, you, do you think I'm going to escape in clothes provided for you?"

"General, listen to me. You know that I am taller than any man in Bessemer's troop. If I attempt to go, I shall be stopped, and it will not only mean death for both of us, but compromise for Miss Ellery and possibly death for Gabriel here as well. If you make the attempt, you have every prospect of success and can then gather some of our brave fellows to come here and rescue me before sunrise, the hour which we were told Bessemer had fixed for our execution."

As he finished speaking Worthington stepped back into the room they had formerly occupied, and closing the door, drew a heavy chest across it, thus effectually shutting Pierce out.

The old man perceived with rising choler the ruse the younger had employed. By imprisoning himself thus in the room he cut off the other's arguments and made it imperative for him to go or for both to be left to their fate.

Gabriel, liking the change of plan no better than the general, nevertheless hurried him forward. "If Massa Godfrey won't go, an' you is, you bettah hurry, sah. Dar ain't no time to stan' agitatin' heah no longah. We ah'll be caught 'n strung up, sah."

Still reluctant, the old man descended the stairs.

CHAPTER XI.

THE REPRIEVE.

"Massa Godfrey," Gabriel called cautiously through the keyhole, "he am done gone. Good-by, young massa. Gawd bless you, sah." The darky's voice was a sob.

Godfrey opened the door and issued forth. "Good-by, old boy," he said, "good-by." The white and the black hands clasped, and the negro, the tears rolling down his cheeks, stumbled blindly towards the stairs.

Godfrey turned back into the room and, seating himself upon the chest beside the diminishing candle, awaited the coming of the death-guard. Little did he surmise that all this time Jane had been in the tree outside the entry window, where she could see what went on, and while she could not hear what was said, for the tones were too low and her distance too great, she could not fail to understand the meaning of the pantomime.

Was there no way left to save him? Could she think of no other plan? Why was she given a brain at all if it would not serve her in such extremity? Suppose that to-morrow, that an hour hence, when too late, some plan would come to her by which she might have saved him? She could not bear it! She raised her eyes to the jewelled sky. "Oh God," she prayed, "take away from me all power for future thinking, but concentrate in me now, for this one instant, the power to think to some avail."

As though in answer to her prayer a thought did come to her. Working her way down cautiously from the topmost branches where she had clung to the wider limbs below, whose leaves played within her open window, she waited until the sentry beneath had gone to the other end of his beat, and then swung herself to her window-ledge.

It was an old, old trick, one she had played dozens of times in her childhood and girlhood. Often she and Edward had gone through that performance when they were children, and one or the other of them was incarcerated in the garret for some misdemeanor.

The noose was ready to fit Worthington's neck when the figure in the uniform of a British lieutenant, with a military cloak slung across its shoulders, rushed upon the scene.

"Captain, you are to join Col. Bessemer at once near the old stone wall back of the meadow. He fears an attack from the Americans, and every man is needed at his post. Do not delay a second."

"But, Lieut. Ellery, what about this fellow? We are to hang him."

"Leave him to me. I will attend to this man."

"But shall I not leave some of my men with you, sir? He might prove troublesome."

The lieutenant drew his slim figure up to its full height, while into his lisping tones, heretofore somewhat breathless, he threw haughty imperiousness. "What, has the British army fallen so low that a British lieutenant is not a match for one poor rebel prisoner with his hands bound? 'Tis a sad state of affairs. I advise you not to stand quibbling here, captain, when your colonel expects you."

The captain looked troubled. Though nominally superior in rank, he knew that young Ellery's position, as Bessemer's favorite, was far superior to his own. He had no wish to offend the lieutenant, much less to disobey orders the colonel might have sent by him, but the proceedings were most irregular.

"If I leave the prisoner in your hands, sir, you will be personally responsible for him?"

"Certainly," the other answered brusquely.

Still reluctant, the captain gave the command and marched his men off through the woods in the direction the lieutenant had indicated.

CHAPTER XII.

THE BARGAIN.

"Jane," said Worthington quietly, when they had gone, "do you know the terrible risk you are running in this mad attempt?"

In her tomboyish days he had more than once seen Jane dressed in her brother's clothes and heard her skilfully mock his voice and ways, for in truth, Jane had no little talent as an actress. On her part, she evinced no surprise at his recognition.

"Yes," she answered to his question, drawing her cloak about her to conceal as much as she could her male attire, "I know it all, but I do not care. I do not even care that I have just implicated my brother in a way that may make it most difficult for him to extricate himself. I must, I will save you, and when that is done I shall go to Col. Bessemer and tell him all."

"What will you tell him?" Worthington asked.

"I shall tell him that I could not permit him to commit a ruthless murder; to soil his hands with blood in this cruel fashion."

The American drew back. "Ah, that is it," he said bitterly. "It is to save him from murder, to keep his hands unsmirched, you do it; it is for his sake—I might have known."

She had unbound his arms by now, and stood off from him. "Capt. Worthington, permit me to advise you to go at once."

"Go?" he cried disdainfully. "Go and leave you to face alone the consequences of your rash action? No; it might be that Col. Bessemer would not properly appreciate the effort you have made to prevent his doing that which is his chief daily amusement. I shall seek the gentleman and put myself again into his hands, with the request that he make quick work of me."

"Godfrey!"

Even that very dull young man could not fail to interpret the cry of pain and entreaty. "Jane!" He possessed himself of her hands, but she snatched them from him.

SEVEN INDICTMENTS.

Grand Jury Returns True Bills Involving Six Persons.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—After deliberating for several weeks over a mass of documents submitted by the post office inspectors the federal grand jury has returned seven indictments in postal cases involving six different persons. All the indictments were kept off the public record, and both the officials of the District attorney's office and of the post office department refused to divulge names or details of the indictments until the parties indicted are arrested. The identity of the indicted individuals thus was left a matter of conjecture.

It is expected that arrests will be made today and that the post office department will then have some announcement to make. The grand jury's action probably marks the beginning of the end of the investigation that has been in progress since the middle of last March.

Postmaster General Payne and Fourth Assistant Postmaster General Bristow received word of the grand jury's action, but both officials refused to divulge details pending official notification of arrests.

Leopold Stern, the Baltimore contractor, who disappeared from Baltimore before he could be arrested, has been located at Toronto. George W. Beavers, the former head of the salary and allowance division, has surrendered himself to the New York authorities.

THREE DEAD IN MINE.

Terrible Explosion Followed Fire at Dawson's Fuel Company.

SPRINGER, N. M., Sept. 9.—Mine No. 1 of the Dawson Fuel company caught fire and is burning, and three men have already perished. Some one set fire to a curtain at the entry of the mine, and from this the fire started.

The superintendent of the mine, with a posse of men, started to rescue those inside, but when the rescue party was some distance inside the mine a terrible explosion took place, throwing some of the men thirty feet. All came out scratched, and some were badly hurt.

Terms of Canal Treaty.

BOGOTA, Sept. 9.—The bill which congress is now discussing, authorizing President Marroquin to negotiate a new Panama canal treaty with the United States, contains the following stipulations: The perpetual use of the canal is granted provided that at the expiration of each hundred years the United States shall pay during the succeeding hundred years 25 per cent more premium and rental than for the preceding term, the premium beginning at $400,000 and the rental at $400; $20,000,000 is fixed as the price of the concession, besides the rental sum of $10,000,000, payable by the canal company, in consideration of Colombia's approval of the transfer of shares; the railroad shall in sixty-four years revert to Colombia, but the United States may buy it under a valuation.

Bride Would Not Say "Obey."

RUTLAND, Vt., Sept. 9.—The wedding of Miss Ethel Scovel Clement, daughter of the millionaire railroad magnate, Percival W. Clement of this city, and William H. Field of New York, a member of the editorial staff of the New York American, took place near Center Rutland village. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George W. Phillips, the bride having refused to be married by her own pastor, Rev. Joseph Reynolds, Episcopalian, because of the presence of the word "obey" in the service.

Used Torch For Revenge.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 9.—With a torch as his weapon some person, supposed to be the agent of a secret society, sought revenge upon Joseph Bova, a saloon keeper, and endangered the lives of thirty persons. Their escape was due to Carlo Dairaghi, three years old, who aroused his mother. The inmates of the blazing building escaped just in time, as it was destroyed with its contents.

France Secures Transports In East.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—A dispatch from Marseilles asserts that the government has requisitioned all the steamers on the far eastern service of the Messageries Marathmes and Chargeurs Reunis companies for the conveyance of a large number of troops of all arms and a quantity of supplies. This step confirms the report that a critical situation prevails in China.

Archbishop Ryan's Golden Jubilee.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—The golden jubilee celebration in honor of the fiftieth anniversary of Archbishop Ryan's ordination began at the Cathedral Sts. Peter and Paul with the celebration of solemn pontifical mass by the archbishop. The ceremony was attended by eight archbishops, thirty-two bishops, five monsignori and about 500 priests.

Was Last to Look on Daniel Webster

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 9.—Henry C. Delano of Marshfield, Mass., died of paresis at Madison, Wis., while visiting his granddaughter. For thirty years he was employed by Daniel Webster and was the last to look on the great statesman's face, closing the lid on the coffin.

TENNIS.

By winning three matches in the singles tournament at the Cedar Brook Tennis Club on Labor Day, Charles H. Clarke, handicap 30, put himself well in the lead in the contest for the Officer's cup and another victory will make him its holder. His defeat of Chauncey Koons, A. E. Moore and W. F. Doane makes him leader in the tournament with six victories. H. A. Nomer, scratch, ranks second with 83.8 per cent. and A. E. Moore, handicap 30, has dropped to third with 85.7 per cent.

D. Bulkley was the winner of the singles tennis tournament at Hillside on Labor Day, defeating O. H. Fleming in the finals 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, 6-3. Good tennis was seen from the play of all the contestants and both Fleming and Bulkley had some hard matches before they met in the finals. There were ten entries, H. Mellick, O. H. Fleming, G. F. Earle, W. S. Tyler, D. Bulkley, A. L. Otterson, R. A. Beebe, J. P. Murray, A. D. Beers and J. F. Middiedith and a good sized crowd witnessed the play both morning and afternoon.

FOOTBALL.

The Orange Field Club will start the season tonight in football practice for the year. In case of rain practice will be held Friday evening at the home of Captain Frank Emmons. The regular practice nights will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings. The lot at the corner of Arlington avenue and Randolph road has been secured for the games this season. The Netherwood A. C., which had the opening game with the O. F. C.'s, has cancelled the date. A game is being arranged with either the Lin-A. C., or the Westfield eleven for the opening game, September 26.

OUT AT FIRST.

One of the interesting baseball games played Labor Day was that of the Burkley against the Summit A. C. at Burkley Heights. The score at the finish was 15 to 13 in favor of the Summits.

The "rubber" between the Cranford A. C. and the Plainfield A. A. was played at Cranford Monday afternoon. Many people from this city saw the game. The score was 8 to 4 in favor of Plainfield. This gave Plainfield two games out of the three played.

ROD AND GUN.

Ira. F. Randolph, Harry H. Coward, J. Hervey Doane, Frank T. Ostrom and Clarence E. Teel have returned from a fishing trip to Barnegat. The men were aboard the fishing schooner of Captain Dorsett and brought back a splendid catch of weak fish, bluefish and sea bass.

BOARD OF EDUCATION DISPOSES OF MUCH BUSINESS.

Finance Committee to Borrow $10,000—Contract Annuled —The New School.

On account of the omission of the August meeting of the City Board of Education, there was a big bulk of routine business to be transacted last evening. Outstanding bills amounting to almost $4,000 were ordered paid. Collector Frank Smith reported collections of $899.91 for July and $878.85 for August and the cash account of the Board showed a balance of $5,179.40 on the first of the month. The finance committee was authorized to borrow $10,000 in anticipation of taxes for the standing expenses and salaries. On account of the failure of Cleves & Ayres to execute painting and decorating contract work at the Franklin School, this contract was ordered annulled.

The fifteen architects who are working on plans for the new High School will submit them before Tuesday and after these have been looked over by Walter Cook, of New York City, the consulting architect, a special meeting of the board will be called to decide upon the architect for the new school.

SOUVENIRS DESTROYED.

Small Blaze at Home of Warren Squires Destroys Daughter's Property.

A still alarm yesterday afternoon was for a $10 blaze in the house on Astor place occupied by Warren Squiers. A box, filled with souvenirs owned by Miss May Squiers, caught fire in some unexplained way and its contents were destroyed. The garret floor under the box was burned through, although the blaze did not make its way through the ceiling. A few buckets of water were sufficient to extinguish the flames.

POLITICAL SITUATION IN SOMERSET COUNTY

Sudden Death of the County Clerk Adds One More Office to be Filled.

POSSIBLE CANDIDATES

GOVERNOR MURPHY TO MAKE A TEMPORARY APPOINTMENT.

No Opposition to Renomination of Assemblyman Swackhamer by His Party—Position of the Republican Party.

Somerset County politicians are confronted with an unexpected situation brought about by the death of County Clerk Frank W. Somers. The office occupied by him will have to be filled at the coming fall election, although it has been erroneously supposed that under the new primary law the voters would be deprived of a right to exercise their prerogrative in this respect. The Trenton Times and other papers have said that Governor Murphy will appoint Mr. Somers' successor, but as a matter of fact the only power with which the chief executive is vested is to make a temporary appointment.

Were it not for the sudden vacancy in the County Clerk's office, the voters would only be called upon this fall to select an assemblyman. As yet neither party has selected a date for its County convention and there has been little discussion concerning candidates. However, some names have been mentioned in conection with both offices. So far as the Republicans are concerned, Somerville can get and will have what she wants. But such is not the case in the Democratic camp.

That the Democrats will tender an unanimous renomination to Assemblyman Swackhamer there is little doubt. Aside from the fact that precedent demands his renomination, he is in favor with the rank and file. Not only did Swackhamer adhere to the platform upon which he was nominated, but he made a record for himself and for his county while on the floor of the Assembly. His rise has been so rapid that some have seriously considered him as gubernatorial timber, but there is little likelihood that aspirations to that high office will be satisfied in the near future. No Republican has yet announced that he desires to become Swackhamer's opponent in the campaign for the Assemblymanship.

It is not improbable that Governor Murphy will temporarily fill the county clerkship vacancy in a few days and that man he is likely to select for that purpose is said to be A. G. Anderson, a merchant, of Somerville, who has taken little interest in the Reed-Thompson factional fight. Mr. Anderson is also a possibility as a Republican nominee. Others mentioned in connection with the party's nomination include Fred Voorhees, of Bound Brook; Edward Cooper, of Warren township and George A. Dilts, of Raritan.

As for the Democratic nomination, John L. Anderson, the present deputy sheriff, is said to be seriously considered at present. Charles Voorhees, former assessor, of Bridgewater, may loom up among the candidates for the place as may also Jacob Shurts, of Somerville, the present chairman of Somerset Democrats.

From present indications little interest will be taken in the campaign so far as North Plainfield is concerned. As far as the Republicans in that borough are concerned, it appears that no office is being sought and none will be taken. Mayor Smalley's friends control the situation and will be supported by the borough's delegation at the county convention. The strenuous mayor and those closely allied to him politically are as strong annexationists as ever and it is well understood that they intend to keep up the fight until the Thompson ring see the futility of hoping for the borough Republicans to return to the old way of electing the county ticket and getting the crumbs from the political feasts that go with a victory at the polls. At the last general election the friends of the borough administration defeated their own party ticket purposely and then turned around and gave their chief a flattery vote re-electing him to the mayoralty for the third consecutive time. It would not be surprising to see them deliver a knock-out blow to the Republican county ticket this fall.

COURT SUSTAINS SURROGATE'S ACT

Fund Derived Under Will of Warren Ackerman Subject to Assessment.

WITHOUT PRECEDENT

ALVAH CLARK'S UNSUCCESSFUL FIGHT FOR EZRA B. HOYT.

State Entitled to $5,000 As Collateral Inheritance Tax on Principal of Estate Held in Trust for Sister of Mr. Ackerman.

An opinion has been filed by the Prerogative Court of New Jersey, at Trenton, affirming the assessment on a fund, derived from the Warren Ackerman estate, under the collateral inheritance tax law which was appealed in the case of Ezra P. Hoyt, of this county against William S. Hancock, comptroller.

The case is the first of its kind to come to the attention of New Jersey courts and was argued on briefs submitted by Alvah A. Clark, of Somerville, for the appellant and the attorney general for the State. Under the decision of the prerogative court the State will receive about $5,000 from the estate involved.

By the will of Warren Ackerman, of Scotch Plains, who died August 20, 1893, his estate was committed to trustees to divide it into as many shares as he might have brothers, sisters, nephews and nieces, who should survive him, and to set apart for each of them one such share and pay the income thereof to each during his life, and on the death of one to pay that one's principal of the share as that one might direct by will.

Mary S. Hoyt, a sister of Mr. Ackerman and the wife of Ezra E. Hoyt, survived the testator and died March 25, 1895, leaving a will by which she appointed her husband as the person to receive the principal of her share under the provisions of Warren Ackerman's will.

In December, 1895, the surrogate of this county had an appraisal and assessment made upon the estate of Mr. Hoyt, which he acquired under the appointment of his wife's will.

Mr. Hoyt protested against the assessment and prosecuted the appeal to vacate it and set it aside.

The opinion says: "It is conceded by counsel, and is undoubted law, that the interest which Ezra B. Hoyt took by such appointment is related back and referable to the instrument which conferred the power of appointment, which instrument was the will of Warren Ackerman, which took effect August 20, 1893.

The syllabus of the opinion says: "By a will which took effect while the provisions of the collateral inheritance tax act of 1893 was in force, testator created a fund, the income of which was payable to a sister for life, with a power of appointment of the principal by her will. By her will, which took effect in 1895, the life beneficiary appointed the principal to be paid to her husband, who survived her. Held—

"1. That the interest of the husband must be considered as having been acquired as of the time the instrument creating the power of appointment took effect.

"2. That such interest was taxable under the provisions of the act of 1893, and could be appraised by an appraiser appointed by a surrogate, when it became vested by the will of the donee of the power.

"The act of 1893 was repealed by the collateral inheritance tax act of 1894, except so far as its provisions were reenacted in the latter act, and the repealer was declared not to surrender any remedies, powers, rights or privileges acquired by the State under any previous act.

"3. That the State's right to tax the interest acquired by the husband remained unrepealed and could be enforced."

Directors of the Public Service Corporation Inspect the Local Lines.

In their private car the directors of the Public Service Corporation rode to this city, yesterday, and went over all the local systems. There were twelve in the party including General Manager Wheatley, of Newark.

The visit to this city, it is said, has no particular significance to Plainfield. The trip, it is understood, was for the purpose of inspecting the entire line from Newark to this city, so that the needs of the road could better be understood by the governing board of the new corporation.

TELEPHONE PEOPLE SEEKING FRANCHISE

Central New Jersey Telephone Company Not at All Disheartened.

ITS SCHEME IN DETAIL

CONNECTING UNION, MORRIS, HUNTERDON AND MIDDLESEX COUNTIES.

Possible That Line Will be Constructed Through From Elizabeth to Springfield, Summit, Plainfield and Other Places.

Although the Central New Jersey Telephone Company's application for a franchise in this city has been practically pigeonholed by the Common Council, the concern is still at work endeavoring to secure franchises in cities contiguous to Plainfield.

A franchise to construct and operate a telephone line through Springfield, N. J., is desired by the new company to compete with the Bell Telephone Company. Its plan is to do business in Union, Morris, Hunterdon and Middlesex Counties. The request has been made known to the Springfield Township Committee by John L. Denman, the chairman, who said he had been waited upon by William N. Watson, of Elizabeth, a representative of the company. If the franchise was granted, said the latter, subscribers in Springfield and other cities would receive telephone service at just about one half the rate being paid now.

The company is pushing its lines through Elizabeth to this city and from here to New Brunswick. There, their lines will connect with the service already in operation in Trenton. A line will probably be constructed through from Elizabeth to Springfield, Summit, Morristown, Plainfield, New Brunswick and Trenton.

If the franchises are granted by the town and borough councils through which the company desires to operate lines, another attempt will be made to secure a franchise in this city. The franchise was granted in New Brunswick and, if they are successful in their attempts in Elizabeth it is more than possible that their efforts along that line in this city may bear fruit. It is generally known here that there is strong sentiment against a competing line, held by a majority of the people. The new concern will not be allowed to string its lines on poles in the city streets and property owners do not wish to have the well paved streets of the city dug up for the installing of conduits and run the risk of having the streets repaired in a slip shod manner.

CHECKER TOURNAMENT BEGUN

FIRST ROUND OF SCHEDULED EVENT AT THE Y. M. C. A.

VanArsdale and Jeffery Put Up Great Game—Winner to Receive a Prize.

The opening games in the first round of play in the checker tournament at the Y. M. C. A. were played off last evening. Victory in this match play consists in winning two games out of a series of three and it was necessary to play but one match with a "rubber" game in it of the four played. This match, the best checker play of the evening, was between VanArsdale and Jeffery and was finally won by the former after some clever play on the part of both.

Pittinger defeated Brokaw, Koons won from Brose, and Aalholm had little difficulty in taking his match from LaTourette. Mundy and Robbie, and Phillips and Heywood are the remaining players of the first round and will meet tonight or tomorrow. The matches will be played off as rapidly as possible, each loser dropping out of the tournament. The winner will receive a suitable prize to be purchased with the entry fees.

John Nester Will Sing.

Benjamin LaVere received word this morning that John Nester will be the singer at the Saturday night band concert in the borough instead of Joseph Natus.

A chafing dish party was given last night by Miss Aimee Louise Emmons, of Prospect place, in the borough. Dancing and games completed the programme.

THRICE HONORED BY FRATERNAL ORDER

J. V. E. Vanderhoef Chosen Deputy Supreme Archon Heptasophs.

BI-ENNIAL CONVENTION

HIGHEST OFFICE OF ORDER IN NEW JERSEY AWARDED TO PLAINFIELDER.

More Than Twenty Members of Improved Order Heptasophs Convened and Dined at Hotel Kensington.

The highest honor in the gift of the Improved Order Heptasophs of New Jersey came to a Plainfield man last night for the third successive time, when John V. E. Vanderhoef was unanimously re-elected deputy supreme archon of the order. The bi-ennial convention of the order was held last night in the Hotel Kensington.

The convention was called to order at 8 o'clock by Dr. Elmer Barwis, of Trenton. Charles A. Smith, of Westfield, was elected chairman; Howard H. Heath, of Asbury Park, secretary; Frank W. Sorter, of Somerville, and John V. E. Vanderhoef.

Thomas DeVaney, of Orange, committee on credentials, and J. E. Salmon, of Morristown, and M. W. Sharkey, of Elizabeth, tellers. Dr. Elmer Barwis was elected alternate deputy supreme archon to Mr. Vanderhoef. The business meeting was followed at 9 o'clock by a dinner with covers laid for twenty-five. After the dinner, many of the deleagtes were called upon to report progress in the various conclaves since the last convention.

Mr. Vanderhoef, the deputy supreme archon, will have served six years in his office at the completion of his present term in 1905. During the past four years under his leadership, the order has grown throughout the State both in membership and influence. Mr. Vanderhoef is justly popular in this city for his genial social qualities and respected for his business ability. He has been buyer and manager of the furniture and house furnishings department at Woodhull & Martin's store for the past four years, and under him the business of the department has increased 100 per cent. He is a member of the Furniture Association of America, and secretary of the Union Building and Loan Association, of this city.

Besides the officers mentioned above, these delegates were present at the convention: Justice V. W. Nash, Michael Armstrong, Dr. J. H. Buchanan and Allen H. Vanderhoef, of Plainfield; Judge John B. Landes, of West Orange; Samuel H. Atchison, of Orange; Nathan Weill, of Somerville; Emil Schnyder, and Dr. S. W. Jones, of Newark; E. N. Hallett, of Canton, Pa.; Edwin L. Reed, of Long Branch; and James S. Throckmorton, of Red Bank.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL'S NEW DEPARTMENTS

Commercial Course and a Kindergarten Added to St. Mary's School.

A LARGE ENROLLMENT

NO CHANGES MADE IN CURRICULUM OF OLD DEPARTMENTS.

Two New Teachers Added to the Corps — Twenty-Three Tots in the Kindergarten—Sisters of Charity in Charge.

With a larger enrollment than that of last year and an addition of two teachers in a new department, St. Mary's Parochial School opened yesterday under auspicious conditions.

During the summer months the school building has been repaired and put in first-class condition. On Tuesday the Sisters of Charity were at the school to register the new pupils and to perfect the organization of the classes for the school term. The total registration showed that there are 425 pupils. This number is an increase of seventy over the registration of last year. Almost the entire number of new pupils are in the entering classes, although a good part is made up in the new department opened this year for the first time.

Stafford Hall has been converted into a school room. In there the new departments are located. A commercial course has been added to the school this year and most of the pupils who graduated last year have enrolled in this department. The total registration in the new department is thirteen, which shows that all but one of the graduating class of last year will take the new course. The kindergarten is a new department opened for the first time this year. In this there are twenty-three little tots and, it is probable that there will be many more added before another week passes.

In order to have an efficient corps of teachers for these new departments additions have been made to the teaching force at the school. Two new teachers have been added to the already efficient corps. In the commercial course stenography, bookkeeping and general office practice is taught. The school hours for this department are 8:45 to 11:30 a. m., and 1 until 3:30 in the afternoon.

In the regular school no change in the curriculum has been made and the teaching force will remain the same.

WITNESSED RIVER CARNIVAL

PLAINFIELDERS ATTENDED FETE ON RARITAN AT NEW BRUNSWICK.

Fully 20,000 People Lined the Banks of the River—Forty Boats in Line—The Judges.

The river carnival held by the members of the New Brunswick Boat Club on the Raritan river at New Brunswick last night was attended by about 200 people from this city. The trip was made in carriage, trolley and stage. It is said that there were fully 20,000 people at the fete.

The entire river was a blaze of light and the boats in line were artistically decorated. Nearly all the prizes were awarded to New Brunswick contestants. The Judges were: Robert Adrain, Thomas Nelson, Jr., John S. Stewart, Robert Bartle, Matthew L. Mundy and Frederick Weigel.

In the long line of forty boats, which formed the Venetian parade, were many boats on which several hundred dollars were spent in decorations. The boat house and Albany street bridge were artistically outlined in colored electric lights and the pyrotechnic display, in charge of Pain, New York, was never before equalled in New Brunswick.

MR. MARSH WON.

As Counsel for Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company He Had Plaintiff Non-Suited.

The first case to be tried before Supreme Court Justice Dixon, at the fall term of court at Jersey City yesterday, was Effie D. Newton vs. the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Co.

It was a suit for $20,000 brought by the widow of Mr. Newton on an insurance policy. The principal defense was the failure of Mr. Newton to pay the amount for 1898 dues on time.

Craig A. Marsh, of this city, was counsel for the Insurance Company, and at the close of the plaintiff's case, moved for a non-suit, which was granted.

RIOTING EMPLOYES THREATEN BONIFACE

Police Summoned to Quell Disturbance at Hotel Netherwood.

THREATS TO SHOOT

HOTEL PORTER, HOT AFTER MANAGER BROWN, IS ARRESTED.

Attaches at Hostelry Given Their Fares and Transported From City — Creditors Clamoring for Their Money.

What came near being a full-sized riot with serious results was narrowly averted at the Hotel Netherwood yesterday afternoon and evening. An excited mob of men and women employees, gathered about the officers of the hotel—the steward and representatives of Manager Brown—vociferating, gesticulating, threatening, demanding their pay. At times menacing fists were raised and blows struck, and for hours the employees, impossible of pacification, surged about their employer's representatives like a team of maddened football players.

The mob became so violent early in the afternoon that the police were asked for protection. Chief Kiely and Patrolman Flynn responded and were obliged to remain for the rest of the day to enforce order. Even with their presence there was little diminution in the intensity and fierceness of the fray. Many of the women were crushed by their fellows and fainted.

But one arrest was made and that of a man who promised the most awful violence, if he did not instantly receive his wages. He was the porter, Andrew Kuetal, who resides in New York City. He had been drinking heavily and was primed for a fight. He told everybody that he intended to shoot the manager if he were not paid before night. The police were obliged to throw him bodily out of the hotel and Patrolman Flynn put him forcibly on a train and told him not to get off until he reached New York City. Instead of this, Kuetal got off at the next station and in half an hour was back at the hotel announcing his determination to carry out the most dire threats.

It was only after a hard resistance that Patrolman Flynn was able to bring him to the police station.

Quiet was finally brought about by Attorney William Newcorn who gave the employes, forty of them, sufficient money for their fares back to their homes in New York, Newark and other places. Mr. Newcorn represents all the plaintiffs in the suits against Proprietor Brown. Had he not done so, the city, says Chief Kiely, would have been obliged to take care of them. Proprietor Brown yesterday telephoned to the hotel from New York that he intended to settle all bills against him provided his creditors will give him time. The lawyers, he said, had so tangled his affairs that he was unable to accomplish anything for the present. He promises to attend to the matter personally next week and is expected at the hotel by next Wednesday at the latest.

In the city court this morning, Judge Runyon suspended sentence on Kuetal with a threat of 60 days imprisonment if he returned to the hotel. Kuetal promised to take the next train for New York.

Swedes to Entertain.

At the regular bi-monthly meeting of the Retail Clerks' Association, to be held Monday evening, plans will be considered for the association fair and bazaar to be held in the early part of November. This affair promises to be a popular event and plans as to its nature will be considered.

Tramps Sent to Jail.

The two hoboes, arrested in the barn belonging to the French estate on Somerset street, were arraigned last evening before Recorder Dond in the borough court and fined $10 or sentenced to ten days in jail. They took the latter penalty.

Michael Ragen, a laborer at the Walter Scott Printing plant, was caught in a moving planer bed a few days ago and is now detained at home suffering from a severe shock. But for the timely action of "Ben" Evans, Ragen would have been badly mangled and probably killed.

Many local employers are complaining of the difficulty of getting enough capable men to do their work. A prominent business man yesterday told a reporter that he had been spending his entire day searching unsuccessfully for prospective employes. To several men he had made offers in each case promising a considerable advance over the customary rate of wages, but in no case had he been successful. It was probable, he said, however, that the stringency would not last more than a few days.

COMFORTING WORDS.

Many a Plainfield Household Will Find Them So.

To have the pains and aches of a bad back removed; to be entirely free from annoying, dangerous disorders is enough to make any kidney sufferer grateful To tell how this great change can be brought about will prove comforting words to hundreds of Plainfield readers.

Mrs. I. L. Homes, of 449 West Second street, says: "I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills for backache and derived more benefit from them than anything else. Before I tried this remedy I was bothered almost constantly with a severe pain across the small of my back, so bad at times that I thought I must give up. If I sat down and got up or was lying down and attempted to rise quickly or retained one position for any length of time, sharp acute pain always followed. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised for such trouble and went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They helped me from the first and I improved right along under the treatment."

BEIRUT SITUATION.

French Official Reports Point to Foreign Intervention.

COTTON READY TO LAND ARMED FORCE

France Will Send Squadron From Toulon if Quiet Is Not Soon Restored by Ottoman Authorities at the Syrian Seaport.

PARIS, Sept. 10.—Official reports show the growing gravity of the situation at Beirut. Another Christian has been killed, the Turkish soldiers are making common cause with the Mussulmans during the attacks on Christians, a number of houses have been pillaged, one French shop was destroyed, and the French residents, becoming terrified at these depredations, have abandoned their homes and sought refuge at the French college, where between 400 and 500 refugees are now gathered.

The American naval commander proposed to land marines at once at Beirut, but the foreign consuls believed the step to be inadvisable at this time, as it might lead to an increase of the excitement prevailing and precipitate a crisis.

The vali of Beirut has proved himself to be too weak and incompetent to deal with the situation, and therefore Nazim Pasha, the vali of Syria, was ordered to resume the direction of affairs at Beirut. Nazim Pasha, who has already arrived at his new post, is displaying great energy. The consuls express the hope that he will be able to stem the disorder.

The nearest French war ship to Beirut is in the gulf of Volo, Greece, but unless Nazim Pasha speedily restores order and completely safeguards French citizens France will act decisively by dispatching war ships from Toulon.

The Moslem section of Beirut has been in a state of anarchy, and thirty persons were killed, among whom, however, were no foreigners. The shops are closed, the streets deserted, and the government is seemingly unable or unwilling to assure the safety of the residents.

The arrival of the American cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco was most opportune. Admiral Cotton is on the alert, and signalmen and a guard sleep at the United States consulate. The men on board the war ships are under arms ready to disembark on a signal from the consulate. The boats of the Brooklyn and San Francisco have reconnoitered the coast below the property of the American mission in order to select landing places in case of need.

The American mission authorities have demanded guards from the governor for the protection of the mission printing office and the mission property. An attempt to enter an American residence was frustrated.

The Americans here think the United States government should insist on the dismissal of the vali of Beirut, a notorious bribe taker, and to whom all the disorders are attributed. The opinion here is that the powers should take action with a view to bringing Beirut under the jurisdiction of an autonomous Christian government for the Lebanon district.

The Turkish embassy has issued its almost daily denial of the stories of Turkish outrages in Macedonia, declaring that they are Bulgarian inventions and exaggerations. The statement adds that Turkey hopes the American squadron will leave Beirut speedily, as its presence only tends to incite the people.

The American government, it is thought here, will be ready, should the occasion arise, to assert that it has the right to send its vessels of war to any place in the sultan's possessions where the lives and property of American citizens require protection. Should an anti-Christian outbreak occur in Constantinople and the Turkish authorities be unable or unwilling to quell it the United States would make an immediate demand for the admission of at least one of its war vessels through the Dardanelles to secure the protection of the American legation and American citizens in Constantinople.

Decision Is Always For Kaiser.

HALLE, Prussia, Sept. 10.—A wild storm of wind and rain at the army maneuvers tore away the balloons and made wireless telegraphy impossible. Emperor William, in command of two Saxon army corps, attacked the opposing Prussian army corps with ferocity, stormed several of the latter's batteries and compelled the Prussians to retire Earlier in the war game when the emperor was in command of the Prussians the umpire decided the Saxons were defeated.

Shot Dead Over $2.50 Dispute.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 10.—Miller McKinney, a merchant of Tacapau Mills, S. C., was shot and killed on the public road near Spartanburg by Harry Dean, aged eighteen years, of Duncans, S. C. Dean surrendered, claiming he shot in self defense and saying McKinney attempted to shoot him as the result of a quarrel over a debt of $2.50 which McKinney alleged Dean owed him.

SALONIKA CONSULS.

Fear Dynamite Outrages and Request War Ships.

TURKS WILL CROSS INTO BULGARIA

Porte's Minister of War Is Said to Be Anxious to Begin Hostilities, as He Regards War to Be No Longer Avoidable.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 10.—The consuls at Salonika have requested their ambassadors to send war ships to that port, as they are in fear of dynamite outrages.

A band of 600 revolutionaries engaged the Turkish troops between Melnik and Demirhissar. The Turks are reported to have lost heavily.

Eight thousand Turkish troops have gone from Losengrad to the Bulgarian frontier.

The towns of Prilep and Monastir are surrounded by troops, and no one is allowed to enter or leave them.

The inhabitants of the district of Okrida have armed themselves with rifles and joined the insurgents in the mountains.

The Turkish authorities in the Adrianople vilayet have ordered the destruction of mills and granaries. Thousands of women and children in the district are hiding in the mountains and are starving.

The Macedonian organizations are preparing a memorandum, which they will present to the representatives of the powers, in which they declare that the insurgents intend to resort to reprisals for the Turkish atrocities.

The memorandum gives detailed information of villages destroyed and the massacre of their inhabitants. It declares that 65,000 men, women and children have been slaughtered and 120 villages burned. In the list of villages given only two are in the vilayet of Adrianople. The others are principally in the Monastir vilayet.

The memorandum repeats the statements recently issued by the insurgent general staff at Monastir that the Turks instead of fighting the insurgents have instituted a general massacre of the Christians.

The organizations declare they are issuing the present memorandum because they are no longer able to restrain the bands from retaliation, and henceforward the responsibility will rest with the great powers, which instead of attempting to moderate the Turkish barbarities are calling on the Turks to speedily end the revolution.

A Constantinople dispatch reports that Turkish troops have been ordered to cross the Bulgarian frontier of eastern Roumelia on the coming full moon nights in order to surround all the bands in the vilayet of Adrianople.

It is rumored from other sources that the Turkish minister of war is anxious to begin hostilities against Bulgaria, which he regards as no longer avoidable.

Sickening sights are witnessed in the hospitals of Monastir. The victims of Turkish brutality were mostly Greeks and Wallachians. Many women and children had wounds from Mauser bullets, proving that they had been inflicted by regular troops, inasmuch as the Bashibazouks are armed with Martinis. The stories told by the victims tended to prove the worst accusations against the Turkish troops of brutalities and massacres.

Claim Chinese Are Unlawfully Held.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 10.—Papers have been served on the Chinese inspector here by Attorney James E. Akin of Ogdensburg requiring him to show cause before United States Judge Cox why 147 Chinese prisoners detained at Malone should not be discharged or given immediate trial. The men were arrested along the border charged with being unlawfully in this country and have been imprisoned in the old jail barn for a month awaiting trial. The quarters are greatly crowded and in an unsanitary condition. One Chinaman has just died as a result of close confinement.

A Ten Million Grocery Merger.

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 10.—According to announcements made by M. N. Letts for his brother, F. C. Letts of Chicago, who for some time has been working to secure a combination of wholesale grocers in Ohio, all preliminary plans were completed here for the organization of a $10,000,000 company with a charter authorized under New Jersey laws. J. E. Neiffenbach of Dayton, president of the Ohio Wholesale Grocers' Association company, and L. E. Dow of Toledo will, with Mr. Letts, be at the head of the company, it is stated.

French Fisheries Failed.

ST. JOHN'S N. F., Sept. 10.—The extreme financial depression is causing widespread popular unrest in St. Pierre and Miquelon. Owing to the collapse of the French codfishery on the Grand banks twenty-three firms are reported to be on the verge of collapse. The French government may be called upon to provide sustenance for a considerable portion of the population during the winter.

The Battle Ship Maine.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—The battle ship Maine will leave Cramps' shipyard Sept. 18 with repairs to her complete. The next week she will have her battery test and then after coaling at Newport News will have her standardization trials over the Barren island course in Chesapeake bay. Subsequent to that she is to have a run at full speed to Culebra island and back in order to test her boilers.

Dr. Greene's Nervura

the world's greatest tonic and female regulator. Both before and after baby's coming Dr. Greene's Nervura is invaluable.

Mrs. Jennie S. Randall, of Bloomingdale St., Chelsea, Mass., says:

"Four years ago, after the birth of my baby girl, I was left with nervous prostration. I was very bad indeed. I was so weak and miserable I could not walk across my kitchen. I tried a great many remedies and doctored with many doctors, but grew worse all the time.

"One day some kind friend told my husband to get a bottle of Dr. Greene's Nervura. Before I had taken the first bottle, I began to feel better. I could sleep better and that awful, blue, depressed feeling was less. I continued its use until I had taken seven bottles and I was a well woman.

"Nothing tires me now, and I wake in the morning from a most refreshing sleep and with a perfectly rested feeling. Dr. Greene's Nervura cures, and the best part of it is you remain cured."

SCIENCE CONGRESS.

British Association Holds Its First Session.

SIR N. LOCKYER'S OPENING ADDRESS

Says England's Position as a Nation and Its Success as a Mercantile Power Are Imperiled by Neglect of Scientific Research.

SOUTHPORT, England, Sept. 10.—The British Association For the Advancement of Science has opened its session here. Sir Norman Lockyer delivered his presidential address, entitled "The Influence of Brain Power on History." During the course of his remarks the president referred at length to the struggle for existence in modern communities, showed that British industries were suffering from international competition, dwelt on the necessity for a body such as the British association dealing with the organization of science and said:

"Our position as a nation, our success as merchants, are in peril chiefly—dealing with preventable causes—because of lack of completely efficient universities and our neglect of research.

"We in Great Britain have eleven universities competing with 134 state and privately endowed in the United States and twenty-two state endowed in Germany. The German state gives to one university more than the British government allows to all the universities and university colleges in England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales put together.

"These are the conditions which regulate the production of brain power in the United States, Germany and Great Britain respectively, and the excuse of the government is that this is a matter for private effort. Do not our ministers of state know that other civilized countries grant efficient state aid, and, further, that private effort has provided in Great Britain less than 10 per cent of the sum thus furnished in the United States in addition to state aid?

"What are the facts relating to private endowment in this country? In spite of the munificence displayed by a small number of individuals in some localities, the truth must be spoken. In depending in our country upon this form of endowment we are trusting to a broken reed. If we take the twelve English university colleges, the forerunners of universities unless we are to perish from lack of knowledge, we find that private effort during sixty years has found less than £4,000,000—that is, £2,000,000 for buildings and £40,000 a year income. This gives us an average of £166,000 for buildings and £3,300 for yearly income.

"What is the scale of private effort we have to compete with in regard to the American universities?

"In the United States during the last few years universities and colleges have received more than £40,000,000 from this source alone. Private effort supplied nearly £7,000,000 in the years 1898-1900.

"Next consider the amount of state aid to universities afforded in Germany. The buildings of the new University of Strasburg have already cost nearly £1,000,000—that is, about as much as has yet been found by private effort for buildings in Manchester, Liverpool, Birmingham, Bristol, Newcastle and Sheffield. The government annual endowment of the same German university is more than £49,000.

"When we consider the large endowments of university education in the United States and Germany it is obvious that state aid only can make any valid competition possible with either. The more we study the facts the more statistics are gone into, the more do we find that we to a large extent lack both of the sources of endowment upon one or other or both of which other nations depend. We are between two stools, and the prospect is hopeless without some drastic changes. And first among these, if we intend to get out of the present slough of despond, must be the giving up of the idea of relying upon private effort."

The president then compared the vast sums spent by the British government on "sea power" and the small amounts expended on "brain power" and advocated duplicating the navy bill of 1888-9, $120,000,000, and devoting that amount to the increase of Great Britain's brain power, adding:

"Let this sum be assigned and borrowed as it is wanted. There will be a capital sum for new buildings to be erected in the next five or ten years, the interest of the remainder to go toward increased annual endowments. It is the case of battle ships over again, and money need not be spent more freely in one case than in the other. This sum is not to be regarded as practically gone when spent, as in the case of a short lived ironclad. It is a loan which will bear a high rate of interest."

President Lockyer concluded with advocating the establishment of a scientific national council to act as an advisory committee to the government.

In glancing over an exchange this greets our eyes: "Paterson a city of great renown." Enough said.

Remember, a special registration is required to enable one to vote at the special constitutional amendment election this month.

Carl Lentz has proved himself a real captain of practical politics and his enemies in Essex must realize that they are up against a hard proposition.

It is reported that Western farmers propose to form a trust, the object being to keep wheat at a dollar and corn at sixty cents. This is the last straw.

The seat of war in local factional politics has been transferred by the Republicans from the primaries here to the County convention hall in Elizabeth.

There are strong indications that the local building trades will have a busy season this fall. Architects are engaged on plans and contractors in making estimates.

Mayor Smalley's friends had things their own way at the Republican primaries in the borough on Tuesday and as usual their leader wears "the smile that won't come off."

Work in spite of yourself, and make a habit of work; and then the habit of work is formed, it will be transfigured into the love of work; and at last you will not only abhor idleness, but you will have no happiness out of the work which then you are constrained from love to do.—Tengwall Talk.

Unless the weather man plays a mean trick, some good events will take place at the Plainfield Driving Park on Saturday. Already six horses have been entered in the 2:20 class; eleven in the 2:25 and fourteen in the 2:30. Though the contests are for true sport's sake, a purse of $150 has been provided for each event.

Not only in this county but throughout the entire State little interest was taken in the primary election. In fact in many places the election was a travesty. Had it not been for the fact that war is on between the Fowler and Kean forces in this city, it is safe to say that not one-third of the vote actually polled could have been gotten out. Particularly noticable was the lack of interest taken in the primaries by the great mass of Democrats in the State.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 13, "The Call of Isaiah"—Text, Isa. vi, 1-8.

There was no lack of religion and worship in the land. Every high hill had its grove of trees with an altar in the midst, surrounded by obelisks of stone or columns of wood. On every street in the city was a shrine for offerings. Sacrifices were frequent, and all the life of the people was interwoven with acts of devotion. They could undertake no task without invoking the favor and help of the divine powers and asking some sign or omen to guide them. Nor was this merely outward show. In the very soul itself the people stood in awe of the unseen powers. All was mystery impenetrable, and while they sought life, health and property they feared the powers which ruled over all things and by offerings tried to buy their help.

The times were troublous. The nation must maintain its existence by constant war. The lust for power and luxury infected all. Right was not a matter of reason, but of strength.

Into such times Isaiah found himself born and growing to manhood. Yet in the midst of the corruption, violence and dissoluteness of society there was a small band of rare spirits who saw beyond the evils of the time and had strong faith in a divine force which was shaping events according to a wise and beneficent purpose. The vice of the people must be checked or disaster would overwhelm all in ruin. To these men religion was not a routine of sacrifice and feasting and burning of incense, not an orgy of debauchery and blood. God to them was a Lord of righteousness who demanded honest dealing and purity of soul. He was to be propitiated not by offerings of beasts, but by genuine piety and penitence of heart. They reverenced Him as protector and avenger of the innocent and as punisher of wrongdoers. High above all rulers was this Jehovah, ruling nations and their kings righteously. They were His messengers—not priests to offer sacrifices, but heralds to proclaim His laws and decrees and call men to obedience. The crimes and religious corruption of the people terrified them not for their own safety, but because of the punishment which must follow the evil.

Such a one was Isaiah. Day and night meditating the will of Jehovah and the times, he sees and hears the Jehovah surrounded by heavenly hosts in awful majesty. He feels his own uncleanness of soul and the thrill of the divine incoming. The commission to go to the people as the messenger of Jehovah is received and accepted with bounding heart.

This is the clew to the wonderful after life of Isaiah. He is counselor to kings. He is preacher of righteousness, recorder of history, expounder of God's will, the prophet of true religion in the midst of every kind of falsity.

He sees with clear vision what no man had ever before seen. He speaks to the men of his own time and of all after time the divine message that Jehovah is ruler of all men and commands to righteousness and brother love. He calls to men because God has called him.

What Heaven Is.

A mother in bitter grief, being over her dying child, was trying to soothe it by talking about heaven. She spoke of the glory there, of the brightness glowing all around, of the shining countenances of the holy angels; but presently a little voice stopped her, saying, "I should not like to be there, mother, for the light hurts my eyes." Then she changed the subject of her description and spoke of the songs above, of the harpers harping on their golden harps, of the voices as the sound of many waters, of the new song which they sang before the throne; but the child said, "Mother, I cannot bear any noise." Grieved and disappointed at her failure to speak words of comfort, she took the little one from its restless bed and infolded it in her arms with all the tenderness of a mother's love. Then, as the little sufferer lay there, near to all it loved best in the world, this whisper came: "Mother, if heaven is like this, may Jesus take me there!"
—Archdeacon Sinclair.

Cheerful Religion.

Do you think that religion is some mournful thing leading to dullness and gloom and always interfering with our pleasures and spoiling the cup of life? There's the mistake that has kept back many a man! Ah, a gloomy religion is not God's religion! Jesus came to give life and light and joy and peace. He showed this from the very first, and He bore witness to it to the very last. He placed the fact that He sympathized with all innocent and pure enjoyments in the very forefront of His teaching and drove it home to our minds by the first miracle that He wrought in Cana of Galilee.—Churchman.

In Transactions With Others.

Christians are never to lose sight of the principle of justice in their transactions with other individuals. No matter how weak the individual is and how great the opportunity there is to wrong him with impunity or with advantage to himself, if a man be governed by the principles of Christ he will render to the other that which is due. The rule of the world is to take every advantage the law will permit. The rule of Christ is to take no advantage of any one.—Christian Instructor.

The Devil's Booth.

At the devil's booth all things are sold;
Each ounce of dross costs its ounce of gold;
For a cap and bells our lives we pay;
Bubbles we buy with a whole soul's tasking.
'Tis heaven alone that is given away;
'Tis only God may be had for the asking.
—James Russell Lowell.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For the Week Beginning Sept. 13—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—Feasting that maketh lean souls.—Ex. xvi, 2-5; Ps. cvi, 13-15. (Temperance.)

Feasting is not generally supposed to produce leanness, and yet it is known to all that there is a feasting—a feasting of the body—that does produce a leanness—a leanness of soul. Indeed, spiritual leanness is usually an accompaniment of physical feasting. Feasting and drinking are not productive of spiritual growth. Excess in either produces the opposite result. As an illustration of this truth, the topical reference gives us the instance of the Israelites in the wilderness. Between Elim and Sinai the children of Israel murmured against Moses and Aaron and said, "Would to God we had died by the hand of the Lord in Egypt, when we sat by the fleshpots and when we did eat to the full, for ye have brought us forth into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger." God gave them food. The psalmist says, "He gave them their request, but sent leanness into their souls." Their bodies were fed, but their souls were starved. In their prosperity they forgot God and neglected to live in vital and living communion with Him, and were constantly wandering from Him and falling into temptation.

The application of this subject to temperance is easily made and readily understood. Intemperance in drink is disastrous in many ways, but it is especially disastrous to the spiritual life. The soul is lean indeed when the body is full of wine instead of the spirit of God. Drunkenness dwarfs and destroys soul life. It makes it impossible for a man to live in vital and living communion with his God, it makes him an easy victim to the temptations of life about him, and the Scriptures clearly state that the drunkard shall not inherit the kingdom of heaven.

Along all lines intemperance is a deadly foe to spirituality. And this is one of the strongest reasons why it should be avoided and opposed by all who do avoid it. We should not only obey the injunction, "Be not drunken with wine, wherein is excess, but be filled with the Spirit," but we should also strive to lead others to obey this command and as far as possible to make it impossible for men to become intemperate. Total abstinence should be practiced and preached; the saloon should be courageously opposed and prayer offered to God for its speedy overthrow. In doing these things we shall be opposing one of the greatest destroyers of spiritual life and make it possible for thousands who are spiritually debased now to be filled with the spirit of God.

BIBLE READINGS.

Prov. xx, 1; xxiii, 1-3, 20, 21, 29-32; Isa. v, 11, 22, 23; Matt. xxiv, 48-51; Luke xxi, 34; Gal. v, 19-26; Eph. v, 18-20.

Platform of Principles.

In the early days of the movement Rev. Dr. Clark drew up the following, a good thing to repeat today for the benefit of the younger generation:

First.—The Society of Christian Endeavor is not and is not to be an organization independent of the church. It is the church at work for and with the young and the young people at work for and with the church. In all that we do and say let us bear this in mind and seek for the fullest co-operation of pastors and church officers and members in carrying on our work. The Society of Christian Endeavor can always afford to wait rather than force itself upon an unwilling church.

Second.—Since the societies exist in every evangelical denomination, the basis of the union of the societies is one of common loyalty to Christ, common methods of service for Him and mutual Christian affection rather than a doctrinal and ecclesiastical basis. In such a union all evangelical Christians can unite without repudiating or being disloyal to any denominational custom or tenet.

Third.—The purely religious features of the organization shall always be paramount. The Society of Christian Endeavor centers about the prayer meeting. The strict "prayer meeting pledge," honestly interpreted as experience has proved, is essential to the continued success of a Society of Christian Endeavor.

Fourth.—The Society of Christian Endeavor sympathizes with temperance and all true moral reforms, with wise philanthropic measures and especially with missions at home and abroad. Yet it is not to be used as a convenience by an organization to further ends other than its own.

A Hint For Committees.

So whenever you hear a good thing just put it down, because if it is good for you it will be good for somebody else, and we should pass the coin of heaven around just as we do the coin of the realm.—D. L. Moody, "Pleasure and Profit In Bible Study."

In South Africa.

Two new societies have been organized in the Zoutpansberg district, South Africa, by returned prisoner of war Endeavorers from St. Helena.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

THE MANLY BOY.

Both He and His Opposite Are the Result of Home Training.

There are some boys whose tendency is to be brutal; there are others whose tendency, whether natural or inherited is to be dreamy and unpractical. Both bents can be corrected, and the fault lies with the mother if one boy grows up a brute and the other a "sissy." It is useless to try to deprive the boisterous boy of his strength and to try to make him act like the gentler lad, because he won't. But he can be taught that his strength is for an object—to protect those weaker than himself. He can be taught honor and courage and so called "military" qualities. His overabundant vitality can be directed toward athletics and contact with other strong lads will rob him of his bravado. Above all, the love of home must be fostered in him, and this can best be done by making home a pleasant place, where he is not perpetually squelched or expected to have the qualities of a girl, but where he is appreciated as one of the protectors of the household and where he has comfortable quarters of his own in which he can receive his chums.

The overgentle boy, on the other hand, needs different treatment. He should be encouraged to drop books and choose his friends among the really "alive" boys of the neighborhood and never among dreamers like himself. If possible he should be sent to a military school or made to join some athletic organization. His sensitiveness should not be humored and his spirit should be aroused—if necessary by sharp treatment. Above all, he should never be coddled by his mother, and she should never be a slave to him. More than other boys, he should be taught to swim, to sail a boat, to shoot and to depend on his own resources. If necessary he should even be entirely separated from his books and sent out in the woods to rough it. Manliness is far more important than book knowledge to a man. It helps him through half the difficult situations in life and wins for him the respect and esteem of his fellow men.

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

"Oh, go," she besought. "If ever you cared for me, if ever I was aught to you, go. Do you not see that my heart is breaking with fear?"

"Is it possible you do care for me Jane?" he asked, too flushed with sudden joy to have mind for aught else. "Is it not Bessemer you love, after all?"

"Bessemer?" she repeated, throwing back her head with her familiar gesture of disdain and speaking in a tone of scorn that ill became one who had only that morning been tempted by the British colonel's silver tongue.

Roused at last to the necessity of grasping this chance of escape by her expostulations, he turned for one last embrace, one final word of goodby, then plunged into the denser shadows of the woods beyond.

Jane stood listening to the crushing of the brush under his feet; then her quick ears caught a sound that sent her to her knees, half fainting, half praying. It was a shout of triumph; the shout of hunters who had come upon their prey.

A shot rang out; another, and another. Then she distinguished Bessemer's voice. "Is he dead? Ah, no, I see; a mere scalp wound that has knocked him senseless. Well, let him lie there until we can fit a noose to finish him with."

Again there was the crunching of twigs under several feet, and she could distinguish in the faint light dark forms moving between the trees. She rose slowly, dazedly. Bessemer, in advance, saw her and waved those behind him back.

"Pardon me, I wish a few words alone with—Lieut. Ellery."

The sinister pause before the title told Jane that he was not deceived as to her identity. He was determined, however, to deceive his companions if he could. He was no novice in barrack, mess and campfire gossip; he knew well the morsels soldiers love to roll beneath their tongues, and he had no desire that this girl's name should be smirched, as it would be if the lengths to which she had gone to save Worthington's life that night were known. His pride's protection moved him to this course, if nothing else. He had paid her marked attention; had openly courted her brother for her sake; had made no secret of his wooing. To have the name of a woman he had thus honored linked unsavorily with that of another man was galling.

"It were a pity, madam," he said, between his teeth, "for your family's sake, not to mention your own, that your discretion does not keep pace with your determination. Your mad actions to-night have placed your relatives in a position that is, to say the least, unenviable."

If he had expected her to be crushed by these cutting words, he reckoned little of Jane's spirit. "A state of affairs, sir," she answered promptly, "for which you, and you alone, are responsible. Had you paid heed to my supplications—had you not persisted in your determination to murder Capt. Worthington in this cold-blooded manner—I would not have been driven to this extremity to save the life of one who was my childhood's friend and to save your soul from black infamy."

Bessemer was dumbfounded. He had looked for tears, entreaties, protestations, perhaps some maidenly confusion over her discovery in male attire—though, indeed, the cloak, which the heavy dews and chilly atmosphere of the early morning hours in the southern climate lent excuse for did much to conceal the man's uniform.

It was well for Jane that her voice, relieved now of its lisp and its assumed depth, was sweet, and that so much of her face as could be seen was beautiful; else Bessemer might have been irritated beyond the bounds of courtesy by her effrontery.

"Madam," he said, "you speak with your accustomed emphasis; but you will perceive that your clever plot has been foiled. My good captain was not so stupid but that he thought best to communicate with me before accepting too unquestioningly the order which he supposed had been sent him through Lieut. Ellery. In truth, you have aped your brother Edward so well in looks, though not in conduct, that I do not wonder he was deceived; but as the next act in our little drama might be harrowing to your feelings, I will, with your permission, escort you from the scene after I have given orders that the execution proceed."

Jane thought rapidly. There was one last throw in the game left her—and she might even make it and yet not win; or, winning, at what sacrifice! But as long as this last chance remained could she refuse to take it? "Col. Bessemer," she said, "some hours since you made me the offer to exchange Capt. Worthington's life for my promise to be your wife. If that offer was made in good faith, I will—accept it."

A stony expression settled upon Bessemer's face; his eyes looked at her coldly. Ardently had he wooed this young woman less than two hours since; but that was before she had jeopardized her reputation by going to wild lengths to save another man's life. On the other hand, his pulses throbbed at every inflection of her voice, at every display of her proud spirit, her haughty temper. To have all this youthfulness, wilfulness, loveliness for his very own, to bend that haughty will to his—the thought was fascinating.

"I am waiting sir." The girl's eyes looked at him with cold surprise. Apparently Miss Ellery was astonished that the bargain she offered should not be more eagerly accepted.

Bessemer noted this with some amusement, and with pleasure too. It pleased him that she seemed to have no conception that she had done aught which could make her less acceptable in his eyes. Had she turned to him as a suppliant, he would have scorned her; but she came as a purchaser who offered a price which she evidently considered high; and Bessemer was too human not to value that which was offered him at much the value at which it was offered.

"You are willing to accept an offer which I made you sometime since?" he said slowly. "Ah, yes; I remember—for your hand against this fellow's life; and you would have me renew it now that you might give your hand to me and your heart, together with his life, to him. A charming bargain, truly."

"You refuse, then?" She turned away with the air of an empress, drawing her cloak about her, and apparently forgetful that she wore not sweeping trains, but trod instead in dragoon boots.

Tried Murder at Montpelier.

MONTPELIER, Vt., Sept. 10.—Trudging along behind a load of wood which he was hauling to his home on the outskirts of East Montpelier, Peter Verren, a quarryman, was fired upon from ambush and mortally wounded. He fell upon his knees, when immediately he regained his feet, ran after his frightened horses and fell dead beside the load. His twelve-year-old son witnessed the tragedy. Before noon Bartholomew Croteau, the murdered man's nearest neighbor, had been arrested and lodged in the county jail. A feud of long standing between the families is said to be the cause.

Cuban Army's Pay.

HAVANA, Sept. 10.—General Jose Miro, secretary of the revolutionary army pay commission, acknowledges that there are many errors in the pay lists and says that the congressmen were primarily responsible because in formulating the law they listened to the complaints of election manipulators instead of simply considering the plans for paying the army.

National Rifle Trophy Won by Empire State.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 10.—The name of the first winner to be engraved on the already famous national trophy provided by the congress of the United States will be that of New York. In a spirited competition in progress two full days the Empire State team of twelve uniformed men captured the trophy handily, finishing with a lead of eighty-six points over its next nearest competitor. New York's total was 2,988 out of a possible 3,000. In addition to the national trophy, valued at $1,000, which will be held by the winning team only one year, the New York team won a cash prize of $500.

New Jersey, which scored the second highest aggregate total of 2,902, receives the Hilton trophy, to be held one year, and $300.

Massachusetts was third, with a total of 2,888, and will carry home the "Soldier of Marathon" trophy, to be held one year, and $200.

DIAMOND DUST.

Alis is scheduled to play Westfield at Recreation Park, Westfield, on Saturday.

A baseball game between the lodges of the Colored Odd Fellows and the Colored Masons will be played this afternoon on St. Mary's field. The game will be called at 2.30 sharp.

Manager Cose, of Hope Y. M. A., has arranged no games definitely as yet for the remaining Saturdays of the season. He announces, however, that his team will probably play at least two more games. As Hope lost the series with St. Mary's there will be no more games between those two teams.

Many people at Monday's Westfield-St. Mary's game wondered why Umpire Cullum was not officiating. The reason was that he had been previously engaged to umpire a game for Bridgeport in the Connecticut State League. Cullum has always convinced everybody of his fairness and those of St. Mary's supporters who objected to the work of Umpire Rudyard were especially regretful that he was not present.

The supporters of Westfield and St. Mary's are not yet through disputing over Umpire Rudyard's decision at the plate in the seventh inning of Monday afternoon's game. It was an extremely important decision giving Westfield the run that tied the score. St. Mary's refused to go on with the game until Rudyard was taken out. In spite of all, however, it can hardly be doubted that the umpire gave his decision as he saw it. His work in the St. Mary's-Hope game in the morning was eminently satisfactory.

FOOTBALL.

The I. C. T. Club's plans for a football team are rapidly taking definite shape. Joseph Robinson is the leading spirit in the undertaking. The members are discussing the organization of a football league in the city and recently passed resolutions favoring the project. Possible competitors have been considered in Alis, Company K and the Orange Field Club.

CHESS.

Considerable interest is being shown at the Y. M. C. A. in the chess tournament to be started next week. Philip VanArsdale is in charge of the affair and plans to make it a handicap event, match play to consist of two out of three games. Entry lists will shortly be posted at the association.

TENNIS.

On account of the unsettled condition of the weather, no tournament matches have been played in the Y. M. C. A. doubles tournament this week. There are two more matches still remaining to be played off in the first round which will probably be concluded this week.

PROSPECTS BRIGHT FOR GOOD FOOTBALL

NEEDS NOW SUPPLIED

ALIS CLUB TO TROT OUT STRONG ELEVEN IT IS SAID.

Alis A. A. Members Now to Don Alis Club Uniform—Roy Phillips' Position in Game—Valuable Aid Given by L. Waring, Jr.

With September here, the local football enthusiasts are beginning to think once more of their favorite sport. While there has never been any lack of good talent from which to select a representative eleven, the chief difficulty in the path of a successful football team has been the lack of a strong organization to support the team. The hard work of management has usually fallen on the players themselves and it has handicapped them. This year, the Alis Club stands ready to back a team and there appears not the slightest doubt that the club will have the best team Plainfield has seen for many years.

There has always been the troublesome question of grounds and a suitable place for practice. With Crescent Oval and its grandstand available, the eleven will be in a better position to appeal to the public for support than ever before. Then the Alis Clubhouse with its adjoining lawn on Arlington avenue will be a suitable place for practice with dressing rooms close at hand.

As far as material goes, there is hardly one of the team, known last season as the Alis A. A., who is not anxious to don his football clothes and get out for practice. Plainfield had a strong team last season, despite the disadvantages under which the boys played, and with sound and substantial backing, the team ought to be one of the strongest in the metropolitan district. There is a nucleus of players, headed by Roy T. Phillips, who have played together for the last six years and have developed a style of team play that has proved wonderfully effective in the past. Then there are some new comers who have figured prominently in local football circles during the last two years. A few of the older players who were active in the days of the famous old Plainfield A. A. are still available. Then there is reported to be considerable new material including several young men recently from college. Lewis E. Waring, who has been identified with local football for ten years, played with the Elizabeth A. C., captained the Plainfield A. A. and coached the Alis A. A. last year, is president of the Alis Club and may be looked upon to actively support and advise the eleven. Roy T. Phillips, who has captained the Alis aggregation since its start as a school boy team eight years ago, is a member of the Alis Club and can be counted on to take the lead in the organization of this fall's team. He will have the support and active assistance of such well-known players as Homer Smith, Harry Coming, Harold Davis and Herbert Cathcart. Then there are other names, not so well known perhaps but which promise to figure importantly in the local football season of 1903.

A meeting of the members of the Alis Club, who are interested in football will be held in the near future when plans for the coming season will be shapened and the management of the team settled upon.

FALL SEASON BRINGS BIG BUILDING BOOM

New Stores and Dwellings Planned Give Impetus to Building Trade.

MANY IMPROVEMENTS

FIVE STRUCTURES TO COST IN NEIGHBORHOOD OF $33,000.

Stores for Watchung Avenue and East Fourth Street—T. A. B. Hall to be Enlarged — Some Small Dwellings in Prospect.

Within a few weeks contracts will be awarded to local builders for the erection of five structures in this city which will cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $33,000. This is a substantial indication that a healthy fall real estate boom is on in this city. During the summer the building industry has been somewhat dormant but with the approach of winter many plans are under way for the improvement of property in different parts of the town.

Among the improvements contemplated is the transforming of the vacant lot at the corner of East Fourth street and Watchung avenue into a row of handsome stores. The lot on which the store house used by DeWitt C. Ivins, is located, measuring 47 by 50 feet reaching from the corner of Fourth street, to the steps leading from Watchung avenue to the East bound station, will be occupied by a row of stores. The buildings will be brick with fancy press brick fronts. The buildings will be two stories in heighth and the stores will be three in number. The approximate cost will be $6,500. The owner will be T. B. Smith, of this city.

The T. A. B. Association, of St Mary's R. C. Church, have had plans drawn up by E. V. French for the remodeling of their hall on West Fourth street at a cost of about $3,500. The organization intends enlarging the dancing room of the building and in order to do this it will be necessary to build on an addition to the front of the structure which will bring it almost up to the sidewalk. A story will be added to the new part which will be used as dressing rooms. The improvements will be completed at this building before the first of the year.

Plans have been prepared by local architects for the erection of three fine residents in the new residential park recenly laid out by Elston M. French on Evergreen avenue. The approximate cost of the three buildings will be about $33,000.

The property was recently purchased from S. D. Drake and during the summer months it has been greatly improved. Streets have been mapped out and many lots have been sold.

Evarts Tracy, of this city, has drawn up plans for an $8,800 house; E. V. French, for a $7,000 building and another architect is now at work on plans for still another residence which will cost in the neighborhood of $7,500. The plans for these structures have not yet been filed at the office of the building inspector but it is probable they will be in the course of a week or two. All these buildings will be completed, in all probability, by the first of the year and, before that time, it is likely that negotiations now pending with out-of-town home seekers will close and additional plans will be drawn up.

CHANGES IN TEACHING CORPS

NORTH PLAINFIELD BOARD OF EDUCATION ENGAGES INSTRUCTOR.

Large Enrollment—Particular Attention to be Paid to Pupils' Health.

William Barheit, of New York, has been secured by the North Plainfield Board of Education to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of G. Peterson, in science and mathematics at the North Plainfield High School. Mr. Barheit comes from a well-known family of instructors. His father is principal of the Fort Lee Academy, on the Hudson.

Miss Emma Dorr has taken the place of Miss Elsie Horton on the kindergarten at the Watchung School and Miss Maude Bateman has Miss Jessie Hill's place in class 5 A. Miss Hill has been granted a year's leave of absence on account of ill health.

The entering class this year is unusually large and Superintendent Wightman states that in all his experience he has not known such a large number of new pupils to enter the school at one time. There are several minor changes in the curriculum.

This year special attention will be paid to the health of the pupils. The school physician will visit the school buildings twice every week. The new manual issued by the Board of Education, entitled "Medical Inspector," states that he shall make special record of the condition of each pupil, noting the presence of any disease of the ear, eye and throat. Lectures will be given twice a year to the teachers instructing them how to detect the first signs of communicable diseases.

Work Stopped.

Work on the new borough engine house has been at a standstill for almost two weeks on account of a delay in the shipment of cut stone from the quarries. Two stories have already been erected and the framework for the inside has been practically completed.

PLAINFIELD'S CHOICE FOR ASSEMBLY TURNED DOWN; LOCAL DELEGATES BOLT REPUBLICAN CONVENTION

Dramatic Scene on Floor When James T. MacMurray, Chairman of Plainfield Delegation, Declares That Action Is An Insult to the Intelligence of the People of This City.

KEAN'S FRIENDS HERE ACHIEVE GREAT VICTORY

FORMER SHERIFF WILLIAM T. KIRK WINS LAURELS IN GREAT BATTLE FOR ASSEMBLY NOMINATION—MACMURRAY'S LIEUTENANTS PLACE THEMSELVES ON RECORD AGAINST THE RESOLUTIONS, WHICH PLEDGE DELEGATES TO SUPPORT THE TICKET—"THE DEUCE WITH PEACE, LET'S HAVE WAR" THE BATTLE CRY OF THE DISSATISFIED DELEGATES—AMOS ANDREWS' CLEVER MOVE—OTHER DETAILS OF THE CONVENTION.

Declaring that their presence in the convention hall would be an insult to the Republican constituency of this city, James T. MacMurray, the local leader of the majority party and chairman of the delegation, led the Plainfield delegation in bolting the County convention, at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. Fifteen of the nineteen delegates from this city rose as one man and left the hall amid cheers and hisses. The dramatic scene was flashed before the convention, the instant it was realized that James F. Buckle's defeat for an assembly nomination had been accomplished by the friends of United States Senator John Kean. All hope abandoned for what they deemed fair play and home rule, the delegates loyal to the local Republican administration, which supports Congressman Charles N. Fowler, marched out in single file following Mr. MacMurray, on whose heels was City Judge William N. Runyon, who was turned down in a similar way when his name was presented last fall as Plainfield's choice for State senator.

It was like a bolt from a clear sky and for the moment few realized its significance. But it took only a short time for the convention to see of what grave importance such a sudden stroke in political diplomacy forecasted, and then no minutes were lost in endeavoring to reconciliate the striking delegation. It was too late, however, for those attempting to make peace, found that the anger of the Plainfielders could not be pacified. "The deuce with peace, let's have war," to use the terse words of a Westfield delegate, had already become the cry of the secessionists, who were occupying themselves in discussing plans for the defeat of their own party's ticket.

Probably no such scene had ever before been enacted in a Republican convention in Union County. Plainfield, which rolls up the majority and insures the continuance of Republican rule, was in revolt. Internal warfare had been decreed, and the old time politicians pictured a gloomy future.

The story of the convention, aside from this sensational feature, can be put in a nutshell. The friends of Senator Kean scored a signal triumph, which is not uncommon. Former Sheriff William T. Kirk, of this city, Assemblyman Edward Coyne, of Elizabeth, and Freeholder Peter Tillman, of Rahway, were nominated as the party's candidates for seats in the lower house of the Legislature, and Dr. Jesse A. Anderson, colored, of this city, was unanimously nominated for coroner.

County Chairman Hamilton Kean, a brother of Senator Kean, called the convention to order at 3:15, just fifteen minutes after the time designated, when the hall was but one-fourth filled. He announced the appointment of E. W. Hale, of Cranford, as temporary chairman.

Mr. Hale made a brief speech, incidently remarking that he hoped the candidates chosen would solidify the party. He then selected three delegates to act as temporary secretaries, two of whom are editors. Following this he announced the customary committees. The Plainfielders selected were: Organization, Amos Andrews; rules, W. O. Peck; vacancies, O. B. Leonard. Charles Codding, of Westfield, whom Kean ousted two years ago, as a member of the County Committee, made a strenuous objection, claiming that the convention should first authorize the chair to appoint committees, but his opinion met with the disapproval of the majority. The approval of the convention for the chair's action was quickly obtained.

After a five minutes' recess, the reports were read. There were no vacancies to be filled and the temporary organization was made permanent with the convention's consent.

Editor Charles McBride read these resolutions:

"The representatives of the Republican party, of Union County, assembled in Convention, September 10, 1903.

"Resolve: That the gold standard finally established by the Republican party, aided by sound money Democrats, as a result of the memorable campaign of 1896, has been amply vindicated by the manifestly solid condition of the prosperity of our country, undisturbed by the fluctuations of Wall street speculation. Money for legitimate business enterprises can be obtained at moderate rates of interest, due to the fact that there is no doubt about the value of the coin or currency in which debts or wages must be paid. We call attention to the fact that the revolutionary and destructive policies proclaimed in the Chicago platform of 1896, and repeated in the Kansas City platform of 1900, twice condemned by the people by most emphatic majorities, are still the creed of the so-called Bryan Democracy, as shown by the platforms adopted by recent so-called Democratic conventions held in the States of Nebraska and Ohio, and hence it is necessary, that voters who think alike on these important questions should continue to work and vote together.

"The satisfactory and creditable work of the government of our State under the administrations of Ex-Governor John W. Griggs, our fellow citizen, Foster M. Voorhees and Franklin Murphy, the present Executive, supported by Republican legislatures, forms a striking contrast to the disgraceful regime of preceding years, and should not be forgotten by citizens who take pride in the good name of our State, and are interested in the character and efficiency of its government.

"The administration of the government of our county by the Board of Chosen Freeholders is in harmony with the best sentiment of our people; it is honest, intelligently progressive and at the same time wisely conservative.

"We approve the erection of the new court house as a public necessity and creditable expression of the enlightened sentiment of our people.

"We think the time has come when the office of Register should be established in this county as it has been in other populous counties of this Sate, in order that the records of land titles may be kept separate from records of litigation and of other merely clerical work of the county government. As the offices of Clerk and Register are self-sustaining the proposed change would add nothing to the burdens of the taxpayer, but would separate work that on best be done in separate offices.

"We commend the course of our representatives in the Senate and House of Assembly in the last Legislature. Every interest of our county involved in legislation has been wisely and carefully guarded by them.

"We pledge to the nominees of this Convention our earnest support and shall expect from them a measure of public service that shall be worthy of comparison with their predecessors in their respective offices."

There was little applause during the reading of the resolutions. When the convention was about to take the customary method of adopting them, Amos Andrews, of this city, arose from his seat in the Plainfield group and moved that the resolutions as read be adopted by a rising vote. Mr. MacMurray jumped to his feet and opposed the motion, which compelled Mr. Andrews to define his position. The latter informed the convention that the Plainfield delegates had passed the word among themselves not to vote on the resolutions. When the rising vote was taken, Mr. MacMurray's friends forcibly signified their disapproval of the report. One little clause, artfully worded, was the stumbling block. It was "we pledge to the nominees of this convention our earnest support." This was the beginning of the end.

Another cross fire quickly followed. Nominations were in order and a secretary had called Plainfield first. Mr. MacMurray evdiently was in no hurry to show his hand and demanded that Elizabeth first be afforded the privilege of the floor. Mr. McBride, of Elizabeth, placed the name of Edward S. Coyne before the convention, in a pleasant little speech.

It was then Plainfield's turn. Mr. MacMurray had been selected to place in nomination President of Common Council James F. Buckle. This is what he said:

"On behalf of fifteen delegates of this convention out of nineteen elected by the City of Plainfield on Tuesday, representing 1918 out of 2354 Republican votes cast at the last general election, I come before you to ask for the Assembly nomination for one of Plainfield's most esteemed citizens; a man who in the years gone by has consistently, and at all times, served the Republican party; a man whom Plainfield has delighted to honor, and one who stands high in the esteem of every one of his fellow citizens; and from reliable information obtained I feel safe in saying that the other Republican strongholds of Union County will unite with Plainfield this afternoon in asking this convention to nominate our candidate.

"We realize full well that any action of this convention must have the endorsement of the delegates from the City of Elizabeth; she is the entire mistress of the situation, and upon her action we stand or fall. Gentlemen of Elizabeth: We of Plainfield believe that each and every one of you is an honorable man, and will recognize, under the present circumstances, what is fair and what is just. You have but to look over the history of the Republican party in Union County to realize what Plainfield has done every year, no matter from what part of the County the candidates came; Plainfield could always be depended upon for a thousand majority. This has been the case whether Plainfield has had any interest in the election or not by reason of one of her citizens being on the ticket, and it is on account of her past record that she feels this afternoon fully justified in asking the delegates from the City of Elizabeth, as well as from the other parts of the County, to back her preference, and to give her a chance to work for one who is able to command the enthusiastic loyalty of every voter in our city.

"Gentlemen, I now take pleasure, on behalf of the Plainfield delegates, in presenting as Plainfield's representative on the Assembly ticket, a man who is the President of the Common Council of the City of Plainfield, and has served the city in the capacity of Councilman for the past six years; and has served the Republican party on the County and City Committee for a number of years, a man who does not seek this nomination for his own personal advancement, but who has been urged to stand therefor by those who recognize his ability and worth. His name on the Republican ticket this fall will, without doubt, bring out a large vote, and which we feel will greatly help the rest of the ticket, and will do as much as any

WILLIAM T. KIRK

Mr. Kirk, who won a signal victory at the Republican convention, capturing an assembly nomination in the face of great odds, is one of Plainfield's leading business men. He is a native of Cornwall, N. Y., and is 39 years of age. After serving with a large firm of iron contractors he embarked in the same business, in which he still continues. He was elected Sheriff in 1896 by a large majority.

WARREN'S PASTOR GIVEN A RECEPTION

Congregation Welcome Home Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey From Trip Abroad.

F. H. ANDREWS' ADDRESS

MUSICAL PROGRAMME A FEATURE OF PLEASANT AFFAIR.

Pastor Talked of Incidents While Abroad — Edifice Decorated—Committee Having Charge of Arrangements.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey was welcomed home last evening by the congregation of his church after his nine weeks' trip abroad. A reception was tendered him at Warren Chapel which, with music, addresses and good fellowship, made the homecoming a joyous event.

The rooms were decorated tastefully with blue and yellow bunting, symbolic colors of the Presbyterian Church. The platform was almost covered with flowers and in the center of the room, hung from the ceiling the words "Welcome Home." About 150 were present.

A musical programme was rendered. Mrs. Eugene Pierson sang and a recitation was given by Miss Helen Wooley. Edson C. Martin favored with vocal selections while Miss Ethel Gulberg entertained on the piano with selections. A vocal solo was rendered by Miss Bessie Matthews, of Newark and a duet was rendered by Mrs. Victor Christofferson and Mrs. Eugene Pierson.

On behalf of the congregation of the church, Superintendent of the Sunday-school F. H. Andrews, made a short address of welcome. He said that it was an occasion of that kind nine weeks ago when the pastor took leave of his people and now they rejoice in welcoming him back. Mr. McKelvey gave a short talk to his people on his trip which proved to be unusually interesting. He told stories of his visits to Ireland, Scotland, England, Holland, Belgium and France in an interesting manner.

The committee in charge of the affair were Miss May Christofferson, Miss Dora Bennett, William Kenny and Samuel Taynor. The decoration committee was A. L. Drake, chairman; Miss Minnie McKain, Miss Jenny Evaretts, Miss Mamie Kohler, Charles Bryan.

Contract Cases.

These contract cases were acted upon in Justice Nash's court yesterday: Sattels against Stryker, judgment for plaintiff, full amount and costs; Squires against Ivamy, adjourned one week; Bowers against Scribner, adjourned two weeks. Papers in the Jeffery and Barton landlord and tenant case are returnable September 16.

SIDE LIGHTS ON THE REVOLT

ATTITUDE OF LOCAL REPUBLICANS ON THE SECESSION.

Scene in the Convention Hall—Probable Nominee of the Democrats.

The action of the Republican delegation in leaving the convention hall at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon formed a topic for discussion about the streets today, and opinions as to the wisdom of the move seemed much divided. All the friends of Congressman Fowler declare that the fifteen delegates pursued the right course when they found that Mr. Buckle had been turned down, the friends of Senator Kean taking a determined stand the opposite way.

City Clerk James T. MacMurray said today that it is now for the people of this city to ratify or condemn the action of the fifteen delegates in bolting the convention. What election day would bring forth he declined to say, but declared that he felt sure that the delegation's action expressed the opinion of those whom they represented. "It's a question of majority or minority rule. Roselle, Westfield, Summit and Plainfield poll a majority of about 1800 for the ticket, more than enough to elect, yet they are turned down when they demand recognition."

J. Fred MacDonald, recognized as one of the staunch friends of Senator Kean, said this morning: "I can not aprove of the bolt. The action in yesterday's convention was a minority dictating to the majority. Before election day rolls around, I believe that harmony will prevail in the Republican ranks. I predict the election of the entire ticket."

The man whose name is most popularly mentioned in connection with the Democratic nomination for Assemblyman is Charles L. Moffet, who has made the fight twice already. Mr. Moffett was asked by a representative of The Daily Press this morning if he expected to be his party's candidate. He was strictly non committal, stating that the time to declare himself had not yet arrived.

Democratic leaders in the city express themselves strongly in favor of Mr. Moffett. One of them speaking of Democratic chances this fall stated this morning that even if Moffett decided not to run they would put a strong man in the field and mentioned Justice Hezekiah Hand as a possible substitute. Justice Hand himself said that he would not for a moment enter the field in opposition to Mr. Moffett but that he would be willing to run if necessary.

Victim Out of Danger.

Judge William N. Runyon, counsel for Walter Gassner, has secured a certificate from Dr. B. vanD. Hedges stating that Herbert Chamberlain, Gassner's brother-in-law and the victim of blows alleged to have been dealt by Gassner, is assured of recovery from the effects of his injuries. This certificate will undoubtedly obtain Gassner's immediate release from the county jail on bail, which has been fixed by Judge Vail, of Elizabeth, at $2,000.

Adjournment in Huff's Court.

The case on contract between Valentine & VanFleet, of Somerville, against S. Townsend, has been adjourned in Justice Huff's court for one week. William G. DeMeza represents the defendant and G. W. Moy is the counsel for the complainant.

HERE'S A PRETTY KETTLE OF FISH

Alleged Widow Baited Her Line and Local Trolley Company Did the Biting.

THE SCHEMER WON $3,000

SO IT IS SAID—AND NOW A SUIT AGAINST COMPANY IS PENDING.

Man Killed by Trolley Car Last November—Woman Claiming to be Widow "Settles" for $3,000—Other Interesting Details.

Papers in one of the most complicated suits ever brought against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Railway Company will probably be filed in a few days by Louis Amiet, of Kentucky, who seeks damages for the death for his brother in a trolley accident in this city last November. For almost a year the trolley company has been exhausting every means to locate the alleged fake widow of Amil Amiet, the victim, with whom the company made a settlement shortly after the accident. The woman took the money, signed the papers as Mrs. Amiet, and then disappeared. It later developed that she was not the wife of the dead man and that her acceptance of $3,000 offered by the company was but the carrying out of clever scheme to dupe the big corporation it is alleged.

The accident in which Amil Amiet was killed occurred on Front street between Elmwood place and Plainfield avenue on the evening of November 12, 1902. Amiet was a driver for John H. King, of Bound Brook, and was returning home from this city when a car crashed into the rear of the wagon. Amiet, who was asleep in his seat, fell out and sustained a fracture of the skull which caused almost instant death. The motorman and conductor of the car were arrested and held on a charge of gross negligence.

Amiet lived at Bound Brook where he employed a housekeeper. When the accident occurred someone telephoned to Amiet's home in Bound Brook and soon after a woman made her appearance in this city, claiming that she was the widow of the dead man. At the time it was not known that Amiet had any other relatives.

The next morning Mrs. Amiet appeared in the city court and pressed a complaint of manslaughter against the motorman. He was held in $250 bail to await the action of the next Grand Jury. Dr. J. H. Fritts, the trolley company's physician furnished the necessary bonds.

While the man was still out on bail the supposed Mrs. Amiet was approached with a proposition to settle the case for $3,000. At first she held out for a larger sum, it is said, but the company remaining firm finally accepted the offer and signed the papers freeing the company from any further possibility of a suit from her.

Louis Amiet, a brother of the dead man, heard of the death of Amil, and communicated with friends in this city. Codington & Swackhamer were retained as lawyers by him and an investigation was started. The officers of the company were apprised of the

WOMAN LEAPS FOR HER LIFE

Two Severely Injured in a Blaze Caused by Dropping Match in Kerosene Oil.

ENVELOPED IN FLAMES

Little Girl's Heroic Rescue—Mrs. Marky Jumps From Second Story Window—Match Dropped in Oil Caused Trouble.

Two people were injured and an infant was saved from a horrible death by a seven-year-old girl this morning at a fire at the home of Peter Marky, on Vine street. The building was damaged to considerable extent in the interior. Kerosene spilled from a can caught fire from a lighted match carelessly dropped. Rev. Dr. Edwin L. Earp, pastor of the Grace M. E. Church, was standing in front of his house and saw the flames leap out of the windows and he turned in an alarm as did John Doud.

Mrs. Hannah Hansen, seventy-five years old, dropped a lighted match in the oil which was pouring over the floor from the stove and in an instant she was enveloped in flames. Her screams brought Mrs. Peter Newmiller, a neighbor and she was rescued. Mrs. Peter Marky, who was on the second floor of the house, seeing her escape shut off by the flames on the stairway, jumped from the second story window and received a severe sprain of her left ankle. She was attended by Dr. Buchanan. The little seven-year-old daughter of Mrs. Marky, who was attending a four weeks old baby sister, picked it up in her arms and rushed from the house to the home of Mrs. Sophia H. Brose, near by. The baby was not injured.

The damage to the house will amount to about $1,000. The house is badly damaged in the kitchen and hallway. It is partly covered by insurance. Mr. Marky lost $40 in cash and some of his clothing. His furniture was insured. Mrs. Marky was badly burned.

The property at the corner of West Third street and Fillmore avenue has been leased. The company will start business on the fifteenth of this month.

AMUSEMENTS.

"A Princess of Kensington," the new comic opera at the Broadway Theatre, New York, has scored a big success and the theatre is crowded to its capacity at every performance. No musical offering in years has been more cordially received by playgoers and the Broadway Theatre has added another to its long list of its recent musical successes. "A Princess of Kensington" is genuine comic opera, admirably rendered and its music is by far the most rhythmical, melodious and pleasing of any that has been brought over from London since the days of "The Geisha." Coming, as it does, from the Savoy Theatre, London, where most of the Gilbert and Sullivan successes were born, it reminds the music lover of the best works of those famous masters. The opera is sung by principals of merit and with the assistance of the best singing chorus that has been heard on Broadway for many a day. The fun making is led by James T. Powers, who as "William Jeff," a sailorman, gives a capital humorous characterization of a jolly British tar. His several songs are emphatic hits and are demanded and re-demanded at every performance.

—E. E. Vail, stationed at fire headquarters, and O. H. Freeman, at No. 1 hose, are on the sick list.

—The August 22 issue of "Fire and Water Engineering," a weekly devoted to the interests of firemen, contains an illustrated and highly complimentary article on Plainfield's department.

A Purgative Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness or constipation you know what a purgative pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but give tone and strength to the tissues and organs involved. W. H. Howell, of Houston, Tex., says: "No better pill can be used than Little Early Risers for constipation, sick headache, etc." Sold by L. W. Randolph.

Feminine Nerves.

Nervous troubles are not only very real but very dangerous.

For women who suffer with nerves,

Dr. Greene's Nervura

the great nerve tonic and blood purifier, is invaluable. It soothes, calms, revitalizes and strengthens the nerves. It often saves from nervous prostration.

Mrs. C. L. McDonald, of 50 Pratt St., New Haven, Conn., gives willing testimony to these truths:

"I want to tell you what Dr. Greene's Nervura has done for me, hoping it will cure others as it has me. Was all broken down by nervous prostration brought on by worry over financial losses. Physicians could do little for me, but ordered rest, change of climate, Turkish baths, electricity, without success.

"Finally a friend asked me to try Dr. Greene's Nervura, which I did, and after taking one bottle felt better, and twelve bottles completely cured me. I wish to thank you many times for the benefit received from your Nervura."

Dr. Greene's advice is free. Address 101 Fifth Ave., New York City.

LEISHMAN'S DEMAND

Reshid Pasha, Vali of Beirut, Must Be Dismissed.

BACKED BY FRENCH AMBASSADOR

Lives and Property of American Residents Are Insecure While Town Is Governed by Weak Ruler.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 11.—United States Minister Leishman, supported by the French ambassador, has presented a demand to the Turkish government for the dismissal of Reshid Pasha, vali of Beirut, on the ground that so long as he is retained in office the lives and property of Americans in Beirut are insecure. The porte has not yet replied to the demand, nor has there been any development in connection with other American claims.

The dispatch of Nazim Pasha to Beirut from his post at Damascus is considered to be a preliminary step toward a settlement. Nazim Pasha received an enthusiastic reception upon his arrival at Beirut, a crowd at the railway station cheering him repeatedly. The town was then perfectly tranquil.

According to the latest telegrams, however, the consuls continue to transact their business with Reshid Pasha, vali of Beirut.

Under the circumstances, it is added, the French, British and Italian consuls have decided not to ask for the landing of American marines, as the excitement has subsided and the Christian refugees who fled are returning to their homes.

Rear Admiral Cotton confirms the report that he can land 500 marines and bluejackets from the Brooklyn and San Francisco in case of necessity.

FANATICAL TURKS.

Bulgarian Officers' Heads Taken to Demir-Kapou.

EYEWITNESS TELLS OF HORRORS

Hilmi Pasha's Administration, From Which So Much Was Hoped, Has Proved an Utter Failure In the Monastir Vilayet.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 11.—In the recent fight at Gaadets, near Demir-Kapou, among the insurgent dead were eight Bulgarian officers, whose heads have been brought to Demir-Kapou.

It is reported that the telegraph wires have been cut between Florina and Monastir. Twenty battalions of Anatolian redifs have already arrived at Degeagochs, and thirty others are expected.

An eyewitness just arrived here gives an account of the terrible conditions prevailing in the vilayet of Monastir. He says Hilmi Pasha's administration has greatly disappointed the Christians, who expected that he would make an improvement in the situation. Hilmi Pasha, however, is following the lines of his predecessors, and the greatest excesses that have ever been committed have happened since his arrival. Throughout the vilayet of Monastir the Turkish soldiers are daily perpetrating almost inconceivable atrocities. They dishonor the young girls in the presence of their parents and pillage and murder everywhere. Even funeral processions are halted and the corpses stripped of the new clothes in which they are dressed according to the Macedonian burial custom. The priests' vestments are seized, and the soldiers sell all their plunder openly, the officers apparently consenting. The Christian inhabitants are terror stricken, hourly fearing a general massacre by the Mussulmans, whose fanatical hatred of the Christians has reached the highest point. The shops are closed in Monastir, business is suspended and the streets are deserted. Even the consuls do not dare to venture outside their homes. The country people are afraid to come to the city lest they should be robbed and murdered on the way. Europeans desiring to see the burned villages are prevented by the authorities on various excuses. The British consul wanted to go to Smilevo, but Hilmi Pasha informed him that he could not guarantee his safety as the revolutionaries had plotted to kill him.

The informant continues that it is estimated that there are over 70,000 people in the fields without shelter and starving. Hilmi Pasha has promised the consuls that he will assist the destitute people, but he has done nothing, even refusing to allow them to enter the town and beg for food. Many cruelties perpetrated by Christians are attributed to Greek spies, headed by a Greek bishop, who, with the Greek consuls, it is said, are paid by the porte for their services. The Greeks are accused of inventing reports for the purpose of fanning the Mussulmans' hatred of the Bulgarians. The Turkish functionaries openly scoff at the idea of reforms or European intervention, declaring that should armed European forces come the Turks would immediately burn, destroy and massacre, leaving only bare fields throughout Macedonia.

New York Actor Dead In Boston.

BOSTON, Sept. 11.—The man who entered the City hospital last week complaining of illness and who died of pneumonia there was Frederick Clifton of New York, a well known actor and member of the "Sign of the Cross" company, which has been playing here. There were no friends or relatives at the bedside when death came. Clifton came to this country from England about twenty years ago with a Gilbert and Sullivan opera company.

David A. Calvin Killed.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 11.—A special from Selma, Ala., says George W. Coleman waylaid and shot to death David A. Calvin. The killing occurred behind Calvin's house. After firing two shots and as Calvin lay dying Coleman, it is said, reloaded his gun and fired a third charge into the prostrate man. Coleman surrendered, but refused to talk. The tragedy is said to be the outgrowth of an old family feud.

Crowd Would See Hanging.

RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 11.—Wilford Roseboro, colored, was hanged at Statesville, this state, for the murder of Mrs. Doph Beaver. The county commissioners ordered that the execution be private, but the surging crowd outside the jail yard tore away the canvas, and fully 2,000 people witnessed the hanging. Roseboro met his fate with stolid composure.

Troops Blow Up Village.

ADEN, Sept. 11.—One hundred men of the Hampshire regiment and 100 of the Bombay infantry, who, with two guns, were escorting a party into Shaibi, were treacherously fired on while passing a small village. One person was killed and one injured. The troops blew up the village and killed several of the villagers.

New Mail Service For Azores.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Sept. 11.—Direct mail service between New Bedford and the Azores will be established shortly as a result of the new steamship line between this port and the islands. About four days will be saved in the transmission of the mails, which now go via New York.

Steam Yacht Burned.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., Sept. 11.—The steam yacht Wawa, owned by E. K. Smith of Swanton, Vt., has been burned in Cumberland bay. Mr. Smith was severely burned on the hands.

Plainfield, N. J., Sept. 11, 1903.

The Daily Press has a higher circulation rating than is accorded to any other paper in Plainfield.—Printers' Ink.

If you see it in the Sun it's so—if Wall street says so.

Hanging is too good for some men. A case in point is that of an Iowa man who, it is said, in answer to advertisements offering to tell "how to get fat for $5," wrote to his numerous inquirers to "get it at the butcher's."

The western man who advocates the endowment of a college for aiding in the purification of politics has $12,000,000 to put into the institution. Those twelve millions would look slick in comparsion with the amount of money interested in the maintenance of present corrupt conditions.

Statisticians report that August has lost the title of "suicide month" of the year, there being fewer self-murders last month than for many Augusts preceding. That is one of the effects of the lack of intensely hot weather. People apparently find themselves better able "to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune" when the days are cool.

Some advertisers, says Printers' Ink, go upon the assumption that advertising is read reluctantly, or not at all. They resort to fantastic schemes and lures to induce readers to read against their will, and as a consequence produce the kind of advertising that stands the least chance of being read. If there is one thing certain in advertising it is that forceful, vital, informing publicity always finds an audience.

The persistent report sent out from Plainfield that Senator Kean has suffered a defeat in Union County has been heard from the same source in previous years. It will be just as well to wait until after the convention this afternoon and the election in November before accepting the statement at its face value. Plainfield is a long way from the heart of Union County, geographically and otherwise.—Newark Evening News.

Plainfield may, as the News says, be a long distance from the heart of Union County, but it's not so far from the brains.

single thing can to make every element of the Republican party in Union County harmonious.

"I have the honor to nominate as Plainfield's choice for Assembly from Plainfield, Mr. James F. Buckle."

When the Third ward of this city was called, O. B. Leonard, who has recently removed here, arose and placed in nomination Mr. Kirk. He said that it was not unnatural for more than one good name to be presented on such an occasion. He had known Mr. Kirk since the latter's boyhood days and had great admiration for his favorite. He described him as a "strenuous and hustling winner" and had many other complimentary remarks for the former sheriff. Uzal M. Osborn, of Rahway, named Peter Tillman, of that city, his remarks being framed in a happy vein. Mr. Thomas, of Westfield, made an appeal for "home rule" in seconding the nomination of Mr. Buckle.

Elizabeth was solid for Kirk, except in the Eleventh ward, Congressman Fowler's home, where Buckle got two and a half votes. Mr. MacMurray cast fifteen out of nineteen of Plainfield's votes for Mr. Buckle. Four were cast for Kirk. Rahway was solid for Kirk, and the latter's nomination was thus insured. Then came the climax.

Mr. MacMurray, chairman of the Plainfield delegation, jumped to his feet, and fairly shouted: "Mr. Chairman, believing that our further continuance in this convention would be an insult to the intelligence of those whom we represent, fifteen of the nineteen Plainfield delegates hereby withdraw from this convention. Suiting the action to the word, the discontented delegates filed out. They were S. P. T. Wilbur, B. D. Newell and Mr. MacMurray, of the First ward; Judge W. N. Runyon, former Judge Nelson Runyon, Dr. T. S. Davis, Charles B. Morse and Charles H. Hand, of the Second ward; J. Stephen Higham, of the Third ward, and William O. Peck, John Bowman, George T. Leighs, Alexander Ayres, Charles H. Dunham and James Morrison, of the Fourth ward. Amos Andrews, of the First ward; O. B. Leonard, James M. Leonard and F. A. Pope remained.

When quiet had been restored, the chairman announced that the business would proceed. After the votes had been canvassed, it was announced that Coyne and Tillman had each received ninety-six votes; Kirk, seventy-nine and a half and Buckle, thirty-two and a half.

O B. Leonard, of the Third ward, then placed Dr. Jesse S. Anderson in nomination for coroner, and he was unanimously selected. The convention's candidates were then escorted to the stage, and several brief speeches were made.

In one of the boxes sat former President of the Senate Charles A. Reed, of North Plainfield, surrounded by a group of friends. Some one remarked that he was the first North Plainfielder to annex himself to Union County. Seated near him were former Judge W. R. Codington, a friend of Senator Kean. In another box were George V. W. Moy and J. Fred MacDonald.

fact that they had been duped by a woman who was not a relative of the dead man's as she represented, but they stoutly refused, it is said, to settle, claiming that the signature of the woman absolved them from further legal action.

It has since been learned that the woman's name was Minnie Marshall. No one in Bound Brook seems to know much about her, although it is thought she lived there. The last heard of her was in Montreal, Canada, but every effort to locate her there has failed.

Louis Amiet is a wealthy rancher, of Kentucky and he expects to contest the case until a settlement of some kind is reached. It is understood that a warrant is out for the arrest of the alleged fake widow on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses.

This is the story as given by one of the counsel interested in the case.

—A large assortment of plums, green gauges and grapes can be found at L. C. Ortner's grocery, Park avenue and Fourth street.

MORE TEACHERS AND PUPILS

PROSPEROUS YEAR PROBABLE FOR ST. GABRIEL'S ACADEMY.

Possibility That Pupils May be Housed in New Quarters in Not Distant Future.

St. Gabriel's Academy, in the borough, opened Tuesday with a large increase over the enrollment of last year. Many changes have been made in the curriculum and three new teachers have been added to the staff. A new department has been established to include music, painting and embroidery. Fifty pupils are enrolled, an increase of fifteen over the total registration of last year. The total number of teachers is eight.

At the close of the last term there was some idea of making additions to the present building. This has not been deemed advisable at present, however, and the classes are conducted in the same building as last year. Arrangements are being made to secure a suiable building in North Plainfield and eventually to conduct the school on a much larger plan. The site of the proposed new building has not been decided upon but it is understood that definite action in the matter will soon be taken.

IN THE CHRISTIAN FIELD

WORK IN THE CHURCHES OF THE CITY AND BOROUGH.

As Rev. Geo. B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist Church, is absent on his vacation, his pulpit will be supplied on Saturday by the Rev. H. H. Baker, of East Fifth street.

To Entertain New Yorkers.

The members of the local branch of the Union Veterans' Union are planning to entertain a number of the members of the New York branch of the order Wednesday evening. The festivities will be held in the lodge rooms on East Front street.

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

FOR INFORMATION concerning lots in these beautiful Park Cemeteries, and FREE transportation to prospective lot buyers, apply at once to any LEADING UNDERTAKER or offices of the Associations:

Rage For Old Embroideries—Spangles For Evening Wear.

The rage for lace and old embroideries is getting more and more pronounced every day.

Spangles for evening wear are coming into fashion with silver embroideries of all kinds. A wonderful gown for a debutante was made entirely of pale gray tulle spangled all over with silver. There was a wonderful cloak to go with it of gray oriental satin lined with lace and chiffon, with a high collar faced in with mechlin lace and a fichu of the same coming down almost as far as the knees, caught up at either side with old paste clasps.

There is no more acceptable wedding gift than lace, especially if it be real. Even the plainest blouse can very well support little lapets of real lace on the collar and down the front.

Some of the new hats have very high crowns trimmed with sash ribbons caught with quaint buckles, while lace is used to drape the brims. A smart model from Paris recently displayed was of old rose velvet draped with a bit of alencon lace, with a twist of shaded satin ribbon around the crown caught with a quaint buckle.

The cut shows a gown of white wool goods trimmed with scarlet and cream embroidered bands. The skirt is kilted.

Fringes More Popular Than Ever. White Cloth and Serge Dresses.

A smart white serge gown worn recently was embroidered with a tiny edging of red and white berries. It was worn with a belt of scarlet suede.

Fringes will be much worn on the early autumn cloth models.

Some white cloth dresses for smart occasions are embroidered with gold and finished with a fringe of white and gold galloon. Many of these fringes are very costly and will be used on evening dresses, as well as on sumptuous carriage wraps.

traveling costumes, and some charming models have been brought out in alpaca and coarse linen.

Some of the new coats for traveling and for wear with short skirts are of three-quarter length, arranged in box plaits and finished with a mackintosh hood, which can be pulled up over the head.

The picture shows a tailor made of fine cloth, trimmed with tucks and having one of the latest plaited skirts.

REAL DAUGHTER THE REVOLUTION

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

Bessemer's breath came more quickly. "One moment, my queenly Jane," he interposed. "You seem most ready to accept refusal at my hands, which makes me think that after all the bargain you offer is not so bad. You are a most enchanting puzzle. One instant, I am convinced your heart is all this rebel's; yet, were it so, methinks you would not be so willing to abandon your attempt to buy his life. And if I do agree to give his life in exchange for your plighted word, what then? Is it to be understood that I am to have the right to claim you for my wife whenever I so choose? I am no believer in long engagements, nor in procrastination either in love or war; nor do I propose to be put off with one excuse and another. Come, Jane, if I let this fellow live, will you be mine on any day that I may set, or at any moment that seems to me most expedient?"

Jane turned slowly. "Have you not my word?" she demanded. "I wonder that you care to wed one whom you seem to trust so little; but since you wish to add another to your demands, I will consent provided you permit me to add to my conditions. I will agree to marry you whenever you shall choose upon the promise that you not only spare Capt. Worthington's life upon this occasion, but that you bind yourself to never again strive to take it from him except in fair fight upon the field of battle."

"Upon my word," he remarked, sneeringly, "this friend Worthington of yours seems to stand mightily in need of feminine protection. It is usual to expect that an able-bodied man will have sufficient prowess and bravery to fight for the preservation of his life himself without having to be hedged about with defenses brought by a woman."

"I believe," Jane returned, "it is also usual to expect a man to have sufficient attractions to win a wife without resorting to bargain and sale to secure her."

Bessemer bowed low. "A fair retort," he observed; "one which but equals in brilliancy all that falls from your lips. Your piquancy of speech, dear lady, has largely fixed me in my determination to possess you for my own. One need never fear an inspired life when it is sauced by your tongue."

"Sir, you have heard my last condition. Do you accept it?"

"And you accept mine, I do."

CHAPTER XIII.

A TEST.

When Bessemer entered the dining-room next morning his keen eye noted Jane's absence. "Are we not to have Mistress Jane with us?" he asked, as he and his officers seated themselves at the breakfast-table.

"I know not what apology to make for Jane," said her stepmother, "but it seems she set out at dawn for one of those horseback rides of which she is so fond, and has not yet returned. I doubt me not she will come in at the tail end of the meal, when all is cold, as is her wont."

But the meal drew to a close and still no Jane appeared. Bessemer's brow, clear enough upon his entrance into the room, grew creased, and when his arrangements for departure were complete and still she had not come he ill concealed his irritation. The reflection that Jane must have known that he could not long delay his departure from her father's house, and the suspicion that she had taken herself off for the very purpose of depriving him of that adieu to which, as her accepted lover, he was entitled, was not pleasing.

When the troops rode out from the Ellery place the mist of early morning in late summer filled the air. At the head of the cavalcade rode Bessemer, and close beside him was the prisoner, carried by a stout trooper upon his horse. The American's arms were tightly bound, while the sabre-cut upon his cheek showed livid in the morning light.

Gradually the levelness of the way was broken by low hills, and finally the horsemen entered the mouth of a great forest. The road dipped into a hollow, and suddenly the trees burst into sheets of flame. Horses reared and plunged and went down, carrying their riders with them.

The trooper who guarded Worthington was shot in the temple; his horse was shot under him, and the prisoner himself lay a helpless heap upon the ground. Bessemer's own horse, an animal he loved dearly, had been killed; and the British colonel, frenzied with mortification at the completeness of the surprise, recovered from the fall he had received to find Worthington lying at his feet.

"You treacherous villain!" he cried. Unsheathing his sword, he was about to run him through, when his eyes met those of Lieut. Ellery.

Edward, shot through the arm, had been unable to control his plunging steed and was dismounted, falling with his head against the trunk of a tree. Stunned, his brain just clearing when his gaze encountered that of his colonel. Bessemer could not say that the young man's eyes pleaded for the life of his old playmate, yet there was that in them which reminded the Englishman too much of Jane not to make his arm waver.

In calling Worthington a treacherous villain, a term which scarce applied to one who had ever been an open enemy, his mind had been filled with surmises of Jane's treachery. Might it not be that her morning ride was for the very purpose of gathering this band of Americans to rescue her lover? Might not the whole ambuscade be of her planning? But with Edward's face, the picture of her own, before him such thought melted. Nay, he could not believe her guilty of such disloyalty. Surely, the danger of imperilling her brother, if no other consideration, would have stayed her. With his returning belief in her came memory of her promise, and he put aside his sword.

"YOU TREACHEROUS VILLAIN!" HE CRIED, UNSHEATHING HIS SWORD.

"Your horse, Edward," he said; for Edward's mount, reared from a colt upon his father's plantation and ever the young man's pet, having succeeded in throwing his master, was seized with consternation and now stood with penitent, drooped head. Bessemer vaulted into the empty saddle, and was soon reorganizing his demoralized troops—encouraging, reviling, inspiring.

As his back was turned two figures darted from behind trees, seized Worthington and made their way boldly towards a thicket from whence the shots came heaviest. The kidnaping of the prisoner had not been unnoticed, but those redcoats who sought to interfere found themselves the special targets of the finest marksmen in the world.

SPORTING NEWS.

FOOTBALL.

The Park A. C., of North Plainfield, will again put on the gridiron a crack football team which will meet for the first practice on Wednesday afternoon on the cricket field. Tracy Howard is captain. Russel Pond, the manager, is looking for Saturday games with 100 pound teams.

There is reported to be much good material for a strong football team at the North Plainfield High School, and a big squad of men is expected to report for practice after the organization of the team the first of the week. This organization meeting will be held Wednesday afternoon at the High School.

Clifford Smith, manager of the Orange Field Club team, announces that he still has a few open dates. He has written for a game with Alis but the arrangements have not been completed yet. The stock in the club is selling fast. There is still some left for those who will address R. M. Guinn, 716 Carlton avenue.

The first football practice of the season in Plainfield was that on Wednesday night of the Orange Field Club at the grounds in the rear of Captain Frank Emmons' home on Prospect place. Twenty men were put through a drill in signal practise, falling on the ball and other rudiments of the game. The work was snappy, giving indications that the team will be stronger even than last year's. Familiar faces were seen in the line-up except at left end and left guard. In the former position, Springer, of Elizabeth, who did fast work for the I. O. T. Club, was in the points, and Robinson, another old I. O. T. player, showed up strongly at left guard. The line-up yesterday was Capt. Emmons, re.; Douglass, rt.; Josephs, rg.; Hellyer, c.; Robinson, lg.; Marsh, lt.; Springer, le.; McVoy, qb.; Sherwin, rhb.; Smith, lhb.; Cumberson, fb. The next practise will take place this afternoon on the same grounds.

BUNCHED HITS.

The second game between the baseball teams of the local orders of colored Masons and Odd Fellows was played yesterday afternoon on St. Mary's field and resulted in the second victory for the Odd Fellows. The score was 27-15.

HAPPENINGS OF THE LOCAL FRATERNAL ORDERS.

The warrior's degree and the chief's degree were worked on two Red Men last evening at the meeting of Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, in the lodge rooms on Park avenue. In anticipation of the third anniversary of the foundation of the tribe the latter part of the month, a committee of five was appointed to arrange for a proper celebration. Robert Humphery was appointed chairman and John Clark, F. H. Firstbrook, A. E. Willard and Fred J. Huff will assist him in completing arrangements.

FAMILY FEUD.

One of Those Fights Between Women in Which Jealousy Figures.

Mrs. Lavina Newton and Mrs. Joseph Miner, of South Second street, had a "scrap" yesterday with words and fists over the respective merits of their families and themselves. They had it all over again this morning, tooth and nail, in the city court in the presence of Judge Runyon. The Judge characterized the affair as an ordinary "scrap" between irascible females, advised the two to keep apart in the future and dismissed the complaint.

Imperial Club Dances.

A series of dances under the auspices of the Imperial Social Club will begin Tuesday evening. This club plans to hold regular dances on Tuesday and Saturday evenings during the season and an instructor has been engaged to give lessons to the members and to their friends. It is expected that these dances will do much to increase the social standing of the club. They will be held in Olympia Hall in Sycamore street.

Knights Outing.

Arrangements for the Knights Templar Field Day at Atlantic City on October 14 will be completed at a special meeting of the Commandery to be held at Masonic Hall on Monday evening. On this occasion a special committee on the excursion will report and details of the outing will be considered.

W. H. BROKAW GOES INTO BANKRUPTCY

Contractor and Builder Unable to Stand Competition, Which Prevails Here.

PROCEEDINGS STARTED

LIABILITIES OVER $3,300 AND ASSETS BUT $1,600.

Lost $2,200 in Past Two Years—J. D. Loizeaux a Big Creditor—Owes Nothing to Local Tradesmen.

William H. Brokaw, West Front street, filed a petition in bankruptcy this morning in the United States District Court at Trenton through Attorney V. W. Nash, Jr. The news of the failure came as a complete surprise to Mr. Brokaw's friends who regarded him as one of the most prosperous carpenters in business in Plainfield. He has been a contractor and builder in this city for twenty years.

Mr. Brokaw's liabilities amount to $3,436.18. He owes nothing to tradesmen or for wages, his creditors being umber men and electricians only. His assets are $1,678.88, the most of which consist in outstanding claims against citizens of Plainfield.

The biggest creditors are J. D. Loizeaux, who has a claim of $1,500, D. C. Ivins with a claim of $867 and Benedict & Company with a claim of $350. All three are lumber dealers. There are twenty-one other creditors, mostly from Plainfield.

SPECIAL SERVICE OF SWEDES

YOUNG PEOPLE TO ASSIST IN PROVIDING HOME FOR INDIGENT SAILORS.

Plans of the Swedish Pilgrim's Church—Pastor to Attend Conference in Massachusetts.

Under the auspices of the Young People's Society of the Swedish Pilgrim Church on West Sixth street, a successful special service and entertainment was held at the church last evening. The object of the service was to raise money for the aid of immigrant Scandinavian sailors and to found for them a home in Boston, Mass., and a collection amounting to more than $10 was taken for this purpose.

The evening's programme opened by congregational singing of special hymns and reading of Scripture passages by the pastor, Rev. L. T. Lindholm. Following this was a duet by the Misses Gerda Carlson and Judith Johnson, accompanied by guitar and organ. Mrs. Lindholm, wife of the pastor, sang a soprano solo, "The Holy City," and an appropriate reading was given by Miss Ida Johnson.

Following this part of the programme came the evening's address by Rev. L. T. Lindholm. He spoke at some length of the situation at the Sailor's Home in Boston, of the worthiness of the work of assistance; and stated that it was the desire of the Young People's Society to furnish several rooms at the Home. Mrs. Lindholm sang "My Father at the Helm" and the evening's programme was concluded by a reading by Miss Jennie Lind and singing by the congregation.

Rev. and Mrs. L. T. Lindholm will leave Monday to spend two weeks at Boston. During his absence Rev. E. Ulstergreen, of South Manchester, Conn., will have charge of the services at the Swedish Church. Rev. Mr. Lindholm will attend the Swedish conference of the Eastern States at Brockton, Mass., where he will read a paper on suggestions on a Thanksgiving sermon.

Invitations Issued.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Miss Carolyn Elizabeth Weiss, of Regent street, to Fred Jones Dixon, of West Sixth street. Miss Weiss is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Weiss, and Mr. Dixon has long been employed at Pond's Tool Works. The wedding will take place on Tuesday, September 29, at 5:30 in the afternoon from the home of Miss Weiss' aunt, Mrs. Kate Leland, of Somerset street.

Narrow Escape.

A horse belonging to George LaBaw, of South Plainfield, ran away this morning on Park avenue and at Front street knocked Peter H. Latourette from his wheel and passed over his body. The horse was captured at the corner of Front and Somerset streets LaTourette was not injured.

More Trouble for Brown.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

ANDERSON SLATED FOR COUNTY CLERK

Governor to Appoint Him to Succeed Frank W. Somers, the Late Incumbent.

THOMPSON'S CANDIDATE

SOMERSET COUNTY COMMITTEE ENDORSES APPLICANT FOR POSITION.

Joe Frelinghuysen and Lew Thompson Confer With Governor Murphy—Question As to Appointees Length of Term.

Governor Murphy has practically announced that he will appoint Alexander G. Anderson, of Somerville, county clerk of Somerset, to succeed the late Frank W. Somers. Joseph A. Frelinghuysen, chairman of the Somerset Republican County committee, and former State Senator Lewis A. Thompson, of Somerset, visited the Governor at his office in Newark to urge the appointment of Mr. Anderson.

They told the Governor that their candidate was a leading coal merchant of Somerville and possessed of every qualification for the position. Mr. Anderson has the indorsement of the Republican County committee for the appointment.

The Governor told the Somerset men that he was inclined to appoint the man who was indorsed by the county organization, and they left him confident that Mr. Anderson will receive the appointment.

A point in connection with then filling of the Somerset vacancy that is interesting the politicans is the length of term which the appointee will serve. Mr. Somers's term would not have expired until 1905, and the method of filling vacancies is prescribed by the Constitution. It is provided that county clerks shall be elected "at the annual elections for members of the General Assembly," and that they shall hold office for five years. All that is said about filling vacancies is a paragraph in the section referring to the Governor's powers, which reads:

"When a vacancy happens in the office of clerk or surrogate of any county the Governor shall fill such vacancy, and the commission shall expire when a successor is elected and qualified."

CLIFFORD C. PEARSON DEAD

FORMER CHIEF CLERK OF BOSTON NAVY YARD PASSES AWAY.

Apoplexy Caused His End—Member of Fraternal Orders—Funeral Arrangements.

Clifford C. Pearson, formerly chief clerk of the paymaster's department at the Navy Yard at Boston, died here yesterday noon at his home on Sherman avenue. He had been sufferer for two months with apoplexy, which finally caused his death.

For four years Mr. Pearson was connected with the Navy Department at Boston and was well known in that city. Two months ago he was retired on account of Hl health and came to this city. He gradually grew weaker and the end came yesterday.

He was a member of Plainfield Lodge, Royal Arcanum, and was also a thirty-second degree Mason. He is survived by a wife, Fanny T. Pearson, and two children, all of whom reside here.

The funeral services will be held from his late residence on Sherman avenue Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed but it is probable that the services will be conducted under the auspices of the Masonic lodges in this city. The interment will be in Hillside Cemetery.

Somerset County Freeholders Discussed Road Improvements at Recent Meeting.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, Sept. 12—At the regular quarterly meeting of the Somerset County Board of Freeholders held in the Court House this week all the members were in attendance. The contract for the masonry on the bridge near the residence of Charles E. Cortelyou, near Blackwell's Mills, was awarded to A. R. Holcombe at his bid of $7.35 a cubic yard.

A substitute petition for the improvement of the road known as the Rocky Hill and Kingston road was presented and placed on file. An agreement to furnish stone for the same road was sent in and was received and ordered placed on file. The salary of the County Collector was fixed at $1,000 for the year. The auditing committee was authorized to meet next Tuesday to pass on the election bills—those contracted by the primaries. The Board will meet with the Middlesex Freeholders in regard to the county line bridge at the call of the Director. The Board met yesterday at the Greenlock bridge in Bernards township.

REFUSES TO SUE.

Attorney General Declines to Take Action Against P. S. C.

Attorney General Robert N. McCarter has refused the application of Mayor Fagan, of Jersey City, requesting a suit against the Public Service Corporation, of which his brother is president, for merging trolley lines the charters for which, it is alleged, have expired.

In explaining his refusal to take action the Attorney General says: "It would be very unwise and injudicious at this late day to hazard the risk of loss of confidence and public alarm that might arise from the exploitation of the suggestion, based, as it is, on a mere technicality, whose legal force does not impress me, and for this reason I feel constrained to refuse the application."

DEMOCRATIC COUNTY CONVENTION OCT. 15

Committee to Select Time and Place of Meeting Within a Few Days.

THE SPECIAL PRIMARIES

MEMBERS OF COUNTY COMMITTEE TO BE SELECTED IN DECEMBER.

Plainfield Committeemen Attend Meeting — Likely Candidates for Assembly—Moffett's Position.

The Union County Democratic Committee met last night in Elizabeth and settled upon Thursday, October 15, as the date for the County convention. The arrangements as to the hour and place were left to a committee which will make its report probably within a few days.

Andrew J. Nolan, of the First ward; Frank Shattle, of the Second; Frank McInerney, of the Third, and Ira S. Hurlbut and Charles L. Moffett, of the Fourth ward, were the Plainfield members of the County committee in attendance.

It was decided to set apart Tuesday, December 1, as the day for the election of the County committee. This day will be reserved for the primaries of the Democrats only.

Possible nominees for the assembly were considered by the committee.

The men most prominently discussed for the three assemblymen's position open were Charles L. Moffett, of Plainfield; Mr. Tuttle, of Westfield and President Gunn, of the Springfield Democratic Club.

MR. MAC MURRAY REPLIES

PLAINFIELD REPUBLICANS, HE SAYS, WON'T BE HUMILIATED.

The General Gomez of the Union County Republicans Defines His Position—Wants Home Rule.

In reply to Chairman Hamilton Kean's statement that the action of Plainfield's delegation in bolting the Union County convention was small work, James T. MacMurray said today that it was the only resource left to the local delegates. "The vote of the primaries show that our delegation represented 1918 of the 2254 Republican voters in this stronghold of Republicanism. That we were entitled to one candidate for Assembly was conceded by Elizabeth, but we were informed that Elizabeth would select the man for the place. Such humiliation would not be tolerated by the city which is responsible for the party's majority in Union County, and where the voters are a representative body of business and professional men equal, if not superior to those of any other place in the entire county. Home rule is demanded and we intend to obtain it at this opportune time."

CHARLEY MOFFETT ENTERS THE RACE

Announces Himself Candidate in Opposition to Republican Nominee, W. T. Kirk.

REPUBLICAN ALLIES

GREATEST VOTE GETTER IN PLAINFIELD'S DEMOCRATIC RANKS.

Made An Excellent Run During Last Campaign—Sketch of the Man—Will Strengthen His Ticket.

After a council with local leaders of his own party this morning, Charles L. Moffett, of this city, announced that he will be a candidate before the Democratic County convention for an Assembly nomination. Much effort has been brought to bear upon his by prominent Republicans here who aim to defeat William T. Kirk, the local nominee of the Republican County convention. Mr. Moffett astonished the county politicians by his record breaking run in this city when last nominated for the same office. He is a square man in his dealings with his fellow men and is not the type that will be subservient to any machine or clique. The Daily Press, as an independent newspaper, predicts that Mr. Moffett will not only poll a surprisingly large vote in this city but will be the means of greatly increasing the vote here of the other nominees of his party.

Charles Leonard Moffett is a well known lawyer in this city, where he was born Sepetember 24, 1865. He is of Scotch descent and some of his ancestors fought in the War for Independence.

Mr. Moffett attended the Plainfield public schools and afterwards entered Rutgers' Preparatory School. He commenced the study of law under Hon. John Ulrich and subsequently Nelson Runyon was his preceptor. He is a member of the Presbyterian Church and is active in the affairs of Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M, of this city. While not an active politician, he has always been a staunch Democrat. He has been defeated as an Assembly candidate, though he received a flattering vote in this city.

Deserves Praise.

W. J. McHarey, government postoffice inspector, made an examination into the conditions of the local postoffice this morning, and found everything to his satisfaction. He complimented Postmaster Bird highly upon his efficient management.

TROTTING EVENTS AT DRIVING PARK

More Horses Entered in Each of the Three Classes Scheduled As Attractions.

BAND MUSIC A FEATURE

BUSSES TO MEET EACH TROLLEY CAR AT THE PARK AVENUE TERMINUS.

J. P. Rogers, of Brooklyn, to be Starter—Mayor Newton B. Smalley One of the Judges—The Concert Programme.

The entries for the races this afternoon at the Plainfield Driving Association are said to be the finest ever listed for the local race track and the meeting will no doubt be the best ever seen in this city. The track is four seconds faster than that at Westfield and nearly all the horses which distinguished themselves Labor Day appear on the programme for this afternoon.

In revising the list of entries last evening it was estimated that there would be at least seven horses to enter the race in the 2:20 class, ten in the 2:25 class and twelve in the 2:30 class. The races will be called at 2 o'clock.

The starter will be J. P. Rogers, of Brooklyn, and the judges will be Mayor Newton B. Smalley, F. F. Anness, of Woodbridge and C. P. Rose, of South Amboy. Drivers will be obliged to conform with the National Trotting Association rules.

The members of the association have arranged for busses to meet each trolley car at the Park avenue terminus. A special feature of the races will be the concert by Benjamin LaVere's full orchestra. The programme appears below.

March, "Victorious America," Brooks; overture, "Bohemian Girl," Balk; waltz, "Cornet Serenade," Herbert; cornet solo, "Boston Fantasia," Rollinson; medley, "The Chimes," O'Hare; sextette from Lucia, Donisetti; descriptive, "A Hunting Scene," Bucolossi; (a), intermezzo, "Anona," Vivian Gray, (b), idyl, "Hiawatha," Morse; selection, "The Wizard of Oz," galop, "Chili."

Benjamin LaVere, director of the band which is to give its second concert in the borough this evening has made public the programme:

March, "Yale College Life," Reed; overture, "Lustspiel," Kela Bela; concert waltz, "Sweet Rembrener," St. Claire; cornet solo, "Grand Fantasia," Rollinson, Albert O. Sweet; medley, "I Wish the Band Would Play," Geary; song, (a), "You're Dad Gave His Life for His Country," Barry and Geary, (b), "Every Morn-I Brings Her Chicken," Barry and Geary, John J. Nestor; patrol, "American," Meachan; selection, "Sultan of Sulu," Ade; descriptive, "A Hunt in the Black Forest," Voelcher; galop, "The Lion Chase," Kolling.

The concert will begin at 7:30 at the corner of Fairview and Watchung avenues. Mr. LaVere has received word that he could secure Mr. Nestor, a well-known baritone for the solo work tonight, to appear instead of Joseph Natus, who had previously been announced as the singer.

WANT MORE MARGIN.

Voters Claiming That They Haven't Room to Write "Against."

Many complaints have been heard from all parts of the State regarding the narrowness of the margin of the ballots upon which voters are instructed to designate their approval or disapproval of the proposed amendments to the constitution which are to be voted on at a special election to be held September 22. The margin, it was said, is so narrow as to preclude the possibility of a man writing on it the word "against" without constituting the ballot a marked one.

A recent batch of ballots issued from the Secretary of State's office, however, has proved more objectionable in this respect, the margin being narrower by half than on those of the original issue. On this last issue of tickets one could not write more than two or three letters legibly.

Condemns Act.

Former Vice Chancellor John T. Bird, of Somerville, has addressed to James J. Bergen and the members of the committee of the New Jersey Bar Association an open letter condemning the committee's action requesting the 2,500 members of the New Jersey bar to support the proposed constitutional amendments.

IS CHARGED WITH BIGAMY

GORDON'S REPORTED MARRIAGE LEADS TO HIS ARREST.

Miss Mamie Kane, of This City, Denies She Married Defendant—Wedding Reported This Week.

Robert Gordon, of Newark, who is a machinist employed at Westfield, was arrested by the Westfield police yesterday on a complaint in which his wife of Newark charges him with bigamy. The report was circulated early in the week that Gordon had just announced his marriage to Miss Mamie Kane who lives on West Front street, this city, and on the strength of this his wife at Newark appealed to the police. Chief Kiely, of the local police department, said this morning that Miss Kane had appeared yesterday to deny emphatically that she was married to Gordon or that she had ever contemplated marrying him. Miss Kane called at The Daily Press office last night and denied the reported marriage.

A BOROUGHITE ONCE IN A

TRANCE, INVENTED A THING TO STOP PANTS

From Bagging at Knees, With Elaborate Grease; Come Up, Gents and All Take a Chance.

At last the ideal of a century of Beau Brummels has become an actuality; and no longer will the impecunious young man with the ambition to be a "swell" be obliged to sleep with his trousers carefully folded beneath his mattress. No longer will whole libraries of books be called into service to coax a grease into unwilling trouser legs. No longer will the busy housewife put in her valuable time "pressing pants." For something has been invented which, it is claimed, will prevent the bagging of trousers at the knee, and a citizen of North Plainfielder, Leander W. Hammond by name, is the noble man whose keen intellect has conceived this precious boon to humanity.

Let doubters read and believe. For here is the description of the device as set forth by the inventor himself in the specification issued by the United States patent office of date September 8. "My invention relates to trousers; and the object of the same is to construct a trousers leg in such a manner that it will yield and draw up when one sits down and not stick to the calves of the legs and stretch and bag at the knees."

Now if that borough friend will only get together and invent a species of collar button that will not roll into a far corner under the bureau when a man has three minutes left in which to eat breakfast and catch a train, he will have made secure his title to immortality.

PULPIT SUPPLY.

E. C. Carlton, of Orange, to Have Temporary Charge of Swedish Congregation.

E. C. Carlton, of Orange, will occupy the pulpit in the Swedish Lutheran Church until an ordained pastor is secured. This was decided at a conference at the German Lutheran Church in Elizabeth, which closed Wednesday.

The principal discussion at the conference was as to the best methods of securing new laborers in the field. It was agreed to call pastors, one each, for Dover and Morristown, Summit and East Orange, Elizabeth and Plainfield, and for mission work in the Bronx. Among the speakers were Dr. F. Jacobson, of Brooklyn and Rev. A. L. Scott, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y.

BEWARE OF GLANDERS.

Disease is Contagious and Man is Susceptible to Infection.

Glanders is an incurable contagious disease affecting horses and mules almost exclusively, but man is also susceptible to the infection, says the State Board of Health, in a circular just issued.

The disease is spread through the nasal secretion, which is deposited on the woodwork in stalls, in blacksmiths' shops, in hotel sheds, upon tie-posts, upon the halter, harness, buckets, watering-troughs, feed and clothing of attendant. The germ may enter the body by inhalation, by the digestive tract, or through a wound in the skin.

In His Eighty-Sixth Year.

John Dougherty, of Dunellen, who died at his home there Thursday at the age of eighty-five, will be buried Monday, September 14 at 9 o'clock. The funeral services will be held from St. John's R. C. Church.

BOROUGH TAX RATE FIXED AT $2.59

Though Freeholders Demand $10,000, North Plainfield Will be But Slightly Affected.

A RAISE OF ONE POINT

ASSESSMENTS INCREASED ON LARGE NUMBER OF PROPERTIES.

County Tax Above $.63, Highest in the State of New Jersey—Mayor Newton B. Smalley's Work.

In spite of the conflicting reports given out regarding the increase in the North Plainfield tax rate, Assessor Elston M. French, states that the tax rate will be fixed this year at $2.59, which is only one point higher than that of last year.

Mr. French says: "While more money is to be raised this year owing to the fact that the Board of Freeholedrs demanded $1,300 more than last year's appropriation for County purposes, there is more property in North Plainfield this year than last to bear a share of the extra tax. The Council made many advances in the valuations on certain properties, which will increase the taxes of a number of property owners and doubtless some of them will appear before the Commissioners of Appeals when they meet in November."

This a considered a big feather in the cap of the present administration. In spite of the fact that the County tax rate has made a jump of nearly five points, which places it a little above $.63, the highest county rate in the State, the borough assessor has been enabled to keep the rate at practically the same place it was last year. Mayor Smalley is thus able to fulfill his promise taken when he took office at the last election, that the borough tax rate will be kept down.

While it is true that there is an increase of one point, it is mainly through Mayor Smalley's efforts that it was kept down as low as that. The demand made by the Freeholders was necessitated, it was said, by the policy of the Board to pay for all improvement inaugurated by them in cash. This brings the total burden upon the present property owners instead of leaving the debt to be paid in part, at least by posterity.

ENDLESS CHAIN GONE.

And Thereat the Borough Small Boy Goes About With a Lump in His Throat.

The North Plainfield small boy goes about with a big lump in his throat because the "Dooley" endless chain, left town yesterday. During the summer he has saved his pennies and nickles to enjoy the trips around the machine on the banks of Tier's lake and at times, he has been successful in coaxing his elder brother and sister to take a ride. All the fun is at an end now, however.

The managers of the machine took it to Easton, Pa., and from there to St. Louis where it will be one of the attractions next year at the fair. Winslow Carson is the general manager and J. H. Pope chief machinist. The total cost of the machine is $5,000. Martin Fulmer, although but fourteen years of age, has three patents of his own on the machine. He is a Plainfied boy.

Matthew D. Sweeney, of the Potter Press Company's plant, had something on his mind yesterday. It is thought it may have been his hair. The police are working on the case.

John Strausburg, of the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant, is slowly recovering from an operation on his left arm. Although the arm is bandaged and in a sling, Mr. Strausburg is able to be about the plant.

Men employed in painting the building owned by J. D. Loiseaux, on Park avenue, suddenly desisted from work Thursday morning. It was because they had discovered that a non-union man was working along with them. They continued their strike for several hours until their demand for his dismissal was granted.

It is more than likely that many members of the local typographical unions will be forced to resign their membership, owing to a clause in the oath that is prescribed by the organization which has come under the ban of the Roman Catholic Church. While it is true the oath has been used by the unions for a number of years, it is only lately that the church authorities discovered it.

AMUSEMENTS.

In B. E. Forrester's noteworthy production of Theodore Kremer's new melodrama, "No Wedding Bells For Her," which comes to the Grand on Monday, there is a most touching and tender love story, or rather a double love story, each being equal with the other in sustained interest.

Over in Newark an exceptionally clever vaudaville show has been scheduled for next week at Proctor's. Gillett's pantomime and musical dogs will head the list. Others on the bill will be Delmore and Leo, America's greatest acrobats; Fields and Ward, conversationalists; Francesca Redding and Company, in "The Cattle Queen;" Nora Bayes, comedienne; Gus Williams, German monologuist, and fifteen others.

Ned Harrigan always had good "coon" characters in his earlier plays and the "coon" element is said to be particularly strong in "Under Cover," his new piece which Liebler & Co. will produce at the Murray Hill Theatre, New York, next Monday night, September 14. Joseph Sparks who has been playing Irish parts for the last eight or nine years, appears in this piece as a negro wench of the kind Tony Hart used to impersonate so successfully and Dan Collyer is one of those comical colored mokes Johnny Wild made familiar.

Miss Tillie Reiss, of Bound Brook, is the guest of friends in North Plainfield.

Letters from Women

Cured by the use of Kodol are received daily. Their troubles nearly all begin with indigestion or other stomach disorder.

If the food you eat fails to give strength to your body, it is because the juices secreted by the stomach and digestive organs are inadequate to transform the nutrient properties of the food into blood. That is indigestion. The system is deprived of the amount of nourishment required to keep up the strength, and the result is that one or more of the delicate organs gradually grows weak, and then weaker, until finally it is diseased. Here a great mistake is made. That of treating the diseased organ. The best doctors in the land make this very mistake. Why should they? It is so easy to see that the trouble is not there.

Kodol Cures

This famous remedy puts the stomach and digestive organs in a healthy condition so that rich, red blood is sent coursing through the veins and arteries of every muscle, tissue and fiber throughout every organ of the entire body, and by Nature's law of health, full strength and vigor is soon restored to each.

Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia and all stomach disorders.

I have taken Kodol for nearly two months after each meal and it is the only remedy that gave relief from the terrible pains I endured. After a time I would take it but once a day, and now, while I keep a bottle handy, I seldom need it, as it has cured me. Mrs. J. W. Coolbaugh, Milo Center, N. Y.

Honors Won by New Yorkers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Sept. 12.—The New York Athletic club carried off the honors in the great national championship senior events of the Amateur Athletic union at State Fair park, winning a total of 50 points against 36 for the Milwaukee Athletic club, which was its nearest competitor. The First Regiment Athletic association, Chicago, finished an easy third, with 29 points. The Montreal Amateur Athletic association, with but three representatives, has 10 points to its credit, and the University of Chicago is next in line, with 9 points. The Greater New York Irish Athletic association and the Central Young Men's Christian association each took 3 points.

Van Ness Made New Record.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Van Ness created a new world's record at Sheepshead Bay by covering the six and a half furlongs straightaway in 1:18, which is three-fifths of a second faster than the best previous time, made by Jane Holly at Washington park, Chicago. King Pepper and Van Ness raced together to the bend, where Van Ness drew away and in a hard drive won by a head from Ascension, who closed very strong on the rail. King Pepper was third. Caughnawaga won the Russet handicap, with His Eminence second and Sheriff Belle third. Shorthose was a bad last.

Harlem Racing.

CHICAGO, Sept. 12.—The feature event at Harlem, the third race at one mile, was won easily by Ancke, the second choice. Rounding the first turn there was considerable bumping, which threw Orfeo, the favorite, back into last place, from which position he was brought up, finishing second. Ancke was not extended to win, taking first place by two lengths. Warte Nicht finished third.

Racing at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 12.—Kindred, Frank Bell, Alfio and Barkelmore finished noses apart in the feature, a sprint of six furlongs for three-year-olds and up. Sheehan, who had the mount on Kindred, outrode the other jockeys at the finish. Mallory surprised the talent by winning the third race. Kentucky Cardinal upset all calculations by winning the closing event.

Racing at Kenilworth.

BUFFALO, Sept. 12.—Coruscate won the third event at Kenilworth, covering the mile in 1:39 4-5 and leading Sambo by three lengths when they passed under the wire. The Owners' handicap was won by Baffled, an old campaigner, which had all the speed and lasted well.

Regular Army Team Won.

SEA GIRT, N. J., Sept. 12.—The infantry rifle team of the United States army came to the fore very decidedly and captured the Dryden trophy by scoring a total of 995 out of a possible 1,200.

Only Fourteen Houses Left.

NORTH ANSON, Me., Sept. 12.—Only fourteen buildings are left standing in the village of Eustis, Me., by a fire which consumed more than twice that number. The loss is about $50,000. Eustis is a little settlement of only a few hundred people in the Rangely region, northern Franklin county, on the southern fork of Dead river. The fire started from a defective chimney in the Coburn hotel and burned for five hours.

Fire Destroys Hotel.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 12.—Round Knob hotel, a well known resort east of Asheville, this state, has been totally destroyed by fire. The only inmates of the building were employees remodeling the structure, it not being open for guests at the time.

ACCUSED ARE NAMED

District Attorney Beach Gives Names of Those Indicted.

OUTCOME OF POSTAL FRAUD PROBING

Detailed Story of the Alleged Methods to Defraud the Government by Postal Employees Acting as Contractors.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—The six persons named in the seven indictments returned by the grand jury in the postal frauds investigation as announced by District Attorney Beach are: George W. Beavers, former chief of the division of salaries and allowances, post office department; August W. Machen, former general superintendent of the free delivery system, post office department; James W. Erwin, former post office inspector, with headquarters in San Francisco; George W. Huntington and Isaac S. McGiehan, both of New York city, owners of the Columbia Supply company of that city, and Eugene D. Scheble of Toledo, O., a dentist and interested in the firm of Maybury & Ellis of Detroit, Mich., letter box manufacturers.

The following statement regarding the indictments follows:

"The indictment against Beavers, Machen and Erwin alleges in substance that the Postal Device and Improvement company of San Francisco, formerly the Montague Indicator and Letter Box company, by resolution of Oct. 6, 1899, set aside 1,000 shares of its stock to be used in any legitimate way its president might think proper in forwarding the interests of the company. Armed with this authority, the president, Daniel S. Richardson, accompanied by Erwin, came to Washington. Erwin was then a post office inspector, and the company was composed almost entirely of post office employees in the west.

"Erwin introduced Richardson to all the post office officials at Washington, and Beavers, Machen, Heath and others examined the device. As a result an order for equipping 2,089 letter boxes with the device was secured. About this time, on a suggestion from Beavers, concurred in by Machen, the name of the company was changed, and it was arranged that all post office officials should disappear from its management. Beavers and Machen became the owners of blocks of the stock, both under assumed names.

"The company was then systematically relieved of its obligations in the way of paying freight, crating, painting and printing cards for the devices it was furnishing. Out of the 1,000 shares of stock set aside, as above mentioned, most all of it went to different post office officials. The president of the company afterward came to Washington again, with the request that an increase be made in the compensation the company was receiving for its device. This request was granted. Dividends were afterward paid on the stock.

"The indictment against McGiehan, Huntington and Machen alleges that McGiehan was the person interested in the profits from certain contracts from the United States for furnishing package boxes from July 1, 1893, to June 1, 1898; that in pursuance of a scheme to defraud the United States Machen recommended to his superiors that the compensation of the contractor be increased in payment for attaching a different support to the boxes which raised them higher from the ground. This scheme was put through, and afterward, when Huntington became interested in the contracts with McGiehan, they continued to receive the extra compensation.

"The indictment against McGiehan and Huntington for bribery alleges that Machen procured the payment of $1.25 on each of the package boxes additional to the contractor for the device which lifted them higher from the ground, when the sum paid for that attachment should not have exceeded 75 cents. McGiehan agreed to pay Machen 50 cents from each $1.25, with the concurrence of Huntington, who was then interested in the contracts with McGiehan, as the Columbia Supply company, for his own personal use.

"The indictment against Scheble and Machen alleges that Eugene D. Scheble of Toledo, O., became interested with the firm of Maybury & Ellis of Detroit, Mich., of which town Maybury is the mayor, in certain contracts with the United States for furnishing letter boxes. That in pursuance of their scheme to defraud the government Machen induced the department to order large quantities of letter boxes for the rural free delivery service, quantities far in excess of what was needed or what could be used, and that Machen in his official capacity approved the bills for the same. Maybury & Ellis paid Scheble to the extent of his interest in the company, and he in turn paid large sums to Machen.

"The indictment is in seventeen counts, the first three charging the payment by Scheble to Machen of $1,500 on Sept. 12, 1900; the fourth count charges the ordering by Machen of 6,000 letter boxes on Sept. 21, 1900; the fifth, sixth and seventh counts charge the payment to Machen of $50 on Sept. 24, 1900; the eighth, ninth and tenth counts charge the payment to Machen of $2,200 on Nov. 22, 1900; the eleventh count charges the payment to Machen of $1,150 on Nov. 29, 1900; the twelfth, thirteenth and fourteenth counts charge the payment of $100 to Machen on Feb. 11, 1901; the fifteenth, sixteenth and seventeenth counts charge the payment of $154 to Machen on June 10, 1901. The other indictment against these defendants has the same number of counts and on the same facts, the charge being [illegible] the an officer of the United [illegible]

IN FEAR OF ATTACK

Constantinople Is Agitated. Christians In Terror.

MUSSULMANS EAGER FOR REVENGE

Earnest Representations Have Been Made to the Sultan's Government. It Is Claimed All Needed Precautions Have Been Taken.

PARIS, Sept. 12.—Reports received by the foreign office here from Constantinople say there is renewed agitation among the Mussulmans within the city, and fears are expressed of a possible Mussulman attack on the Christian population. This agitation followed the appearance in the Turkish papers of accounts of the Bulgarians dynamiting trains and blowing up the steamer Vaskapu.

The government considered that official sanction of the publication of the news was the best means to avoid exaggerated stories of the explosions. As the government had rigorously suppressed any mention of explosions during the last twenty years, the recent publications caused widespread agitation. The official report says the Mussulmans are eager to avenge the outrages and states that the feeling is so intense that if the Bulgarians commit any further destruction the Mussulmans are likely to take redress by attacking the Christian population.

Earnest representations on the subject have been made to the porte, which has given assurances that all precautions will be taken and has reiterated its confidence that it will be able to control the situation.

The official report that it is possible that the Mussulmans may attack the Christian population of Constantinople hastened the issuance of the order for a division to prepare to leave.

It is semiofficially stated that the French naval division will also operate at Salonika and other points for the protection of French residents in Macedonia.

PRESENCE OF MIND.

Gilt Edge Express Saved From Destruction by Timely Warning.

WOOD RIVER JUNCTION, R. I., Sept. 12.—The lives of a train load of passengers were removed from jeopardy by the presence of mind of W. F. Clark of this place and Charles Low of Boston, who rushed down the track and gave warning signals which stopped the Gilt Edge express, bound from New York for Boston, in time to prevent it from crashing into a mass of wreckage caused by a collision of freight trains.

Both men were near the scene when the freight trains came together with such force that both main lines were blocked and, realizing that the fast express was then several minutes overdue, they lost no time in their efforts to save it from destruction. They had gone less than 200 rods down the track when the train came in sight, but by vigorously waving their lanterns they attracted the engineer's attention, and the train was brought to a standstill only a few feet from the jumbled mass of wreckage.

In recognition of the efforts of the two men the passengers on the Gilt Edge express started a subscription and raised $156, which will be divided between them. The train was subsequently sent to Boston over another route.

The freight wreck probably resulted from a misinterpretation of signals, one freight containing a large number of valuable horses colliding with another, demolishing four cars and injuring three men, one of whom, Matthew Hatch of Providence, is not expected to live. Traffic in both directions was delayed nearly seven hours.

THE MAFIA SUSPECTED.

Ex-Officer of the Italian Army Shot Dead.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—Arcangelo Rainio, a former officer in the Italian army and later connected with the secret service in Italy, was shot dead in the hallway adjoining a saloon at Second avenue and East One Hundred and Thirteenth street. It is suspected that two members of the Mafia committed the murder.

Rainio came to this country three years ago. While in Italy he had been instrumental in the conviction of a number of dangerous characters. It was said that he fled from Italy to save his life, fearing that members of the Mafia would kill him. He went to live in Philadelphia and came to this city now and then.

While on one of his visits he made the acquaintance of Teresa Gianzso, a beautiful young woman who is spoken of as the "belle of little Italy" and who lives over the saloon. Rainio visited the girl, and about an hour later two shots were heard, and two men were seen running from the house. Rainio was found dead in the hallway, having been shot through the back of the head." An Italian has been arrested on suspicion of being concerned in the murder.

More Work at Fall River.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Sept. 12.—One million more cotton spindles will run in Fall River next week than this, 9,400 more operatives will work, $70,000 more will be paid out in wages, 2,400 more bales of cotton will be used, and 120,000 more pieces of cloth will be made.

Dr. Rushmore Out of Danger.

TUXEDO PARK, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Dr. Edward C. Rushmore of Tuxedo, who was seriously injured in the automobile wreck at Arden, in which his niece, Miss Herrick of Southampton, was killed, is considered to be out of danger by the attending physicians.

Sound Sleep and Appetite Restored.

Disordered nerves cause sleepless nights! Loss of sleep wears out both body and mind because certain of nature's mysterious process takes place only while we sleep.

If your nerves will not let your body rest, sound healthful sleep is impossible. You sleep by fits and starts, you rise in the morning unrested, unrefreshed. Then appetite fails and serious trouble begins.

It's your nerves! Cure your disordered overworked nerves by taking

The World's Greatest Tonic

The experience of Mr. Howard Welch, a well-known Boston Hotel man (803 Washington St.), exactly illustrates these truths. Mr. Welch says:

"While in charge of a large hotel I contracted a severe cold that left me in a very peculiar condition. I lost my appetite, and the little I could eat distressed me greatly.

"To add to my discomfort I was troubled with insomnia, and frequently could get no sleep for several hours after retiring. I tried several remedies but they were useless.

"A friend suggested Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, but I had no faith in it. Finally to please him, I obtained a bottle of Nervura, and in a few days I was happily surprised to find myself feeling much better.

"After using it a short time, I completely recovered, slept soundly and had a fine appetite. I am always pleased to say a good word for Dr. Greene's Nervura."

NAZIM'S FIRM HOLD

New Governor at Beirut Is Trustworthy.

PASHA IS FRIENDLY TO AMERICA

Chekib Bey, Turkish Minister at Washington, Says the Sultan's New Ruler Is Sure to Prove a Power For Good.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 12.—Admiral Cotton telegraphs from Beirut that the governor general of Damascus has been appointed acting governor general at Beirut and has expressed a desire to settle the case of the American vice consul satisfactorily to the United States government. Beirut quiet; business improving; confidence increasing."

The state department has authentic advices that Nazim Pasha is a trustworthy and broadminded man, and

NAZIM PASHA.
[In command at Beirut.]

Minister Leishman has been instructed to advise the sublime porte that the Washington government is greatly pleased at the immediate granting of its request for the removal of the governor of Beirut and the appointment in his stead of a responsible person and one favorable to foreigners.

Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, called at the state department, bringing further advices that a "condition of absolute peace has been established at Beirut."

"I know the governor general of Damascus," said Chekib Bey, "and I am sure he will prove a power for good at Beirut. He is an admirable character, popular with foreigners, and will handle the situation at Beirut with a firm hand. He is respected throughout Turkey."

DENOUNCED MACEDONIA.

Porte Wanted the Powers to Intervene at Sofia.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 12.—The porte last week prepared a memorandum refuting the statements made in Bulgaria's recent note to the powers which denounced the administration of Macedonia and asking the powers to intervene at Sofia and put an end to the proceedings of the Macedonian committee.

It now transpires that at the last moment the porte abandoned the issuance of this memorandum, seemingly on the advice of the powers, who represented to the Ottoman government the inadvisability of aggravating the already precarious situation. This incident, in conjunction with Bulgaria's pacific declarations, is considered to be of good augury.

Telegrams from Beirut state that calm continues there, but that many shops are closed. Nazim Pasha is acting with energy and has made many arrests and has expelled a score of suspected persons. Orders have been sent to the governor of Lebanon to maintain a sharp lookout for refugees from Beirut and arrest all suspects. Minister Leishman's demand for the dismissal of Reshid Pasha, the vali of Beirut, was supported by the British, French and Italian ambassadors, and owing to Reshid's powerful influence at Yildes kiosk it needed much diplomatic pressure, combined with the presence of the American squadron, to secure the acceptance of the demand.

According to official reports, 103 Bulgarians were killed in a fight at Resna.

Further details of the villages burned and massacres committed in the vilayet of Monastir have reached here from reliable sources at Salonika. The names are given of thirty-four villages in the kaza of Okrida which have been burned by the Turks. At Velgoshti, near Ortakol, twelve men and women perished in the flames. Sixty peasants were killed in this neighborhood, most of the bodies being left unburied.

Nine villages and a large forest area have been burned in the kaza of Resen. At Podmochani and Pokolvenik many women and children were killed. In the kaza of Prespa the soldiers surrounded a forest in which the women and children from the villages of Loubolno and Bratichino were concealed. They violated the women and put many of them to death. The monastery of St. Golm in the kaza of Veles had been plundered.

The town of Klissura is filled with refugees from the burned villages in the district, including many wounded women from the neighborhood of Klissura and Neveska. The large number of bodies lying unburied and decomposing has caused an epidemic among the Turkish troops, from which many have died.

THE STORM IN ENGLAND.

Great Damage Done to Shipping. Many Fatalities.

LONDON, Sept. 12.—While the details of the havoc wrought by the great storm which raged over the British isles are necessarily incomplete, the reports coming in from all parts of the United Kingdom show that the devastation was general, and it is feared that the loss of life is much greater than was at first supposed.

Lloyd's already reports over fifty serious casualties to shipping. All sorts of vessels were caught in the gale, and many foundered, several with their entire crews. A great number of minor craft are believed to be lost, and the bodies washing ashore continue to swell the terrible list of fatalities.

The gale sprang up with sudden fury from the southwest, and the wind blew with a velocity at times reaching seventy-two miles an hour, and this continued for several hours. All the coast towns suffered more or less, and the agricultural sections in the interior report incalculable damage owing to the late harvest. The beautiful hop gardens of Kent have been ruined, and in many places the valleys of the Thames and Severn are submerged, quantities of sheep and cattle being drowned.

For some time telegraphic communication was completely stopped, and the land lines are still interrupted. The telegraph companies report that the wires and poles are down everywhere. Great numbers of fine trees in the parks of London and other cities were torn up by the roots or stripped of their branches, and the list of minor damage and casualties is amazing. In addition to the deaths from drowning reports from the inland give many fatalities resulting from various causes incident to the storm.

Dispatches from France and Germany indicate that widespread damage has been caused by the storm on sea and land. Telephone communication between London and Paris has not yet been restored, and there is much delay in telegraphic dispatches owing to the damage to the continental land lines.

Reports from France continue to tell of great ravages caused by the storm, which still sweeps the coast of Brittany and the English channel, but is reported to be slightly abating. The principal sufferers are the fishermen, many of whose boats have been wrecked, though the loss of life reported is small. The pilot boat Le Havre was wrecked near Cherbourg, and the captain and two sailors were drowned. The storm, which was accompanied by heavy hail, extended inland, devastating the fruit trees and vines, especially in the champagne region around Rheims.

THE MINERS' STRIKE.

Mitchell Wants the Men to Work Pending Settlement.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 12.—After two conferences with the miners and two with the operators John Mitchell, president, and T. L. Lewis, vice president, of the miners' national organization, sent a committee to Novinger to urge the miners there to go to work pending a settlement. The operators told President Mitchell that if he could not make the miners work under the Chicago agreement there would not be any evidence that he could make them abide by any agreement they might make with him here.

If the Novinger miners go back to work the chances are they will have the backing of the national organization in their demands. Until the miners do return to work there is little prospect that anything that can affect the mine situation will be attempted, as the operators are determined to make the national officers show that they can make good on any agreement they may make. With that accomplished Mitchell will move for a quick settlement one way or the other. He has agreed to stay here until some sort of settlement has been made.

Major Riddle Killed Grandson.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Sept. 12.—Major J. M. Riddle of Lancaster, this state, one of the proprietors of the Lancaster Review, accompanied by his little grandson, Robert Mackorell, went on a squirrel hunt. Major Riddle fired at what he supposed to be a squirrel in the bushes, but on approaching the object of his aim he discovered his grandson in the agony of death, the boy having received the entire load. When Major Riddle reached him the boy exclaimed, "Grandpa, you have shot me!" The child died in the grandfather's arms on the way to a spring near by.

White Calf's Body Stolen.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., Sept. 12.—Indians brought the report here that the body of White Calf, leader of the Blackfoot tribe, has been stolen. White Calf died of pneumonia in Washington. In the old days he was the great war chief of his tribe, but when the whites came he bore their friendship. The body was stolen from an Indian burial house four miles west of the Blackfoot agency buildings. Some of the Indians believe that the body has been stolen by curio hunters.

Peace at Cripple Creek.

CRIPPLE CREEK, Colo., Sept. 12.—Peace prevails throughout the district. The water supply of the La Bella Power company, which was shut off temporarily by order of the water commissioner of Goldfield, is now guarded by soldiers, and the plant is furnishing power to mines which are operating with nonunion men.

Hoosick Falls' Big Fire Loss.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., Sept. 12.—The mills of the Falls Knitting company, owned by Trimble Bros., and the livery stables of Frank Riley were destroyed by fire. The total loss is estimated at $40,000.

NURSED BY SHE-WOLF.

Big Beast Carried Away a Baby and Then Cared for It with Her Cub Family.

From Ewing, 30 miles from St. Paul, comes a story so strange and startling that it has attracted much attention, and steps have been taken to either prove or disprove it, for if it is true a new fact in natural history has been established and the much-maligned wolf will take a higher place in the estimation of the human race.

Several weeks ago, according to reports, an infant daughter of William Dunphy, a prospector, who lived in the hills overlooking Ewing, with his wife, was carried off one afternoon by a wild animal.

Search was made for the little one, but no trace of it could be found, and the babe was finally given up for dead. Ever since then the father has spent his time in the hills seeking the bears and the wolves, which are numerous in the mountains, and slaughtering them wherever found, while the mother has sat and wept and pined away over the fate of her child.

While Dunphy was hunting in the mountains the other day he came on a wolf den, which showed signs of being occupied. He waited for a long time, and then, as no wolf came forth, he decided to enter the den and see for himself what was in it.

As he entered the place he heard the cry of a child. Advancing, he saw a sight that almost turned his hair white. Lying on a bed of grass at the end of the den was a big mother wolf, with several pups playing beside her, while close to her side was his lost baby, trying to get a dinner from the mother wolf, which seemed to enjoy the tugging.

The wolf simply growled, but made no attempt to escape or to make an attack when the man approached. She was attached to the child, apparently, and had been nursing it. At least that is the supposition, as the little one was well nourished and was without a scratch.

ENTERED A PROTEST.

Man Who Had Grave Dug Seven Times, Still Lives and Objects to Being Buried.

Clayton Westfall, of Parkersburg, W. Va., is a victim of the dying habit. He dies, apparently, fools all the people who see him, and then fools the undertaker who comes to prepare him for burial by waking up from a semi-conscious state and protesting against being made to witness his own funeral from the inside of a coffin.

Westfall died last week for the seventh time, but revived again in time to prevent the funeral, although the grave had been dug and the coffin ordered. He is a worker in the oil fields near Jake's Run, and, according to his own story, has frequent attacks of unconsciousness. He had one of his attacks, the family made all the usual tests and he was pronounced dead. The grave was prepared and the undertaker sent for. He arrived at night and was almost frightened to death when the supposed corpse arose in bed and asked the undertaker what he was there for and what he was going to do. Westfall found out in a short time that it was proposed to bury him, and he entered a vigorous protest.

Westfall says he has several times been in this condition, and has narrowly escaped being buried alive on more than one occasion. He has sometimes lain in the trance for two or three days at a time. During this period he has the most remarkable dreams. Nearly always he dreams he is in Heaven, but he can give no accurate description of what the place is like. At other times he dreams he has gone in the opposite direction, and when this happens he is always glad to be awakened, even by the undertaker. He is in excellent health, and his experience never hurts him.

An Ideal Location

Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE

LINDEN, N. J.

Beautiful and Accessible

2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark, 14 MILES FROM NEW YORK

On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

WHAT IS WORN.

Sporting Costumes—Walking Skirts of Kilted Plaid.

Sporting costumes, above all others, must be made by smart tailors, and for every particular sport one must have a particular gown. Let a first class bootmaker fit the well dressed woman with the proper kind of foot wear for each costume and let the head gear be equally suitable. Even a pretty woman has no chance against a well dressed one, so much is there in appropriate dressing.

In these days of the abbreviated skirt women are feeling far more comfortable and more disposed to take long walks. The walking skirt can be most chic in tweeds and fine kilted plaids, especially in company with the short Norfolk coat. Some of these Norfolk coats have only two plaits back and front and no waistbands, but they are beautifully cut and are quite short on the hips. The old style, however, is more universally becoming, with its leather band and general appearance of workmanlike neatness.

Smart people are wearing a good deal of brown serge as well as heather mixtures. Blue serge, of course, still holds its own.

The cut shows a lace and crepe de chine gown worn with a marabou stole. JUDIC CHOLLET.

ally made, too, with a pocket. They sometimes button up the front, with a blouse bodice to match, finished with a neat leather or silk belt at the waist and wash collars and cuffs.

The best wraps for traveling are after a Viennese model in the form of a coarse silky linen loose sack trimmed with an edging of wash embroidery and big bone buttons. These entirely cover the frock beneath and are ideal for warm weather. For cooler days this same model is admirable in reversible tweeds and thick cloths.

The picture shows a widow's dress trimmed with shirrings and crape bands. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Real Daughter of the Revolution

By CAROLINE GERHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

The fire slackened, the assailants were drawing off. Sensing this, the British began to beat the bushes for their retiring foe. Bessemer divided his forces and sent part of them, under his Lieutenant-Colonel Turner with Edward as guide, to the eastward, while he himself set out in the opposite direction. The way he had chosen was that which would lead him past the Elijah Ellery abode, and he was prompted to this course by a remark of Edward's that morning that he supposed Jane had gone to her Aunt Susannah's on her ride, else she would have been back in time for breakfast. With the escape of the prisoner from his clutches, the Englishman's suspicion of Jane had returned, and bitterly he regretted now that he had not killed the American while he had him in his power. As he rode towards the plantation a determination fixed itself in his mind, and he but needed Jane there to put it into execution.

War had played sad havoc with the Elijah Ellery place. The mansion-house had been burned by British and tories some months before, while the once fertile fields lay neglected and untilled. Mrs. Ellery now occupied the cottage of the overseer, himself away in the army with his employer. Breakfast was just over, and Jane and her aunt still lingered at the table. The temptation to pour into her aunt's sympathetic ear the tale of last night's adventures and of the culminating bargain was not to be resisted. As they sat at the table they discussed.

"Marry Bessemer?" Mrs. Ellery cried. "Bind yourself for life to a man who could exact such a promise from you? Never!"

"Dear aunt, I must," Jane answered. "There is no loophole of escape. My word is out. Remember, no Ellery ever breaks his word or hers."

"Neither are the Ellerys wont to make alliance with scoundrels," her aunt retorted. "Marry him I say you shall not!" She brought her fist upon the table with an emphasis which caused the aristocratic old china, saved from the wreckage of her home, to utter a refined protest against such rude vehemence.

Jane pushed back her chair and rose. "I must away home," she said. "I doubt me not my stepmother is in hysterics by now with anxiety as to my whereabouts."

"Nousense, child. You are not half rested. Nay, stay you here and I will have Sam put up your horse and get out Black Nan to go himself to your father's with a message that you are here."

Heedless of Jane's protest, she bustled onto the porch. A glance down the road, visible from the vantage-point, caused her to fling up her hands in consternation and hasten back to her niece.

"Jane," she exclaimed in an agitated tone, "who think you is galloping up the road, making straight for here? That wretch Bessemer, looking like a bantam rooster astride a big gray horse."

"Coming here? Are you sure? I cannot, I will not see him."

"He has his men with him, so mayhap he is not going to stop; but keep you in the house, and I will dispatch him speedily."

She returned to the porch. Scarce had she taken up her position when Bessemer came in sight. Jane's horse, the sleek chestnut which was her favorite, did not escape his eye. With a word of command to his officers, he threw himself from his horse and strode through the gate to the front porch, at the top of whose steps Mrs. Ellery stood.

"Ah, colonel, good-morning," said the lady condescendingly. "'Tis long since I have had the pleasure of welcoming you to my home."

It could not be said that her welcome the only other time he had visited her had been friendly. It was upon the occasion of the burning of her house, an event which both remembered.

"Will you not be seated here upon my good settee?" she proceeded. "I find the spot it occupies a most shady and restful one at this time in the morning, and it would feel honored to hold so brave a gentleman."

Her guest looked at her somewhat suspiciously. Such graciousness from such a source was too unexpected to be received without reservation, yet he was not to be outdone in courtesy.

"Ah, madam," he said, as he bent to kiss her hand, "you little know what a pleasure it is to me to receive so kind a welcome at your hands. 'Tis doubly precious; first, because it comes from your sweet self and, second, because it leads me to believe that you will extend the welcome to embrace me not only as your guest but as your nephew. Doubtless your niece, who I see by her horse without the gate is now with you, has already acquainted you with the happiness she has bestowed upon me in consenting to become my wife. I am here to claim the consummation of that promise. Advices from my general, Cornwallis, tell me that our army is to move and that my detachment may be sent into North Carolina. I fear, therefore, it may be many days, nay, months, before the fortunes of war permit me to return hither, and I cannot leave without knowing that your niece is under the protection of my name. My good chaplain is without, prepared to make us one, and I have but to crave the hospitality of your roof and the boon of your blessing for the completion of our happiness."

"You cannot mean," Mrs. Ellery cried, "that you expect to marry Jane here—now? My good man, you are out of your senses."

"Nay, my dear madam, never more in them, I assure you. Love is a great sharpener of wits."

"Maybe so, when it has any to work on," his hostess retorted with asperity, flinging aside her role of smoothy, "but you will find yourself upon a fool's errand. Jane is in no mood for marrying, I trow."

"We will allow Mistress Jane to decide that for herself. May I trouble you to call her?"

"Yes, right gladly will I call her and let her rebuke your insolence as it deserves." She stepped to the hall door. "Jane, child, come here. Col. Bessemer wishes to speak with you."

Jane was astonished that her aunt should summon her, but she presumed there must be some urgent cause—a message from her father and mother or her brother, for she had seen through the window that Edward was not with the officers; therefore she stepped from the room into the hall. Catching sight of her, Bessemer went swiftly forward and took her hand.

"I have come," he said, bending his head and speaking in a low tone, "to claim the promise you made me. My chaplain is without, prepared to marry us. Dispatches from my general, Cornwallis, as I have explained to your aunt, necessitate my immediate departure. I cannot leave without knowing that you are surely mine, bound to me by the sacred ties of matrimony."

Jane recoiled. "You cannot mean," she exclaimed, "that you have come to marry me now."

"And why not? Was it not to be when I chose?"

"True; but surely you will give me more time. My father, my mother, even my brother, are not here. You would not have me marry without their presence? No; I am confident you have but said this to test my loyalty to my promise."

"And if I had," he sneered, "it would seem the test has proven a severe strain; that the tension has brought your promise to the breaking-point."

"You wrong me," she answered. "I am ready to keep my promise, but I had expected more charity in time."

"Yet, as I recollect it, there was no question of time in our compact save such time as should be of my choosing."

"That is so; and yet I am sure you will not take it ill if I beseech you to make your choice of a later date. You cannot consider it unreasonable that I should ask a little time for preparation—a week, if you will; but if not, then a day. I am certain you will grant me this."

Her every protest but served to increase Bessemer's determination. "It may be that my memory plays me false," he remarked, "yet it occurs to me that the other night you promised to marry me at any moment which might seem to me most expedient. This is the moment; but if such were not your promise, then, of course—"

"Such was my promise, but—"

"But now that the object for which that promise was given is attained, I may whistle for the payment of my claim? Is that your stand? Well, while I should have looked for fairer treatment at the hands of a daughter of the Ellerys and the sister of your brother, still—"

"Say no more," Jane interrupted proudly. "I shall beseech no further favors. I am prepared to do your bidding."

"Ah, madam," he observed, "it is your better self which speaks." He turned toward the porch upon which Mrs. Ellery had remained impatient. "My dear aunt to be," he said, "I am a candidate for your congratulations. Your beloved niece has promised to marry me at once."

"Jane, what folly is this?" her aunt cried. "It cannot be that you have submitted to this man's importunities? Fie, I am ashamed of you! You are no niece of mine."

"Dear aunt," Jane answered wearily, "it is the keeping of a promise. You would not have me break it?"

TRADE CONDITIONS.

R. G. Dun & Co. Report Increased Activity in Many Lines.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Despite the interruption of a holiday the week has brought increased activity in many branches of business, although dullness continued in Wall street and the international markets were depressed by the trouble at Beirut. An encouraging symptom is the decreasdd complaint regarding collections, accompanied by more discounting of bills. Weather conditions have been favorable for retail trade, distribution of merchandise expanding, while there are frequent reports of larger jobbing fall business than last year.

Some caution in selecting goods owing to high prices is reported at the west, but this is chiefly confined to textiles. New ventures are still discouraged by the high rates for money.

On Sept. 1, for the first time this year, furnace stocks of pig iron exceeded a week's capacity of the furnaces in blast. This is statistical evidence of the quiet conditions now prevailing in the iron and steel industry, although the exact situation cannot be determined without a knowledge of the supplies at other points.

Production of pig iron on Sept. 1 was at the rate of 370,833 tons weekly against 362,330 a month earlier, more furnaces having resumed during August than were blown out. The output last month was 1,616,643 tons, a slight gain over July, but a considerable decrease compared with the high record of 1,755,966 tons in May. It is worthy of note that the lower prices have not been accompanied by reductions in wages, particularly at the Connellsville coke ovens, but a certain proportion of men in the mills and furnaces are idle.

Another week of fairly good conditions will put much of the corn beyond danger, and it is probable that a total production of 2,000,000,000 bushels will be sufficient. Preparations for the new winter wheat crop already promise a large acreage. Western receipts of wheat exceed the corresponding period last year for the first time this season, 9,093,556 bushels comparing with 6,957,268. Total exports from the United States, flour included, amounted to only 2,490,273 bushels against 4,368,701 last year. Interior arrivals of corn were 4,263,242 bushels, compared with 1,539,798 a year ago, and Atlantic coast exports were 434,976 bushels against 88,248 in 1902.

Liabilities of commercial failures during the first week of September aggregated $1,942,007, of which $864,481 were in manufacturing, $1,049,834 in trading and $28,592 in other commercial lines. Failures this week were 172 in the United States against 205 last year, and 19 in Canada compared with 22 a year ago.

THE CONTROL OF THE SEA.

Battle Ship Maryland Launched at Newport News.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Sept. 12.—Governor Smith, from Baltimore, accompanied by his staff and a party of guests, numbering about 200 prominent Maryland men and women, attended the launching of the battle ship Maryland here today. Miss Jennie Scott Waters dashed the customary bottle of wine against the ship's bows as she glided down the ways.

The Maryland naval reserves, under command of Commander Edwin Geer, came on from Baltimore on the naval reserve vessel Sylvia and took a prominent part in the launching ceremonies.

Secretary Moody was unable to attend the launching, the navy department being represented by Assistant Secretary of the Navy Darling.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

There is talk of introducing in the Park Club the coming winter, a feature that has proven very popular in other clubs, and that is reserving for certain evenings, two bowling alleys, a billiard and pool table to be used by members who wish to make up little social gatherings of their own, particular friends in the club. This would enable them to carry on tournaments in the different games and not interfere with the comfort of other members. The club, through its caterer, on the premises, will also be able to serve refreshments when desired.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Plainfield High School Athletic Association will meet Tuesday morning to elect a board of directors. Much interest is being shown in a singles and doubles tennis tournament to be held the last of the month, as last season, and it is extremely likely that the first action taken by the new board will be to arrange for such a tournament. Although there is said to be good football material at the school, nothing definite in regard to the formation of a team has been done as yet.

FOOTBALL.

The schedule for the football games arranged by the Florodora Club for the coming season is this: Sept. 26, Fairview Giants; Oct. 3, Park F. C.; Oct. 10, Watchung, A. C.; October 17, Somerset F. C.; October 24, Crescent A. C.; Oct. 31, Grandview A. C.; Nov. 3, Invincible; Nov. —, West End F. C.; Nov. 14, Somerset A. C.; Nov. 26, Consolidated Eleven.

Roy T. Phillips was chosen captain of the Alis football squad for the coming season at the club meeting at the club house on Arlington avenue last evening, and H A. Chandor was chosen manager. It was arranged to have the grounds at Crescent Oval surveyed and put in first class condition for the games. The first game of football will be played on the afternoon of Saturday, October 10. The Alis season cannot be started before that time as the baseball schedule does not expire before Saturday, October 3.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS.

QUESTIONS OF THE DAY DISCUSSED BY THE PRESS.

The Election Law.

The complications that have grown out of conflicting provisions in the old election law and the new, would not have arisen but for the special election which is to be held next month for the adoption or rejection of the proposed constitutional amendments. The old law provides that election officers should hold office from September 11 of one year to September 10 of the following year, or until their successors are appointed and qualified. The new law amends this provision, not as specifically as it might have been made to do, but provides that the election officers shall be appointed on or before the first of September of each year.

Attorney-General McCarter has already given it as his opinion that the general repealer of the new act repeals the section of the old act referred to as being a part of "an act inconsistent with" the new law, and gives the latter validity and effect. This is practically the opinion given to the Essex County Board of Elections by County Counsel Munn. An entirely different opinion is held by Congressman Lanning, who is special counsel for Secretary of State Dickinson. Acting on Mr. Lanning's interpretation, which is that the old law is in effect September 11, the assistant secretary of State has issued orders that the old election officers shall assume their duties on September 8, when the primaries are to be held for the special election. Had there been no election until November the issue could not have been raised, for there will then be no question of this kind.

A conference has been appointed at which the Attorney-General and the special counsel to the Secretary of State will carefully consider the matter and will, if possible, reach a concurrent conclusion. It will be advisable to await the result of the conference, notwithstanding the very general sentiment that the Attorney-General of the State is the legal adviser by whom all State officials must be guided. It is claimed that the Secretary of State is, by a recent law, allowed special counsel, but there are those who hold that the opinion of the Attorney-General, who is a constitutional official, cannot be superseded by the opinion of a special counsel.

In some sections of this State the campaign managers have already disentangled this legal knot, or else have more tightly tied it, by obtaining the resignations of the old election officers, with a view to having them reappointed. This has been done under the supposition that all election officers appointed on or before September 1 will receive their power and authority under the new law by its express terms and provisions. This seems at first glance an easy way out of the difficulty, but it may, instead, only add to the complications already under consideration. The matter is too intricate for the lay mind; let the lawyers wrestle with it.—Newark Evening News.

INDIAN SUMMER CARNIVALS AT LUNA PARK, NEW YORK.

Strange people of the East, of the Moon, and North Pole are among the many quaint and curious.

INDIAN SUMMER CARNIVAL

THE WEIRD, WONDERFUL AND BEWILDERING ATTRACTIONS AT LUNA PARK.

Coney Island's Unrivalled and Unprecedented Features Which Amaze the Multitude.

Luna Park's Indian summer carnivals which are to close its first season at that popular seashore resort, Coney Island, promise to outdo anything ever attempted in the outdoor spectacular amusement field. The series of carnivals are to be continued daily until October 1 with a daily change of programme. Even more sensational and daredevil aerial acts than those which at Luna Park have astonished vast multitudes all summer are being arranged for by Frederic Thompson who is now in Europe for that purpose and his associate Elmer S. Dundy who is in charge of affairs at home.

There are to be Japanese day fireworks in the afternoon and regular pyrotechnics at night, with cakewalks, battles of confetti, athletic contests and fetes of all kinds.

A record-breaking September crowd is expected at the island. In anticipation of increased interest from the carnivals the other principal attractions at Coney Island are making active preparations to secure a portion of the patronage. A Trip to the Moon, 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea, Hagenbeck's Trained Wild Animal Show, Chute the Chutes, the Old Mill, the Laughing Mirrors, the Midnight Express, Wormwood's Monkey Circus and all the other leading features of Luna Park will be conducted until the closing on October 1.

These closing days are going to be festive ones according to the plans which are now well matured. There will be actors on the great plazas and terraces representing all quarters of the globe, performing feats which have been devised to amaze and astonish the multitude. Circus acts, balloon ascensions, fireworks, acrobats, chariot races, parades and battles of confetti will be but an insignificant part of the arrangements for the enjoyment of all.

The standing of Luna Park is sufficient guarantee to carry the statement that these Indian Carnivals will be more pretentious than anything ever attempted even there before.

It Is Easy to Say

"Be careful," but we must all go from heated houses into chill outer air, and the change sets us coughing and wheezing. Avoiding winter colds is difficult; curing them is not hard if you take Allen's Lung Balsam. Better begin when the cold is young and not wait until it settles deep into the lungs, for then, even with Allen's Lung Balsam, complete relief will be slower.

SCOTCH PLAINS WON BY SCORE OF 1 TO 0

Defeated St. Mary's Crack Team in a Fine Exhibition of True Baseball.

STORY OF THE WINNER

ORGANIZED THREE YEARS AGO, IT OCCUPIES SOLID POSITION.

Manager Johnson's Successful Efforts to Give Scotch Plains a Good Article of Ball, and How the Community Has Responded.

Fully 1,200 lusty baseball enthusiasts gathered about the Scotch Plains diamond on Saturday and saw the crack St. Mary's team, of Plainfield, go down to defeat before the home team by the score of 1-0. The contest, which was the third of the season between these two teams, was one of the prettiest exhibitions of baseball that one could wish to witness. Hughes and Butler, formerly doing battery work in the National League, were with the visitors, while the locals had "Lefty" Davis and Brogan as battery. Hughes was touched up by the home team for only six hits, but this was accounted for by the support given him, only two errors being made by the visitors, the outfield pulling down what were apparently two base hits, with ease. The support back of him was gilt edge, not an error being made.

One of the fastest ball teams in this section of the State is that known as the Scotch Plains. The nine represents a village of only 1,600 people but every resident of the hamlet is in sympathy with the work of the organization and lends his support to the games by his presence and financial backing.

Three years ago several of the amateur players of the town organized the first team the village ever had, and, by harmonious work of the men and careful training by those who had the guiding reins in their hands the team has been placed among the leading nines of the State. When the greater demands of the game became apparent and it was seen that in order to maintain the prestage already secured, it would be necessary to pay salaries and hire a professional pitcher, the team feared that they would have to disband. A meeting of the residents of the town was held and a good sized sum was deposited in the treasury. With part of this sum bleachers were built on the grounds and the diamond was put in first-class condition.

Encouraged by the strong support of the year before Manager Johnston decided to put a faster game of ball in the field and to practically launch a semi-professional team on the diamond. That season's work was a record breaker. Twenty-six games were played with the fastest teams in this part of the State. Out of that number the team won twenty-three and lost three. This record gave them a standing in the baseball world that but few of the most ardent supporters of the team had hoped for.

At the end of the season '02 it was found that the team had paid for itself and a team for this year was an assured fact, as several hundred dollars were left in the treasury.

The season now dying out was opened with new seats on the Scotch Plains grandstand and new uniforms for the players. The backers instructed Manager Johnston to spare no expense in giving to Scotch Plains the fastest possible ball games.

Following these instructions Manager Johnston secured new men, the pick of the semi-professional diamond, who were added to the star players of the team of '02. Only games with the fastest teams were scheduled. The wisdom of this course is apparent. The season closing has been marked by thirteen victories and six defeats, out of nineteen games played.

The members of the team are "Pete" C. Brogan, catcher, of the Margurites, of Brooklyn; "Lefty" Davis, pitcher, Brooklyn Field Club; George Allen, at first base, has been on nearly all the swift teams of this part of the State; George Bosserli, second base, is from the Y. M. C. A. team, this city; Captain "Chick" Cruzius, whose position at short stop brought him credit, is from Brooklyn; Bellie Williams, third base, is from the Brighton's baseball team. The outfielders are: Flannery, center field: Kavanagh, right field; Conley, left field. The former is a Scotch Plains resident, and Conley comes from the Ridgewood team; Kavanagh formerly played with the Newton Grays. Skeggs, who is a substitute, has played good ball during the season. He hails from the Brighton team. Although the latter has but one arm, he is one of the best players on the team and has surprised many with his clever manner of catching one handed, some difficult flies. Linderman, as understudy to Davis in the box, is from Hoboken and enjoys a National reputation.

Manager Johnston is an old player and needs no introduction to fans in this section of the State. The manner in which he has conducted the affairs of the Scotch Plains team speaks well for him. He has been manager of some of the fastest teams in New Jersey. Secretary and Treasurer Haskard, although not a ball player, has filled his double office with great satisfaction to the members of the team. Town Clerk Edward L. Hand has been playing ball with Scotch Plains for years and even now jumps into a game when it is necessary. William R. Buckley, the hustling press agent of the team, is a graduate of the Twilights for several years, at present being a member of The Daily Press staff.

GLITTERS' LAD MAKES SOME GOOD TIME

All Honors Taken by Local Horses at Race Meet at Driving Park Saturday.

BELLE WINS 2:30 CLASS

SIR ARTHUR WILKES CAPTURES FIRST MONEY IN THE 2:20 CLASS.

A. I. Smalley's Belle Makes a Mile in 2:25—Event at Driving Park a Success—The Officials.

Plainfield took all the honors at the races at the Plainfield Driving Park Saturday afternoon in one of the fastest meetings ever held under the auspices of the Plainfield Driving Association. The winning horses in each case were driven by George Gatlin, of this city, who, in spite of odds displayed wonderful skill as a driver and received an ovation from the great crowd of people assembled. With the track in better condition than it has been in years some good time was made, the best being a mile in 2:20¾ which was accomplished by J. H. Green's Glitter's Lad, a bay gelding in the 2:25 class, driven by Gatlin.

The races were for $150 purses each and included the 2:20, 2:25 and 2:30 classes. In the last A. I. Smalley's Belle, a brown mare, in the third heat in the last race made the circuit in 2:25. This horse was also driven by Gatlin.

The races were called at 2 o'clock and seven horses started in the first heat of the 2:20 class. Bessie D, owned by J. H. Green, of this city, won the three heats handily. The money places were Sir Arthur Wilkes, owned by J. F. Brown, of East View, N. Y.; second, Edgar C., owned by J. B. Osborn, of Oak Tree, N. J.; took third, and Bus, owned by Moses Hand, of Lyons Farms, N. J., took fourth. Time, 2:21¾, 2:21½, and 2:25½.

George Gatlin, driving Glitter's Lad, owned by J. H. Green, Jr., of this city, won three straight heats in the 2:25 class and took first money. Easter Boy, owned by John H. Payan, of Trenton, took second money, Bob Douglass, owned by J. P. Matthews, of Princeton, N. J., took third and Dan. P., owned by I. D. Norton, New Brunswick, took fourth. Time: 2:22¾, 2:20¾ and 2:22.

It took four heats to run off the 2:30 class race. Belle, owned by A. I. Smalley, won the race and took first money; Little Lottie, owned by B. Sweet, Perth Amboy, took second money; Daniel, owned by W. R. Cook, Morristown, N. J., won third money and Minnie G., owned by William Dunn, of Trenton, N. J., took fourth money. Time: 2:27, 2:27, 2:25, 2:27.

There were surprises in store for those who waited until the last race and it was at that time that the best exhibition of horsemanship was made. A. I. Smalley's Belle, whose best time previous to Saturday was only 2:29 made a mile in 2:25. Her driver was dropped back to third place owing to his horse breaking on the last quarter in the last race but by clever horsemanship came in at the wire by almost a length.

The officials of the meet were: Starter, Joshua Rogers, of Brooklyn; judges, Mayor Newton B. Smalley, F. F. Anness and C. P. Rose, of South Amboy and the timers were C. R. Rose, of South Amboy and A. C. Pearson, of South Amboy.

Quits the Circus.

Chris Sorenson, of Webster place, has severed connections with the Barnum & Bailey's circus. Mr. Sorenson joined the circus at Madison Square Garden at the beginning of the season, and has traveled through nearly every State on the continent. The young Plainfielder played a melaphone in the leading band while on street parade, and while the performance was in progress he played a slide-trombone in the ring band. Mr. Sorenson will remain in Plainfield for a few days with his father, Christian Sorenson, of Webster place, when he will take up a position with an orchestra in a New York theatre.

Mr. Ware's Funeral.

The burial of R. Willard Ware, who died Thursday, took place at Hillside Cemetery Saturday afternoon. The funeral services were at the late residence of Mr. Ware, in Second place. Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational Church, officiated. Two selections were sung by Miss Etta Rayburt.

Smith.

This was the programme:

Sweet; medley, "I Wish the Band Would Play," Geary; song, (a), "You're Dad Gave His Life for His Country," Barry and Geary, (b), "Every Morn-I Brings Her Chicken," Barry and Geary, John J. Nestor; patrol, "American," Meachan; selection, "Sultan of Sulu," Ade; descriptive, "A Hunt in the Black Forest," Voelcher; galop, "The Lion Chase," Kolling.

The solos of Albert C. Sweet, cornetist, and John J. Nestor, baritone, received the heartiest applause. "Every Morning I Brings Her Chicken," as rendered by Mr. Nestor, "the little man with the great, big voice," had to be repeated three times. It was estimated that the biggest crowd that ever attended a band concert in the city or borough was present.

AS TO G. F. BROWN'S CANDIDACY FOR CLERK

Non-Committal as to His Position Regarding a Nomination for the Office.

BOROUGH'S ATTITUDE

REASONS GIVEN WHY HE SHOULD NOT ACCEPT NOMINATION.

Somerville Objects to Two North Plainfield Candidates—What is Generally Thought of Matter in Borough.

George F. Brown has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the vacancy in the County Clerk's office caused by the death of Frank W. Somers. It has been said that in the interests of harmony between the two factions in the Republican party in Somerset County, Mr. Brown would accept the nomination.

Mr. Brown is a strong candidate and would ably fill the office. But there are conditions in political circles in Somerset County which would practically prohibit Mr. Brown accepting the nomination. When asked if he will accept such an honor, he declared "he had nothing to say."

North Plainfield Democrats are about to put up for the Assembly again this year, the present incumbent, Samuel S. Swackhamer. If Mr. Brown, who is a Republican consents to run as a candidate for the office left vacant by Mr. Somers' death, it would mean two North Plainfield men would be striving for county honors, which in view of the war which has been waged between North Plainfield and Somerville would be political suicide for either one candidate or the other. It would be laying the cheek of North Plainfield open to the smite of the Somerville Philistines. One or the other would be crushed.

It can not be doubted that Mr. Swackhamer's chances of renomination and re-election to the office of Assemblyman are good. He has made many friends in this city and throughout the county, especially among the farmers and in the coming election he will no doubt poll a large vote. Recognizing this fact the Somerville politicians will have to content themselves with giving North Plainfield one man on the ticket but when it comes to giving the borough an opportunity of election two men (for Mr. Brown would poll a heavy vote in this part of Somerset) they would rise up in their wrath and wreak dire vengeance upon North Plainfield.

This morning Miss Curry, the matron, took all the little ones to New York.

Nervousness Caused the Death of Mrs. Margaret McDonald.

WESTFIELD GIANTS DOWNED BY ALIS NINE

Plainfield Team Wins Exciting Game in the Eighth Inning.

HADY'S GREAT WORK

WESTFIELD BATTERS COULD GET BUT SIX HITS OFF HIS DELIVERY.

Quimby's Exhibition As Second Baseman—Westfield Makes Seven Errors, While Alis is Credited With Two—The Score.

The third of the series of five games between Alis and Westfield was played at Recreation Park, Westfield, Saturday afternoon, when the Plainfield contingent, which was in the majority, rooted and yelled to its heart's content, for Alis won the game, scoring its first victory over the Mt. Aarat aggregation. During the game honors were about even until the eighth inning when the Alis boys, by clever work and good batting, scored four runs, thereby winning by a score of 6 to 4.

Hardy, who has been playing with the Baltimore American League team, under his real name Burchall, occupied the box for Alis. He pitched a strong game throughout and was admirably caught by Gorhmley. Credit should be given to Quinby, the Alis second baseman. He secured a total of five hits and gave one of the best exhibitions of ball playing seen this year. He not only fielded his position to perfection, but at the bat and in base running his work was of the highest order.

Kavanaugh having left the team, a man by the name of Reilly filled the position at short stop, and Clark, a new man, occupied centre field for Alis. Griffen played left field and Barns was in right garden.

While Westfield played an excellent game, their were no brilliant features. A total of seven errors shows that the team was a little ragged in its work. Only six hits were secured off Hardy and these did not come at opportune times.

This is the detailed score of the game:

BULGARIANS SLAIN.

Sixty Thousand Christians Reported Massacred.

BY ORDER OF THE YILDIZ KIOSK

The Entire Districts of Okrida and Leren Said to Have Been Devastated by the Turkish Troops.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 14.—According to information brought by a courier, a force of Albanians, assisted by Turkish regular forces, acting under orders direct from the Yildiz kiosk, massacred the entire Bulgarian Christian population of the Okrida and Leren districts. Terrible descriptions are given of the sights seen there, the soldiers slaughtering men, women and children in every direction, displaying a barbarism never before witnessed.

The number of killed is not given in the courier's dispatches; but, according to reports from other sources, the total number of the victims will reach 60,000.

If these reports are confirmed no doubt exists that the government will be forced to order the mobilization of the army immediately.

The Turkish government is believed to have at the present moment no less than 60,000 soldiers in the vilayet of Adrianople, large bodies of them within ten to fifteen kilometers of the Bulgarian frontier. Confronted with such a situation, it is argued that Bulgaria would be amply justified in mobilizing the First and Second army divisions, the headquarters of which are in Sofia and Philippopolis and which comprise the forces nearest the Turkish frontier.

Very little news is filtering through from Monastir, but all reports agree that the position of the Christians is desperate. The Turks are making a clean sweep of the whole Bulgarian element. The Albanian soldiers in the vilayet of Adrianople are stated to be entirely beyond control. At Kostursco the influential beys complained to the officers of the excesses committed by the troops. The officers resented the criticism and told the soldiers that the beys were friends of the revolutionaries, whereupon the soldiers burned the beys' farms. The Turks have burned the villages of Almagik and Erikler, in the district of Losengrad. They beheaded twenty-two Bulgarians at Almagik in the presence of their families. Twelve thousand troops are assembled around Malkoternovo and are engaged in pillaging and burning the villages.

The population everywhere is fleeing to the forests and mountains. All the Turkish population in the district of Losengrad has received arms, and even the boys have revolvers. The Albanian soldiers proceeding from Odrin to Losengrad plundered the villages en route, robbed the churches and burned the village of Korakej. Another body of Albanians going to Vasiliko, on the Black sea, was attacked by a band and is reported to have suffered a loss of 100 men. A band led by the insurgent chief Atamasoff was surrounded by Turkish troops at Kokushko. After six hours of fighting the insurgents cut their way through the soldiers by throwing bombs. The Turks lost twenty men.

The final arrangements for a revolutionary outbreak in eastern Macedonia have been completed, but for some inexplicable reason the rising hangs fire. The whole district is divided into six sections, the insurgents being under the following leaders: General Zontcheff, Colonel Yankoff, Captain Jordan Stoyanoff and Lieutenants Stoyantcheff, Darvingoff and Atamasoff.

Reports from Beirut say that calm continues there, but trade is at a standstill. Reshid Pasha, the dismissed vali, has left for Constantinople. The European powers have now abandoned their intention of sending war ships to Beirut. The Christian refugees encamped in the mountains refuse to return, in spite of the promise of the authorities to protect them.

Tartarscheff, the chief of the revolutionary committee, states that there was a strong probability of Servia throwing in her lot with Bulgaria against Turkey and that the question of war or no war depended mainly on Servia. Tartarscheff declined to commit himself to details, but admitted that negotiations were proceeding between his committee and Servia and also that the Servian premier lately sent scouts to join the revolutionists in Bulgaria in order to report the latter's progress.

Captain Sarafoff, the brother of the revolutionary chief, has said that it was weeks ago agreed that at the slightest provocation the Servian forces should invade Old Servia and occupy Uskub. It was hinted that Montenegro would also be heard from in Albania and that Turkey would be compelled to divide her forces, thereby much reducing her chances of victory.

The powers are evidently still exerting pressure both here and at Constantinople to avert a Turko-Bulgarian war, apparently with some temporary success, but meantime the increasingly terrible tale of atrocities committed in Macedonia shows that the situation is daily becoming aggravated.

Cotton Says Peace at Beirut.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—A short cablegram came to the navy department from Admiral Cotton, commanding the American war ships in Turkish waters. It announced that matters were quiet in Beirut and added that the governor general of that place who had been deposed as a result of the recent disturbances had started for Constantinople.

AN EXTRA SESSION

Congress Will Meet on Nov. 9 Next.

NO AGREEMENT YET ON FINANCE LAWS

Formal Call Will Not Be Issued Until the Return of President Roosevelt to the White House.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 14.—President Roosevelt after much mature consideration and consultation in person and by mail with senators and representatives has resolved to call congress into session under the present plan on Monday, Nov. 9. It is not expected that the formal call for the session will be issued until after the president has returned to Washington.

Notwithstanding the fact that the suggestion that a session be held in October came from prominent senators, who warmly advocated its adoption, the proposition was not received with favor by members of congress generally. The idea was opposed particularly because it would compel senators and representatives to leave their states and districts in the middle of a campaign, which to many of them was of vital importance.

No agreement has been reached as to the character of the financial legislation which may be enacted at the approaching session of congress. Indeed it is not certain an agreement can be reached between the two branches of congress whereby any special legislation can be enacted. It may be that a solution of the problem, which is alike complex and perplexing, will be reached before the extraordinary session, but even that is by no means assured.

Boy Wantonly Shot Little Girl.

MERIDEN, Conn., Sept. 14.—Calmly remarking that he was going to kill her, Charles Peckham, a boy from the Connecticut School For Boys paroled out to a Westfield farmer named Crowell, deliberately shot five-year-old Gertrude Crowell on Sunday morning. The bullet struck her in the middle of the forehead, and it was only by chance that she escaped instant death. As it is a flesh wound was the only result, which, it is thought, will not be fatal unless blood poisoning sets in. It is supposed that Peckham shot the child in a sprit of revenge.

Auto Plunged Into Canal.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Sept. 14.—An automobile owned by Dr. John Grant Lyman, a wealthy clubman of New York, while running at a rate of fifteen miles an hour went through an open bridge into the Erie canal at the West Genesee street crossing in this city. With Mr. Lyman at the time of the accident were two of his New York friends, Armand W. Brand and W. T. Rynard, both well known in metropolitan club circles, and the chauffeur. Mr. Brand got a broken leg, while the others escaped with a ducking.

Found Dead After Long Search.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Sept. 14.—The discovery of the body of Miss Mary E. Kelliher, aged twenty-four years, solved the mystery surrounding her disappearance on Aug. 25 last. The body was found in Green river, having been buried deeply in the mud by the action of the water. A disordered mind caused Miss Kelliher to take her own life. Since her disappearance more than 100 men and boys have at times been engaged in the search for her.

Burglars Rob Post Office.

STOUGHTON, Mass., Sept. 14.—After blowing open the safe in the post office here burglars escaped with all the cash, amounting to about $40. In addition, a number of registered packages and several letters were rifled, the value of which is unknown. The explosion blew off the safe door, hurling it in pieces across the office, through the letter box partition and into the brick wall of the building, causing a damage of $100.

Alleged Jewel Robbery.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 14.—It is reported here that Rufus Warren, a mulatto, and Narisso Roberts, a Cuban, each about seventeen years old, have been arrested in Petersburg at the home of Warren's grandmother charged with the robbery of diamonds and other jewelry valued at $10,000 from Mrs. J. P. Herter at the Hotel Antoinette, New York city.

Against Reed Smoot.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The National Woman's Christian Temperance union has begun its campaign for the expulsion of Senator Reed Smoot of Utah from the United States senate. Ten thousand letters are being sent from the national headquarters at Evanston to the local branches all over the country with blank forms for petitions to the senate.

Postal Scandal Arrest.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—Dr. Eugene D. Scheble of Toledo, O., who recently was indicted by the federal grand jury here for complicity in the postal frauds, has been arrested in Toledo. He waived a preliminary hearing and was put under $10,000 bail.

To the Summit In a Whis Wagon.

SUMMIT HOUSE, Mount Washington, N. H., Sept. 14.—T. P. Driver of Melrose, Mass., and F. H. Peabody of Boston made the first ascent of Mount Washington in a four horse power gasoline runabout. Time was 3 hours and 20 minutes.

Storm Cut Italy Off.

ROME, Sept. 14.—As a result of terrific storms in the Alps all telegraphic communication was for a time completely interrupted and Italy cut off from Europe and America.

EVERYTHING is in fine fettle. We're ready—yes, splendidly ready—with one of the grandest expositions of bright new Autumn merchandise it has ever been our pleasure to announce, and we extend you an invitation to attend our Third Annual Fall Opening in the new store.

You will find us prepared to fit you out from top-to-toe with the most beautiful creations of the master minds of the world of fashion.

European ingenuity and American skill have combined to make this an event that will long be remembered by Newark folk, and the lessons in economy which we shall teach here during the coming week will be both pleasing as convincing.

You'll come—of course, you'll come—and marvel at the immensity of the display made possible by our far-reaching influence on both sides of the Atlantic, and not the least important feature of this great occasion is our invariable policy of selling on a margin of profit so close to cost as to prove positively that Newark shopping is profitable.

BOER WAR SCANDAL

Rosebery Wants Chief of Staff Superseded.

DENOUNCES BRITISH WAR OFFICIALS

Would Have Kitchener of Khartum Placed In Supreme Command of the Horse Guards and Made Head of War Administration.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—Lord Rosebery has vigorously condemned the cabinet as being severally and individually responsible for the disasters and the ineptitudes in the conduct of the Boer war and advocates a new departure in the military management of Great Britain.

He requests the king to intrust the entire management of the war office to General Lord Kitchener, with the fullest authority to reorganize the present system.

The earl points out that outside her fleet Great Britain does not possess the minimum of national security. He continues:

"With Lord Elgin's report in their hands foreign statesmen may commit the mistake of holding Great Britain cheap. This in itself is a danger, for it means increased risk of war."

Lord Rosebery's severe indictment of the government meets with a great deal of sympathy in the press, but his remedy, although he no longer proposes that Lord Kitchener should become a cabinet minister, is on almost all sides regarded as impossible. The editorials in the papers emphasize the political difficulties in the way of carrying out Lord Rosebery's suggestions, to say nothing of the question of superseding Lord Roberts.

No. 556 Is Dead, Others Injured.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—By a cavein at the Greentree tunnel of the Wabash railroad in Greentree borough one man was killed, two hurt and ten or twelve laborers are missing. Fellow workmen believe the missing are buried under the ten feet of coal, slate, rock and other debris that chokes the tunnel for a distance of fifty-five feet. The officials of the Keneflck company, the contractors in charge of the work, believe that only one man was killed. It will be impossible to tell whether or not the missing are buried until the men, who are known only by numbers, can be rounded up for roll call. The dead man's number is 556, but his fellow workmen do not know his name.

Counterfeiting In Penitentiary.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Following closely upon the exposure of gross irregularities in the cigar department of the Eastern penitentiary came the public announcement that the illegal coinage of minor silver pieces has been carried on by convicts in the big institution. No details of the counterfeiting scheme can be learned from any of the officials connected with the prison or from the government officials that have been assigned to the case. The fact that such a daring scheme had been carried on in the penitentiary was made public by George Vaux, Jr., one of the prison inspectors, who voluntarily made the disclosure.

Court Martial on Crowley Slayer.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 14.—The only development in the matter of the shooting of William Crowley, who was killed by a soldier on duty at the arsenal for the alleged theft of copper from the roof of the building, is that Lieutenant Drury, the officer in charge, has received orders from General Chaffee to prefer charges against the man who fired the shot. A court martial has been decided upon and will probably be held at Fort Niagara, Buffalo. Lieutenant Drury still refuses to divulge the name of the man who did the shooting. Crowley has been buried.

The Kansas City Floods.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 14.—The joint flood relief committee of the two Kansas Cities has practically completed its work. It has distributed $75,400, mostly in cash, to the people of Armourdale and in doing so has helped 4,000 families. The Kansas City relief committee has about $15,000 yet in the treasury, which is being held for the relief of destitute cases this winter. The Kansas City (Kan.) committee has $4,500 for the same purpose. Argentine, Kan., is still without bridge or street railroad connections with Kansas City.

Big Coal Output.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 14.—Anthracite coal to the amount of 5,160,400 tons was produced during August, which is about the same as the previous month, but as compared with August, 1902, when the coal strike was in progress, it is an increase of 4,838,626 tons. For the eight months of the calendar year the shipments have been 42,431,849 tons, an increase over the same period last year of 13,046,000 tons. This increase far exceeds any heretofore made in the anthracite coal trade.

Martin Ebelt Indicted.

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The Westchester grand jury here indicted Martin Ebelt, the nineteen-year-old slayer of Augusta Ebelt, his bride of a year, on the charge of murder in the first degree. When Ebelt was told that he had been indicted he smiled and said that it made no difference to him.

Rural Letter Carrier Officers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—The National Association of Rurdl Letter Carriers in convention elected the following officers: President, F. H. Cunningham, Nebraska; vice president, W. Pitts Woods, Iowa; secretary, W. F. Tumber, New York; treasurer, W. L. Fetters, Indiana.

The last Legislature made just a few mistakes.

Jerome is opposed to Low's renomination on a fusion ticket. Low's friends should use this as a testimonial.

If Tom Johnson would establish some of those three cent trolley lines out in Ohio, he would be saved the expense of automobile repairs.

Just two years ago today William McKinley was assassinated. Though his name has gone down in history as that of a conscientious and able president he will be ever remembered above all as a good man.

The report that Lewis A. Thompson sympathizes with the Elizabeth politicians can not be verified. There has been so much wire pulling up at Somerville that the orders even to Somerset's rural districts are delayed in transmission.

Governor Murphy's appointment of Alexander G. Anderson, of Somerville, as County Clerk of Somerset, comes as no surprise. The selection seems to meet with the general approval of the rank and file of the Republican party.

CONSTITUTIONAL ELECTION REGISTRY

Law Provides a Special Registration for Amendment Election This Month.

JURIST'S EXPRESSION

EXTRACT FROM THE STATE LAW OF SPECIAL INTEREST TO VOTERS.

Boards of Registry and Election to be in Session on Sept. 15, to Make Alterations and Revise List for Special Election.

The registration at the primaries on Tuesday has no relation to the right to vote at the constitutional amendment election to be held on Tuesday, September 22. Many persons are of the opinion that the primary registry is sufficient for the coming special election.

The law provides a special registration for those entitled to vote at the constitutional election.

Judge William M. Lanning, of Trenton, who compiled for the State a pamphlet for instruction to election officers, was asked yesterday:

"Will a registration made Tuesday entitle a voter to cast a ballot at the constitutional election?"

He promptly replied in the negative and then gave his authority for the State law, which will be of special interest to election officers:

Section 6. It shall be the duty of the district boards of registry to make, alter and revise, as the case may require, the registry of voters entitled to vote in their several districts or voting precincts, for use at said special election, in the manner now required by law for general elections; provided, however, that where the election districts or voting precincts have remained unchanged since the last local or municipal election, it shall not be necessary for said district boards of registry and election to make a new registry of the voters in such districts or precincts, but only to revise and correct the registry used at such local or municipal election, and for that purpose the said district boards of registry and election shall meet at the places in their respective election districts or precincts where the said special election shall be held, or at such other places as shall be designated by the clerk of such city, township or municipality, on Tuesday, the fifteenth day of September next, at 1 o'clock in the afternoon of that day, and continue in session until 9 o'clock in the evening, for the purpose of revising and correcting the registry and of adding thereto the names of all persons entitled to vote at said special election who shall appear in person before them and establish to the satisfaction of a majority of such boards that they are entitled to vote in that election district or precinct at such special election, or who shall be shown by the written affidavit of a voter residing in the same district or precinct to be so entitled to vote; a separate affidavit shall be required for each person so registered, which shall contain the address of the affiant and shall be signed by him.

In his book giving instruction to election officers, Judge Lanning says:

"Sept. 15, 1903.

"On this date, between 1 and 9 o'clock p. m., the board of registry and election shall be in session for the purpose of making, altering and revising the registry of voters for the special election to be held on September 22, 1903."

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The baseball fans are beginning to wonder if Westfield is going to back out of that postponed ball game which is scheduled for Saturday of this week on the local diamond. Manager Johnston has played three out of four games on Westfield grounds. Now what more do they want. The fans think the signing of Linderman has cooled Westfield's ardor for more Scotch Plains' blood.

The Amity Club, composed of a number of the young women of the village who enjoy good literature, resumed its weekly meeting Saturday evening. During July and August the club has been dormant, but this fall the members intend introducing something new and of interest at each weekly meeting of the society.

The condition of Mrs. Stites M. Parse, who was injured by a fall nearly two weeks ago, remains about the same. Owing to her advanced age recovery is much slower than her friends would like it to be.

It was a great game and well repaid the local rooters for the long wait for a game on the home diamond. The boys celebrated their month's absence by putting up an errorless game.

The Genuine vs. Counterfeits.

The genuine is always better than a counterfeit, but the truth of this statement is never more forcibly realized or more thoroughly appreciated than when you compare the genuine DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve with the many counterfeits and worthless substitutes that are on the market. W. S. Ledbetter, of Shreveport, La., says: "After using numerous other remedies without benefit, one box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cured me." For blind, bleeding, itching and protruding piles no remedy is equal to DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. Sold by L. W. Randolph.

AMONG MEN IN THE SHOPS

SEEN AND HEARD IN PLAINFIELD'S INDUSTRIAL PLANTS.

Arthur Caleen, of the Aluminum Press Company's plant, visited friends in Elizabeth yesterday.

Thomas Cundy, of the Aluminum Press Company's plant, has returned from a business trip to Buffalo.

Charles Shepherd, of Westervelt avenue, has resigned his position at the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant.

Adolph Koeler, of the Potter Press Cmopany's plant, has returned from a week's vacation, which he spent along the New Jersey coast.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company has plans under way for the construction of a new depot at New Brunswick. The depot will be a two story structure and will cost $60,000.

George E. Martin, formerly shop foreman at the Pedrick-Ayer Company's plant, has received notice from the United States Government office that a patent on a riveting machine has been granted him. The machine is being built at the Pedrick-Ayer plant.

The trouble between the Housesmiths and Bridgemen's Union, of New York, of which Sam Parks has been the controlling factor, and the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, of which it is a part, came to a climax Friday night when National President Buchanan suspended the charter of the New York branch of the Bridgemen's Union.

All the union men employed at the Edison Cement Works at Stewartsville are on strike. The men have struck because a number of the employes of the plant took a day's vacation on Labor Day, when permission to do so had not been granted and thirty-five of these men were discharged. Efforts were made to secure the reinstatement of the discharged men but without success, and as a result a strike was declared.

A large double-planer has been shipped from the Pond Machine Tool Company's plant to the Snow Pump Works, Holyoke, Mass. This is the first machine the company has ever built of the dumble design. There are four uprights and two cross-rails, which face one another, and the feed is operated by one feed box. The reverse speed of the table is run at the same speed as the forward motion, so that a job on the table can be planed at each movement of the table. In a good many machine plants you will fine one man operating two machines, but in this case, it will need two men to run one machine.

THE RENAN STATUE.

Unveiling by French Premier Enraged the Peasantry.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Premier Combes was accompanied at the unveiling of the Renan memorial by Senator Chaumie, minister of public instruction, who delivered a eulogy of Renan; many Republican deputies for Brittany and other personages. The memorial took the form of a bronze statue representing Renan seated in a characteristic attitude, while behind stands a gilded figure of Minerva holding up a sprig of laurel.

Among the decorations around the statue were ornamental mottoes inscribed, "Vive Renan," "Long Live Free Thought," etc., which particularly incensed the Catholics. The latter arranged for an expiatory service in Treguier cathedral to take place at the same hour as the unveiling of the statue, with the participation of Abbe Gayraud and other Clerical deputies.

The Clerical party had thoroughly organized their demonstration, and the peasants from the surrounding villages assembled at Treguier armed with cudgels, accompanied by their women folk clad in the picturesque costumes of Brittany. Some of the bands were headed by the parish priests. The Republican villagers also gathered at Treguier and along the route taken by the premier, and the two hostile parties raised cries and counter cries.

During the ceremony of unveiling the Clericals did their best to drown the voices of the speakers with shouts of "Down with Renan," "Down with Combes," etc., to which the Republicans replied with equally noisy vociferations. The presence of a strong force of troops prevented a free fight between the rival factions. Another demonstration and counter demonstration took place when Premier Combes visited the house in which Renan was born, and during the disorder Baroness Kerpoison was hustled by the crowd. An anti-Clerical who drew his revolver was arrested, while the husband of the baroness was roughly handled.

3. The secretary of state shall be the clerk of this court.

4. When a writ of error shall be brought, any judicial opinion in the cause, in favor of or against any error complained of, shall be assigned to the court in writing; when an appeal shall be taken from an order or decree of the court of chancery, the chancellor or vice-chancellor making such decree or order shall inform the court in writing of his reasons therefor.

5. The jurisdiction heretofore exercised by the supreme court by writ of error shall be exclusively vested in the court of errors and appeals; but any writ of error pending in the supreme court at the time of the adoption of this amendment shall be proceeded upon as if no change had taken place.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

WARM WRAPS.

Coats and Jackets For Mountain and Fall Wear.

The long coat is invaluable for traveling, and for country and bad weather wear it will be found a very useful companion. Covert coating, hopsack and serge are all admirable if endowed with a finish which prevents the material from spotting or cockling with rain. If intended simply for a rain cloak waterproof serge is excellent and is supplied by all the leading manufacturers of serge.

The fronts all hang more or less in a straight line, but some of the sack backs are drawn to the figure by tabs which collect the central fullness just at the waist. Other backs are seamless at the center, but are shaped under the arms, giving a narrower effect to the figure.

Coats of Irish frieze lined with bright plaid silk are useful and smart for late fall mountain wear.

The illustration shows a tailor made costume of gray cloth trimmed with gray and white passementerie. The hat is trimmed with shaded ribbon.

THE WELL DRESSED WOMAN

Autumn Coiffures For Maid and Matron—Checked Materials.

There is no hard and fast rule so far as coiffure is concerned. Large, loose waves are still the fashion, and a good many exclusive women are wearing their hair simply parted and drawn back, without any wave at all.

Young girls are wearing the hair low, with a big black silk or velvet bow behind. For smart occasions in the evening the hair is generally dressed very high, and innumerable tortoise shell pins are worn. The wreath of leaves and flowers is still to be seen, and beautiful jewels are never out of fashion.

For morning wear the short skirt is the proper thing, even in light dresses.

White is still popular in all kinds of fabrics and styles, but with the advent of the fall brown will obtain a greater prominence than it enjoyed even last year.

The smart blouse and skirt of the future must be in one shade.

There is a rage for spotted and checked material made up with plaited waists and skirts.

The cut shows a dinner gown of satin trimmed with a Greek design in narrow velvet. JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Real Daughter of the Revolution

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

"Tush!" the other woman exclaimed; "there are worse things than broken promises. I have seen the Ellerys make fools of themselves many a time to keep their word, and regret it bitterly afterwards. Thank God, I have no silly Ellery traditions back of me. I am a Morgan, and a Morgan is not afraid to break a promise if by so doing greater crimes can be prevented; and what greater crime could there be, Jane, than the perjury of swearing to love and honor this man when you know that you do neither? Think you," she continued, "that I will permit my house to be the scene of such a farce? Never! You must find some other spot."

Bessemer turned with lifted brows to Jane. "If," she said, in answer to his look, "my aunt will not permit us to be married under her roof, she will not, I am sure, drive us from her garden."

She descended the steps as she spoke, glad to get into the open, for even the well-ventilated hall was choking her. Her pride forbade her to make another protest against the keeping of her promise, and she was anxious to have the ordeal over.

Bessemer summoned the chaplain and the higher officers, and with a brief but adroit explanation requested the reverend gentleman to perform the ceremony. That holy man began a hasty search for his book, not being prepared for so startling a demand. Bessemer's brows contracted as the search lengthened.

While they all stood thus, they were startled by shouts coming from the hill where the Ellery mansion had once stood. The shouts were followed by some scattering shots which fell far short, as they were meant to do, of the waiting group. Upon the hill could be seen a gathering of many horsemen.

Officers and men turned eager eyes upon Bessemer. Would he respond to this challenge sent him from that distant point, or would he proceed with his marriage? But Bessemer had been soldier before he was lover, and to do aught but respond was not his nature. With a hasty word to Jane, a ringing command to his men, he leaped into his saddle and dashed towards the eminence. The horsemen whirled about. Their mission was acomplished—to draw him from the Ellery place. Neatly dodging Edward with his pursuing force, they had galloped towards the Elijah Ellery plantation, only to find Bessemer there before them. Worthington, remembering Bessemer's hand in burning Mrs. Ellery's other home and too far off to recognize Jane, had not known but that Bessemer's present mission was a marauding one. To draw Bessemer's attention from the unprotected mistress of the house to themselves was the quick scheme of his companions and himself.

Then began a long chase and a hot one. Bessemer's force was nearly quadruple his opponents', and could he have cornered them it would have meant their extermination; but with their wirier steeds, their knowledge of every hollow and ravine, every rock and crevice, he had only the excitement of the race for his pains; yet it was not in him to give up so long as his wily foes let him keep them in sight, and night overtook him ere he abandoned the pursuit.

Returning disgruntled to the highway, he met a messenger from Cornwallis with an imperative summons to join the main army at once. However great the temptation might have been to tarry long enough to consummate his interrupted marriage with Jane, he was yet too great a stickler for discipline to do otherwise than obey instantly the commands of his chief.

CHAPTER XIV.

HE DID A-WOOING GO.

It was the second evening after the Americans had so cleverly given the British the slip that Capt. Worthington set forth from his father's house. The captain's continental uniform had been laid aside, and he was attired in the most approved riding costume for gentlemen of that day. His high-top boots so shone that you could have used them for mirrors with the greatest ease; his knee-breeches were of finest broadcloth; the frills of his shirt were beautifully pinked, while the playful evening breeze toyed with his open coat just enough to display its rich crimson lining. Those who had seen him two days before would scarce have thought he could turn out such a fop.

When he reached the Ellery place and dismounted to open the great gates which led to the avenue the sun was just sinking behind the strip of woodland to the west, while such of the west windows of the mansion as were closed blushed brilliant red under the ardor of its good-night kiss.

The low branches of the handsome elms bent towards him with murmurous greeting; a toad hopped from out the bordering grass and looked up at him with beady, friendly eyes; a dog came from ground the house and ran towards him with joyously wagging tail and gay bark. All bespoke a gracious welcome. When he reached the front door there was no need to lift the heavy knocker, for Gabriel had caught sight of him from somewhere within and hastened to meet him, while Absalom came to take his horse, a great concession, Godfrey knew.

"Yes, sah, Massa Godfrey, Missy Jane am home, sah," Gabriel declared, too sure of the fact to wait to ask his young mistress about it.

Godfrey, anticipating a better opportunity for private converse with Jane outside, declined the invitation to enter the house and settled himself upon one of the seats which ran along the side of the portico. Lightning-bugs were flashing among the trees of the avenue; a katydid set up a plaint in the wistaria vine beside him; in the dark depths of the woods an owl was hooting. The silence of night was falling, and with it had come the night-sounds.

Gabriel hurried up to Jane's room to announce Godfrey's arrival, and not finding her there hastened with the utmost confidence to Mr. Ellery's sitting room, for at this time in the evening Jane and her stepmother were likely to be with the invalid.

"JANE!" HE CRIED, HOLDING OUT BOTH HANDS.

Gabriel did not know, as the older servants of the David Ellery household knew, that young Worthington was not in favor with Mrs. Ellery.

Jane, who had been reading to her father, let fall the book into her lap at his announcement of Worthington's arrival, while Mrs. Ellery dropped her embroidery. An instant's uneasy silence pervaded the apartment.

"The insolence!" said Mrs. Ellery at last. "How dare he come here in this high-handed manner? And how has he escaped the British? When last we knew of him, he was their captive, only saved by Col. Bessemer's great clemency from being a corpse. No doubt he is now a fugitive, fleeing from them, and relies upon you, Jane, to aid his escape or to hide him here. Was there ever such audactiy? Gabriel, tell the man to be gone; that under no consideration will Miss Jane see him."

Up rose Jane, and laid her book upon the near-by table with an emphatic slap. "You must permit me," she said, looking coldly at her stepmother and for once blind to the nervous frown which had gathered upon her father's brow and to the wistful look which ever came into his eyes at sign of disagreement between her and his wife, "you must permit me to deal with my visitors as I see fit. Gabriel, you may go."

She swept from the room, out into the hall, and half-way down the stairs; and then she stopped—stopped to collect her thoughts; to still the flutter of her heart; to plan her mode of procedure.

THE OLYMPIA EXPLOSION.

Alcohol Was Smuggled by Sailors Into the Navy Yard.

NORFOLK, Va., Sept. 14.—Lieutenant Commander Van Dozer, executive officer of the cruiser Olympia, has given out an official statement of the facts attending the explosion of a barrel of alcohol on the cruiser's deck, causing the death of Marine Corporal J. R. Yerkes of Philadelphia and of Apprentice Seifert and the serious injury of Third Class Master at Arms Caster and Apprentice Spavey in addition to the burning of the cruiser's forward awnings and awning supports. The explosion resulted directly from the smuggling of alcohol into the navy yard by members of the cruiser's crew.

The statement of Lieutenant Commander Van Dozer says:

"The entire crew of the Olympia were returning aboard after forty-eight hours shore liberty when a five gallon water breaker full of alcohol was discovered in the forward turret. The executive officer at once ordered a thorough search of the ship and yard in her vicinity to find any other spirits that might have been smuggled. As the cruiser is in dry dock all her small boats are lined along the wharf near the dry dock. Between two of these boats two men were discovered. One fled and escaped in the darkness. The other was placed under arrest. Where the men were hiding was found a full barrel of alcohol which had been broached. It was by order carried aboard the Olympia to be emptied into the alcohol tank on the aft deck.

"This tank being full, the barrel was carried forward by Corporal Yerkes, Seifert, Spavey and Caster. In the meantime the crew was called to quarters and every man accounted for.

"While the men were in line answering the roll the detachment with the barrel began pouring its contents into a tank on the port side of the forward turret. They had scarcely begun when in a manner yet to be ascertained the fumes of the spirits became ignited and exploded with terrific force. Both ends of the barrel were blown out, followed by a torrent of burning alcohol that spread in a flood of flames over the forward main deck.

"Yerkes was struck in the head by a stave from the barrel and fell into the burning mass. He was roasted to death. The other men were struck by flying fragments of the barrel. But were knocked away from the center of the fire, and thus two of them escaped fatal injury, but Seifert was horribly burned.

"It was at first thought a tank of smokeless powder had exploded, and the crew for a moment broke ranks, but in a second recovered from the suddenness of the shock and turned to with a will to save their injured shipmates and extinguish the fire that already was gaining headway on the cruiser's deck. This done, the injured men were hurried to the Marine hospital, where Seifert died not long after. The other two, it is thought, will recover."

Rain Damages Northwest Wheat.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 14.—It is almost impossible to estimate the amount of damage done to the northwest by the rains. At Minneapolis the fall reached five inches, and throughout the northwest, according to reports received by grain men, the fall was almost as heavy. Millions of bushels of wheat which under ordinary circumstances would have been graded high is so reduced in quality by the rains that it will, according to some estimates, sell for from 10 to 25 cents less a bushel on account of the storm.

Russia Holds on to Manchuria.

PEKING, Sept. 14.—Russia has presented the Chinese government a new scheme for evacuating Manchuria, further prolonging the time for the evacuation, originally fixed for Oct. 8, and proposing certain new conditions in addition to most of the conditions included in the last scheme. Russia now proposes to evacuate Neuchwang and Mukden province Oct. 8, Kirin province four months later and the third province a year later.

Expedition Was Unsuccessful.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 14.—On the steamer Mariposa, which has arrived from Tahiti, were several members of an expedition which sailed in search of treasure alleged to be buried on Cocos island. They were unsuccessful in finding the hidden gold and silver, the value of which has been estimated as high as $100,000,000.

New Yorker a Supposed Suicide.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Sept. 14.—A man supposed to be H. S. Coates of New York is believed to have committed suicide by drowning in the Wallkill river at Midway Park, near here. His clothing was found on the bank, with a note bidding farewell to the world. Search is being made for the body.

Plague at Marseilles.

ROME, Sept. 14.—The French government having officially communicated the presence of plague at Marseilles, the Italian government has ordered the sanitary measures of protection established by the international conference at Venice to be put in force.

Borrows Was Kicked to Death.

NORWICH, N. Y., Sept. 14.—In a fight at McDonough Tracy H. Borrows was kicked to death by Frank Gole, whom Borrows had just shot in the neck with a revolver. Borrows had accused Gole of escorting his wife to the Greene county fair.

Miss Anthony Golf Champion.

CHICAGO, Sept. 14.—Miss Bessie Anthony has won for the fourth time the title of western woman golf champion by defeating Miss Mabel Higgins, the runner up, 3 up, 2 to play, on the Exmoor links.

POLITICAL NOTES.

A personal friend of Congressman Fowler said today that the latter had had no intimation of the bolt planned by the local Republican delegates until after the deed was done.

When a man approached Senator Kean Saturday to congratulate him on his victory, the Senator said, "Tut, tut, don't say that," and turned away.

Kean men in Elizabeth believe that had Congressman Fowler been home from the West, he would not have allowed the Plainfield delegates, who are professedly his followers, to have bolted the convention.

William N. Fowler, of Elizabeth, a popular Democrat, is mentioned for an Assembly nomination. When Mr. Fowler was questioned this morning as to whether he was a candidate for the Assembly on the Democratic ticket, this is all he would say: "If there is any painting to be done along the line, I'm a candidate for the job." That was all the satisfaction that would be obtained from Mr. Fowler.

Editor, The Daily Press:

Alis refused to play the Orange football team unless there is $50 wagered on the result of the game. I had an interview with Manager Harold Chandor, of the Alis eleven, Saturday morning. He stated that his team played two games with the Orange Field team last year, and they were both practice games. I will acknowledge that the first game was a practice game, but deny that the second game was such. The first game we played was at the opening of the season, and could be called a practice game. The second game was played on the first Saturday of November, when all teams should be in the best of condition. The game was played in rain, and it is not likely that a practice football battle would be fought in the rain.

Mr. Chandor stated that the Alis team would play no practice game this season, that may be true, but we are not looking for practice game, we are looking for the real article of snappy football.

Manager Chandor also stated that he did not want to play "school boys." The Orange Field team may be light for the Alis eleven, but they play fast, snappy football. Alis last year had several college men playing with them, and this year it is understood that only club members can play on the team. That is what gave us hope of winning from them this season, as they haven't got the material in the club with which to duplicate last year's team. We held them down in a hard fought battle last season, they scored three touch-downs, while we made one. The score was 16-6.

The Orange eleven will be heavier than that of last year, out team averaged 126 pounds, while this season we average 133 pounds.

Manager Chandor offered to play my team for a $50 side bet on the result of the game, the winning team to take 50 per cent. of the gate receipts, and $100. My team will not gamble on the result of any game as long as I am manager.

In my letter to the Alis A. A. I offered them 52 per cent. of the gate receipts and a stage to the field, the same as I am offering any other eleven. As this was not agreeable, I offered them one half of the gate receipts. I also offered to play them on their grounds under the same conditions. I was refused a game until I would wager $50.

Signed, Harry Clifford Smith,
Manager Orange Field Club Football Team.

LAWYERS ON AMENDMENTS

STATE BAR ASSOCIATION'S STATEMENT TO THE VOTERS.

Reasons From the Barristers' Standpoint Why People Should Ratify Constitutional Change.

An address to the bar of New Jersey, containing arguments in support of the constitutional amendments to be voted upon at a special election Sept. 22, has been issued by the committee of the State Bar Association appointed at the recent annual meeting to prepare a statement thereupon. The address is in part as follows:

"It is charged that a new Court of Appeals is being created. This is not true; the effect of the amendment is to provide for the appointment of a new set of judges to do the work of the Appellate Court now that the work has grown sufficiently to occupy their time.

"If these amendments are adopted, the Supreme Court Judges will have sufficient time to do all the Circuit Court business, and the State may be relieved from the compensation paid the three Circuit Judges now in office, amounting to $22,500 a year. It will also be saved the amount paid to the six judges specially appointed averaging from $12,000 to $15,000 a year, or a total of possibly $37,500, so that the additional cost to the State will be a small matter.

"The chief purpose of the amendments is to relieve the congestion of business in the higher courts and so arrange the judges that full consideration may be given to every cause. No change is proposed which will affect the constitutional rights of person or property, for the amendments relate principally to the application of remedies in a similar and more expeditious manner.

"Some change will have to be made. More judges are required to do the work, and it is a question between appointing more Supreme Court Judges, thus making the Court of Appeals still more unwieldy, or instituting a separate Court of Appeals.

"The plan proposed is to divide the work; have five Judges devote their time to the careful hearing and consideration of causes on final appeal, while the others do the Supreme Court work, try cases at circuit, hear motions for new trials and decide the important questions of law brought before them by certiorari, mandamus, etc. The Court of Appeals as thus constituted will be able to give its whole time to appellate work and can sit every month, if need be, allowing counsel full time to argue their causes, with opportunity to consider fully and decide promptly.

"That the Vice Chancellors should be constitutional officers is also a necessity. The whole scheme of the Vice Chancellorships as now carried out is a makeshift to give necessary relief to the court, without violating in terms the present constitutional requirements, that the Court shall consist of a single Chancellor.

"The proposed amendments will accomplish some important results; they will change the present cumbersome and complicated court to a small one, similar to that which has been adopted in all of the most progressive States of the Union. They will give us a Court of Appeals whose Judges are unconnected with any other court, and a Court that can give its whole time for hearing and deliberation, and thus avoid congestion of business and delay in its decisions."

Asylum for Inspiring Politicians.

Mr. Charles Sulzer, brother of Congressman Sulzer, tried twice to get elected to the New Jersey Assembly from Union County, but though he was opposed by men of only ordinary intelligence he was defeated each time. He then went West and was at once elected Mayor of the town of Sulzer, in Alaska. There seems to be plenty of room in the wheat fields of Kansas and the political fields of Alaska for young and aspiring politicians. It is far better to go out there and be somebody at once than to wait in the East for the shoes still worn by men who should long ago have shed them.—Exchange.

CROWDED CONDITION CALLS FOR CHANGES

Borough Board of Education Besieged by Boys Begging for Betterment.

SCHOOLING SOLICITED

SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS TAXED BY GREATLY INCREASED ENROLLMENT.

No Pupils Being Received Now—Applicants' Names Placed on Waiting List—Steps Taken for Relief.

Because there is no room for the large number of children who are clamoring for admission to the North Plainfield schools, no more pupils are being received. All who apply, however, have their names enrolled on the list of children who are waiting for admission, and, as soon as accommodations can be made for them, they will be given a place. There are many children in the borough who should be in school but who can not be taken because every room in the school buildings across the brook is filled to its greatest capacity. It is said that never before has there been such a large enrollment of pupils.

The Borough Board of Education is thoroughly familiar with this condition and is considering ways and means for providing room for the children who are eager for an education but who can not be accommodated. Before the schools closed last year the matter was brought up before the Board at a regular meeting and portable school houses were discussed as a means of accommodating the large increase of pupils of school age.

In speaking of the matter yesterday morning, Superintendent Homer J. Wightman, said to a reporter for The Daily Press, that while there is an unusually large number of pupils in the entering classes this year in both schools, there was a noticable increase in the number of pupils who are entering some of the more advanced grades.

This is, in a measure, due to the crusade of last year against truancy which was inaugurated by Samuel Townsend, a member of the Board of Education. At the next meeting of the Board it is probable that definite steps will be taken with a view to relieving the crowded condition of the school and accommodate those who have been unable to enter school with the others.

CAUGHT WITH STOLEN GOODS

NEW BRUNSWICK MAN TOOK CLOTHING FROM STORE.

Slick Individual Detected by Geo. W. Bird—Placed Under Arrest.

A remarkably slick man in need of a coat and vest stepped into Schwed Brothers clothing store on East Front street this morning at about 10:30 o'clock and began to examine the garments exposed for sale on the tables. Apparently unsatisfied with the exhibit he sauntered carelessly out of the store and strolled slowly up towards the Somerset street corner. Lawyer George W. Bird noticed the man coming from the store and also saw an unusual protuberance under his arm. He suspected that something was wrong and communicated his suspicion to the police.

Patrolman Flynn was sent out on the case and caught his man on Somerset street with a valuable coat and vest under his own coat. He was taken to headquarters where he gave the name of James Kelly, of New Brunswick. The remarkable thing about the disappearance of the garments was that they were taken in plain view of a storeful of purchasers without anyone in the place imagining that anything was wrong.

The total number admitted during the month was thirty-seven, of which number thirty-five were discharged cured and two were reported improved. The plans of the architect of the new building, Evarts Tracy, were discussed in detail by the Board. It is reported that the resources of the hospital were taxed to the utmost to accommodate all the applicants for treatment.

PERMIT TO MOVE BUILDING REFUSED

Protesting Park Residents Succeed in Preventing Sebring's Contemplated Action.

MUST NOT USE STREETS

BOROUGHITES SUCCESSFUL OBJECTION AGAINST LOCATING BUILDING THERE.

Sebring Aimed to Move Dwelling From This City to North Plainfield—Council Without Power to Grant a Permit.

Charles P. Sebring was denied a permit to move a building from Plainfield into North Plainfield at the special Borough Council meeting held last evening when the residents of the park were given an opportunity of voicing their opinion regarding the erection of a proposed building at the corner of Grove street and Prospect avenue. The plans showing the scheme of the petitioner in remodeling the building when it has been moved to the site selected, was presented for the benefit of the members of the Council, but, in spite of the fact that the building would, in a measure, harmonize with the residential buildings in that locality, every Councilman voted against it. Charles Matthews, representing many of the property owners of the park, made a strong plea against the granting of the permit.

All the members of the Council were present. Mayor Smalley stated in the opening of the meeting that he and Councilman Arnold had been requested to grant a permit for the removal of the structure at 827 West Front street to the corner of Grove street and Prospect avenue. The opinion of Corporation Counsel Charles A. Reed was first heard. He said that a street was the passage of people whether as pedestrians or in carriages and that, as far as he knew no Council has the power to grant a permit for the removal of any house along a public thoroughfare. He said that Councils have granted permits but he believed that there was no law which gave them that power. It could be prohibited on the grounds that a house in the street was an obstruction and a menace to health. The law says that a street cannot be obstructed. Councilman Northrup cited a case in Morristown where a person, moving a house on the public streets, was indicted and made to pay a fine of $250 for such an offense.

Mayor Smalley said that in his opinion there were two sides to the story. The request made by Mr. Sebring would ordinarily be granted. Mr. Sebring is a taxpayer in North Plainfield and is favorably known as a property owner and a builder of houses. In this case it is a question as to whether or not it will be an improvement to the property in that locality. The plans submitted, he said, are satisfactory if carried out. He admitted that the lot was the proper size on which to erect a single house to good advantage but in this case a man has purchased a piece of property with a financial end in view and he must look to his own pocket. The Mayor pointed out that the lot is surrounded by desirable houses, which, if the proposed structure was erected, might be lessened in value and he questioned if the construction of the building would increase the value of the property in that neighbor hood. He said he was anxious to oblige Mr. Sebring but he did not care to do so at the expense of others.

Mr. Northrup said he did not think the matter was one for the Common Council of North Plainfield but one between the grand juries of Union and Somerset Counties. Mr. Nichols said he noticed that the cellar dug for the house which was to be moved to the place extended out beyond the house line of other houses in that block and said that he would be inclined to vote against the granting of the permit on the ground that it was unfair to the other property owners on that block.

Mr. Sebring was given an opportunity of stating his side of the case and said: "I have little to say to this Council regarding how much I intend to spend. It is not for me to ask this Council for anything except a permit to move my building; neither is it necessary for me to state what I wish to do with my property. It has been said that the cellar line is dug beyond the house line of other buildings on the block. It is in a line, as near as it could be placed, with the row of

RECALLS A TRAGEDY

THERESSA WATSON, SHOT BY WILLIE JAMES, ONE OF THE CHILDREN.

Marital Difficulties Led Mother to Forsake Her Young—Husband Now in Jail—Returns to Make Children Happy.

The last chapter in one of the most stirring juvenile tragedies ever enacted in Somerset County was closed this morning when the brothers and sister of the victim, Theressa Watson, who was shot by her little playmate, Willie James, were taken by their mother, to Washington. She has provided a good home for them where they can live down the disgrace of their father and start their young lives anew.

For almost a year before the borough was startled by the shooting Mrs. Watson had been missing. No one knew of her whereabouts. Family troubles led her to leave home and her loved ones. She was heard from at the time of the shooting. Today she will take them to Washington, to her new home.

Samuel Watson, the eldest son, who has, by his industry and upright character, won for himself the respect of the community in his efforts to live down the disgrace of his father, will leave with his brothers and sisters this afternoon.

GAMEWELL SYSTEM BILL ORDERED PAID

Common Council Disposes of a Batch of Routine Business at Adjourned Meeting.

READVERTISING BIDS

FOREMEN IN FIRE DEPARTMENT TO BE KNOWN AS CAPTAINS.

Acceptance of Invitation to America Municipal League Convention—Policeman's Resignation Accepted—Other Business.

Business of only a routine nature was considered by the Common Council at its adjourned meeting held last evening, nothing of any great importance being presented. All the members excepting Councilmen Pray and Murphy were present, but they were anxious to get through with the business on hand as the high temperature had a depressing effect.

A petition was received from the Gamewell Police Patrol Company, stating that the system installed in this city by the company has now been in perfect working order for thirty days, inspected by Charles W. Runyon, chosen for that work, and accepted by the police board, and a request was made for the $6,025, the amount set fourth in the contract for the installation of the system.

Chairman Randolph, of the Police Board, reiteritated the statement in the petition and he moved that the bill of $6,025 be paid. The motion was adopted.

The American Municipal League, as in former years, invited the members of the Council to attend the annual convention to be held in Baltimore soon. The invitation was accepted and filed. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported that during the past month sixteen permits were granted. Dr. Chas. B. Lufburrow, city, presented his report for May, June, July and August and the same was filed.

Mr. Daniel reported on the petitions of Benjamin LaVere and Louis McIntosh, in which the latter asked the Council to make an appropriation of money for a series of band concerts. He recommended that the petitions be refused as they could not be considered when the annual budget was made up. This recommendation was concurred in.

Mr. Tolles stated that Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh advised that bids for macadamizing certain streets in the city be re-advertised for, inasmuch as there was not a quorum present at the last regular meeting and only one bid was received at that time. In accordance with this advice, Mr. Tolles offered a resolution providing for the advertising of bids and fixing Monday evening, October 5, at 8 o'clock as the time when such bids shall be received. The resolution was adopted.

Regarding the proposed extension of Dunellen avenue from the city into North Plainfield, Mr. Tolles explained that he understood that Mayor Smalley, of the borough, favored the plan and that one of the largest property-owners in the borough affected by the improvement, also favored it. He offered a resolution providing that the corporation counsel prepare a route for the extension and cause a map of the same to be made. This resolution was adopted.

George W. Lunger offered his resignation as a patrolman, explaining his reason for so doing that it was on the advice of his physician. The resignation was accepted.

On June 1, last, Mayor Jenkins appointed Sylvanus Hoffman a call man in the fire department to take the place of Alexander Muir, resigned, and last evening the Council confirmed the appointment.

ELECTION BOARD'S ACTION

COUNTY'S OFFICERS SEND OUT LAST YEAR'S REGISTRY LISTS.

Books to be Used to Transfer Voters Names for Special Election Next Week.

At a meeting of the County Board of Election, held at Elizabeth yesterday, the question regarding the holding of the registration to be taken today for the special election to be held October 22, was fully discussed.

As under the new law under which this special election is to be held the registration must be independent of the registration for the November election, the Board decided to send out at once to the various election officers in Elizabeth, old books for last fall's registry, which must be used at today's registration.

It is understood that the election officers are permitted to transfer from the old books the names and addresses of voters who are known to be positively residing in the ward and entitled to vote.

Under direction of Clerk of the Election Board S. R. Ryno, the books were delivered yesterday.

In other districts throughout the county the books required were procured from their respective city or township clerk.

SUSPECTED OF TAKING MONEY

SUM DISAPPEARED FROM TROUSERS POCKET DURING FIRE.

Chief Marshal Campbell at Work on Case—North Plainfielder Suspected.

A serious charge may be preferred against a well-known North Plainfielder in connection with the fire at the home of Peter Marky on Vine srteet, Friday morning. The case is being worked up by the police and it is probable that further developments will be forthcoming in a few days.

During the fire, some one, it is alleged, rifled the pockets in a pair of trousers in the room in which Mr. Marky had been sleeping. It is charged that $40 in bills disappeared. It was thought strange that the side of the trousers in which the money had been deposited was burned almost entirely away while the other side was practically intact. This circumstance led to an investigation and suspicion fell on a young man who was present at the fire, and who was in the building some time before the apparatus of either company arrived.

Chief Campbell, when seen this morning, would have nothing to say about it and none of the firemen in the borough would discuss the matter. It is probable that arrests will be made.

COURT'S MERCY.

Judge Runyon Temporarily Releases Sentenced Woman Whose Child is Dying.

The case against five colored people charged with being disorderly by fighting Saturday night, adjourned from yesterday, was brought up before City Judge Runyon this morning. Mrs. John Scott was sentenced to forty days in the County jail for assault upon Henry Lewis, the trouble growing out of Lewis's refusal to pay his rent. Others who participated in the fray, Joseph Pritchard, John Scott, Anna Jones and Page Finney, were discharged with severe reproof. Lewis was also released on suspended sentence. As it was represented to the court that Mrs. Scott was needed at home for the care of a critically ill baby she was allowed to go for a few days at least, with the prospect of serving her forty days as soon as the condition of her child permits. Lewis was represented by Walter L. Hetfield and Mrs. Scott and Pritchard by S. S. Swackhamer.

C. W. M'CUTCHEN'S BIG GREENHOUSES

Workmen Engaged in Constructing Four Large Buildings for Plant Cultivation.

LARGEST IN VICINITY

LOCATION OF HOUSES IN REAR OF RESIDENCE ON ESTATE.

Standard Type of Palm House—Separate Building for Orchids Heating Apparatus—Some of the Arrangements.

Without doubt the finest and most complete range of greenhouses to be found in this vicinity and probably the entire State, are now nearing completion for Charles W. McCutchen at his home on Rockview avenue. They are being constructed by the Pierson-Sefton Company, of Jersey City, and N. F. Hallenbeck is the foreman in charge of the work. There are three Plainfield men included among those at work on the job which was started some time ago.

The range consists of a palm house thirty by thirty, with a vestibule entrance five feet three inches by eight feet three inches, an orchid house nineteen feet by twenty-four feet, a cool house, nineteen feet by twenty-four and a work room building, with cellar under the same, fourteen by twenty. The construction of the palm house is of the Pierson-Sefton Company's improved standard iron type and the construction of the orchid and cool houses are of the same company's patent "U" bar type and the entire range is provided with the latest and best improvements. There will be sufficient pipe placed in the palm house to maintain a temperature of from fifty-five to sixty degrees, the orchid house sixty degrees, the cool house fifty to fifty-five degrees in zero weather.

In the construction special woods are used in the interior arrangement considered best for the successful growing of all kinds of plants, flowers and palms, and provisions are made for a potting room, a strong feature in the cultivation of flowers. Of course, the proper amount of glass covering for the tops of the greenhouses is allowed and here a special manufacture of glass is used. The range is directly back of Mr. McCutchen's residence and near the location of the old greenhouses which have outlived their usefulness and capacity. Both Mr. and Mrs. McCutchen are especially fond of the cultivation of flowers and palms and it is for the purpose of having more room, with the latest approved type of greenhouse that this improvement is made.

BETTERING SERVICE.

Old Cars on Netherwood Line Replaced by New Ones.

The property owners in Netherwood are rejoicing in that the old cars which jogged along in a most uncomfortable manner have been taken off that line and replaced by cars of the large double truck type which run between Dunellen and Netherwood. The roadbed along the entire route has been repaired and put in better condition and the work of repairing the overhead wiring has practically been completed. Superintendent of this division, Phillip Maguire, said to a Daily Press reporter that special attention has been paid to the lines in this city and it is the company's intention to still further improve them.

He will be unable to use the hand for a few days.

Already enjoying the reputation among machinists of being one of the most up-to-date shops in this section of the State, the Pond Machine Tool Company has recently installed at its plant in the western end of the city a large electric light and power plant to augment the one installed there several years ago. With the installation of the new machinery it has become necessary to enlarge the engine room to some extent. The firm has installed a 154 horse power direct connected 100 kilowatt generator. This will be used for the purpose of operating the huge electric cane and lighting the mammoth plant. It is said that the company plans to install some electrically driven tools, such as riveting machines, drills and to operate the lathes and other tools by electricity.

A BULGARIAN NOTE

Prince Ferdinand's Address to the Great Powers.

THE TURKISH ARMY IS MOBILIZED.

Appeals to the Humane Sentiment of Europe to Prevent the Continuance of the Massacres and Devastations In Macedonia.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Sept. 15.—The Bulgarian government through its foreign representatives has addressed a note to the great powers declaring that the porte is systematically devastating Macedonia and massacreing the Christian population. Further, it says, Turkey has mobilized her whole army, which cannot possibly be for the sole purpose of suppressing the revolution. Therefore the Bulgarian government appeals to the humane sentiment of Europe to prevent the continuance of the massacres and devastation and to stop the mobilization of the Turkish army. The memorandum concludes with the plain statement that unless the powers intervene Bulgaria will be forced to take such measures as she may deem necessary.

PRINCE FERDINAND.

The Bulgarian ministry, there appears to be little doubt, in face of the strongest pressure from within and without has endeavored to maintain strict neutrality, but it appears very possible that the government may now depart from this position.

Latest reports show that the situation here is growing more serious owing to reports that the Turkish troops are slowly nearing the border. If their advance continues there will be a general mobilization of the Bulgarian forces, preparatory to meeting eventualities.

A Russo-Austrian note to the powers is now under consideration. It sets forth that in the event of hostilities between Turkey and Bulgaria, Russia and Austria will not give their support to either of the parties, but will hold each of them to a strict accountability for their actions. It is expected that France will adhere to the Russo-Austrian attitude.

Warned by previous disastrous experiences, the revolutionary leaders have decided to adopt only guerrilla tactics in eastern Macedonia. The policy of occupying towns and villages has proved a mistake, as it has usually resulted in Turkey reoccupying the villages, destroying everything and killing the inhabitants, the insurgents being hampered in their operations by the women and children. A guerrilla warfare is expected to exhaust the Turks much sooner, while the unhampered bands can move more easily and more rapidly. It is hoped that the new tactics will result in the women and children being spared unnecessary dangers.

The insurgents now have nearly 2,000 men armed with rifles in eastern Macedonia, and thousands of peasants are ready to join their forces when a general rising has been proclaimed. This step is being delayed until the supply of rifles, cartridges and dynamite is received. New bands aggregating 1,600 men are reported to be on their way to the frontier. The Turkish forces now in eastern Macedonia are estimated at 17,000.

In the conflicts in the mountains of Pirin the Turks are reported to have lost heavily in dead, while a great many were wounded. The peasants are welcoming the insurgents everywhere with the greatest enthusiasm. The bands are experiencing great difficulty in obtaining arms. It is believed that not a single rifle can be found in Sofia outside the garrison.

The Bulgarian government has protested against Austria's action in intercepting the 10,000,000 cartridges ordered in Hungary, for which money has been paid to the contractors.

A panic prevails in the town of Veles. The soldiers permit no one to leave Veles, and the peasants in the surrounding villages have all been killed and their villages destroyed. Complaints made to the civil and military authorities have been without avail.

Severe fighting has occurred near the town of Okrida, in which the Turks lost heavily, but the bands were forced to retire. An engagement between the Turks and insurgents has taken place at Ribartzi, near Kitschevo, and there again the Turks had many killed and wounded. The villages of Tzetina and Skotchivir, in the same district, have been destroyed and their inhabitants massacred.

A dispatch from Rila says 200 fugitives from Razlog, province of Seres, accompanied by a Russian sister of charity, have crossed into Bulgaria.

The insurgents have annihilated a Turkish battalion at the village of Roupel, in the defiles of the Struma, near Demir-Hissar.

The Turkish force employed to "drive" the Yenidje district has been increased from eight to eleven battallons. The Prizrende battalion, which had become notorious for its misconduct at Kirk Kilisse, has been disbanded and the men banished to their homes.

Orders have been received to watch carefully over the security of the American missionaries at Salonika, because it is said that the Bulgarians, with a view to provoking energetic intervention on the part of the United States, are meditating an attack on them.

While it is possible that a Turko-Bulgarian war may even yet be averted, the probabilities of such an encounter were never greater than at the present moment. The recent note to the powers, the most decided step yet taken by the principality, was dictated not only by the alarming reports of wholesale massacres and devastation daily arriving, but even more by the indifference of the powers toward the severity of Turkey's repressive measures. People here consider that the anxiety of the powers seems to be manifested chiefly in repeated admonitions to the porte to suppress the revolution with all speed and energy possible.

Telegrams from Constantinople assert that the ambassadors have urged the sultan's government to suppress the insurrection without any considerations of mercy and not to hesitate to burn and destroy the villages or take any other steps which might be deemed necessary.

A diplomatist who holds a high position in Bulgaria has stated that Bulgaria wishes a war with Turkey. For this purpose the explosions on board the Hungarian line steamer Vaskapu were caused. They were intended to take place when the vessel was at Constantinople in order to bring about a massacre of the Bulgarians by the Turks, and it was hoped that this massacre would lead to intervention by the powers. The plan, however, failed owing to the delay in the departure of the steamer from Varna.

Turkish Ambassador Thrashed.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—Djeved Abdullah Bey, the physician to the Turkish embassy here, attacked and thrashed the Turkish ambassador, Nedim Bey, whom he accused of sending unfavorable reports concerning him to the porte, thereby preventing the latter from securing a better position. The assault took place in the Turkish embassy in the presence of the secretaries and a visitor. The affair has created a sensation. Djeved has been dismissed.

Roumanian Students Riot.

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Sept. 15.—The university students at a meeting here protested against the atrocities perpetrated by the revolutionary bands and Turkish troops upon Roumanians in Macedonia. After the meeting the students made a hostile demonstration before the Ottoman legation and Bulgarian diplomatic agency. The police interfered and dispersed the students, a number of whom were arrested. Much excitement prevails.

Trouble on Turko-Servian Line.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—Dispatches from Ristorac, Servia, report fresh invasions of Servian territory by Albanian troops. The Turkish commissioner asserts that Servian bands crossed the frontier, but were driven back by the Turks. Fights are reported to be continuing along the Turko-Servian frontier.

Danish West Indies.

ST. THOMAS, D. W. I., Sept. 15.—The press here is gratified at the idea of the colony being represented in the Danish parliament, as has been proposed by the Danish West Indian commission, but regards the formation of one colonial council for the three Danish islands as a retrograde step which was found unsuitable fifty years ago.

Firemen's Labor Union.

PITTSBURG, Sept. 15.—It is learned that the Pittsburg firemen have secretly organized a union and will receive a charter from the American Federation of Labor. The organization starts with 550 members, and the intention is to follow with the unionizing of the Allegheny fire department.

Storm Causes Death at Tampa.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 15.—Telegraphic communication with Tampa has been restored. One life, that of Louis B. Boron, was lost there. The property damage is heavy. Apprehension is expressed for two steamers which left here for New Orleans and Mobile.

Boiler Makers Strike.

ALLENTOWN, Pa., Sept. 15.—The boiler makers' union have declared a strike for increased wages in three big shops in this city. The demand is for 35 cents an hour for a nine hour day. Three hundred men are affected. Some shops paid off their men and closed the works.

A Railroad For $75,000.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 15. — The Perry County railroad was sold here at public auction for $75,000. The purchaser was a local attorney, who declined to say whom he represented, but it is believed the road was bought by the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., Sept. 15.—The steamer E. N. Graham, with the Newfoundland supreme court aboard, ran on the rocks near Little Bay. The judges and court officials were rescued from their perilous position by boats from the shore.

September TRADE SALE!

The most extraordinary of all great retailing achievements—a sale of such magnitude, of such money-saving import, that the necessarily meagre details given here, and special lots cited, can only serve to whet interest and convey some slight idea of innumerable price advantages to be gained. During the last few weeks many huge and remarkable deals have been made with prominent makers and importers, which have put us in a position to completely upset every big-value giving precedent. Investigate our offers, compare them with the best of similar selling events gone, and only one conclusion is possible. Equally great bargains have never been offered before at a season's beginning. It is clearly a mistake to defer selection—every hour counts scores of opportunities lost, and the allurements of aisle tables alone are enough to incite tremendous buying activity from door-opening time this morning until the last bell tap Saturday night. Mail orders will be filled as far as possible, but the only guarantee against disappointment is insured to those who are among the ones to reach here early.

Latent Color in Marble.

In a piece of white marble there is, apparently, no latent color. But marble will not remain white. It usually contains a trace of iron which oxidizes in time, and gives the stone a soft russe tone. Moreover, the atmosphere is constantly bringing its accretion of dust, which is rich in color. Pentelic marble as it stands in the monuments of Athens is as warm as if tinted with burnt sienna. In the Elgin room of the British museum the statues of the Parthenon are rich and warm and penetrable as the portraits of Titian. As the gray light of the museum falls on these figures the revelation of color in their masses of light and shade is no small part of the most magnificent sculptural impression which is anywhere to be received. The great statues of Michelangelo and the Medici sacristy in Florence have the same quality. No artistic possibility was foreign to the intelligence of this universal artist. He seems to have looked far into the future and to have known what light and time and dust and sleepless nature would do with the great stones which left his hand white and colorless.—Architectural Record.

FORMAL STATEMENT

President Wants Lipton at Seawanhaka Dinner.

HIS HIGH REGARD FOR SIR THOMAS

Nothing Was Further From Roosevelt's Thought Than to Debar the English Baronet From the Yacht Club Entertainment.

OYSTER BAY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—President Roosevelt has approved of the issuance of a formal statement of the facts concerning the Seawanhaka-Corinthian Yacht club dinner incident, which has created so much unpleasant comment.

Mr. Colgate Hoyt, chairman of the board of trustees of the yacht club, has visited Oyster Bay. There he had a conference with the president for half an hour. Mr. Roosevelt expressed regret that any published statement of the dinner incident should have placed him in a false attitude, and with a view of relieving Sir Thomas Lipton of embarrassment because of the statement that he had treated him with discourtesy he authorized Mr. Hoyt to make a plain statement of the episode.

Mr. Hoyt prepared and issued the following:

"There has been so much misunderstanding over the proposed annual dinner of the Seawanhaka Yacht club that I feel it my duty as chairman of the board of trustees to state the facts—viz:

"That the president was invited by me to be the guest of the club at its annual banquet, and he accepted with the distinct understanding that it was not to be a large, formal function, but simply the annual banquet of the club for its members and guests. Sir Thomas Lipton's name was not mentioned nor that of any other gentlemen in my interview, and to assure the public that nothing was further from the president's thought than to bar Sir Thomas Lipton or any one else from the dinner I take pleasure in giving to the press the following letter, which I have just received from Secretary Loeb:

"'The president directs me to say that it will be a particular pleasure to him if Sir Thomas Lipton can come to the Seawanhaka dinner. As you will recall, all that the president said when the invitation was extended to him was that he did not feel like accepting any more invitations to formal functions; that if it was simply to be a neighborhood dinner among his own friends in the Seawanhaka club he would gladly come. The president has a particularly high regard for Sir Thomas Lipton and a high appreciation of the manly and sportsmanlike spirit he has shown throughout the yacht contests. The president earnestly desires that Sir Thomas be present at the dinner.'"

SIR THOMAS IN CHICAGO.

Secretary Westwood Says Lipton Will Not Be at Dinner.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 15.—Sir Thomas Lipton has passed through Cleveland over the Lake Shore road en route to Chicago. He was confined to his stateroom.

Mr. John Westwood stated that the misunderstanding regarding the dinner was news to Sir Thomas when he saw the dispatches about it in the morning papers. He said that Sir Thomas has had engagements for a western trip after the finish of the yacht races for a number of weeks past and that the trip was delayed because of the length taken to finish them. Inasmuch as the dinner is scheduled to occur on Friday, the 18th inst., Sir Thomas could not very well attend it without disappointing his friends in Chicago, and Mr. Westwood said that there was little probability of his giving up his western trip to return east by the 18th.

Sir Thomas' indisposition, which developed after his return from Racket Lake, N. Y., is attributed to the unseasonably warm weather and his close confinement in the Pullman.

Sir Thomas leaves New York on the Oceanic for England Sept. 23.

Colored Pastor Defends Lynching.

NEWARK, N. J., Sept. 15.—At the colored conference held here Rev. J. C. Love, pastor of the Union Baptist church of Montclair, defended lynching. Mr. Love declared that the crimes of certain southern negroes were such as to call for the most severe and cruel punishment.

Register today to vote on the constitutional amendments next week.

An exchange remarks: "A dog bit a Chicago lawyer Saturday. It is explained that the animal was mad." Did it kill bowser?

This is the way an exchange heads its account of the Republican County convention: "Rubbed it into Fowler. Kean ignored his Plainfield gang and nominated a negro." Pretty respectable looking "gang."

When the new School of Journalism is opened at Columbia University, the authorities should send matriculation cards to the editors of the Trenton papers. They are sadly in need of instruction in newspaper ethics.

Dispatch from Sophia states that 100,000 Christians have been slain by the Turks. Our blood boils when we read of the martyrdom of Christians in ages past, yet such outrages, as those now being perpetrated by the unholy Turk seem to cause but little comment.

The wisest politician is the one who knows where he's at. Dr. John J. McGill, of Jersey City, frankly makes his political obituary when he says: "I'm an old fogy on a back fence." There's lots of aspiring "statesmen" who could be placed in the same category, but the trouble with them is that they don't know it.

What's the use of all this waste of time. Children in the borough are clamoring for an education, which is made compulsory by the State law. Forget all the other needs for the time being and give to these children that to which they are entitled. There is no other work of government, except the protection of body, so important.

The sale of cigarettes is growing less every day and the output is becoming less proportionately. This announcement calls to mind a business man, who advertising for a clerk, gave notice that the only requisite qualification would be that the applicant abstain from the use of the rice paper roll. At that time the advertisement caused some comment, but similar ones are frequently seen nowadays.

That the State bar favors the adoption of the constitutional amendments is not an exceptional testimonial. The currency legislation is generally favored by the bankers, and our own laws relating to the incorporation of trusts generally meets with the approval of the monopolists. By this comparison we do not mean to oppose the adoption of the amendments in question, but merely to point out that it is only natural that the bench and bar should advocate them.

brick buildings. I expect to erect a larger house on the corner.

"If this Council can not grant this permit, it must remember that there is no law forbidding me tearing down the structure and carting it over in trucks. The streets are for the purpose of carting lumber and other loads on. If the law is against me I will have to take this course. I have bought the property and I must look to the financial end."

A discussion followed and Charles Matthews, representing the residents of the park, or at least a greater part of them, said:

"If you would induce people to settle in North Plainfield you must make its approaches attractive. By allowing a building of that character to be brought to this borough it would certainly not increase the appearance of the approaches. Mr. Sebring practically says that if his petition is not granted he will put up others of like character."

When the meeting was adjourned Mr. Sebring was asked if he had any statement to make. He said he had nothing to give out at present but said that "actions speak louder than words." Asked if he would put up a spite house he shook his head significantly but would not say anything.

It is said that the plans for the house, as prepared, would be laid aside and the building torn down in this side of the brook and carted over to North Plainfield and erected in practically the same condition in which it exists today. It is said that the Church of the Holy Cross conveyed the property to Mr. Sebring without restrictions.

PLAINFIELD'S BOLT.

Editorial Comments of Republican and Democratic Opinion Moulders.

The bolting Plainfielders are angry, undeniably so. Still, they swallowed their ire last year and, where they threatened to cut, only increased the G. O. P. majorities. Their bitterness is too often but superficial, though it certainly does not seem to be so this time. — Elizabeth Evening Times, (Dem.)

It is to be noted that when the Fowler delegates walked out of the Union County Republican convention the Congressman was in Chicago. It is questionable, considered from the standpoint of practical politics, whether it pays better to talk financial bills with bankers or to stay at home and give sound advice to hot-headed supporters.—Newark Evening News, (Ind. Rep.)

Senator Kean nominated his candidates for Assembly in Union County last week, despite the protests of Plainfield, where they wanted an anti-Kean man, or, rather, a Fowler man, and bolted when they couldn't get him. Congressman Fowler is evidently in the fight for the Senatorship and may make trouble for Senator Kean before he gets through. He has money, and he looks like McKinley, but otherwise, he is scarcely a rival for the senior Senator, who is one of the most adroit New Jersey politicians the State has seen, and has the added advantage of never advertising his smartness unnecessarily. — Newark Sunday Call.

The cast of "Ben Hur" at the New York Theatre is undoubtedly the best that has yet been seen in the piece in its entire history. It looks as though the game with Westfield for Saturday afternoon is off. Manager Johnston will probably take on another game with the St. Mary's. Why Manager Denman should back out, no one can understand, as the game is a return one, for the last game the locals played at Recreation Park. May be he thinks Alls is easier than Scotch Plains with Linderman in the box.

STRIKE SITUATION IN TEXAS.

Hundreds of Coal Mine Strikers Leaving Thurber.

THURBER, Tex., Sept. 15.—It is reported unofficially that the Texas and Pacific Coal company will start work in mine No. 9 today, affording protection to those of the miners who have declared a willingness to remain and who have indicated that they will want protection. At a mass meeting National Organizer Wardjon of the United Mine Workers said he had been informed that the coal company was trying to organize the Mexicans to operate mine No. 9, and he appealed to the Mexicans to remain true to the union.

Payment of the men continues at the company's offices. The exodus from Thurber has begun. Wagons containing household effects dot the road to the mining camps at Mineral City and Strawn. Two hundred Italians will return to their native land within the next two or three days. Some of them had worked in the mines for more than ten years. The United Mine Workers have sent food supplies to Thurber for the men who need them.

All of the miners' meetings with the officers of the United Mine Workers are held outside of Thurber and off company property. The men are staying away from saloons, and there is an entire absence of disorder.

STORM WRECKS SHIPS.

The Steamer Inchulva and Schooner Thomas Totally Destroyed.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Sept. 15.—The wires southward are still down and will not be in operation for a day or two yet. The Western Union Telegraph company has sent a large force of men and a camp train down the east coast.

The steamer Inchulva of Liverpool, owned by the Inch Shipping company of Galveston, Tex., loaded with lumber and cotton seed meal and bound for Hampton Roads for coal, went ashore near Boynton. The ship's steering gear broke, and she floated at will, striking the beach with great force and breaking into three pieces. The captain and mates and fourteen of the crew were saved. Nine men were drowned, among them the engineer. The boats had a hard time landing. One boat with five men in it was battered to pieces by the waves and its occupants drowned.

The schooner Martha T. Thomas, 750 tons, Captain Watts, with a cargo of lumber, bound from Apalachicola to Baltimore, was wrecked nine miles south of Jupiter. The schooner is split in half. The crew was saved.

Officers Were Not to Blame.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—The finding of the court of inquiry relative to the grounding of the battle ship Massachusetts on Egg rock shoal, Frenchman's bay, has been received at the navy department. The board exonerates the officers and crew of the Massachusetts and recommends that no further proceedings be had in the matter. The board finds that the ship grounded in a dense fog, which prevented the determination of the vessel's position.

CHEKIB BEY'S VIEWS

Turkish Ambassador Calls Bulgarian Rebels Brigands.

LATE FIGHT WILL RESTORE ORDER

Belittles the Endeavors of the Revolutionary Society and Says It Has Sued the Sultan For Peace.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15. — Chekib Bey, the Turkish minister, called at the state department and had an interview with Acting Secretary Adee. A cablegram received by Chekib Bey from his government told of a fierce encounter which took place near Resrie between Turkish troops and Bulgarian brigands, in which over 100 of the latter were killed and a large number taken prisoners. The dispatch also said that quantities of arms, ammunition and dynamite bombs were captured.

The minister informed Mr. Adee that the operations of the Turkish troops recently has led to the capture of a large number of Bulgarian brigands and that a state of panic exists among them in consequence of the determination of the sultan to suppress their lawless acts.

The minister believes that the late conflict will have the effect of restoring order in that section. He regards as significant the fact that the Bulgarian revolutionary society residing in the Turkish province, which had been supplying the brigands with arms and ammunition, have applied to the sultan for a pardon. In the light of the gravity of the offenses committed the minister thinks it is not probable that the request will be granted. He said that peace and quietness reigned at Beirut.

Mohawk Water Must Not Be Used.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 15.—State Health Commissioner Lewis has ordered the city of Schenectady to abandon not later than Dec. 31 the Ferry street pumping station, by which Mohawk river water is pumped into the city mains when for any reason the regular city supply is deficient. After that date it is assured that the Rotterdam supply will be available in quantities of from 15,000,000 to 18,000,000 gallons daily. In the meanwhile the people and the local health authorities are to be especially notified in case of recourse to the Mohawk river, which the department has declared unfit for domestic purposes.

Dead Body In Watermelon Car.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 15.—The dead body of a young white man was discovered in a freight car loaded with watermelons in the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad yards here. His skull was fractured and the pockets of his clothing turned inside out, indicating murder, with robbery as a motive. From papers found it is thought his name is Isabold. The car had been shipped from a point in Virginia near Richmond and arrived here last week, but had not been opened, the agent having no way bill for it. The condition of the body indicated that the man had been dead several days.

May Have Hydrophobia.

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 15. — Assemblyman Charles W. Reynolds of Petersburg, Third district of Rensselaer county, came to Albany and afterward went on to New York to the Pasteur institute for treatment for what may prove to be hydrophobia. Mr. Reynolds was bitten at Petersburg by a dog which bit also several horses and tried to bite a number of other people. Mr. Reynolds' son killed the dog, whose body is now being examined at the Bender laboratory here for signs of rabies. It is believed the dog had hydrophobia.

The Curtis Jett Trial.

CYNTHIANA, Ky., Sept. 15.—In the case of Curtis Jett, indicted for the assassination of Town Marshal James Cockrill at Jackson, Ky., the defense has filed an affidavit asking a continuance on account of the sickness of Attorneys J. D. Black and B. F. French of the defense. Judge Osborne overruled the motion for continuance and adjourned court temporarily to give the attorneys time to make the necessary affidavits for a motion for a change of venue to another county.

Filipino Priest at War Office.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 15.—Chaplain Edward Vattman, who served some time in the Philippines, was a caller at the war department. Accompanying him was Tomas Palmes of Oton, province of Iloilo. Palmes, who is a native Filipino, is a parish priest and has charge of the largest church building in the islands. He is visiting the United States for the purpose of making a study of American institutions, which he hopes will be useful to his people.

Have Been Missing a Week.

ROGERS CITY, Mich., Sept. 15.—William and Ward Nelson, brothers and prominent lumbermen of this place, left here in a sailboat a week ago bound for Spencer's Dock, twelve miles north. A heavy southwest wind was blowing, which soon increased to a gale. The boat, which was thirty-six years old, leaked badly and carried heavy stone ballast. A strict search of the shore to Cheboygan has failed to find either the boat or the bodies.

Safeguarding the Kaiser.

VIENNA, Sept. 15.—As a result of the Italian government informing the authorities here that three Italian anarchists have gone to Hungary, extra precautions will be taken to safeguard Emperor William, who is to arrive today at Karapancsa, where he will go stag hunting with the Archduke Frederick.

A HINT TO THE WISE.

This Advice Will Bear Repeating in Plainfield.

"Don't chase shadows."

Doubtful proof is but a shadow.

You can rely on testimony of people you know.

You can investigate local evidence.

Mrs. Margaret Reville, of 732 West Third street, says: "For a long time I was troubled with a lame and weak back and I never found anything which gave me any relief until I obtained Doan's Kidney Pills from L. W. Randolph's drug store and began to use them according to directions. It was only a short time before I felt the good effect and from that time on I improved steadily under the treatment. My back pained me and was so weak and sore that I dreaded to bend and when I had a cold or overexerted myself I suffered severely. I used several different kidney remedies but got little if any relief. I give Doan's Kidney Pills all the credit for my improvement. I think they are a fine medicine for a lame back."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name Doan's and take no substitute.

An Ideal Location
Rosedale and Linden Park Cemeteries

LARGEST IN THE STATE
LINDEN, N. J.
Beautiful and Accessible
2 Miles from Elizabeth, 7 Miles from Newark,
14 MILES FROM NEW YORK
On Main Line Pennsylvania Railroad

Why Lots in these Cemeteries commend themselves to Heads of Families and Investors

BECAUSE of the $1,000,000 Trust Fund provided for by the Trustees in each Cemetery, the income from which will keep the properties perpetually beautiful at NO EXPENSE TO LOT OWNERS.

BECAUSE such a guarantee, not found in any other cemetery, assures lot owners that the grounds WILL BE MAINTAINED PERMANENTLY AS BEAUTIFUL PARKS AFTER THE INCOME FROM THE SALE OF LOTS HAS BEEN EXHAUSTED.

LOTS SHOULD BE PURCHASED NOW

BECAUSE MORE ADVANTAGES ARE OFFERED TO LOT BUYERS in a new Modern Park Cemetery than in those established many years and, in most cases, no provision made for perpetual care without extra expense to lot owners. THERE ARE A GREATER NUMBER OF IDEAL LOCATIONS TO SELECT FROM, PRICES OF LOTS ARE ALWAYS LOWER AND TERMS MORE ADVANTAGEOUS.

BECAUSE life is most uncertain and EVERY ONE SHOULD ANTICIPATE THE INEVITABLE BY MAKING A CHOICE NOW OF A FINAL RESTING PLACE.

LOTS WILL PROVE A GOOD INVESTMENT

BECAUSE they are sure to increase in value and can be purchased NOW at the INITIAL, or LOWEST PRICE and upon the most ADVANTAGEOUS TERMS.

BECAUSE the properties are ACCESSIBLE TO 4,000,000 PEOPLE, and considering the RAPID GROWTH OF GREATER NEW YORK and its TRIBUTARY CITIES and TOWNS, it is only a question of a SHORT TIME when LOTS in ROSEDALE and LINDEN PARK will EQUAL IN VALUE those of our MOST NOTED cemeteries.

SMART FASHIONS.

Coats Made of Suede—Neat Finishing Touches on Plain Gowns.

The smartest things which will be beloved of Paris later on are the coats made of suede in greenish gray and brown tints and dark myrtle green. Naturally the cloth skirt must match exactly.

It is the finishing touches which count on the simple morning gown. French women put into the simplest gowns the most exquisite stitchery.

Even the tailor made gowns show a certain amount of fine stitchery. A very smart brown serge frock had one of the new skirts cut just to clear the ground all around, with three deep flounces edged with a red and green narrow piping of embroidery. The waist was arranged with a cape shaped collar of the embroidery and had two narrow box plaits back and front, finished at the waist with a red suede band.

In the picture is shown a silk gown trimmed with tuckings, little tassels and insertion of yellowish lace.

EVENING DRESSES.

Collarless Gowns Still Worn—White Spotted Fabrics.

A few dressmakers are cutting the demitollets slightly decollete, but the very best models have high, transparent collar bands. Collarless dresses will be worn for restaurant dining, but they are generally accompanied by wide strings to a hat or a tulle chiffon or feather stole.

White spotted fabrics are smart. A very charming ring spot on a soft ground, made up over a silk or satin slip and trimmed with the always popular Irish crochet or valenciennes lace, is one of the most popular of evening gowns for a young girl. Many such gowns have beautifully shaped waistbands of black panne, which seem to correspond so admirably with a black picture hat and give a note of distinction to the all white frock.

The cut shows a black crepe de chine gown having a collar of cluny lace and chiffon ruchings.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

A Real Daughter of the Revolution

By CAROLINE GEBHARDT.

Copyright, 1902, by J. B. Lippincott Company.

Godfrey, sitting upon the portico, gazing into the peaceful night, was thinking of the beauty of the surroundings; of the luxuriousness of Jane's home. It required no little courage, no small amount of self-confidence, to ask her to leave it for him; and that she could think enough of him to do it—ah, that was the wonderful thing.

Yet, if all went well, when this war was over, when American success was assured, as he never doubted it would be, he could offer her a home scarcely less beautiful, for he would accept his grandfather's offer to manage for him his estates in Virginia. Settled in the great white house under the Virginia oaks and walnuts, Jane would miss but little of the luxury of her present abode.

There was a flutter of white upon the staircase, a soft step across the hall. Godfrey sprang to his feet. "Jane!" he cried, holding out both hands; but the one hand Jane gave him was cold—cold despite the fragrant warmth of the night.

"Ah, Jane," cried Worthington, the heat of his own emotions making him impervious for the nonce to the chill of her demeanor, "how I have longed for this moment, for this opportunity to see you, since that blessed night when you saved my life; and did far more than save it—made it worth the living by telling me that you loved me. It seems incredible that but four days have passed since then. They seem rather like four months, so lagging has been each moment until I could again be with you."

With an effort Jane freed her hand from his strong clasp and moved away from him to the edge of the portico.

"Capt. Worthington," she said, without looking at him, "I pray that you will forget that night and all that occurred then. Let us cancel it from our memory."

"Cancel it?" he gasped. "Cancel it? Jane, what do you mean? Is this some joke, some witticism, that I am too dull to see the humor of?".

"Nay," she answered, half turning towards him and speaking in a voice whose sweetness was lost in over-firmness, "when I tell you that I am betrothed to Col. Bessemer you will possibly—understand."

"Betrothed to Col. Bessemer? And since when?" He came closer. "Since when? Were you, perhaps, betrothed to him that night when you risked your life to save mine; when what made that life worth the saving was the belief that you glorified it by your love? Tell me, Jane, were you betrothed to Col. Bessemer then?" He laid his hand upon her arm.

She shrank back. "No—since."

"Since? And with the memory of that night before you? No, I will not believe it. You are playing with me; but seeking to test my love—my faith in you. Know, then, that there is no test you can bring to bear which it will not stand. I believe in you, in your faithfulness, as I believe in God."

The girl threw out her hand in a gesture of despair. How hard, how bitterly hard, he was making it.

He came still closer. "Speak to me, beloved," he said. "Tell me why you thought it necessary to put me to this test?"

She clasped her hands in front of her. Temptation was pressing her close; pressing her to throw herself into his arms; to tell him all; to acquaint him with that wretched bargain she had made; but if she should yield—if she should tell him? What then? It would mean the forfeit of his life or Bessemer's. She knew that he would never rest until one life or the other had paid the penalty.

No, no; honor, duty, everything demanded that she herself, no other, should pay the price. It was she who had done the bargaining; she had bought with her eyes open; and was the price too great to pay for that which she had bought? With the living man beside her, could she regret her purchase? If she had it to do over, would she not again do what she had done? Just to know that he was in the world, was that not enough to pay any price for?

She turned to the figure beside her. "In stress of excitement, Capt. Worthington," she said, "we oft do that which our cooler judgment does not approve. You and I have been friends from childhood. I have long looked upon you as a brother. Your life is nearly as precious to me as my own brother's. That night, when I had devised a way to save it and you were so laggard in availing yourself of the opportunity I——"

"You?" He bent his dark head towards her.
